Broda Gets 3rd Shutout As Leafs Blanks Wings 1-0

By The Canadian Press

Toronto Maple Leafs lead the National Hockey League today, thanks to the goal-tending prowess of the circuit's oldest active player—Walter (Turk) Broda, alias the "Fat Man."

The 36-year-old goalie, who last season was hauled up on General Manager Conn Smythe's carpet for being too fat, registered his third straight shutout last night as the Leafs blanked Detroit 1-0.

The triumph enabled Toronto to take a one-point lead over the idle Montreal Canadiens, who have a chance to regain the pace-setting chore tonight when they clash with the Black Hawks in Chicago.

Bruins Tie Rangers

In last night's only other game, Boston Bruins recorded their third tie game of the season, holding Rangers to a 1-1 deadlock in New York's home-season opener.

Lanky Cal Gardner scored the only goal at Toronto. It was a solo effort midway through the third period, and ran the Leafs' unbeaten string to five games.

Broda, now down to a trim 187 pounds and getting better as he grows older, earlier had registered shutouts against Boston 2-0 and Rangers 5-0. He was given a rest last Sunday in Chicago, Al Rollins substituting for him as the Leafs won 5-3.

Record Six

If the erstwhile "Fat Man" has an eye on cracking the N.H.L. record for consecutive shutouts, he has three more to go. Alex Connell of Ottawa Senators set the record of six straight blankings back in 1928-29. But in those days scoring was lower because forward passing was not permitted in attacking zones.

Apart from losing the game, the Wings also lost defenceman Clare Martin for probably four weeks. He suffered a fractured cheek bone in the second period when he body-checked Sid Smith.

At New York, the Rangers used silver sticks to mark their 25th anniversary in the N.H.L., but it didn't help their goal production. However, the one point gained in the tie enabled them to move into fourth place ahead of the idle Hawks.

O'Connor Scores

Buddy O'Connor shot the Rangers into the lead early in the middle session, ending a three-game goal famine which had extended through three hours, three minutes and 59 seconds of play.

Johnny Peirson got the equalizer four minutes later while Alan Stanley of New York was in the penalty box for high-sticking. The Bruins still haven't been able to crash the victory column in five games. They've tied three.

At that rate, the Bruins this season could crash the record book for tie games. By coincidence, Boston holds the record for the fewest ties in one season—one—back in 1929-30.

Bisons Win 5-1 Top Of League

By The Canadian Press.

Buffalo Bisons are back on top of the American Hockey League's eastern division—one point ahead of Hershey Bears.

The Bisons drubbed fourth-place Providence Reds 5-1 Wednesday night while Springfield Indians were beating Hershey Bears 6-5 in overtime. Springfield is in third place in the eastern section. Providence has only one tie for a single point in six games.

In the only other game scheduled, St. Louis edged Pittsburgh 2-0.

Davidson Gets Two

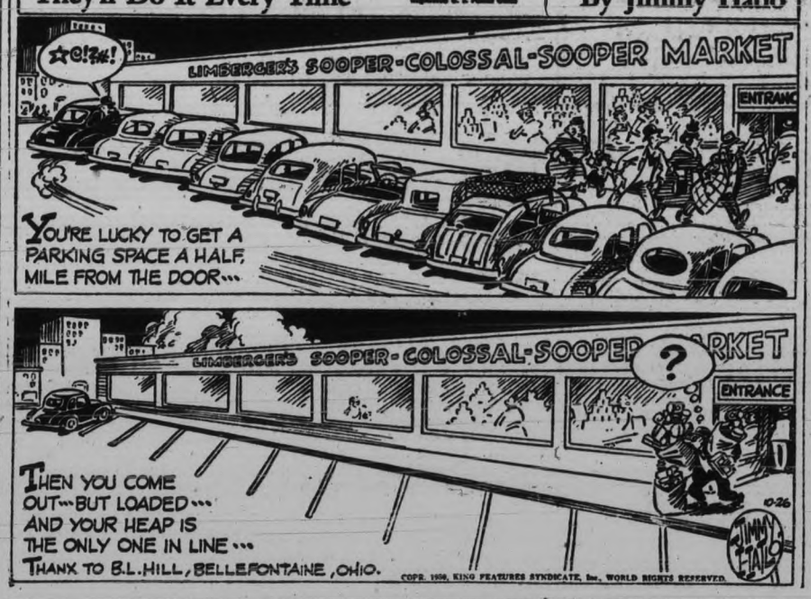
Gordie Davidson was the hero of the Springfield victory. He fired in the winning goal at 2:35 of the extra session. Hershey had to fight all the way to force the overtime. Bronco Horvath, Bill Gooden and Harry Pidhirny put the Indians ahead 3-0 in the first period.

In the final frame, Armand Lemieux counted for Springfield but Joe Schertzl again evened things in the closing minutes.

Walter Atanas scored two goals for Buffalo while Stan Maxwell, Sid McNabney and Ab Demarco counted the other Bison markers. Jack Stoddard spoiled the Buffalo shutout in the third.

Henry Backor and Paul Gladu were the St. Louis marksmen in the tight defensive game against the Pittsburgh Hornets. Their counters came in the middle frame.

Goalie Red Almas stopped the puck 31 times for his shutout.



Cornwall, Flyers Tie 1-1 In Ottawa

OTTAWA, Oct. 26 (CP). — Cornwall Calumets and RCAF Flyers fought to a 1-1 tie with tallies in the middle frame at the Ottawa Auditorium Wednesday night. More than 2,000 saw the Eastern Canada Senior Hockey League game.

Bob Greenlaw drew the single for Flyers when he pushed in Bobby Dennison's relay, but Frank Couture got it back for Calumets two minutes and 37 seconds later when he beat MacLeod with a screened shot during a penalty to George Robinson.

Cals had a slight edge in the play but smart netminding by MacLeod in the Flyer nets saved the airmen time after time. Both teams had good chances in the final frame but once again good work between the pipes saved the day for both teams.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

Joe DiMaggio isn't thinking of retiring from baseball. At least not right now, reports and speculation to the contrary notwithstanding.

The Yankee Clipper, in fact, is ready to talk 1951 contract terms with his bosses any time. He does not expect to hear anything on this subject, however, earlier than next month and possibly going into next spring.

Joltin' Joe, home in San Francisco from this year's campaign, is poised for a trip to Japan. He and Frank (Lefty) O'Doul, manager of the San Francisco Seals, will leave by plane next Monday.

The professional clubs of Japan are sponsoring the tour, O'Doul and DiMaggio will conduct baseball clinics, and Joe will give exhibitions of long-distance clouting.

DiMaggio said yesterday he anticipated no difficulties in his contract negotiations with the Yankees for next year. He sidestepped the question of whether he would settle for the $100,000 he is reported to have received for last season.

For the first time "in a long while," Edmonton coach Annis Stukus expects to have his starting team intact as the Eskimos invade Regina Saturday for a vital gridiron battle with Saskatchewan Roughriders.

Big Stuke said last night he figured Lady Luck would smile on Eskimos in the sudden-death game of the Western football semi-final.

"The breaks beat us in our last two games with Roughriders," he told reporters. "It's time for the law of averages to even up and send the breaks our way."

World heavyweight champion Ezzard Charles plans a one-a-month title defence campaign next year that may start at San Francisco with Joey Maxim.

Jake Mintz, Charles' co-manager, said in Pittsburgh yesterday he is giving "serious consideration" to an offer from William P. Kynes that would match the Cincinnati negro and Maxim in the Golden Gate's Stadium on February 22. Mintz said Kynes has wired him a $100,000 guarantee for the West Coast scrap.

Donald Rabuke, 16-year-old High School centre, died Wednesday at Janesville, Wis., the second fatality in the State attributed to football this month. Physicians said death was due to a cerebral hemorrhage. The boy collapsed on Saturday during a school game. He attended practice Monday and Tuesday, but collapsed again in the dressing-room after Tuesday's session. He was taken to hospital this morning and died shortly after arrival.

Frederick Fairchild, 15-year-old memuber of the Sheboygan squad, died October 14 after suffering a head injury earlier in the day against Oshkosh.

Ottawa Rough Riders have selected Don Loney, veteran snap, and Bill Stanton, outside wing who has doubled as fullback, as their nominees for the Jeff Russel Memorial Trophy. The trophy is awarded annually to the most valuable and sportsmanlike player in the Big Four football league. Loney is a Canadian who is playing his fourth season with Riders after helping Toronto Argonauts win the Grey Cup. Stanton, formerly of Buffalo Bills, is playing his first season in Canada.

A 14-year-old boy who rode to fame almost overnight was banned Wednesday by the Jockey Club. Pink-cheeked, fair-headed Lester Piggott said the club had banned him from all British tracks for the rest of the season. The boy-wonder—his 15th birthday is November 5—has ridden 57 winners in his rise to fame.

He appeared before the stewards of the Jockey Club Wednesday. The club has been making an investigation after a race last week which Piggott won — his 58th. After an objection, Piggott's horse was disqualified and the race was awarded to the second horse. The stewards suspended him for an infraction of riding rules, but they did not elaborate.

Piggott said the club had allowed him to ride in the Cambridgeshire turf classic at Newmarket Wednesday. He placed second with a horse called Zina. The ban means that the boy wonder will not be allowed on British tracks until the current season ends November 18.

Stratford Stops Barrie Flyers Winning Streak

By The Canadian Press.

Young Johnny Wood of Stratford snapped a four-game winning streak by Barrie Flyers last night.

His three goals—each assisted by Bob Bailey—gave Stratford a 3-2 win over Barrie Flyers in Ontario Hockey Association junior competition.

In the OHA's new major series, Toronto Marlboros made their season debut and whipped Kitchener-Waterloo Flying Dutchmen 3-1 and created a four-way deadlock in the league.

In Friday's senior game, Marlboros are at home to Hamilton Majors. The Marlboro juniors are at Barrie and St. Catharines is at Windsor, in the junior circuit.

In Second Spot

Stratford's win jumped the Kroehlers into second place in the league. They are a single point behind the first place tie of Barrie and Galt Black Hawks.

Chuck Wood and Real Chevrefils scored the two Barrie goals. Each goal tied the score after Wood had put the Stratford club ahead. The winner came with less than three minutes left when the chunky rightwinger got a pass in the clear from Bailey and caught the upper right-hand corner.

Marlboro Game

Marlies and Dutchmen fought out a scoreless first period in which the Dutchmen had an 11-9 edge in shots on goal. Jack MacKenzie, up from last year's Marlboro juniors, fired the first goal, early in the second period. A former Kitchener junior, Eddie Stankiewicz, added one nine minutes later from a scramble.

Right-winger Billy Flick of Dutchmen got the single home-team tally late in the second period while Toronto was a man short but Al Buchanan scored for Toronto in the final period.

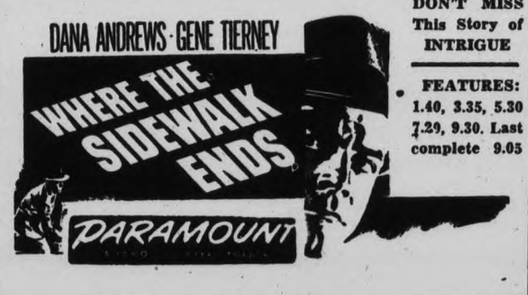
UK Riding Team Wins Two Events

HARRISBURG, Pa., Oct. 26 AP)—England is living up to its advance notices as a new power in international horse-show jumping competition.

The British team, led by Wilfred H. White, a Cheshire dairy farmer, and his bay mount, Nizefela, has won two of the five international events at the Pennsylvania National Horse Show and tied for third.

The team, which swept all major events in the British Isles this year, topped its previous performance by winning the relay event here last night.

Mexico, which has dominated international jumping since the 1948 Olympics, is running second, copping one trophy and sharing another with Britain. Ireland is the only other team to have won a first place at this show.



However, it's another story in the aggregate scoring, where Mexico is tied by a surprising new United States entry of two women and a gentleman farmer. Both have only 4¼ faults in two events of low-score jumping.

England is tied with Canada with 12 faults behind the two leaders. Following are Chile with 24½ and the Irish team with 40.

Rotary Sponsors Minor Hockey

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 26 — (ENS)—The Campbellford Rotary Club is going to continue to sponsor teams in the Ontario Minor Hockey Association this winter, and will enter in the Midget and Bantam competition. In this way the boys on the Bantam team that went to the Ontario finals last year, some of whom will be over the age limit this season, will qualify for the Midget squad, and the Bantam group will be left open for younger replacements.

Provincial Constable Donald Erskine will coach the boys, and the following Rotarians will comprise the Youth Committee in charge of the teams. Chairman, Dr. W. W. Baker; Teams Manager, Bernard Allen; Bill Holmes, Fred M. Rutherford and Clifford Gibson.

City Carpetball

Schedule for the week of Oct. 30: Legion No. 3 versus Glens No. 6; S.O.E. No. 8 versus Legion No. 5; Legion No. 7 versus St. Georges No. 10; Fire Hall No. 9 versus L.O.L. No. 2; Quakers No. 4 versus St. Lukes No. 1.

Further results from the first week of play saw the Legion No. 3 at home to the Quakers No. 4. The first game was a nip and tuck affair with the game being tied in the second and 10th frames, then the Quakermen finished ahead in the final two frames to take the game 12-9, even though the Legionnaires had scored a big four in the eighth frame. The second encounter was another tight one with the Legionnaires coming from behind three times to tie it up, the last time being in the 10th frame and then going ahead one in the next, but the glue applied by them to the box tops could not keep those puffed wheats in, as they scored a one to make the final score 9-9.

The other match played at the Legion Hall between the Glens No. 6 and Legion No. 5 ended in a split. The first game after the Glens scored a five and three was all theirs; although the Old Sweats finished fairly strong to make it 13-10. The Old Sweats drove the fighting Glens into their foxholes for the first seven ends in the final by a score of 13-2, but the Glens rallied and swept the last five ends 9-0 just losing the game by two points. Two swell games.

All the matches scheduled for this week must have been arranged for the latter days in the week as there are no results at hand.

The president has been approached to have games start at 7.30 p.m. The rule states games must start not later than 8:00 p.m. So there is nothing stopping skips from starting their games earlier, providing the skips make those arrangements and are sure their players understand the time set—otherwise 8:00 is the accepted time.

Don't forget to push the sale of draw tickets.

The league standing will be made up for next week's report.

Acquitted of Murder

LONDON, Oct. 26 (Reuters)—Victor Boyle, 53, was acquitted here yesterday of the razor killing of Pat Beard, pretty 15-year-old London girl who was slashed across the throat with a razor in a back street of London's Brixton district Aug. 9. The jury first reported it could not agree, but retried again and then found Boyle innocent.

Purchases Hotel

COBOURG, Oct. 26 (ENS)—A. R. Freeman of Toronto has purchased the British Hotel in Cobourg, it was announced yesterday by the former owners, the Banner Hotel Operating Co. Mrs. Rhena Stephens, president of the Banner Hotel Co. and her husband, Capt. S. T. Stephens, will manage the hotel for the new owner. The hotel was sold two years ago by Lester Caughey of Cobourg to the Banner Hotel Co.

Drop In Ball Ticket Sales Threaten Finances

GALT, Oct. 26 (CP). — Gate receipts for playoff games in the Intercounty Senior Baseball Association dropped $3,000 this year, imperilling league finances.

The decrease, estimated at 45 per cent, was reported by president Otto Manske, at an executive meeting of the eight-loop league here Tuesday.

Club operators indicated they hope for a rebate from the provincial government of the 15 per cent entertainment tax on gate receipts to lift them out of debt. Amounts returnable from this source were estimated to range up to $5,000.

Embarrassing Moment

LEICESTER, England (CP). — First prize awarded to a clutch of eggs at a Women's Institute meeting here was quickly withdrawn. One egg hatched at the wrong time.

CANADIAN FOOTBALL

By DON GRANT

Due to its combined offensive and defensive power the punt—dropping the ball from the hands and kicking it—is considered as the most important single play in football.

A team without a punter is easy prey for any well-balanced team. For the kicker can usually sweep danger away with one play when the going gets tough. On the other hand he can help the offensive play by continually kicking, pushing the opposition into defensive territory. In Canadian football the kicks to deadline or the rouge points give the punter a scoring chance.

Considerable more skill is required to kick a punt than to kick a place-kick. The footballer must be calm and must be able to practise punting for distance and accuracy.

The Orfuns' Chuck Paul displayed football at its punting best here this year when he exchanged kicks throughout the first Cobourg game here. The Ghosts' Cooper is well on his way to mastering the art.

The collegiate teams here have yet to show a good long distance punter. The most successful is the PCVS seniors' Al Northcott. Coming up quickly are the St. Peter's kickers Carl Brioux and Frank McGillen. Spencer Hope of the PCVS junior A team, although troubled early this year with timing, has been getting better kicks away in recent games.

The ball is held in both hands with the ball pointing upwards or downwards depending on whether the kicker wishes to have a high or low kick. Most kickers use the step-and-a-half kick. That is, the kicker should take a step with his right, then the left, contracting then with the right. The first step is short. The ball should contact the instep. A good follow-through will add distance and accuracy to the punt.

Most coaches direct their kickers to keep their punts low and away from the opposition's safetly man who is usually the fastest runner on the team. They also in many cases direct the punters to try to kick out-of bounds to assure the team of no runback on the kick.

Blocking can make a good punter or a bad one. Poor blocking often allows the kicker to be rushed, either resulting in a blocked or short kick or a fumble and possible loss of ball.

Army Slaps Hull 6-1 In Rugged Game

OTTAWA, Oct. 26 (CP)—Ottawa army slapped down the lowly Hull Volants 6-1 in an Eastern Canada Senior Hockey League fixture at the auditorium Wednesday night to move one notch ahead of the winless Hull team.

The game was a straggly affairs with Hull providing little opposition for the army team. All the goals emerged from tangles in front of the nets.

Maynie Darch sent army into the lead in 22 seconds when he fired Ken Kilrea's pass past Charron, then Blondin scored unassisted. Brunning counted the third goal when his shot was deflected home by a Hull player and then Kilrea banked one in from a scramble. Gagnon and Limoges added to the count.

Pete Rciher scored Hull's lone goal, but it was only the classy puck-stopping of Ed Charron that kept Volants back.

Honor To Smuts

JOHANNESBURG —(CP)—The square in front of the city hall here, where the late Field Marshal Jan Smuts was given the freedom of the city last May, will in future be known officially as the "Jan Smuts Square." Various old buildings are being torn down to clear the area.

Tape Recorder Used In Waterloo Court

PRESTON, Oct. 26 — (CP). — A tape recorder was used to record courtroom evidence yesterday for the first time in a local court. The recorder was used along with stenographic report in the trial of Gerald C. Fisher of nearby Galt on a drunk driving charge. Fisher was sentenced to seven days, and his car impounded for three months.

The machine has been purchased for use in all Waterloo County courts under the jurisdiction of Magistrate H. R. Polson. They cover Kitchener, Waterloo, Galt, Preston, Hespeler, and Waterloo Township.

Fast South Korean Advance Saved US From Death Trap

By STAN SWINTON

WONSAN, Korea, Oct. 26—(AP)—A lightning ground advance by South Korean troops—faster than United Nations commanders dared expect—probably saved a 50,000-man amphibious operation from running into a death trap.

Today that 50,000-man force, spearheaded by the United States 1st Marine Division, began prosaic landings at Wonsan, more than 100 miles behind those still-advancing South Koreans.

aced Disaster

It can now be revealed that only a military miracle prevented what might have been the blackest page in U.S. military history.

The marines and 20,000 tough U.S. 7th infantrp division troops were to have stormed ashore Oct. 20. The miracle happened when the South Korean 3rd division, in a breath-taking advance which strategists believed impossible, captured Wonsan Oct. 9.

Those troops immediately discovered that Wonsan was a death trap set by tthe Reds, who had anticipated landing from the sea.

3,000 Mines

An estimated 3,000 floating mines guarded the sea approaches. A shifting sandbar would have stranded the assault boats off shore. On the beaches was an elaborate network of trenches. In front of these were barbed-wire fields.

Gen. MacArthur, Rear-Admiral James H. Doyle, commander of the amphibious operation, and Vice-Admiral Arthur D. Struble, U.S. Seventh Fleet commander, decided on the Wonsan invasion at a Tokyo conference. They realized it was a calculated risk.

Information Wrong

But American officers now concede the landing place was selected on the basis of inadequate and incorrect intelligence. The task force, which included Canadian ships, was at sea before the full threat of the death trap could be appreciated.

And why did an estimated $6,000,000 amphibious operation proceed with Wonsan already in South Korean hands on embarkation day?

Maj.-Gen. Edward M. Almond, commander of the 10th Army Corps, said it was too late to choose another landing place. The UN needed military might in northeast Korea for strategic reasons. And mountain roads to Wonsan from the west made land movements impossible.

Seoul Landing

The 1st Marine Division made the Sept. 15 landing at Inchon which led to the liberation of Seoul and crushing defeat of the North Korean Reds in South Korea.

The Marines were pulled out of combat Oct. 7 and loaded at Inchon. The amphibious fleet then began the 330-mile trip around the peninsula to Wonsan.

It stopped at Pusan to pick up the 7th Infantry Division, which had gone ashore at Inchon, then pushed south to link up with the U.S. 1st Cavalry Division from the old Pusan perimeter. That link-up broke the back of Red resistance in South Korea.

For six days the flotilla of the United States, British, French, Canadian, New Zealand, Australian and South Korean ships waited at sea while minesweepers cut a channel through the mine-field.

When Admiral Doyle gave the go-ahead today, some of the troop - crammed landing ships were almost out of food.

Board To Accept Offer Clean Welland Canal

ST. CATHARINES, Oct. 26 — (CP).—St. Catharines area planning board last night recommended that its members municipalities accept a transport department offer to clean up the old Welland Canal.

The offer of $586,300 for repairs and alterations was made several months ago. The board said necessity of referring the offer to the municipalities delayed acceptance.

The board's motion pointed out that costs of such a project have increased since the offer was made.

Hard On Animals

18-Year-Old Driver Wins Truck Roadeo

TORONTO, Oct. 26 (CP). — Donald Fitzpatrick of Burlington, Ont., won the truck-driving title last night at the fourth Canadian roadeo championship sponsored by the Automotive Transport Association of Ontario.

It was an upset win for the 18-year-old youth who has been driving heavy trucks for only two years.

Two other veteran competitors, Frank Bell of Toronto and Cpl. R. D. Pettinger of the Canadian Army at Camp Borden, retained their titles in the tractor, semi-trailer and armed forces divisions respectively.

For Cpl. Pettinger of Courtland, Ont., it was his third straight victory.

Three Liberals Seeking To Lead Speak At Meet

Three candidates for the Liberal leadership of Ontario addressed a rally of the Rosedale Liberal Association here last night

They were J. G. Brown, member of the Ontario Legislature for Waterloo North; Campbell Calder, provincial member for London and Walter C. Thomson, member for Ontario in the Federal House.

Dr. Harry M. Cassidy, director of the University of Toronto's School of Social Sciences, who has been mentioned as a possible candidate, also spoke.

Mr. Brown said Liberalism in Ontario stands at the crossroads. Whether it would go forward in co-operation and unity could depend on the results of the convention here Nov. 9-10, not only in the choice of a leader "but in the enthusiasm with which he is proclaimed."

Desire Change

Mr. Thomson said Ontario is crying for a change and there is a need for a good leader. A change could be expected because "there is a desire for a change in the hearts of the people."

Mr. Calder said he wondered whether Mr. Thomson could make the "leap from his seat in the dominion house right into the premier's chair in Ontario without having been a member of the legislature.

He drew a parallel between Mr. Thomson's bid for the leadership and the career of former Premier Hepburn and asked, "can Mr. Thomson perform another Mitch Hepburn."

RCAF Flies Out Injured Gov't Worker

HALIFAX, Oct. 26.—(CP). — The RCAF reported today a rescue plane picked up an injured transport department employee at Port Harrison, on Hudson Bay, yesterday and headed for Churchill, Man.

The man is J. O. Garvey, radio operator at Port Harrison, injured when a 15-foot radio tower he was standing on toppled over in a high wind. The rescue Canso, from the air force base at Greenwood, N.S., left there Tuesday and stopped at Goose Bay, Labrador, en route to Port Harrison.

LIBERAL CANDIDATE—J. G. Brown, member of the Ontario legislature for Waterloo North since 1948, is a candidate for leadership of the Ontario Liberal party. Election will be held at the party's convention in Toronto Nov. 9 and 10. Mr. Brown, financial critic of the opposition, said he received many "requests from all parts of the province" to contest the office.

Canada Wealth Should Benefit Own Citizens

QUEBEC, Oct. 26 — (CP) — Mayor Romuald Bourque, of Outremont, Que., told the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association Convention Wednesday that Canadians need wise counsel and that a great many of them are dependent for it upon their weekly newspapers.

Canada today is in the position the United States was in at the beginning of the century. "Our frontiers are being rapidly pushed back; our cities are filling up; our industries are growing . . ." Mr. Bourque said. The United States appreciates that development and is investing heavily in Canadian resources.

60 Per Cent To U.S.

"Don't you think it would be a good thing if some of the dividends from there tremendous developments should drift into your communities? . . . I read somewhere the other day that approximately 60 per cent of the dividends from our big development industries are going to the United States.

". . . The wealth that is ours sehould trickle down into every town and village, every small hamlet, in order that all of us might benefit from the resources which lie under Canadian soil," Mr. Bourque said.

International-Minded

Another thing to tell readers about was Canada itself and its people. "Canada is an internationally-minded country, but it knows practically nothing about itself . . . anything that happened anywhere else in the world was more interesting and more important than anything that happened right here at home. In the narrowest sense that has not been true of the weekly press. Weekly papers have thrived on the home-town news—but they have seldom thought in terms of all Canada as a neighbor."

Mother Rescues Two

LANGSTAFF, Oct. 26 (CP).—A mother smashed a window with her fist and forced her way through a jammed front door on Wednesday to rescue her two children when fire swept through their cellar dwelling in this village 15 miles north of Toronto. Damage was estimated at $5,000. Mrs. W. J. Clarke, outside at the time, noticed smoke from the building, threw a coat over her head and forced entrance, to save Kenneth, 3, and John, 2.

Picket Packing Plant

WINDSOR, Ont., Oct. 26 (CP). —Picket lines were set up Wednesday at the plant of the Windsor Packing Company, Limited, in suburban Sandwich East. The men left their jobs Tuesday in protest at the delay in negotiations between the company and their union, Packing House Workers of America (CIO-CCL).

Secretary Re-elected

TORONTO, Oct. 26 (CP). — Dr. T. C. Routley of Toronto, general secretary of the Canadian Medical Association, has been re-elected chairman of the World Medical Association Council for the fourth time. The association, representing some 500,000 doctors in 39 countries, was organized four years ago.

IN HAPPIER DAYS — The ill-fated freighter North Voyageur is shown making ready for sea at Halifax in happier days. She came to grief off Newfoundland Oct. 22 while under the Honduran flag on a voyage from Philadelphia to St. John's, Nfld. Twelve of her 20-man crew, including one Canadian, are missing. The 41-year-old former Canadian vessel once operated as a sealer off Labrador.

Union Official Sues Executives For Libel

TORONTO, Oct. 26 (CP).—An official of the United Electrical Workers (Ind.) Wednesday claimed $100,000 damages from two Belleville business men who he says libelled him.

Glenn Bedell, chairman of a UEW bargaining committee at the Belleville Lock Company filed a writ asking $50,000 each from D. L. Storey, company president, and Herbert D. Willerton, another company executive.

Bedell charged Storey libelled him in a letter written Sept. 29 and that Willerton distributed it to the public.

The union has been on strike at the Belleville plant for a month. The company has sued members of the UEW for unstated damages, claiming the strike has injured business.

Girl Jailed 2 Years

BROCKVILLE, Oct. 26 (CP).—Shirley Elizabeth Walsh, 20, of Toronto Wednesday was sentenced to three years for armed robbery. The offence took place on Feb. 3, 1949, when she and two male companions held up Thomas Curry, a Brockville taxi driver, at gunpoint and forced him to drive them to Ottawa. She pleaded guilty.

Christmas Already?

WINDSOR, Ont., Oct. 26 (CP). —Two months before Christmas —and the season has started in Windsor. The first load of Christmas trees arrived from northern Ontario Tuesday. And plans are almost complete for a visit by Santa Claus in a Christmas parade Nov. 17 sponsored by the Windsor Retail Merchants' Association.

OTTAWA, Oct. 26 — (CP) — Barbers in Ottawa will charge 65 cents for haircuts, starting next Monday. The new price is a five-cent hike from the 60 cents currently being charged.

Toronto Coat Of Arms Not Registered

TORONTO, Oct. 26 — (CP) — Toronto Board of Control was told Wednesday that the city's 116-year-old coat of arms has never been registered because of an error in design. Lyman B. Jackes of the Canadian Historical Press informed the council the College of Heralds in London, England, had refused to register the coat of arms because it has three lions rampant — standing upright — on shield. The emblem is the special prerogative of the King and is used to designate a royal residence.

Mail Carrier Dies Wife Continues Job

City Manager

HALIFAX, Oct .26 — (CP) — About 25 per cent of the eligible voters turned out Wednesday in a plebiscite which resulted in a 3,718-2,223 vote in favor of a city manager form of government for Halifax. The plebiscite result will be reported to the next city council meeting which will consider the matter.

Highway Work Lags Car Production

By FORBES RHUDE, Canadian Press Business Editor.

A striking picture of how much building is going on in Canada is given by Robert Drummond, president of the Canadian Construction Association. Says he:

If each housing unit built during the last five years were erected on a 50-foot lot, the lots would cover both sides of a road stretching from Toronto to Vancouver.

That was 40 per cent of all construction, and at the same time hydro-electric power and engineering projects of various kinds, factories, churches, hospitals, schools, roads, were filling the other 60 per cent.

"It was the biggest program ever carried out by a country of our size and it represented an investment of private and public funds of more than $11,000,000,000."

Highways Lag

Mr. Drummond gave his outline in an address in which he stated that highway construction is not keeping pace with automobile registration.

"Our present vehicle population would more than fill two lines of traffic on a road reaching from Halifax to Vancouver. Can we afford not to enlarge our highway system at a faster rate than before? The trans-Canada highway agreements between the federal and provincial governments are an encouraging sign."

The Canadian Exporters' Association announces that Prime Minister St. Laurent will be the annual dinner speaker at its annual convention in Ottawa Nov. 6-7. Other speakers during the sessions will include Sir Alexander Clutterbuck, United Kingdom high commissioner at Ottawa; Herbert E. Gaston, chairman of the board of the export-import bank of the United States, Washington; and Frank Stratton, member of the United Kingdom dollar exports board, London.

T. H. Weatherdon, of Hull, Que. chairman of the national convention committee, states that some 400 exporters from coast to coast will attend.

Talks by M. W. MacKenzie, Deputy Minister of Trade and Commerce, and other officials of the department will be followed by an informal gathering to allow delegates to meet members of the department's personnel with whom they have dealings.

SPORTSMANSHIP IN "CANADA UNLIMITED"

McGill University was matched with Harvard at Boston, Mass. During the warm-up period Harvard noticed to their amazement that McGill's team were kicking and carrying the ball. That was something new to Harvard in 1875, so the two captains got together.

They discovered they were playing different games. McGill had come to play rugger. Harvard was ready for soccer . . . but liked the Canadian game. The result was the United States' first "football" match—ending in a scoreless tie.

Close teamwork and sportsmanship have won many firsts for Canadians. And teamwork, with sportsmanship, helps you, too. Together they keep your opportunities for work and play in Canada . . . unlimited.

Youngsters Attend Craft Classes

WINNIPEG — (CP) — "Teach them when they're young" is the motto of the Winnipeg Public Parks Board.

Since 1947 the board has offered school children half-term courses in clay modelling, leather work, glass painting, wood work, plaster moulding and art. Tools, instruction and materials are free. Children may choose any course they wish.

The handicraft class enrolls 500 students a year but many more apply. Classe are held in Winnipeg civic auditorium.

Supervisor Margaret Wilson says parents are highly interested in the plan.

"As long as there is a planned program, the children attend faithfully," she said. "They never want to go home."

Anti-Trust Laws Restrict Growth Claims Canada Pulp and Paper Head

MONTREAL, Oct. 26—(CP)—R. M. Fowler, in a memorandum issued Wednesday as president of the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association, said any future Canadian anti-trust policy "should provide for . . . essential working together of Canadian business and government in devising policies and implementing them for the protection and development of the Canadian economy."

The memorandum was drawn for submission to the special parliamentary committee studying the Combines Investigation Act.

"The great majority of Canadian businessmen are not bad actors and they should not be treated by the anti-trust laws as if they were," said the memorandum.

"It seems essential to have in this country a very close understanding between business and government, and co-operation between them in working out economic policies. Our present anti-trust laws operate to impede that co-operation. Whatever the committee may recommend for a future anti-trust policy, it should, I suggest, provide for this essential working together of Canadian business and government in devising policies and implementing them for the protection and development of the Canadian economy."

Defects of the present law, said the memorandum, can be summarized in the one word—"uncertainty." Because of vagueness and uncertainty businessmen have been unable to know at any given moment what the anti-trust law is; whether or not they are complying with it.

Missionaries Said Persecuted In Quebec Towns

TORONTO, Oct. 26—(CP)—A Baptist association here was told Wednesday that Baptist missionaries in Quebec are subject to severe difficulties and, in some cases, persecution.

Alfreda Wall told the annual meeting of the Toronto Association of Baptist Churches that in Quebec centres where French-Canadian Baptist churches are located that members of the congregations were subjected to mysterious disturbances.

Miss Hall, a teacher at Moulton College, a girls' private school, said sometimes property was destroyed and there were mysterious fires.

No Easy Way

She said that Baptist missionaries in Quebec "have to suffer" for their work and "there are no easy ways out." Radio broadcasts are forbidden and so is the distribution of pamphlets."

(Spokesmen for the association said it is not affiliated with the union of regular Baptists which conducts mission churches in northwestern Quebec. Some Union of Regular Baptists missionaries have been given jail sentences for holding religious meetings on street-corners in violation of municipal by-laws forbidding street-corner meetings without a permit.)

Isolated

Miss Hall told the meeting that Baptist workers in Quebec are virtually isolated and it was necessary to spend more money to support them. She suggested that young couples should move into French-speaking areas of Quebec.

"Let us emulate the methods of the Roman Catholic Church," she said. "When their young families move to new areas, new parishes soon spring up."

Delay In Hearing Costs Firms Money

TORONTO, Oct. 26 (CP)—Independent telephone companies claimed Wednesday that many of them are operating at a deficit because of the delay by the Board of Transport Commissioners in hearing evidence to support their applications for rate increases.

The complaints were voiced at the annual meeting of the Canadian Independent Telephone Association, representing 110 of the nearly 800 companies in Ontario and Quebec.

Julien Thuot of Rimouski, Que. a governor of the association, advised Ontario companies to ask the Ontario Municipal Board for individual increases while the association sought increases in over-all rates from the federal board.

Independent operators argued, too, that they needed a greater share of the revenue from long-distance calls placed jointly through an independent company and the Bell Telephone Company.

Survey Predicts More Jobs

TORONTO, Oct. 26 (CP). — A boom in employment with many industries looking for workers to help them hit expected new levels in production was forecast Wednesday.

A survey of Ontario industries showed that, barring major steel shortages, prospects point to high employment in the coming months.

The boom appeared to extend through construction, hard metal mining, logging, the aircraft industry and manufacturing, with firms scouting the country for skilled men to fill the jobs.

More Working

The latest labor department report, issued at Ottawa Oct. 23, showed 133,100 registrations for employment on hand in National Employment offices as of Sept. 28. The figure was 18,500 lower than at Sept. 1, and 10,000 below the total at the end of the same month in 1949.

Labor demand continued to increase throughout the month, especially in the forest industries and in manufacturing, the report said. Demand for skilled workers was particularly strong.

The Massey-Harris Co., Ltd., farm-implement makers with plants here and at Brantford, is reported geared to full production compared with last year when production was curtailed slightly and some men were laid off.

Employment prospects also are reported bright in industrial Hamilton where work on an order for 2,000 railway boxcars is expected to extend into 1951; at rubber plants here and at Kitchener; and in London where construction of the $4,000,000 Fanshawe dam on the upper Thames river is slated to start soon.

The Ontario unemployment insurance office reported that factory job opportunities in September were estimated at double the number on file in the same period last year.

"The walls are so thin that our neighbor sits on the arm of our chair for his after-dinner smoke!"

Home And School Stages Euchre

LAKEFIELD, Oct. 26 (ENS)—Twenty-two tables of progressive euchre were played in Memorial Hall Friday evening, sponsored by the Home and School Association.

Mrs. Clarence Coons, president of the association, welcomed the guests and explained that proceeds from the card party were to pay the association's share in cost of supplying cod liver oil pills to public school children.

Mrs. Mabel Calberry won the prize for ladies' high score; W. J. Dilledonnie was men's high. Ladies' low was Mrs. H. G. Mason, Men's low was Mrs. Mary Trude (substituting for a man). Lucky draw was won by Mrs. W. Derveritt.

Lunch was served by Mrs. Coons and the committee in charge composed of Mrs. Earl Edwards, Mr. Murray Patterson, Mrs. Stanley Burgess, Mrs. C. Foster, Mrs. M. Kingdon, Mr. Kingdon and Clarence Coons.

WHEN ALFRED LUNT and Lynn Fontanne bring their latest success, "I Know My Love", to Montreal, they will have in their cast Sarah Marshall, the daughter of Edna Best, the British stage star, and Herbert Marshall, the celebrated British actor now prominent in Hollywood movies. Miss Marshall, who is seen above with her famous mother, has the role of a Boston debutante in the Lunts' play. It is her first important stage role.

L. Thorne, Heroic Saboteur Now Rookie Policeman

TORONTO—(CP)—Len Thorne is the fellow who appeared in France one day before D-Day in the middle of a group of SS troops greeting Generals Rommel and Von Runstedt. He joined them and was taking photographs of the generals and the troops when someone got suspicious and began asking questions.

He was taken prisoner but later escaped, with the help of the Maquis. (French underground).

A demolition expert with the Royal Canadian Engineers, Thorne started his in-again, out-again life as a saboteur in Europe after the fall of France. With other members of his unit, he was posted to train saboteurs in the Maquis.

The little international group worked together so well that they were attached to various British and French commandos and made many trips to France and other occupied countries.

Pre-Dieppe Raid

Their first big assignment was just before Dieppe. They went in and blew up gun emplacements and communications six hours before the main raid.

After several more trips into Europe by submarine and boat, Thorne was posted back to the Canadian army, in the photography, processing and observation group. It was during this period he "met" Rommel and Von Runstedt.

He was captured again shortly afterwards in another foray. This time he was put to work in a labor camp, repairing roads which he and his comrades had persuaded French farmers to plow over the previous night.

Len's usual equipment reflected the two outfits he worked with. He carried pocketsful of explosives and a tiny camera strapped under his arm.

The soft-speaking man is back in uniform again—pounding a beat in suburban Port Credit as a rookie policeman.

British Conservatives Retain Seat In House

GLASGOW, Oct. 26 — (CP) — Winston Churchill's Conservative opposition retained the Scotstoun seat in parliament in a by-election Wednesday. The Labor Party's working majority in the Commons remains at seven.

Col. J. R. H. Hutchison polled 18,949 votes against 17,175 for William Bargh, Labor candidate, and 680 for David Gibson, Independent Labor.

The Conservative pluralty over Labor was 1,319 compared with 239 in the general election last February when Sir Arthur Young won for the Conservatives. His recent death resulted in the by-election.

Fleet Street Laughing At Conservatives' Booklet

By ALAN HARVEY

LONDON, Oct. 26 —(CP)— When the Conservative party hit the news-stands with a new venture in political propaganda, sophisticated Fleet Street laughed and laughed.

Even newspapers which normally support the Conservatives found something incongruous in the latest publicity sheet—a 16-page illustrated booklet designed to look like any other weekly magazine. Underneath the innocent-seeming cover, readers found an odd assortment of serious articles, comic strips, cookery hints, crossword puzzles and knitting patterns.

Churchill Speaks

Statements of principle by Conservative leader Winston Churchill and No. 2 man Anthony Eden appeared on one page, recipes on another. Side by side with the treatise urging mothers not to leave junior to cry were the injunctions:

"When your man comes home hungry, give him this bacon and egg tart."

The booklet, which carries the commanding title "Now," was issued by the Conservative central office. Some 500,000 copies are to be offered for sale through normal channels at fourpence (about five cents) and the rest distributed to Conservative associations.

Just possibly the Conservatives may have had "Now" in mind at their annual conference in Blackpool. R. A. Butler, one of the party's chief planners, said that he was an admirer of the comic strip Jane, which has built a big British reputation largely on cheesecake. It was a wartime favorite of Canadian soldiers stationed in Britain.

"Like Jane," Butler said, "we must strip ourselves of our diaphanous forms of expression."

Tories should talk in simple language. If they made no headway by words, they must do it by pictures.

This is not the first time the Tories have tried tabloid propaganda, but it is certainly their most gaudy effort. Unfriendly observers might say it shows how hysterical the Conservatives are getting; and supporters will say it reflects increasing confidence that Labor's hold will be broken in the next election.

Must Jump Milk Prices To Pay Farmers More

TORONTO, Oct. 26 (CP)—Toronto milk distributors said Wednesday that they can not pay more to farmers and labor unless they increase the price of milk.

High taxes and high labor costs make the net profits of Toronto dairies lower than in any other Canadian city but Winnipeg, the distributors said in a brief to a government arbitration board on milk prices.

The brief was submitted to Judge J. A. McGibbon of Lindsay, sitting as an arbitration board to set a new price that dairies will pay producers.

Blonde Starlet Wants Cowgirls Back On Screen

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. — (AP) — Reno Browne is a slender blonde beauty who has spent the last three of her 26 years trying to convince Hollywood it has overlooked the cowgirl as a highly exploitable commodity.

The horse opera in the movies has been a male monopoly from William S. Hart, Tom Mix and and Buck Jones right down to Roy Rogers and Gene Autry. The ranch owner's daughter traditionally ranks after the hero's horse in his affections.

Miss Browne has played the daughter of the ranch boss in a score of films and she thinks the time is right for the gal to get on horseback. The screen, of course, has had its Belle Starrs and Calamity Janes, but they were played by actresses who went western only for those roles and then limped back, saddle-sore, to the drawing room.

A gal willing to buckle on her guns, climb into the saddle and stay there could make a million rounding up the dogies, says Reno.

"I hope it's me," she says. "But if not me, it's bound to be someone else. The spot is there to be filled."

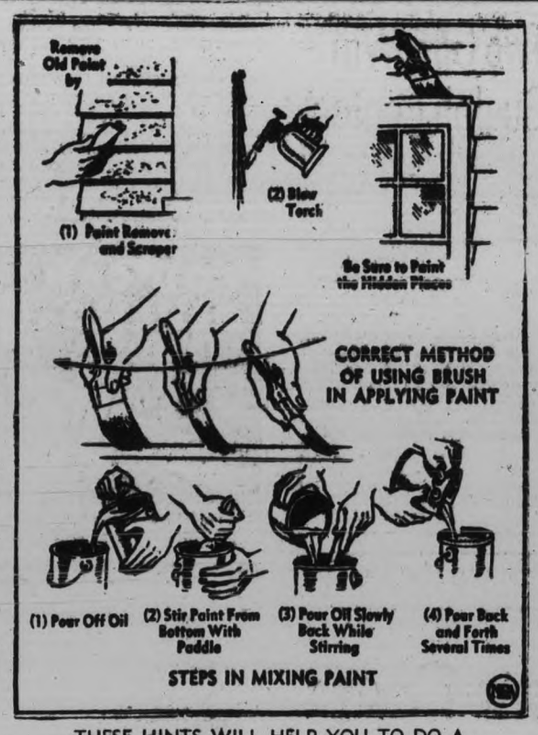
A Natural

She says it's a natural because little girls like to play wild west, just like the boys.

Reno of course is interested in the big business. Cowboys make more money from commercial tie-ups than they make in the movies. "Cap pistols, costumes, comic books—it's all for little boys," she says. "The girls have nothing."

Having wound up her film contract with Monogram Studio, where for three years she was the kissless sweetheart of Johnny Mack Brown and Whip Wilson, she is preparing a series of television films which will find her—not the boyfriend—chasing the rustlers. The series is backed by a merchandising firm which hopes to capitalize on her popularity with the sagebrush set. If it clicks a movie version will be the next step.

Any other candidates for the job of western queen will have to hustle. For besides being willing, Reno is able.



She's a crack rider. She can hope, shoot, even play a guitar. She's practising knife throwing and cracking a bull whip. As all Hollywood cowhands must, she has a glamor horse, Major, $6,000 worth of prancing palomino. Her closets contain some 20 gaudy cowgirl outfits for parade and rodeo appearances. She has a fan club of 5,000.

Need Night Court

HAMILTON, Oct. 26—(CP)—Controller Leslie Parker and the Hamilton Labor Council (CCL) agree that there should be a night traffic court for people who work all day. The Labor Council proposed the court last week after union men claimed they sometimes paid fines for traffic offences—even when they believed themselves to be not guilty—rather than lose a shift by appearing in court.

Match Hearings Open

MONTREAL, Oct. 26—(CP)—Preliminary hearing of five Quebec match companies on charges of operating a price-fixing combine was adjourned until Oct. 31 after presentation Wednesday of more than 500 exhibits by crown authorities.

THESE HINTS WILL HELP YOU TO DO A PROFESSIONAL JOB.

Before Painting Your House Check And Correct Defects

By BOB SCHARFF
Written for NEA Service

If you are an average homeowner, chances are that your house needs painting badly. At least, that is what the statisticians say. So take a quick look outside to see if they are right.

Before painting, however, check the condition of your house and correct all structural defects. Joints, flashing, siding and tin work must be sound and secure to prevent entrance of moisture.

As long as the original paint adheres firmly to sound wood, light sanding or wire-brushing is sufficient to ready the work for painting. But when the paint has blistered, peeled or checked, it must be completely removed.

If this destruction occurs only in small areas, scraping is sufficient, although it is difficult to avoid a patched appearance unless all that pain is removed over a considerable area.

Remove Old Paint

Where defects are widespread, the old paint should be removed with a blow torch and putty knife. To use, move the torch evenly and carefully over the painted surface with the flame pointed slightly downwards, melting the paint just far enough ahead of the putty knife so the knife can thoroughly remove the paint. The torch nozzle should be held three to four inches away from the surface being cleaned in order to soften the paint film.

Good painting requires good materials. That means both your brush and paint. Go to a reputable dealer and let him advise you about the best types of material for your particular home.

The quantity of paint required for a job is determined by roughly computing the overall area in square feet and deducting for the various openings. Coverage is about 500 square feet per gallon for primer and 600 square feet per gallon for finish coat.

When painting a house, work from the top down. Painting is a fair-weather job, so plan to do it this fall when the weather is settled. Another reason for choosing this season is that leaf-bearing shrubbery close to the house will be bare.

Many painting failures may be traced back to the fact that the surface was either damp or drenched with sunlight while being painted. Always paint behind the sun; that is, start working in the morning on a portion of the house that the sun has just left and, as the day progresses, follow it around the house.

In working on siding, the edges should be painted first, then the faces. Do only a few boards at a time in order to avoid unsightly laps caused by brushing over paint that has already set. If the paint is laid on evenly and brushed out carefully, there will not be any runs and sags and the thin, economical coat will adhere properly to the surface.

A common fault is to paint visible surfaces carefully but to neglect the bottom edges of siding, the tops of doors and window frames, and other places that don't meet the eye. As these are the spots where moisture collects, covering them is important from the standpoint of protection.

For painting in high places, an extension ladder is ideal. If two ladders are available by all means secure a pair of ladder irons so you can run a plank between them. A stepladder is handy when painting the lower part of the house.

Using Yacht To Display British Exports

LONDON — (Reuters) — A famous pleasure yacht which once cruised leisurely around the world will return to North America this winter as a dollar-earning floating showroom for British exports.

She is the former barque-rigged Fantome II., a 700-ton "dream ship" once owned by the Irish beer baron, A. E. Guiness, who died in 1945.

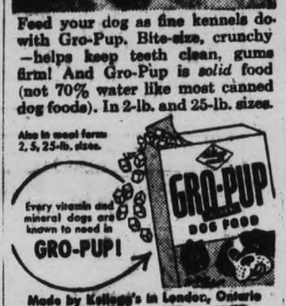
The 50-year-old vessel is being converted here to sail in January for a six-month cruise to United States, Canadian, Mexican and West Indian ports.

British manufacturers are being invited to take exhibition space aboard at about $80 a display stand. The venture is under the control of a London firm specializing in international exhibitions.

Send 10 Experts

Ten sales experts will sail aboard the Fantome to the West Indies, through the Panama Canal and up the west coast of the United States. Afterwards she will return through the Panama and visit east coast American and Canadian ports.

Some of the ports the seagoing salesroom will visit are San Diego, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Portland, Cuba, Charleston S.C., Norfolk, Va., Baltimore, Philadelphia, New York, Boston, Halifax, Quebec City, Montreal, Toronto and Rochester, N.Y.



The Fantome's sales team will carry samples of textiles, leather goods and costume jewelry.

BOY SHOT—Glen (Teddy) Rose, 10, was found dead in bush south of Ontario's Algonquin Park with a bullet in his head after he had been missing for more than two days. Search party of 300 included troops and a helicopter. Police are holding a 13-year-old companion who said the two of them had been partridge shooting and Teddy had not wanted to come home with him.

Grade 7 Pupil Speaking Contest Winner

HAVELOCK, Oct. 26 (ENS). — Garry McNeely, a grade 7 pupil of Havelock Public School, was first prize winner at the annual oratorical contest sponsored by the Havelock and Belmont Women's Institute and the Havelock Home and School Association, held in the Town Hall on Tuesday evening. He gained 77 points out of a possible 100, speaking on the subject "The Mighty Midget of Birdland."

Lorraine Thompson, grade 8, pupil of the Havelock school won second prize with 73 points, speaking on the subject "Orlon, Successor to Nylon."

Third prize went to Donna Lee Steenburgh, grade7, of Victoria School. Her subject was "The Early Settlers of Peterborough County." She gained 70 points.

Eleven contestants took part in the contest, five from Havelock, two from Victoria School S.S. No. 3, Belmont, three from Blairton School S.S. No. 9 Belmont, and one from Cordova S.S. No. 12 Belmont.

Other pupils taking part were: Havelock: Betty Toms, Reginald Scott, Thomas McMillan. Victoria: Marlene Ellis. Blairton: Ruby Youmans, Wanda Woods, Muriel Cooke. Cordova: Doris Edwards.

The judges were: Miss P. Belt of the Havelock High School staff, Mrs. Gerald Buchanan, a former member of the Havelock Public School staff, James Milburn, bank accountant.

Canada To Produce Films For Television

TORONTO, Oct. 26 (CP) — A group of Toronto and New York business men will make test productions of motion pictures here for use on television programs.

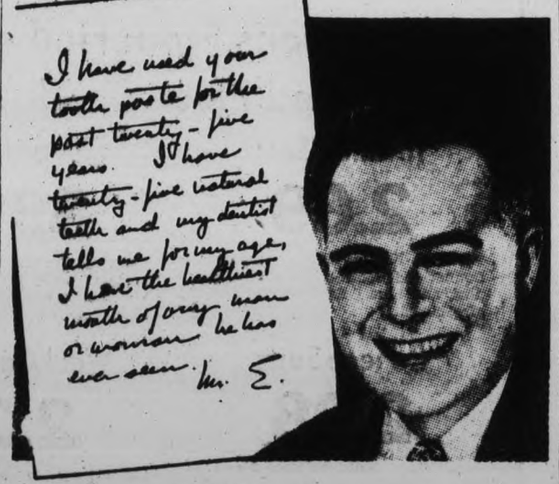
The group will be headed by Brian Doherty, Canadian theatrical producer, his brother, D'Arcy, a Toronto stock broker, and George A. Hirliman, New York television producer.

The project was announced today by the Ontario government's Department of Planning and Development. The department's trade and industry division has investigated the possibilities of production of entertainment films for nearly a year.

Brian Doherty said all the actors in the field will be Canadian. The stories for the first productions had already been chosen and Canadian technicians would be trained as quickly as possible to replace United States television technicians who will work on the first productions.

Better Sausages

LONDON, Oct. 26 (Reuters).—Food Minister Maurice Webb has achieved an aim he publicly set himself when he took office last spring—a better sausage for Britons. Pork sausage will in the future have a minimum content of 65 per cent meat instead of 50 per cent in the past, he said yesterday. But the price will go up and there may be fewer sausages available.



Pope Given Canaries

VATICAN CITY, Oct. 26 (Reuters).—Pope Pius last night added two canaries to the tens of thousands of gifts he has received from pilgrims during this Holy Year. The canaries were among more than a dozen presents given to him by 1,000 Spanish women who, with about 35,000 other pilgrims, attended a mass audience in St. Peter's Basilica.

HARVEST HALTED — Grain harvesting in parts of Saskatchewan has been held up, possibly finished for the season, by heavy snow fall. After being soaked by rain, thousands of acres of grain were battered by the snow. Farmers fear there will be no more harvesting unless there is a lengthy spell of warm weather.

Canadian Authors Lack Emotion In Stories

WINNIPEG —(CP)— Canadian authors do not express enough emotion in their stories, says Mrs. Margaret Lee, herself a writer and secretary of the Manitoba branch of the Canadian Authors Association.

Mrs. Lee, who writes under the pen-name Madge Ford, attributes this failing to a tendency toward the English style.

"Canadians have inherited a number of characteristics from their ancestors in England," she said in an interview. "Among them is the Englishman's tendency to be self-conscious and not show the emotional part of his make-up in his stories.

"Most Canadans sell their good manuscripts to American markets for big money, and they should write accordingly. Americans have a freer manner of expression. Canadian writers imitate the American style to some extent, but somehow they are inarticulate. They haven't yet thrown off their inheritance from the English."

Most of Mrs. Lee's writing has been humorous short stories. She started while she was teaching school at Assiniboia, Sask.

"I was often called upon to read to school children, and there was no library to help. So I had to make up the stories. Soon I found myself jotting them down. I sold my first story in 1929."

A modest, unassuming woman, Mrs. Lee says she hasn't sold a story in three years. But this year she placed second in a provincial story-writing contest sponsored by the Canadian Women's Club.

Because there isn't enough money in writing in Canada, Canadians "have to just make a hobby of it," she says.

Two Girls Win Guelph Contest

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 26 — (ENS)— Gwen and Freda McCulloch, girls of Campbellford High School recently brought honors to their town when at Guelph they won the competition for Ontario in clothing making by girls. Ten teams competed.

The girls qualified for the competition by completing six units, working under the Seymour West Branch of the Women's Institute. Their leaders and instructors were Mrs. E. J. Fairman and Mrs. T. Campbell, assisted by Miss G. McCulloch.

As a result of winning the sewing competition, Gwen and Freda, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Reg. McCulloch and Mr. and Mrs. Ray McCulloch respectively, will represent Ontario at the Junior Competition, to be held for the Dominion championship at Toronto during National Club Week, November 12 to 17. They will be guests of the Canadian Council for Boys and Girls, and during the week will be entertained at the Royal Winter Fair, the Ice Carnival, and other functions in the city. They will also travel to Niagara Falls and to Ottawa. At the latter city, they will be guests of Lord and Lady Alexander for a few days at Ottawa House.

Joan Crawford Criticizes Adoption Laws

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 26 (AP)— Joan Crawford, mother of four adopted children, today assailed adoption laws which she said "are keeping children from finding good homes."

The question arose when the actress was asked for comment on the recent state investigation of a Tennessee adoption agency from which Dick Powell and June Allyson and other Hollywood stars received children.

Political Move

"All I know is what I read in the papers," Miss Crawford said. "But apparently the whole thing was manoeuvered for political purposes."

Politics had scared a lot of people out of adopting children, she added. She cited the California laws as being unreasonable and unfair.

"Most people have to go out of the state to adopt children" she said. "That means lawyers' fees here and in the other state, plane fare, nurse's salary, etc. Most people are discouraged by the expense."

Miss Crawford won't disclose where she obtained her four kids.

"I figure it's nobody's business," she said. But she admitted she did not get them in California.

"Under the California law, I couldn't adopt a child," she said, "because single persons are not allowed to. I think that is wrong. There are a lot of single men and women who would like to have children and could give them good homes.

Many Heartbreaks

"Prospective parents have to wait a year or two after they apply for a child. And yet the adoption homes are filled with children. It doesn't make sense."

Six Sweepstake Winners All Unmarried, 5 Plan Trip

By The Canadian Press.

A Toronto shipping-room packer and a Manitoulin Island creamery clerk held Irish sweepstakes tickets on Kelling, whose victory in the Cambridgeshire Stakes on Wednesday brought them each $73,750.

A Canadian Press survey shows four other Canadians held big prize-winning tickets—two on second-place Zina and two on Valdesco, third.

All six winners are unmarried and five said they plan trips in the near future.

Trip To Scotland

George Hall, 66-year-old Toronto bachelor, said first prize money will assure a return trip to his native Scotland and pay the mortgage on the house he occupies with his sister.

Jean Burns, 31, quit her creamery job at Manitowaning, Ont., when told Kelling won. It was the first sweep ticket she ever bought.

At Moncton, N. B., railway clerk Alphonse A. Leblanc said the $29,500 he won on Zina will be used to "make a little girl very happy."

Beside getting married he said he may build a house.

May Open Business

S. A. Longhurst, 58, secretary-treasurer of a Peterborough lumber company, lives with his widowed sister and her five children. He said he may open up his own business with his $29,500.

A widow for 12 years, grey-haired Mrs. Effie Clay continued her work as a seamstress at a Toronto clothing factory when told she had won $14,750 on Valdesco.

"I need the money," she said, "and I'll just put it in the bank. I guess I'll take a little holiday and then go back to work. After all, $14,750 wouldn't last too long if I went on a bust. Besides, I'm just a quiet soul."

Going Home

Doreen Hodges, 22-year-old stenographer with a Toronto law firm, said her third prize money will take her home to her Middlesex, Eng., "in time for Christmas."

She plans to stay six months and then hopes to get her job back here.

Deputy Of Fisheries Fired Over Statement

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., Oct. 26 (CP) —Fisheries Minister W. J. Keough said Wednesday that his deputy, Colin Storey, had "resigned" after making a statement with which the Newfoundland government did not agree.

The deputy minister said Tuesday that the Newfoundland Association of Fish Exporters, Ltd., was a failure.

"That was not a factual statement," Fisheries Minister Keough said Wednesday. "The government has no idea it was being made and does not agree with what it contained."

Examiner Fourth Most Quoted Paper In Canada

A survey made by an independent press clipping service shows that the Examiner is the third most-quoted daily newspaper in Canada, and the fourth most frequently-quoted periodical, including weeklies.

The survey was made over a three-month period beginning on July 1 and ending September 30, and 96 newspapers were examined and reported on. Ranking ahead of the Examiner is the Windsor Star with 968 quotes during the period, and the Ottawa Journal with 967. Third on the list is the weekly Toronto Financial Post, which was quoted by other papers 824 times. The Examiner was quoted 586 times, the survey shows.

Here are the first 15 on the press clipping bureau's list, with the number of times quoted shown following the paper's name. Most of the quotations are of editorial comment appearing on the editorial pages:

1, Windsor, Ont. Star, 968; 2, Ottawa, Ont. Journal, 967; 3, Toronto, Ont. Financial Post, 824; 4, Peterborough, Ont. Examiner, 586; 5, Ottawa, Ont. Citizen, 484; 6, Hamilton Ont. Barrie Man Gets Six Months

Gorman Ritchie, 25, of Barrie, has been sentenced to six months in reformatory on a charge of breaking and entering a Charlotte Street store with intent to commit theft.

Sentence was passed by Judge S. L. Smoke in a special sitting of the county court. Ritchie pleaded not guilty. He was committed for trial October 13 at a preliminary hearing in Peterborough police court.

Constable Allen Edmison said he saw Ritchie in the store, corner of Charlotte and Louis Sts., about 11.30 p.m. September 27. Two boys had seen the accused in the store and called the constable over to investigate.

He saw Ritchie crawling on the floor of the store on his hands and knees, Constable Edmison testified. When he ran around to the rear of the building Ritchie had left the building and escaped in the darkness. Three days later Ritchie was arrested.

At his preliminary trial Ritchie was defended by Emmett F. Sheehy, but he had no legal counsel at the county court trial Walter H .Howell appeared for the Crown.

Something Lacking In Our Schools

Only 21 Per Cent of Children Ever Complete Grade XII

Alberta Anderson of SS No. 10, Otonabee, on Wednesday was elected president of the Peterborough County Teachers' Institute She succeeds J. Leo McColl of Peterborough.

The election was at the annual convention of the Peterborough county public and separate school teachers held at the Kawartha Country Club. Altogether some 200 teachers, trustees and secretaries of school boards were present.

Other officers on the 1950-51 slate are Mrs. Laura Irwin, Otonabee, 1st vice; Miss Sheila Wilson, Smith, 2nd vice, and Donald Rintoul, secretary-treasurer.

Members of the executive (principals) Everett G. Sloan, Lakefield; Don Buchanan, Havelock, and Duncan Sinclair, Norwood; (representatives from rural sections) William Houle, Apsley; Gregory Knox, Warsaw, and Bruce Patterson, Bridgenorth.

New Curriculum

One of the features of the day was a discussion on the new school cuddiculum proposed by the Department of Education. With reservations both teachers and trustees were in favor of it.

The new curriculum would replace the present 13 grades with four basic grades: primary, grades one to three; junior, four to six; intermediate, seven to 10, and senior, 11 to 13.

Under the new setup children do not pass or fail, judged on a yearly basis. A clever one can complete his lessons in six or seven months and then automatically progress to the grade above; a slow one can take 14 months or whatever time is necessary to do the same work.

The old "entrance" is abolished and with it the bridge between grades eight and nine. The child continues his studies in the intermediate class until grade 10.

Another feature is that teachers now have a say in the curriculum instead of just following a Department "blueprint."

Walter Van Steenburgh, trustee, T.S.A. of Belmont-Methuen, liked the idea of the new curriculum in the intermediate and senior classes but not for the primary and junior. A one-room school with one teacher and only a few pupils was not suitable for the experiment, he felt.

A science graduate from a United States' university, Mr. Steenburgh said he was in favor of semesters in secondary school classes. This would eliminate the present method of teaching a large number of subjects "in small doses."

To show that something was lacking in the old system Miss Alberta Anderson introduced a few statistics: only 56 per cent of elementary school children complete grade 10, and only 21 per cent complete grade 12.

Miss Anderson thought one of the best features of the new curriculum was the continuous course of study from grade seven to 10, thus "bridging the gap" between the old entrance and high school.

Duncan Sinclair, principal of Norwood Public School, also agreed on this point. He said that by the time the pupil graduated from grade 10 he would have reached the end of a natural stage in educational development. And as the average one would be in his 16th year, he would be legally entitled to quit school.

Miss Anderson declared that democracy is in the core of the new curriculum. Previously a course of study was decided solely by the department. "Now the department feels we should have a say," she said.

Also praised was the special course for slow learners and the courses for those leaving school at 16 years.

But she too did not think the new setup would work in the small rural school. "I can't see the small rural school doing enterprise work successfully," she said.

Leo Copp, principal of Peterborough Normal School, summed up the general feeling of the teachers and trustees as "go slowly, it's an experiment."

Referring to the dropping of geography from the public school curriculum, Mr. Copp recalled his experiences with that subject when still a student: "Geography tempted us to be slothful with natural resources. There was no hint that when the top soil was disturbed man's position becomes precarious."

Mr. Copp pointed out that there was plenty of latitude allowed in deciding on a curriculum—enough to suit all tastes. Teachers have now an opportunity not only to make but carry out a blueprint for education.

Judge, Bar Object To Courtroom Color

LINDSAY, Oct. 26 (CP).—The courtroom here is being painted salmon pink and members of the bench and bar don't like it.

Said Judge J. A. McGibbon:

"The whole thing looks like a ladies' boudoir or a beverage room. It is not in keeping with the dignity of the court."

But, despite the protests, the $1,250 decoration job still is going on.

American Hunter Dies, Mistaken For Deer

KENORA, Oct. 26 (CP) — An American hunter, believed to have been mistaken for a deer by a companion, died yesterday of wounds suffered in a shooting accident.

Frank Wilson, Jacksonville, Fla., was fatally wounded Tuesday near Ghost Bay, in Northwestern Ontario's Lake of the Woods region. He was brought to hospital here. An inquest will be held.

Major General Potts To Review DVA Credits

Major-General Arthur Potts, Kingston, district administrator for the Department of Veterans' Affairs, will be in Peterborough this evening for a CHEX broadcast beginning at 10 p.m.

It is the first of a series reviewing for the information of ex-servicemen the Department's credits and other provisions for their assistance. The program has been planned for them, but the general public will hear many facts of interest to them regarding the work of the DVA.

Mr. Frank Hurley, veterans welfare officer, DVA, Peterborough district, will assist in this radio quarter of an hour, and Mr. P. Burke, Canadian Legion president, is understood to be joining them.

Hamilton To Vote On $1,750,000 Arena

HAMILTON, Oct. 26 (CP) — Hamilton voters at the civic elections Dec. 16 will vote whether to support construction of a $1,750,000 arena. The Junior Chamber of Commerce, which has supported a plan to build a $2,885,000 civic centre comprising an arena, auditorium and gymnasium, today appeared before the board of control and submitted the alternative plan.

Motor Equipment Thefts Draw Jail Term

Sentences of a month in jail were given to each of six former CGE employees charged with stealing electric motor equipment from the CGE. A seventh man, who pleaded not guilty, will appear October 31.

The seven appeared before Magistrate W. R. Philp Tuesday and with the one exception elected summary trial and pleaded guilty.

The seven are: Roy Malowney, 20, 654 Park St.; Bruce Rutter, 34, 693 Stormont St., Leslie McDougall, 19, RR 1, Peterborough; Walter Byrd, 21, 71 Aylmer St.; Leo T. Shine, 31, 269 Caddy St.; Edward Pilling 36, 173 Adeline St., and Harry Woodbeck, 40, 282 Romaine St.

Woodbeck was the man who did not plead or elect.

W. J. Arthur Fair, representing the seven men, said they had all made statements "and didn't know the difference between stealing goods valued at more than $25 and stealing goods valued at less than that."

Discarded Pieces

"Many of these parts they took were discarded pieces. There was no intention on the part of any of them to take anything of real value. I understand that in no case was a complete motor taken.

"They're not the criminal type, they're just foolish," he said.

Crown Attorney John Bradshaw argued that the men "not only pleaded guilty, but heard" and apparently understood the charges.

In each case, he said, at least one fully assembled motor has been recovered. In one case, two previously assembled motors had already been sold.

He pointed out that the law sees stealing from an employer worse than ordinary theft, providing a maximum penalty of 14 years instead of seven years as in the case of ordinary theft over $25.

Magistrate Philp commented that "seldom is a theft charge punishable by a fine. It is a fact that on certain occasions, first offenders have been given suspended sentence. This is a serious offence, and a number of men are charged.

"In fairness to these men and to their employers, there will be a penalty of one month in jail at hard labor."

BANK CLEARINGS

Bank clearings passing through the Peterborough Clearing House during the past week ending Wednesday amounted to $2,945,590.

BRANTFORD SCHOOL VOTE

Brantford ratepayers will vote Dec. 4 on a bylaw to raise $970,000 to build and equip a Collegiate Institute to accommodate 800 students in 28 rooms, including two gymnasia, cafeteria, home economics department and manual training shop. Department of Education will pay 25 p.c. of the expenditure.

PROTEST SETBACKS

James Dutton's hopes of altering the width of central streets as a provision for the future facility of traffic in the Peterborough of the future, in generations to come, went the way of a similar building line setback in Sarnia. Their Council agreed to amend a bylaw which aimed at zoning Milton St. for retail and general business, with a ten-foot setback from the street line. Another deputation objected just as strenuously to a 20-foot setback on George St. Setbacks are out.

Obituary

MRS. MABEL E. JONES

Mrs. Mabel Elizabeth Jones, 74, of Montreal died on Wednesday in that city at the residence of her daughter following a lengthy illness. She was born in Peterborough, daughter of the late Joseph H. Walton and Elizabeth Parsons, and moved to Montreal from Toronto about 24 years ago. Her husband, Arthur Jones, predeceased her 22 years ago.

She leaves two daughters, Mrs. R. M. Walker of St. Lambert, PQ, and Mrs. E. Hinds of Montreal and three sons, A. R. Jones of St. John, NB, Walter M. of Chicago and the Rev. J. Gordon Jones, OBE, of Calgary. A brother, George S. Walton, lives in Peterborough and there are nine grandchildren and four great-grandchildren. Mrs. Jones was a former member of Murray St. Baptist Church.

Funeral service was held today in Montreal at the Collins funeral home and burial will be on Friday af Little Lake cemetery upon arrival of the CPR train at 4:55 p.m.

NEW YORK, Oct. 26 (CP) — The Canadian dollar was unchanged at a discount of 4¾ per cent in terms of United States funds in opening foreign exchange dealings today. The pound sterling was unchanged at $2.80⅛.

General McNaughton To Aid In Forming Branch Of United Nations Society

As a further step in the organizing of a United Nations society branch in Peterborough, General A. G. L. McNaughton is in to Peterborough night, speaking at Queen Mary school. He was Canada's former permanent delegate to the United Nations, and during his term was chairman of the security council.

Gen. McNaughton is now chairman of the Canadian section of the international joint commission dealing with relations between the United States and Canada. That is only one phase of his impressive record.

Development of local interest in the United Nations and future peace of the world is the objective of this meeting at Queen Mary school auditorium tonight at 8 o'clock.

Organizer of Violent Strike At Dominion Woollens In '37 A Communist; Now Fights It

The man who organized the strike at Peterborough Dominion Woollens and Worsted plant in 1937 has confessed to being a Communist. This strike, the most violent in Peterborough history, disrupted the whole community. There was street fighting and special police had to be called in. From a Communist point of view it was a model strike.

The organizer of this strike, and of the one at the Auburn mill at the same time, was Alex Welch. He was then a Communist but that was kept secret.

Communist 11 Years

Alex Welch now admits in an exclusive report published today in the Toronto Financial Post that he was a Communist for eleven years. He quit the party in 1945. He now says: "As a former (Communist) party union organizer, it had been my job to indoctrinate the people in the plants. All the party teaching I was ever given had emphasized the role of the party in helping to create and take advantage of chaotic situations.

"This is completely contrary to the aims and objects of legitimate unionism.

"The Communist philosophy also conflicts with legitimate trade unionism on this point: their aim is to seize upon anything resembling a grievance and then magnify it out of all proportion."

This was what was done at Dominion Woollens and Worsted on McDonnel street and at the Auburn mills on the River road. The Auburn mills never recovered from the strike. The next year the plant was completely closed, its equipment moved away, and now the building is torn down.

Quit Party In 1945

In the special article in the Financial Post Alex Welch tells how he quit the Communist Party in 1945 and went to work in a paint factory. There he naturally joined the union, the International Chemical Workers' Union (AFL). Ironically, he as a Communist helped form this union, and when he went to work in the Toronto paint factory he knew that it, the ICWU was Communist-controlled. He set about exposing this fact.

It took four years, but he and others who knew the score fought hard, worked patiently and strongly, and now the Communists are cleaned out of the ICWU. It is this story, of cleaning up the union which forms most of the story in the Financial Post article.

International officers of the union from the USA, who were not Communist, were told of the Canadian situation, proof was given and demanded, and from then on the anti-Communists gradually got the ordinary union members behind them.

Union Cleaned Up

They secured control of policy-making and exposed the ICWU paper as being Communist-slanted. ("Our union paper was the chief weapon used against us," says Welch.) Finally, the leading known Communists were expelled from the union and the paper suspended.

Welch says he was not a Communist big-shot like Tim Buck or Joe Salsberg, "but I rated pretty high: high enough at least to sit on the National Committee of the party for five years."

In his article he names many Communists who are still active in promoting their party philosophy in Canadian unionism.

He knows C. S. Jackson, head of the Canadian UE. When he was secretly though energetically working for the Communists, who were infiltrating into Canadian labor unions, Welch says he was for a time "on the staff of Clarence Jackson's United Electrical Union. It's another Communist-controlled outfit."

Alfred Simmons Bandsman For 43 Years

Alfred C. Simmons, 250 Euclid Ave., was presented with a fine leather wallet by the members of Peterborough Citizens Band on his retirement Tuesday night. He has been a bandsman here since 1908 when he played under the direction of the late Finch Miller, who was the grandfather of Ald. T. D. Miller.

As a boy in Hastings, Sussex, Mr. Simmons was attracted to music and contrived to take lessons on the cornet. So enthusiastic was he about his practicing, that his father felt like chasing him out to some ten acre lot.

That was the beginning of the long course in music followed by Mr. Alf Simmons. He became competent with many of the instruments, and was finally playing a horn with the Citizens Band. At one time he played in George St. United Church orchestra. During more than 40 years here he played under the batons of Finch Miller, Rupert Gliddon, William Peryer and the present leader Walter Parnell.

Lloyd M. Starke Returning Officer

Lloyd M. Starke, of 420 Donegal Street, has been appointed by the Ontario Council of Christian Education to the position of district returning officer for the constituency of Peterborough city in the Ontario Older Boys' Parliament.

When the Boys' Parliament convenes at the Legislative Chambers at Queen's Park, Toronto, from December 26 to 30, it will be for the 30th consecutive session. It is not a mock parliament, but one which deals with problems and plans pertinent to boys' work in the churches.

Leading the government will be L. Val Van De Wall of Barrie, at present a student in the Ryerson Institute of Technology. The Opposition will be led by Victor Y. Shimizer, Toronto, a second-year student in honor philosophy at Victoria College, University of Toronto.

To celebrate its 30th anniversary a re-union is planned for all ex-members on Saturday, December 30. Nominations for this area will be accepted by Mr. Starke until November 1.

Two Elect Trial In Higher Court On Arson Count

Judgment was reserved in preliminary hearing until November 2 in the cases of Paul Imming, 25, Antrim St., and Joseph Fontaine, 30, both charged with attempted arson.

Both elected trial by a higher court.

They were charged with throwing a lighted railway flare on the road in front of the police station the night of October 19.

Two Arrests Made

About 20 minutes after the flare was thrown, Fontaine and Imming were arrested in a car.

P.C. Eldon McDonald testified he was driving north on Water St. just south of the police station and saw a southbound auto swerve slightly toward the station.

"I saw a red fiery object come out of the car. It landed on the road in front of the station. I took the licence number of the car and recognized one of the occupants. It was Paul Imming. He was driving the car," the officer told the court.

Asked if he noticed anybody else in the car, P.C. McDonald said he saw another person in the front seat.

Police Chief John Thompson and Sgt. William Aggas, identification officer, said they tested a new flare, similar to the one thrown at the station.

Chief Thompson said the flame from the flare set fire to the wooden door jamb of the police garage in about three-quarters of a minute.

In argument, Fontaine's counsel, G. H. T. Farquharson said the case against Fontaine rested on two points—whether any serious attempt had been made to set the police station on fire, and the fact that no evidence had been brought in to connect Fontaine with the throwing or dropping of the flare.

Crown Attorney John Bradshaw argued that the law said that if a man has intent, and if he omits or does something to achieve his intent, then he is guilty of attempting a crime.

He admitted that there was no evidence connecting Fontaine with the dropping or throwing of the flare. "But there has been no contradiction," he added.

Evidence Accepted

Evidence in the charge against Fontaine was accepted by W. J. Arthur Fair as evidence in the case against Imming.

Mr. Fair said there was no evidence of attempting to cast the flaming object at the police station. "And if Imming was the driver, as the evidence shows, it could hardly be suggested that he reached over and dropped the flare while he drove along."

Mr. Bradshaw said that swerving the car in toward the police station indicated Imming's common purpose with whoever dropped the flare.

2 Million Geese Visit James Bay

HANNAH BAY, Ont., Oct. 26—(CP). — On the bleak coast of James Bay, remote from civilization, nature has again staged its awe-inspiring spectacle of a mass migration of wild life.

Some 2,000,000 geese are estimated to have paused on their race southward from Polar regions to the ricelands of Louisiana. They stop to feed on the succulent roots of sea grass on the mud flats extending along the south shore of James Bay.

The migration, just ended after four weeks, was a paradise of limit bags every day to the handful of hunters from all parts of Canada and the United States. To the 5,000 Indians who live around James and Hudson Bay, it meant food.

The geese swept in with a mighty honking and whirring of wings in flocks ranging from a half-dozen to 10,000. The James Bay flyway is used chiefly by the blue goose, a white headed and white-breasted bird with slate-blue wings, weighing about six pounds. There are some Canada geese and snow geese.

The blue goose nests during the summer on Southampton Island and Baffin Land, 2,000 miles north of the refuelling ground, from where it flies another 3,000 miles non-stop.

Liberals Win In Manitoba

WINNIPEG, Oct. 26—(CP)—Premier Douglas L. Campbell, who is expected to lose shortly the support of Progressive Conservatives in his coalition government, got help Tuesday from two quarters to lighten the blow.

In two provincial by-elections both seats were won by Liberals supporting the coalition administration. Liberal supporters now number 31 in the 57-member assembly.

The victors were Thomas P. Hillhouse, Selkirk, Man., lawyer who has been secretary of the Liberal Association in Selkirk for 20 years, and Albert Trapp, a former reeve making his first political bid. Hillhouse won in St. Andrews and Trapp won in St. Clements.

Coldsprings WMS Hold Thankoffering

The thankoffering meeting of the WMS was held in St. Paul's United Church on Thursday, Oct. 19. The church was decorated with ferns, yellow and bronze 'mums and the fruits of the season. Mrs. Arthur Jamieson, the president, was in the chair.

Camborne society took the devotional, Mrs. H. Lander reading the scripture, Mrs. L. Palmateer giving the message and Mrs. P. C. Brown led in prayer. Mrs. Garnet Isaac, Bethesda North, sang a solo.

The highlight of the afternoon was an address given by Mrs. Harris of Peterborough, who is branch president of the Bay of Quinte Conference, also dean of the School for Leaders at Whitby. Mrs. Harris brought us a report from the dominion board and general council meetings, recently held in Toronto. Mrs. D. Buttars moved a vote of thanks to Mrs. Harris and those taking part. Mrs. W. Dines seconded the motion. Mrs. C. Timlin sang a solo.

A donation of $10 was given to the WMS on Sunday by Mrs. Dr. McKinney of Brooklin, in memory of her mother. This brought the total thankofferings to $105.00.

Red China And India Talk Plans For An "Asian UN"

By LEON DENNEN
NEA Staff Correspondent

PARIS —(NEA)— The creation of an "Asian UN" which would eventually include Korea, among others, is currently being discussed between Communist China and the government of India.

PANDIT NEHRU: A mortal fear of western domination.

French sources associated with the Cominform's World Federation of Trade Unions report.

The WFTU, which is generally credited with having prepared the ground for the Communist attack on South Korea, is one of Moscow's main instruments of penetration and aggression in the Asian countries.

A proposal for the establishment of an Asian Federation, I am reliably informed, was recently advanced by Chou En-lai, Communist China's premier and foreign minister, in a conversation with Sardar Pannikar, India's ambassador in Peking. Following his meeting with Chou En-lai, Pannikar reportedly discussed the proposal with Red President Mao Tse-tung.

An Asian union would obviously serve as a check on the United Nations should Communist China fail to gain admission to this "western-minded" body. It might ultimately develop into an Asian rival of UN.

Asia for Asians

A strong advocate of Communist China's claim for admission to UN, Jawaharlal Nehru, India's prime minister, has long been known as an exponent of the theory that Asian affairs should be administered by Asians. A Pan-Asian federation is one of his pet projects.

Nehru first made an attempt to create an Asian Federation at a conference held at New Delhi in 1947. At that time the project fell through because of Soviet opposition. Through the activities of the Russian-dominated Mongolian People's Republic, the WFTU and other Asian agents of the Cominform in Moscow were able to disrupt the conference.

But the present Chinese proposal, it is believed here, was made with the knowledge and backing of the Soviet Politburo. Should this be so, it would represent a complete reversal of Russian policy.

The main quarrel between Stalin and Tito, which finally led to a break, was over the Yugoslav marshal's desire to form a Balkan federation. The Kremlin feared that such a combination of powers would be too strong and independent for the Russians to dominate. Apparently it has no such fears with regard to an Asian Federation.

Distrust Russia

India's reaction to Communist China's proposal is not yet known but it is considered as unlikely that Nehru would enter at this time into a separate agreement with Mao Tse-tung. Nehru is in mortal fear of western, especially United States, domination of CHOU EN-LAI: A complete reversal of Russian policy.

Asia. But he also has better reasons to fear and distrust the Russians and their Asian satellites.

It is therefore regarded as significant that the New Delhi government recently went out of its way to reiterate India's faith in the UN. This despite the fact that Nehru was decidedly opposed to the UN's decision to cross the 38th Parallel, and its resolution on Korea.

Nevertheless, should India continue to be thwarted in the UN —especially should the Chinese Communists fail to gain admission — an Asian Federation sponsored by China and India is, in the view of my informants, a distinct possibility.

Rearmament Plan Hits Production Of Toys In U.K.

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Oct. 25 —(CP)— This year's "buy early for Christmas" slogans are more than just a sales promotion in British toy stores.

Retailers warn that last-minute shoppers may pay 10 per cent more for the same goods as those now on the selves.

For instance, a train set now priced at £1 may cost 22 shillings if retail stocks are renewed before Christmas. Golliwags and soft toys costing about 25 shillings, will rise to 30 shillings and up. Reason is the increased cost of raw materials.

Warning is also given on the uncertainty of replacements. Some toys now on the shelves may not be obtainable by mid-December, due to the scarcity in lead and metal caused by the rearmament program.

Big Stocks

In most lines, however, London's big stores have large and varied stocks.

Biggest surprise in present stocks is the variety of clockwork toys. There is everything from inch-long cars costing 1s 9d. to remote-control helicopters, speedboats, cars and trains.

A new interest in the clockwork agricultural toys including farming machinery, dumper trucks, heavy tractors, bulldozers and mobile cranes.

Talking Dolls

For girls there are walky-talky dolls and up-to-the minute doll's houses with "every modern convenience." Furniture includes streamlined aluminum kitchenwear ready for use, refrigerator, lawn mower, washing machine, cocktail cabinet with miniature bottles of beer, television and gramaphone sets.

Signifying the trend of the times are battery television sets with four films, in popular demand at £1.

Candidate For Mayor Loses On Birthday

WINNIPEG, Oct. 26 (CP). — Jack Blumberg, who was 58 on Wednesday, got a left-handed birthday present from Mayor Garnet Coulter, 68—a licking in the two-man Winnipeg mayoralty race.

Mr. Coulter won his fifth consecutive two-year term in convincing fashion. He polled 52,357 votes against 28,835 for Mr. Blumberg, who was sponsored by the CCF. Mr. Couter ran as an independent.

Laziness Hailed As Good Dividend Payer

The true art of being lazy has few devotees under 40. Learn to be lazy? The mere thought is enough to give your busy young executive a guilt complex that would confound the most Freudian of psychiatrists, Stanley Caldwell writes in Canadian Business.

And yet plenty of men who chalk up notable achievements beyond the ages of 50 and 60 know that it pays to be lazy. They are skilled players in the game of saving energy for important tasks.

More With Less

They know that it's possible to get more done with less effort, to improve the quality of what they do, to give mature judgment a chance to operate beyond the fetters of fatigue. They know that it pays to avoid that widely advertised "tired feeling."

It's probably an exaggeration to say that all the world loves a loafer, but nearly everybody loves to quote the famous Chaucey Depew (as famous for his wit as for his sedentary way of life), who once said that he took absolutely no exercise except to act as pallbearer for his friends who did.

The spirit of that pleasant whimsy will be found in the prescriptions of many doctors who recommend exercise in the treatment of fatigue. The strenuous life can be lethal. Moderation is the touchstone for creative living—work balanced with play and adequate rest.

Pitcher says

Practitioners of the strenuous life ignore rest as a sheer waste of time. They even tackle recreation with a tense grip and a strained look. As Carl Hubbell of the New York Giants once said:

"I've seen motor car drivers who insist on being the car. On a long hill they lean forward, jaws set, muscles strained. Racing cars and airplanes aren't driven by tense, hurried men, but by calm and skillful ones. Looking at life from the pitcher's box, I don't think we have to break our necks to keep up. If I let the yells of the grandstand panic me into hasty action, I'd get tense and shoot wild. And life is that way too, I guess."

Fatigue comes pretty close to being a disease. It can be physical, mental or a combination of both. And the causes are myriad: monotony, discontent, worry, faulty diet, loss of sleep, excessive smoking or drinking—a host of factors associated with home and working conditions.

The man who has a nervous breakdown is usually the one who refuses to pause, physically or mentally.

So learn to be lazy—relax before you get tired.

Relax your muscles, which in turn will help your nerves to escape tension. The clenched fist and furrowed brow don't make for efficiency. They indicate tense, hard work. The efficient worker in office or factory is relaxed, functioning easily, going smoothly from one task to another, using rhythm, thinking clearly.

The law of rhythm or frequent rests is especially important to sedentary workers. A reasonable amount of muscular fatigue will stimulate appetite and promote rest. Nervous fatigue works the other way. It destroys appetite and makes it difficult for you to relax sufficiently to allow the marvelous therapy of sleep to come into play. Lack of sleep encourages susceptibility, which in turn aggravate insomnia.

Merely "letting go" is not enough. Some tension is released, but some is left—residual tension which can only be eliminated by deliberate effort to relax the small muscle groups, one after the other.

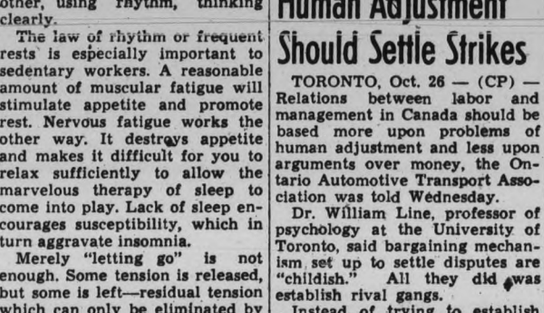
Resting before fatigue sets in makes it possible to work longer hours, to work under strain without ill effects. At such times, when sleep must be lost or cut short, intentional relaxation while working will make the need for sleep less acute.

Success does not demand health as its price. We need a wise and merry philosophy, for mental health plays just as important a role in the prevention of fatigue as physical well being.

AS OTHERS SEE US—This is how Ann Blyth appears to artist Mark Stevens in "Katie Did It," new UI comedy. But not as Ann appears to the public by the time Mark gets through with her likeness as a poster nymph—a situation leading to some embarrassment for the prim New England model.

Human Adjustment Should Settle Strikes

TORONTO, Oct. 26 — (CP) — Relations between labor and management in Canada should be based more upon problems of human adjustment and less upon arguments over money, the Ontario Automotive Transport Association was told Wednesday.



Dr. William Line, professor of psychology at the University of Toronto, said bargaining mechanism set up to settle disputes are "childish." All they did was establish rival gangs.

Instead of trying to establish better human relations, both management and labor concentrated on "trying to get more money out of the same pot."

Dr. Line termed strikes and lockouts "the ultimate in childishness."

Ex-Page Boy Signing Large Cheque

EDMONTON (CP) — Kenneth J. Hawkins, who was paid $100 for six weeks of work as a page boy in the Alberta legislature back in 1913, now is the co-signer of millions of dollars of Alberta government cheques.

As Deputy Provincial Treasurer he watches the expenditure of all public funds and also supervises the required bookkeeping. He also is responsible for the investment of surplus revenues.

A highlight in Mr. Hawkins' government career came this year with the refinancing of Alberta's public debt, resulting in a net saving of $24,191,000 to the province. The re-organized plan, on which he worked with other government officials, was obtained at an average interest rate of 2.78 per cent, the lowest in history of Alberta's public debt.

Born In Ontario

Mr. Hawkins, born in Ontario 53 years ago, is the administrator of the Self-Liquidating Projects Act. The act this year established a $5,000,000 loan at two per cent interest to municipalities for construction of self-liquidating projects.

This summer Mr. Hawkins travelled to New York where he signed a $60,000,000 bond issue in behalf of the Alberta government. He had to sign his name to 60,000 bonds in $1,000 denominations. The job required four days and he had to take one day off when his hand stiffened from the constant penwork.

Awaiting his signature when he arrived back in Edmonton were 2,100 school debenture bonds.

He came to Edmonton from Ontario in 1912, joining the provincial civil service 20 years ago. He was made chief inspector of the province's treasury branches in 1945 and last year was appointed to his present position.

Former President Dies

HAVANA, Cuba, Oct. 26 (AP) —Former President Miguel Mariano Gomez died at his suburban home here early today. He was 61. Gomez underwent brain surgery in New York last August and was brought home in critical condition.

19 Children Hurt

GENOA, Italy, Oct. 26 (Reuters)—Nineteen deaf and dumb children were injured last night when their bus crashed into a wall near Rapallo, south of Genoa. The children, all Dutch, were returning to Holland after a Holy Year visit to Rome. Two priests and four nuns accompanying the children were also hurt. Doctors said none of the injuries was serious.

YOUNG TRAVELLER—Lorna Elaine Russell, 7, travelled alone from Kingston, Jamaica, to Toronto. She was en route to Montreal, where she will undergo an eye operation. This TCA photo shows her perched on her luggage at Malton Airport.

SPEAKER TRIES NEW CHAIR—Ross Macdonald, speaker of the Canadian House of Commons, will attend the opening of the new British House. The old chamber was destroyed by German bombs. This United Kingdom information office photo shows Mr. Macdonald in the speaker's chair. Oscar Faber, consultant engineer of the new chamber, points out details of the new structure.

Progress On Arena

MILLBROOK, Oct. 26—(ENS) —Work on the new Millbrook-Cavan arena is progressing swiftly. Six trusses have been hoisted into position, and on Tuesday afternoon school children were let out of school early to see the fifth placed. The whole community has joined in this project, and a great part of the work has been done by volunteer labor. It is still hoped to have the arena ready for use before the beginning of the new year.

A WEEKLY INFORMATION SERVICE

MONTREAL, October 26—B-rrr! This is the time of year when you can feel Winter in the air—and some folks tell me they can feel it in their bones. Do you sometimes get aches 'n' pains in cold, damp weather? I know they can be a real bother—in fact, sometimes I can't sleep when my bad-weather rheumatism is at its worst. That's when I reach for SLOAN'S LINIMENT. It's a marvel—its soothing, penetrating heat gets right to the heart of the hurt! Just pat it on . . . it brings welcome, quick relief to the pains 'n' aches of rheumatism, neuralgia, sore muscles, stiff neck, sprains or bruises. So much real comfort—at so little cost! For Sloan's is just 40c a bottle at drugstores everywhere.

No need to call the seven seas
To find this tasty treasure
Just say "A.B.C. Salmon please!"
For luscious eating pleasure.

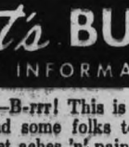
M-mmm! Yes! . . . Just wait 'til you taste that dee-licious A.B.C. Sockeye—deep, bright red sockeye—so superb in salads, so succulent in sandwiches . . . and so completely satisfying in a hot dish like this:

Planked Salmon

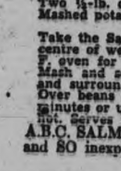
Two ½-lb. cans of A.B.C. Sockeye
Mashed potatoes to serve 4
1 can string beans
2 tablespoons cream
2 tablespoons melted butter

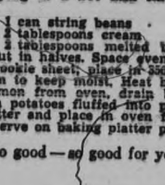
Take the Salmon from can, drain and cut in halves. Space evenly in centre of well-greased baking plank or cookie sheet; place in 350 deg. F. oven for 5 minutes. Baste with cream to keep moist. Heat beans. Mash and season potatoes. Remove Salmon from oven, drain beans and surround Salmon. Circle plank with potatoes fluffed into peaks. Over beans and potatoes put melted butter and place in oven for 15 minutes or until potatoes are browned. Serve on baking platter piping hot. Serves four.

A.B.C. SALMON (all four varieties) is so good—so good for you . . . and SO inexpensive, I've found!



Double Bargain Opportunity! . . . Save money by using LIBBY'S EVAPORATED MILK in your cooking. It contains all the nutrients you expect from fresh, whole milk, plus added Vitamin D—yet it costs less. And by saving your Libby's labels, you can get famous Wallace Brothers Silver Plate—"Laurentian" Pattern—for half price and less! 6 teaspoons ($2 value) for just $1 and 6 Libby's labels—OR—a 24-piece Set ($15 value) for only $6 and 24 Libby's labels. (Labels from both large and small tins are acceptable.) Simply send labels and money order to me — Barbara Brent, 1411 Crescent St., Montreal, P.Q.





Back For More! . . . that's what always happens when you give your youngsters yumm-mmy JELL-O PUDDINGS. How children love them! . . . creamy-rich Caramel and Butterscotch, satin-smooth Vanilla, full-flavoured Chocolate Jell-O Puddings . . . and the Jell-O Tapioca Puddings trio . . . exciting-looking Orange-Coconut, Vanilla and Chocolate. And, mothers, please note! . . . Jell-O Puddings are a grand way to give your children more milk! What's more, they take just 5 minutes to make. Amazing that such good desserts are so easy to prepare—and so wonderfully economical, too!

There's Only One Drawback to washing dishes with the marvelous new detergents. Have you noticed how drying they are to your skin? Of course you can feel perfectly relaxed about using them if you beautify your hands with soothing Jergens Lotion afterwards. Being liquid, Jergens quickly supplies the softening, smoothing moisture dry, thirsty skin needs. You can smooth on JERGENS LOTION between chores—it won't hold you up because it's never sticky or greasy! And by the end of the day, your hands will be velvety-smooth as rose petals—no matter how much scrubbing and washing you've done. Keep a bottle of Jergens Lotion in your kitchen and bathroom, too. 10c, 30c, 55c and $1.00.

This Is The Famous Carnauba Palm that gives us Carnauba, the world's most valuable natural wax. The wax covers the fronds of the palm with a protective coat of armour . . . so it's no wonder that the new LIN-X WAXES give your floors such a hardy finish. You see, both Lin-X Anti-Slip Self-Polishing Wax and Lin-X Paste Wax contain a large amount of Carnauba . . . so when you use them to polish your floors, they just naturally do a marvelous job! Lin-X Paste Wax (59c), gives hardwood floors a harder, glossier, longer-lasting finish. And on linoleum, painted and composition floors, Lin-X Anti-Slip Self-Polishing Wax (59c) really shines! And for polishing and protecting your furniture, there's nothing like Lin-X No Smudge Furniture Polish (43c). You'll find Lin-X at grocery, hardware and department stores everywhere.

"We Don't Worry about the price of meat!", writes a reader. "I simply add Bovril to my soups, stews and meat dishes—and we get all the good meat flavour we want!". Yes, economical BOVRIL adds extra meatiness to meals for so little cost! It comes in three handy forms—Cordial, Concentrate and Cubes . . . all with that good beef flavour that makes Bovril so popular with youngsters and grown-ups, too! And, speaking of youngsters . . . when the children come in from school tomorrow . . . give them warming cups of Bovril and crackers to satisfy their hunger 'til dinner. M-mmm! Bovril is such a wonderfully satisfying hot drink on a cold Fall day!

A New Taste Treat creates a new appetite . . . so let me tell you how you can have three new flavour surprises that are extra delicious! Just do as I do . . . get QUAKER CORN MEAL and try the recipes on the package. Scrumptious Hasty Pudding, Golden Corn Muffins and hot, crusty Corn Bread. Yum! You'll thank me over and over for this flavour tip . . . for Quaker Yellow Corn Meal is not only delicious in dozens of dishes . . . it's better than bread or cracker crumbs for breading oysters, fish or cutlets. A versatile food if ever I've seen one! And, of course, with the famous "Quaker" name behind it, this corn meal is bound to be tops in taste and quality. You'll think so, I know, when you try it!

Wonderful Toys For Your Youngsters . . . absolutely free! Yes, Heins have designed big cardboard cut-out trains and make-believe kitchens to delight both boys and girls. And all you do to get yours is purchase 6 tins of that delicious HEINZ CREAM OF TOMATO SOUP at regular prices. The tins are packed in "toy-maker" cartons . . . the toys are printed in colour and semi-cut on the carton. There are four kinds of cut-out cartons:

1. Locomotive and Freight Car.
2. Flat Car and Caboose.
3. Stove and Sink Unit.
4. Refrigerator and Cupboard.

Ask your grocer for 6 tins of Heins Cream of Tomato Soup in the new toy-making carton . . . OR—write to me—Barbara Brent, 1411 Crescent St. Montreal, P.Q. — enclosing 6 labels from any variety of Heins Soups—telling me which of the four toy-making cartons you'd like (you can have all four for 24 labels!)

Don't Gamble with cold miseries this Fall and Winter—especially when prompt, efficient relief is so easy! I'm talking about the new antihistamine discovery for colds—ANOHIST! Yes, taken immediately upon contact with anyone who has a cold or at first sniffle or sneeze, Anohist can stop cold symptoms in a single day—and do it safely! Simply follow directions on label. So be prepared—get Anohist from your druggist today! Costs only about 3c per tablet. Remember: all antihistamines are not alike. They vary greatly in performance. Anohist is the antihistamine formula recommended for family use because of its success in actual clinical tests.

Lucky Is The Bride whose friends give her a Kitchen Shower—with the new SUPREME ALUMINUM TREASURE CHEST as the gift-star! Just wait 'til you see these beautifully gift-packed Supreme and Lifetime Treasure Chests! . . . brimming with twenty easy-to-clean Supreme or Lifetime cooking utensils! These Treasure Chests make Kitchen Showers so easy!—Treasure Chests cost only $19.95—one girl can buy it—all can give it. And there's no chance of embarrassing duplication—no fuss—no bother. You'll find Supreme and Lifetime Treasure Chests (both of the same high quality—the same outstanding value)—at hardware and department stores everywhere!

"Neat As a Pin" is one of the most flattering things a man can say about your appearance. And a very important part of the "neat" look is the condition of your shoes. Keep your shoes groomed to perfection with wonderful MELTONIAN Shoe Cream. This brilliant English shoe cream is internationally famous for superior quality. And, no wonder! It gives such a marvelously high lustre to leathers . . . keeps shoes, belts and handbags new-looking so much longer. What's more, it helps preserve the leather! Ask for Meltonian Shoe Cream—in the Handitube—at your favourite department or shoe store.

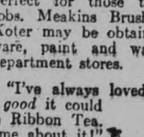
Footnote—There is also a Meltonian Wax Polish available in the new, easy-to-open key tin.

A Reader Writes: "I've always loved tea, but I never realized how good it could be 'til I tried Blue Ribbon Tea. Thanks for telling me about it!" It's not really surprising that BLUE RIBBON TEA is so good—for its Blenders have gone to great pains to give you the best of blends (you pay no more!). They've made their Blue Ribbon blend from some of the finest India and Ceylon Teas. It's composed of the tender small tea leaves from hill-top estates . . . tea leaves picked in the "full-flavour" months at the peak of their quality. Ask your grocer for Blue Ribbon Tea—in the regular size packages or in the convenient two cup tea bags. Remember—whether you use bulk tea or tea bags, warm the teapot first and use fresh, vigorously boiling water; then let the tea steep for five minutes.

Not Many Of Us bake bread these days, but I was intrigued by a stunt the Frigidaire people use to demonstrate the huge oven in their new "Thrifty-30" electric range. This range is only thirty inches wide, and to dramatize the bigness of its full-width oven they show that it will bake ten loaves of bread at a time. Actually, it's the biggest household electric range oven in the world! Every woman with a small kitchen will praise General Motors for creating this little range with "big range" features. Stop in at a Frigidaire Dealer's and see the FRIGIDAIRE "Thrifty-30" ELECTRIC RANGE soon.

Oops! — Baby's so enthusiastic about his yummy "CREAM OF WHEAT" that he's almost out of his high chair! Yes, 5 Minute "Cream of Wheat" is a dish that babies love . . . and, best of all—it loves babies! It's brimful of so many of the good things that babies need to help maintain normal growth and health. For it provides Iron to maintain good red blood, and Calcium and Phosphorus—for diets deficient in these elements. What's more—it cooks to baby-ready digestibility in just 5 minutes of boiling. And—mothers!—here's a special offer! . . . for your free copy of the helpful, delightfully illustrated booklet—"Commonsense Feeding Habits for Your Baby"—simply write to me, Barbara Brent, 1411 Crescent St., Montreal, P.Q.

A-a-hhh! The Luxury of relaxing in a warm, fragrant bath after a hard day's work! My favourite "bath companion" is that brand new, grand new C-I-L SPONGE! Its velvety texture when wet is so soothing—it's kind to the tenderest skin . . . even baby's. And so clean! . . . just wash it in a jiffy under the tap. Another thing you'll like about it is its durability. But to discover the carefree convenience of a C-I-L Sponge . . . the best thing is to try it yourself. These sponges are far from expensive and they make any cleaning job easier! Find them—in five convenient sizes—at your favourite drug, department, hardware, variety or grocery store. And be sure to look for the C-I-L label—it's your assurance of quality.



A Match For Any Man . . . he'll find you completely bewitching when you wear — oh, so provocatively! — Woodbury's new powder shade "COQUETTE" with "Coquette" lipstick to match. This new Woodbury powder is a warm, golden rachel—charming as a blush and not half so innocent! It's a deliberate, delightful bid for compliments and you'll have many when you wear "Coquette"! I love its tender texture, its lovely fragrance, its longer cling. (Woodbury Powder has a unique ingredient that gives your skin a satin-smooth sheen with no "powdery" look.) I love the creamy "Coquette" pink lipstick that matches the powder so beguilingly! Whether you're shopping, dining or dancing, you'll see admiration in every glance when you wear "Coquette"! Choose the powder in 20c, 37c or 65c size . . . and the lipstick is just 49c.

You Wouldn't Cook A Roast in a pan too small. The proper utensils are such a vital part of cooking. And the same thing applies to painting. The best paint—the finest brushes... and MEAKINS KOTON KOTER all combine to make any paint job you do a beautiful one. Yes, Meakins Koton Koter is by far the fastest, easiest way I know of doing mess free, mark free paint jobs. It's sturdily made of the best of materials by the same people who make the famous Meakins Brushes. Ask your dealer for Meakins Koton Koter or the Koter Junior, in smaller size for tables — shelves — screens. Remember, when you're buying—the Koter does the job in half the time—saves time, paint and money. And a Meakins Brush is perfect for those tricky corner jobs. Meakins Brushes and the Koter may be obtained in hardware, paint and wallpaper and department stores.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Mennonite Recipes Good Moore Family Loves Them

A new cook book featuring Mennonite cookery was given to me and my family has been having a rare old time with the meals I am turning out.

I wanted to try so many of them so that I could personally recommend them to you in this little piece today—that, for once, my family cried "Uncle." Pete seldom fails me as a guineapig taste but even he had his fill.

They all loved the Potato Noodle Rolls which are listed as "very old" but certainly have a delicious "new" flavor to me,—and to the tongues of my Anglo-Saxon family.

The recipe for Frankfurter Casserole I did not have to test, for I have tasted it at my friend Garny's home. It is a splendid dish for a mid-winter dinner for you can have prepared it in the morning and can have been shopping or at a club meeting until late in the afternoon, and come home in time to pop it into the oven. It will be ready by the time the salad and dessert and coffee are made and you have persuaded your daughter or son to set the table.

Frankfurter Casserole

One pound dried lima beans, 2¼ quarts water, 3 teaspoons salt, 9 frankfurters (1 pound), 2 grated raw carrots, 2 tablespoons butter, 2 or 4 strips bacon. Soak the beans in 1½ quarts water overnight. Drain and add remaining water and simmer 45 minutes. Split 4 of the frankfurters in halves lengthwise and place in bottom of baking dish. Add carrots and salt to beans and pour over frankfurters. Place remaining franks on top whole. Dot with butter, cover with bacon strips and bake covered for 30 minutes, uncovered for 15 minutes.

Potato Noodle Rolls

One cup each mashed potatoes and milk, 1 egg, 1 tablespoon fat, ½ teaspoon salt, about 4 cups flour (enough to make a stiff dough), 3½ teaspoons baking powder. Add beaten egg, melted fat and salt to mashed potatoes. Sift flour with baking powder and add alternatly with the milk. Mix dough thoroughly, knead it a few minutes on a floured board. Pinch off pieces of dough the size of a small egg and roll each piece between your palms until it is about the size of your middle finger. Fry in deep fat until golden, turning once. Drain a minute on paper towel and serv immediately.

Eleanour's Open Apple Pie

Line a deep pie plate with rich pastry.

Cut pared apples into approximate eighths—and arrange them in symmetrical rows in the crust. Mix 1 cup brown sugar with 2 tablespoons flour and a shake of salt. Sprinkle this mixture evenly over the top of apples. Beat 1 egg and beat into it 1 cup cream. Pour this over the top, being careful it does not wash the sugar off of the apples in any one place. Sprinkle with cinnamon and dot with about 1½ tablespoons butter. Bake at 450 deg. Fahr. for 10 minutes, then reduce heat to 350 deg. Fahr. for remaining time. It should be baked about 50 minutes in all.

Simple Apple Chutney

The note accompanying this recipe says "can be made late in October"—and so it is just right for this week.

Twelve tart red apples—or if you are using windfalls you will need about 16, 1 red pepper, 2 green pepper, 1 lb. raisins, 1 or 2 cups chopped celery, 2 cups each sugar and vinegar, juice 4 lemons, 1 tablespoon each ginger and salt. Wash and core but do not pare apples, and chop or grind apples, celery and peppers. Combine all and simmer until thick. Pour into sterile jars and seal.

Special Services Help Muscovites Enjoy Leisure

By TOM WHITNEY

MOSCOW —(AP)— Many new special and personalized services have been instituted here for the busy Muscovite.

For instance, if a Russian in the capital doesn't feel like bothering with alarm clocks, he can arrange to be wakened every morning by a phone call from a special service and information bureau. The moderate fee is added to his phone bill.

A Russian couple returning home tired from a hard day's work can eat in comfort in the peace of their home without the trouble of cooking and washing dishes — for a slight service charge. Some restaurants here have inaugurated the delivering of restaurant meals to individual homes.

Russian movie theatres sell only reserved seats. This means a customer is always sure he has a place to sit down, but it also means the tickets must be bought ahead of time. Now it is no longer necessary to go to the theatre to get a ticket in person. A special service exists to deliver tickets to those who order by telephone.

Soviet food stores also are developing special services. A person too hurried to do his own shopping can leave his list at an "order table" in any one of a number of Moscow stores and pick it up on the way home from work at night. A busy housewife can telephone and have her order delivered, also for a moderate service charge.

Reference Bureau

Many Muscovites use the services of the Moscow city reference bureau which answers any phone question from subscribers concerning addresses, phone numbers, theatres, museums, amusements, shopping problems and the like. Non-subscribers get the same service by patronizing one of its many booths scattered throughout Moscow, or by purchasing coupons entitling the buyer to a specific service.

Savings banks also help with personal services, accepting all payments for rent and utilities from their depositors. These payments are transfered to the organizations to which they are due without charge.

Many other special services have been initiated in recent years, but newspaper editorials stress that much remains to be done in the development of laundries, dry cleaning facilities and the production of labor-saving devices for the home, such as washing machines and refrigerators.

The Moscow press editorials emphasize that it is a matter of government policy to do everything possible to decrease the burden of housework on Soviet women and make it easier for them to enter public life.

Co-Education Hot Issue In Russia

By TOM WHITNEY

MOSCOW —(AP)— The question of separate education or co-education in Russian schools is a burning issue among Soviet teachers.

The public also has become interested as a result of a series of articles in the Literary Gazette.

Since 1944, there has been separate education for boys and girls in Moscow and in most other large Russian cities. Before that, in the larger cities there was co-education. In rural schools and in smalled towns the question of separate education has never been introduced.

The Literary Gazette earlier this year questioned whether separate education (introduced on a frankly experimental basis) should be continued at all even where it exists.

A major article published by this paper, which has no direct connection with education but is the organ of the Soviet Writers Union, advanced the argument that in Socialist society women work beside men all their lives whether in office or factory, and that preparation for getting along together should begin right in school.

Added Expense

It also made the point that separate education burdened facilities unnecessarily by requiring more staff and buildings for handling an equivalent number of students.

The Literary Gazette asked for comment from teachers and later printed some of the contrasting letters which it received.

Then in an editorial it summed up the results of the debate and said the answers showed that about 98 per cent of those concerned favored a return to co-education, with only about two per cent for retaining the present system for Moscow and other big cities.

Formally Install Sodality Officers

Officers of St. Peter's Senior Sodality were formally installed at St. Peter's Cathedral on Sunday evening. Spiritual director Monsignor P. P. Butler outlined their duties and urged them to fulfill their obligations faithfully as he presented the various symbols of office.

Those installed were Prefect Miss Helen Strano; Vice Prefect Miss Helen Hajnik; Treasurer Miss Doreen Dugan; Secretary Miss Pat Eggleton.

Following installation, the members adjourned to St. Mary's School for their regular meeting with the vice prefect Miss Helen Hajnik, as chairman.

Names were taken for the sodality's choir and the girls were encouraged to give this choir their utmost support. It was also announced that the 1951 Calendars will be on sale shortly.

Interesting papers were delivered by the following guest speakers: Good Literature, Miss Teresa Doran; Eucharistic, Miss Marie Kieran; Our Lady's, Miss Gwen Kane; Social, Miss June Blodgett.

Gladys Langton Gives Travelogue On England

Mrs. Gerald Cuffe, Morrow St., entertained members of the Jean Wagar Mission Circle for the meeting Wednesday evening, when an unusually interesting program was presented.

"Thanksgiving" was the theme of the opening service of worship, conducted by Mrs. R. Booth, assisted by Mrs. Agnew, who read the poem "A Prayer of Thanksgiving." The offering was dedicated by Miss M. Bowers.

In a brief talk, Miss Lottie Leggett presented the needs of the temperance department, concluding with a timely poem.

The new Study packet, including the books "The United Church Re-enters Japan" and "A Life were not too long" were introduced by the advisory president, Miss Constance Wagar, who also, outlined possible visual aids and other helps which should make the year's study a most interesting one.

Miss Shirley Potts, literature secretary, recorded the number of books read by members, this month and uged that all continue to do missionary reading.

Subscriptions were solicited for the Missionary Monthly. Miss Bowers invited the Cirle to her home for the November meeting. A book, the gift of the Circle to a former officer, Miss Zetta Wood, who has moved to Toronto, was on view.

Feature of the evening was a splendid travelogue given by Miss Gladys Langton, who spent the summer in England. She brought a wealth of information about the various centres she had visited including London, Derby and many others. Her fine address was illustrated with coloured views thrown on the screen, showing the beauty and colour of the English countryside. She stressed the fine spirit of the English people and spoke of the church work done there.

Delightful refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Geo Martin.

REPUBLIC IN 1912

China was converted from n autocracy to a republic by abdication of Emperor Pu-Yi in 1912.

These stormy weather foot fashions are designed to cope with any problem produced by blustery days. The rubber boots (above) are fleece-lined, have electrified shearling trim. New, lightweight low boots (upper right) fit over many heel heights. Velveteen foot-warmers (right center) come in colors, have lamb's wool lining and electrified shearling cuff. These houndstooth check toe rubbers (lower right) slip on and off easily.

Foot Fashions Gay Note For Bad Weather

By GALE DUGAS

NEW YORK —(NEA)— Looking pretty on a story day is a miracle easier to achieve since the advent of stormy weather fashions which combine good looks with practicality.

We've been happily without the four-buckle overshoe for many years. And each year now, new designs in blustery weather footwear appear, providing women with a whole wardrobe of attractive, practical foot fashions.

Fleece-lined rubber boots are a must for cold, wet weather. One pair, with electrified shearling trim around the top and on the vamp, can be worn over many heel heights. Because they close with an easy lacing, they have the carriage boot look.

For rainy days, lightweight rubber boots in pepper green or red meet the challenge of mud puddles. With a gay, red net lining and a slide fastener, these boots are easy to slip over shoes with almost any heel height.

For snow and sleet, velveteen foot-warmers in the form of boots with a lamb's wool lining are ideal. These boots have an electrified shearling cuff for added protection and warmth. They come in colors as well as black and brown.

A light footnote for gray and rainy days is found in toe rubbers which slip on and off suedes and other shoes easily. In a houndstooth check and in colors, these rubbers are easily tucked into a small space in a handbag, ready for rainy day emergency.

Civic Study Group Questions Speaker City Clerk Outram

The Study Group on Civic Affairs had as speaker at the meeting Wednesday evening, in the YWCA, City Clerk Mr. E. A. Outram.

After giving a concise outline of electoral procedure, Mr. Outram answered a deluge of questions, ranging from use of the poll tax to the right to vote on money by-laws.

It was an interesting, stimulating discussion of a pertinent, timely subject and all members present now have the feeling of being well-informed as to their rights as citizens.

Observers' reports were given for the City Council meeting of October 2 by Miss C. McCarthy and for October 16 by Miss Margaret Stevenson.

Discussions followed concerning garbage collection methods and the celebrated Kathrine Wallis collection, but had to be brief owing to lateness of the hour. Each question is to be dealt with more fully at a later meeting.

Mrs. J. B. Bell reported the Board of Education meeting of October 12 at which Mr. G. W. Craw had presented his account of the Canadian Education Association's meeting in Victoria. The need for an improvement in Ontario's "guidance methods" for students, stressed by him, is also to be considered at a later meeting.

Plans are proceeding for a public meeting to be held November 30 to which all candidates for civic election are to be invited.

Anne Cairns Becomes Bride

The pledging of marriage vows at the Church of the Sacred Heart on Saturday morning by Winnifred Ann Cairns and Mr. Michael Elmer Cavanagh was a lovely ceremony, the Rev. Leo Leahy officiating and saying the nuptial mass. The bride is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Cairns, 275 Prince St., and the groom is son of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Cavanagh, 604 Stewart St.

Bouquets of gladioli and baby 'mums decorated for the wedding. Mrs. Cyril O'Donnell played the music and Mrs. C. Viscoff was the soloist. "Ave Maria" was sung during signing of the register.

A gown of beautiful blush satin with bouffant skirt which swept into a train was the bride's choice. It was styled with sweetheart neckline on the basque bodice and the sleeves tipped with points over the hands. Her veil of French illusion fell in a full length train from a tiara of seed pearls and she was carrying her prayer book, covered with Bettertime roses and with streamers of rosebuds and stephanotis. Mr. Cairns gave his daughter in marriage.

Attendants were the bride's sister, Mrs. M. Jay, as matron of honor and the groom's niece Miss Eileen Dion as bridesmaid. They wore taffeta dresses, made in similar style of moulded bodice and cap sleeves atop bouffant skirts, and matching pleated bonnets, Mrs. Jay's in nile green and Miss Dion's in daffodil yellow. They carried nosegays of mauve and bronze 'mums. Flower girl, Noreen Cavanagh, niece of the groom, was dressed in white taffeta, embroidered in blue, with matching hat and mittens, and she carried a basket of blue and white 'mums.

Mr. Malcolm Cavanagh was groomsman for his brother, and ushers were John Cairns and William Cavanagh, brothers of the bride and groom.

The reception was at the Kawartha Country Club where the bride's mother was receiving in a gown of taupe crepe and black hat, assisted by the groom's mother, who wore queen's blue with black accessories. Each had a corsage of sweetheart roses.

When leaving on a wedding trip to Toronto and United States the bride wore a grey gabardine suit with hat of claret velvet, matching accessories and a grey shortie coat.

Mr. and Mrs. Cavanagh will make their home in Peterborough.

Council of Women Marking Birthday

The National Council of Women is 57 years old today. Its original three affiliates grown to nearly 60, the Council is holding a special anniversary meeting in Toronto, commemorating the organization meeting called by Lady Aberdeen, wife of the Governor-General of Canada, in 1893.

Peterborough Council of Women has been an affiliate for nearly 35 years. It is marking this occasion by holding a community bridge and euchre Friday evening in the YWCA.

Knights Templar Entertain Ladies

Members of Moore Preceptory Knights Templar held their annual ladies' night on Wednesday evening in the Kawartha room of the Empress Hotel. Following dinner, which was attended by member knights and their ladies from Campbellford, Lindsay, Haliburton and Peterborough and guests from Port Hope, there was a musical program. Solos were sung by Mrs. Dorothy Goldie and Mr. Victor Coleman. Sir Knight F. F. Long of Campbellford, in masterly style, entertained with slight-of-hand acts. Em. Knight L. H. Bearne, the presiding preceptor welcomed the knights and their ladies and the master of ceremonies was Em. Knight Clifford McKee. Sir Knight Percy Windrim was chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements. Mrs. E. L. Sackville won the door prize and each lady on entering the banquet hall was presented with a rose.

Gwen Craw and Rt. Em. Knight F. G. Mann played the accompaniments.

Pratt-Moffatt Wedding Rites

In Marmora Free Methodist Church on Saturday afternoon, Aileen Agnes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Moffatt, Marmora, was married to Mr. Gordon Edmond Pratt, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Pratt, Warkworth. Dev. L. C. Ball officiated with the Rev. R. L. Casement assisting.

Music was played by Mrs. L. C. Ball and the Rev. R. E. Dargan of Peterborough sang "Because" before the bride entered the church and "The wedding prayer" during signing of the register.

The bride wore a white satin gown, finished with a peplum at back and a fingertip veil caught with orange blossoms. She carried a cascade of red roses. Maid of honor was her sister Miss Eva Moffatt, and bridesmaids were her sister Miss Velma Moffatt, and her niece, Miss Merelyn Johnson. The attendants' frocks of blue, orchid and pink slipper satin were similarly styled and they wore double ruffles of the same material as headdresses and had matching mittens. Each carried a nosegay.

Groomsman was Mr. Francis Casement and ushers were Kelvin Johnson and George Sayles.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents where her mother was receiving in a grey crepe dress with black accessories assisted by the groom's mother who wore navy with grey accessories and each had a corsage of red roses. Guests were there from Toronto, Oshawa, Peterborough, Montreal, Warkworth, Cordova and Verona.

After a motor trip to the United States the couple will make their home at Warkworth. For travelling the bride wore a blue-grey suit with navy accessories.

Florida Holiday For Couple Wed Wednesday

At the Church of the Sacred Heart on Wednesday morning, Shirley Joan, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Forest Larrett, RR 5, Peterborough, became the bride of Frank Lewis Thompson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Thompson, 531 Douglas Ave. The Rev. G. F. Sullivan performed the ceremony.

Autumn flowers were on the altar table. Mrs. R. G. Aman played the organ and Mr. Anthony DeNoble sang "On This Day" and "Ave Maria".

The bridal gown was of white satin trimmed with a lace peplum and circular train, and with long sleeves coming to points at the wrists. A pearl-studded tiara held her full length veil of filmy tulle and she carried a cascade of red roses. She was given in marriage by her father, and attended by Mrs. Jack Thompson who was gowned in pink taffeta and wore a flowered headdress and pink mittens. She carried a nosegay of pink roses and white 'mums.

Groomsman was Jack Thompson and ushers were Joseph and Keneth Thompson, all brothers of the groom.

The reception was held in Marino's tea room, the bride's mother assisting to receive, gowned in wine velvet and wearing brown accessories and a corsage of white baby 'mums. Also the groom's mother who was gowned in green faille and wore a black velvet hat and corsage of red roses.

Florida was the destination of the bride and groom as they left on their wedding trip, the bride wearing a grey suit complemented with a hat and bag of red velvelt.

On return they will live at 531 Douglas Ave.

Condon-O'Brien Nuptials Held

St. Joseph's Church, Douro, was the scene of a pretty fall wedding Tuesday, when Rose Marie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. G. O'Brien and Francis Michael Condon, son of Mrs. M. Condon and the late Mr. Condon, were united in marriage.

The Rev. J. J. McCarthy said the nuptial mass. The church was decorated with asters and carnations. Mrs. Victor Kennedy played the wedding music and during the signing of the register sang "On This Day".

The bride was given in marriage by her father, and was attired in a powder blue gabardine suit with black velvet hat and accessories. She wore a corsage of red roses. Miss Genevieve O'Brien was her sister's only attendant, wearing a suit of taupe gabardine with navy hat and accessories with a corsage of Talisman roses.

The groomsman was Harold Ayotte.

After the ceremony a dinner was held at Hooper's palm rooms, where the bride's mother received wearing a forest green crepe dress with black accessories. She wore a corsage of yellow mums. The groom's aunt, Mrs. John J. Leahy also received wearing a black crepe dress with black accessories and a corsage of white mums.

Later the bride and groom left for a trip to Detroit, Michigan. For travelling the bride chose an eggshell crepe dress with topcoat of pink wool and black accessories. On their return they will live at 685 Armour Road.

Economically speaking, it pays to know your meats. For instance in beef—blade, chuck and brisket are best for pot roasts and those longer cooking methods which break down the fibres. The more tender sections such as the loin, rump and round make the finest roasts and steaks. If you're in doubt as to the cut most suited to your needs—ask the salesman at Your Dominion Master Market. He'll be glad to help. He'll assist you to choose for your family, and advise you on the most satisfactory cooking methods. And here's another point worth remembering . . . every pound of meat sold at Dominion is guaranteed to give you eating satisfaction on your table. This week, Dominion is featuring thick meaty rolled rib roasts, wing, porterhouse and sirloin steaks and roasts and lean hamburg steak.

One very satisfactory way of getting children (and grown-ups, too) to take vitamins, is fresh fruit and vegetables. In the morning, a glass of fresh orange or grapefruit juice supplies vitamins A, B and C, as well as important minerals. Your Dominion Store has a wonderful array of these fruits that you can depend on for rich goodness and plenty of juice. Then there are the vegetables . . . carrots, crisp-crunchy celery, fresh green cabbage, snowy-white cauliflower and many others. They're all rich in vitamins—add colour and zest to any meal.

There's still time to get in on Dominion's grand contest "Dollars for Shoppers." It's easy! It's exciting! and you may win a cash prize. Here's all you have to do. Visit your Dominion Master Market, corner of George and Sherbrooke Streets in Peterborough, and fill in your entry blank. Each night at 6:55, Miss Kay Doris will select a name from the entries turned in. If your name is drawn, you will receive a telephone call and be asked one question. If you answer the question correctly, a cash prize will be yours. Be sure to listen to Miss Kay Doris every morning, Monday through Friday, at 10:10 for her interesting programme, "News for the Women." Remember, to engrand contest "Dollars for Shoppers," fill out your entry blank at you Dominion Master Market today.

DOROTHY DIX

Man Suggests Government Set Up Marriage Bureau

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a man just past 50. I have never married because I could not support a wife in a way I considered a decent standard of living when I was young and since I have been able to marry I have not seen a woman whom I wanted to marry and whom I thought would fit into my scheme of life. But surely somewhere in the world there is such a one. This has made me wonder why we might not have a national bureau handled on a high ethical plane, with some such confidential research as is done by Dun and Bradstreet in the business world, whose mission it would be to bring the right people together. Those interested could fill out a questionnaire that would be registered in a central bureau, stating their own qualifications and what they desired socially, educationally, biologically, temperamentally in a husband or wife. This would be a scientific method of reaching the people marooned in cities and villages and in the country. What do you think of the idea?

A. E.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: It is a grand idea and perhaps after the government gets through regimenting us about everything else on earth it will take up our love affairs and establish a WTM (want to marry) Bureau and provide us all with scientifically selected husbands and wives.

It Wouldn't Work

But I doubt the plan would work for two reasons. One is that people are pernickety about marrying and want to pick out their husbands and wives for themselves, and they never by any chance fancy the woman or man that everybody thinks is just the one they should have married.

And a second reason why a bureau for selecting husbands and wives would be a flop is because the rational system of choosing husband and wives doesn't seem to win out any oftener than picking them out in a bunch.

How could you tell whether you would like a man or woman for a life companion just because he or she possessed the standardized virtues? A man or woman might rate a hundred per cent yet have little mannerisms and peculiarities that would be unbearable to live with. Husbands and wives are a matter of taste just as much as onions, and if you like 'em you like 'em, and, if you don't, you hate 'em.

But you are right about its being a tragedy that those who are predestined mates so often do not meet. In every community there are lonely men and women who have never married because they have never found anyone who fits into their lives. It is all very sad, but I do not know what can be done about it.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: Several months ago my husband's father died, leaving his widow and a son of 24. The mother has broken up her home and gone to live with a sister. The son is lazy and has not worked for years, not because he couldn't get a job, but because he preferred to sleep until noon, or play tennis or enjoy himself otherwise all afternoon.

Now he has just started to work and, of course, is getting a small salary, and my husband insists that I take him into our home, which would involve my getting six meals daily for him as his meals do not coincide with ours, and doing his washing. We would also have to take a much larger apartment in an unheated house. I have told my husband that I will be willing to help his brother financially to live at the Y, which would be less expensive than having him live with us. I have worked hard and do work hard to help my husband, but this putting more work on me is more than I can stand. What shall I do?

WIFE

ANSWER: Stick to your determination not to let your brother-in-law come to live with you, for if once you let him get his foot in the door you will never get it out, and you will spend the balance of your life toiling to support a lazy male parasite. And there is no virtue in that. You ca ntell your husband that he is doing his brother a deadly harm instead of a kindness in encouraging him in his loafing. Tell him that now is the crisis of his brother's life and that unless he forces him into stand alone he will never do it.

No man has a right to sacrifice his wife to his family. She should come first with him, and if he doesn't care enough for her to feel that way about her, she has to protect herself. So whatever you do, don't let brother-in-law settle down on you. Give him just as little money as he can possibly live on and force him to fend for himself. That will make a man of him if anything can.

DEAR MISS DIX: What would you do if you were married to a man who rarely laughs?

A. L. B.

ANSWER: I should regret his lack of sense or humor, because life is so much easier to bear if you get a slant on the funny side of things. But if all that was the matter with him was that he didn't guffaw over everything, I shouldn't let that worry me.

Believe me, my dear, there are worse things than being married to a man who doesn't laugh. You might be married to one who laughs too much or laughs at the wrong things. Or you might be married to a village cut-up, and then you would have something really to cry about.

RICH CREAMY FUDGE, with or without nutmeats, is easy to make if the instructions in the Candy Book are followed.

6—In Memoriams

BUGG—In loving memory of Mrs. Agnes Bugg, who passed away October 24th, 1948.
Oh, what would I give to clasp her hand,
Her dear kind face to see,
To hear her voice, to see her smile
That meant so much to me.
Her spirit has fled, her suffering o'er,
At the fireside, she will join us no more.
—Sadly missed by Norman and Grace.

BURNS — Ronald George, passed away suddenly Oct. 26, 1939.
—Ever remembered by Daddy, Mommy, Beverley and John.

LATCHFORD—In loving memory of a very dear mother, Mrs. Ethel Latchford, who passed away one year ago on Oct. 21, 1949.
The depths of sorrow I cannot tell,
Of the loss of one I loved so well,
And while she sleeps a peaceful sleep
Her memory I shall always keep.
—Sadly missed and lovingly remembered by her daughter, Mrs. Grace King, Egmondville.

McLAREN—In loving remembrance of Billie McLaren, dear husband and Dad, who passed away October 26th, 1941.
—Still sadly missed by his wife and family.

PAGETT—In loving memory of a dear husband and dad, who passed away Oct. 26th, 1948.
Though lost to sight,
In memory ever dear.
—Lovingly remembered by his wife and family.

THOMPSON—In loving memory of my uncle Ned, who passed away suddenly October 26, 1949.
I do not need a special day
To bring you to my mind,
For the days I do not think of you,
Are very hard to find.
If all this world were mine to give,
I'd give it, yes, and more,
To see you Uncle Ned,
Come smiling through the door.
—Lovingly remembered by niece Ola.

THOMPSON—In loving memory of Albert E. Thompson, who passed away one year ago, Oct. 26, 1949.
Only a memory of bygone days,
And a sigh for a face unseen,
But a constant feeling that God alone
Knows just what should have been.
—Ever remembered by sister Della, Don and Jackie Jordan.

THOMPSON—In loving memory of a dear son, Albert E. Thompson, who passed away one year ago, Oct. 26, 1949.
The face I loved is now laid low,
His loving voice is still.
The hand so often clasped in mine,
Lies now in death's cold chill.
I often sit and think of him,
When I am all alone,
For memory is the only thing
That grief can call its own.
—Ever remembered by his mother.

THOMPSON—In loving memory of a dear nephew, who passed away October 26, 1949, Albert Edward Thompson (Ned).
There is a link death cannot sever,
Love and remembrance last forever,
Friends are friends if they are true,
Friends like Ned are very few.
—Sadly missed by Uncle Albert.

THOMPSON—In loving memory of our brother who passed away suddenly on Oct. 26, 1949.
He bade no one a last farewell,
He said goodbye to none;
The heavenly gates were opened wide,
A loving voice said "come."
We often sit and think of you,
The things you used to say and do;
We often wonder why, you had to die
Without a chance to say goodbye.
—Always remembered by Cecil, Mary and family.

APPROXIMATELY 5 ACRES OF Land, bordering city limits, $1,500. Telephone 24023.

A SORE THUMB
REALLY stands out. So does this attractively designed, solid brick home of nine rooms. The ground floor has a wonderful combination living and dining-room, cozy breakfast-room and a bright, modern kitchen. Upstairs are five grand bedrooms and bathroom. This sturdy home will make an excellent family home or a real revenue producer. It's hot water heated with oil, has double garage, and is situated on a wonderful lot near Sherbrooke and Aylmer. About $5,000 cash required, full price $12,900. Phone 5345.

SNOW WHITE AND NO DWARFS
WHAT a pretty home in which to have your Xmas tree this year. This oversize one-floor home will fold its arms around you and make you want to stay. All beautifully decorated, from the moment you step into the comfortable living-room, wander through the dining-room, large bedrooms and into the spacious, breathtaking kitchen, you will say, "I want it." Of course, it has modern bathroom, heavy wiring, oak floors, etc., and a basement the men will like. It's priced at $8,500 and needs about half cash. Phone 5345.

DON'T DROWN
YOUR children—buy this large 3-bedroom home, near Braidwood and Lock Sts. There's lots of elbow room in the living and dining rooms, plenty of eating space in the kitchen, and there is a huge semi-finished playroom in the basement. It's oil heating, has private drive and garage, and a good lot. We give away price is $6,700, with a low down payment. Don't be another to say I wish I had. Call now. Phone 5345.

HIT THE JACKPOT
In This Fine Duplex
SITUATED in an ideal rental location, close to transportation, near Park and McDonnel Sts. Each suite has five good size, heart-warming rooms and complete bathroom. Note these important features: rugged foundation, thoroughly insulated, good roof, the finest in hot water heating equipment, oil fired. Up-to-the-minute heavy wiring, double garage, storm windows, electric fixtures. Immediate possession of one apartment. Full price, $12,950, about half cash required. This is the place for you. Shown by appointment. Phone 5345.

THE OLD WOMAN
WHO lived in a shoe never took a look at this sturdy brick home. There she could spread out to her heart's content, glorious big rooms, there's 3 down and 4 bedrooms upstairs, the kitchen is modern, there's a garage and a double lot. There is no bathroom in, but sewers and water are on the street and, say it's only $6,400, with a LOW down payment. Hurry and see it. Phone 5345.

Comic Books Replace Nursery Rhymes

TORONTO, Oct. 26 (CP)—Roberta Langtry, specialist in dealing with school children who have speech defects or reading problems, says comic books are ousting nursery rhymes in the entertainment of children — and the change is producing bad results in the classrooms.

She found in a recent survey that children nowadays have little sense of rhyme and rhythm, and it takes longer than it used to for them to learn to read. They cannot recite traditional nursery rhymes, and often find it impossible to complete a rhyming sentence such as "his little sled is green and ..."

Mrs. Langtry, who believes her survey in suburban East York revealed a condition that is general, in an interview yesterday blamed parents for the situation. She said that instead of teaching little Johnny nursery rhymes, a parent will give the child a comic book and let him amuse himself.

2 Jailed Two Years Conspiring Rustling

CORNWALL, Oct. 26 (CP)—Israel Lanoue, 23, and Rodger Lauzon, 24, both of Cornwall, yesterday were sentenced to two years less a day in reformatory after they were convicted of conspiring to steal cattle. Both previously had received concurrent terms for cattle theft.

James Brown, 21, of Williamstown was sentenced to three months on a charge of conspiring to steal cattle.

Police believe the arrest of the three men smashed a cattle rustling ring which operated in Stormot, Dundas and Glengarry counties during the past summer.

Native Composers Develop Music In African Bands

JOHANNESBURG — (CP) — Symbolic of the speed with which African natives are adjusting themselves to city life is the rise in a single decade of a "Tin Pan Alley" in the native townships and squatters' camps of the Witwatersrand.

Before the last war there were practically no modern African bands. Instruments were far too dear and there were no big jazz-loving communities which could support professional musicians.

Today there are five leading and many smaller African bands on the rand. They are much in demand. They have engagements at African night clubs and at location dances. They use such names as "Maniacs," Blackbirds," "Flying Fortresses" and "Sentimental Sentimentalists."

There are about 10 men to each band—saxophone players, trombonists, pianists, violinists, 'cellists, drummers, singers, trumpeters and so on. Leaders have little function beyond beating time—their bandsmen are strong individualists and each is inclined to play his instrument according to his own lights. Criticism is hotly resented and walk-outs are not uncommon.

Native Composers

Several African composers and arrangers have sprung up and cater for the growing demand for music for dancing, singing, recording and broadcasting.

The African of today enjoys modern jazz, particularly if he is a city slicker type. The more conservative stick to the traditional airs handed down from father to son through the generations. The songs of the crops, of sowing, and reaping are sung by the Africans in the towns as they were in the fields.

But a new music, African jazz, is growing out of the conflict between the old way of life in the country and in the urban areas. It was explained by Percy Hlubi, a 40-year-old African radio announcer, who broadcasts in eight languages and has taken the African bands under his wing.

The new dance music is music in the traditional style with a very strong European influence. It appeals particularly to the semi-civilized African, the African born in the country but living in the towns today. He is torn between two ways of life and the Mbubi music is expressive of his confusion.

It is called mbubi, meaning lion, because the music is sprinkled with sudden crescendoes resembling the roaring of a lion. This lion roar is found in all African music. Its greatest difference from traditional music is the change from the barbaric-sounding five-tone scale to the tonic solfa, introduced to Africa by the missionaries.

In mbubi the old and new combine in a fascinating counterpoint of the short, monotonous, rythmic African themes typical of traditional African music, and sweet, free-running melodies showing a marked missionary influence. The themes are original and catchy.

PIERRE L. GUINAND
Swiss Glass Maker

The invention of glass was probably accidental. A very hot fire will fuse ordinary sand (silica) into a crude kind of glass; a fact which must have been noticed around many a primitive camp fire. By degrees, it was learned that the addition of potash or soda, and other materials such as lead, zinc, lime, barium, etc., would improve the product.

Early glass, being precious, was mostly used for vases and utensils, and centuries before the common people could afford glass windows.

But optical science demanded better glass—glass free from those lines and veins called striae—glass such as had never yet been made. To Pierre L. Guinand, Swiss glass maker, goes the credit of discovering the basic secrets for producing this new kind of glass. Guinand was engaged in his new processes from 1174 to 1805.

Following Guinand's lead, other glass makers introduced various improvements. Even today scientific research is going on to provide better eyeglasses—the best that can possibly be made.

Blames Britain For Failure To Fill Contract

OTTAWA, Oct. 26—(CP)—A government meat expert said yesterday that if Canada does not fill the terms of the 1950 Anglo-Canadian bacon contract, it would not be Canada's fault, but primarily that of the United Kingdom.

He was commenting on a statement made yesterday at Winnipeg by W. G. Coventry, British trade commissioner, who said that unless Canada can explain delays in fulfilling terms of the agreement, the U.K. will be forced to seek supplies in other countries.

The agreement calls for the shipment of 60,000,000 pounds. Up to October, only 16,000,000 pounds had been shipped. Shipments to date totalled no more than 20,000,000.

The meat expert said it still was possible that Canada would ship the remainder of the bacon and he predicted that most—if not all—of the contract will be filled.

However, if Canada failed, the fault would lie at Britain's doorstep. "A year ago, when we asked the U.K. to sign a new bacon agreement, the U.K. hedged and signified that it was not interested," the expert said. "Finally, we had to take dollars out of wheat in order to complete the bacon contract. Had we known ahead of time that Britain wanted our bacon, we would have been perhaps better prepared to supply it."

State Medicine Proves Costly In New Zealand

By J. C. GRAHAM
Canadian Press Correspondent

WELLINGTON, N.Z. — (CP) — New Zealand's "free" state medical, drug and hospital service, which has been operating since 1941, appears to have reached a critical stage. Senior officials state the ever-rising expenditure has reached a point where drastic changes may be necessary.

Dr. Duncan Cook, director of the division of clinical services, said in his annual report that increased cost of the medical service and pharmaceutical supplies has been of such magnitude as to lead to serious doubts that state medical insurance was practicable. Unless recently-introduced reforms provided remedies, the present system would have to be modified or replaced by a more readily controllable procedure. Private insurance companies, he said, had protected themselves against financial loss by limitation of policies both for the nature of the illness and its duration.

Dr. Cook showed that general medical services last year cost about $7,000,000 for less than two million people. They represented more than three individual consultations by doctors for every man, woman and child in the country. The free medicine service cost $6,130,000—nearly four prescriptions for everyone in the country.

Difficult to Check

Dr. C. A. Taylor, director of the hospitals division, said in his report that the upwards spiral of expenditure would be difficult to check so long as hospital and associated services were devoid of direct financial responsibility. One could not but feel, he said, that as with other forms of insurance an element of franchise should be retained as a safeguard and that the insured should be required to carry some of the risk.

New Zealand's state health scheme has brought high salaries to doctors operating as general practitioners. As a result there is a grave shortage of doctors for salaried posts in hospitals or as public health officers. With people flocking to all doctors for state-paid consultations, even young men just through their training can make much more in private practice than in jobs involving fixed salaries.

In an effort to check abuses of the service, the government, in consultation with the medical profession, has recently brought in new regulations intended as a check on doctors and patients alike. Disciplinary committees have been set up and on their recommendation the minister of health can exclude from the service doctors found to be paying excessive numbers of visits to patients (and recovering fees from the state for each visit), conducting an unduly large number of consultations, or revealing negligence in their duties.

Provision is also made barring patients from making unnecessary demands on doctors, but how this is to be enforced has not been make clear.

As a check on the free medicine scheme, inspectors have recently been visiting homes to find whether druggists have been supplying the articles for which they claim payment from the state.

Good Reading Habits Aid To Good English

TORONTO, Oct. 26—(CP)—Canadian engineers can supplement the scientific side of their training by reading good books and pursuing worthwhile hobbies, principal R. C. Wallace of Queen's University at Kingston said last night.

Some non-engineers have complained that scientists are "culturally uneducated," he told the 71st annual dinner of the University of Toronto's engineering school. But he saw science itself as a culture.

"A good command of English is important to the Canadian engineer. It is in this that good reading habits show.

Caramel Cream Squares

2¼ cups sugar, 1 cup milk, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 cup nutmeats, chopped; 1 teaspoon vanilla extract.

Melt ¼ cup of the sugar in a small saucepan and stir until dark brown in color. Combine the remaining sugar and the milk and heat to the boiling point. Then slowly add the melted sugar, stirring constantly. Cook to 240 degrees, or to soft-ball stage. Add the butter, nuts and vanilla extract, remove from heat until creamy. Pour into buttered pans, and when cool cut in squares.

BP Women's Club Gives $350 To New Hospital Furnishing

Climaxing a series of teas, bridges and draws, the Peterborough Business and Professional Women's Club on Wednesday afternoon, at the annual autumn tea had a cheque in the amount of $350. to present to the Civic Hospital Women's Auxiliary for furnishings in the new hospital.

The members are justly very proud of this achievement since theirs is not a service club. They have been aided by the citizens who have given such fine support to their activities, as at this tea when more than 200 attended. The president Mrs. Jean Watson presented the cheque to Mrs. E. C. Braund, president of the Auxiliary, who was a tea guest.

Another welfare effort of this club has been the sending of overseas boxes throughout the war years and as long as the need was great. Mostly they were sent to sister clubs in England for distribution.

The treasury has today been handsomely re-imbursed with the proceeds from Wednesday's tea, including $78. realized from the sale of draw tickets on a custom-made necklace and earring set which was donated. The jewelry, valued at $40., was won by Miss Shirley Crouter of the Royal Bank staff, when a tea guest, Mrs. H. Dulmage, drew her ticket.

A hamper of groceries also made a tidy sum for the club through sale of raffle tickets and the winner of this was Mrs. Enith Scott, Park St., her ticket drawn by Miss M. English who was presiding at the tea table at the closing hour.

Floral decorations in the YW tea room were particularly lovely on this occasion, their arrangement the work of Miss Florence Hutchinson.

Bronze and yellow pom pom 'mums in the table bouquet were attractively offset by the yellow damask cloth, the centrepiece ringed with coloured autumn leaves and flanked with trios of matching tapers. Cascading bouquets on mantel and piano of baby 'mums in deeper shades.

Assisting Mrs. Watson to receive was the vice-president Miss Mary E. Dawson. Miss Hutchinson, Miss I. Howarth and Miss J. Martin attended the treasurer's table in turn.

Miss Vera Heyes, general convener of this tea, also presided at the tea table for a time and others pouring were Mrs. Lyda Telford, Miss Sarah Eastwood, Miss Ann Jamieson and Miss English.

Members serving the guests included Misses J. Horsfield, V. Foote, E. Bennett, A. Deyell, A. Bowles, H. Perrin, L. Woods, Mrs. C. Blewett, Miss M. Stone, Mrs. B. Scott, Misses M. Henderson, L. Burgess, A. Dixon, A. Hardwicke, and F. Kerr. Arranging and replenishing of supplies was looked after by Misses M. Edwards, M. White, M. Easson and J. Gillespie.

Miss Helen Lytle took charge of the proceeds from the draws, and Mrs. L. Yeotes was in charge of the hamper tickets.

Home cooking and jellies were sold by Miss Mabel White, Mrs. Edna Miller and Mrs. H. Dunford and Misses Jane Saunders and M. Moore attended a table of home-made candy.

King's Throne Speech Praises British, Canada

LONDON, Oct. 26.—(CP). — The speech from the throne at prorogation of Parliament today commended the British people's sacrifices for the nation's economic recovery.

It cited "generous help" from Canada and the United States as contributing to the upturn in Britain's fortunes.

The speech, read by the King, singled Canada out for a special tribute for helping train RAF pilots and navigators in RCAF establishments.

Helped Training

It said "this measure of co-operation which will materially help to advance training, has been warmly welcomed by my Government in the United Kingdom.

The speech noted that increased production at home had been "most satisfactory."

"At the same time," it added, "there has been continued restraint in claims for increases in personal incomes of all kinds.

"The efforts which my people have made, not without sacrifices, have enabled us to maintain a healthy internal economy and to achieve a great improvement in the balance of overseas trade, notably with North America.

The speech referred to Commonwealth meetings in Australia and London on southeast Asia problems, and said that Commonwealth ministers' discussions in London had "afforded a valuable opportunity for an exchange of views on general trade and economic questions."

The speech said Britain's forces "continue to assist the peoples of Malaya and the civil administration in their task of restoring law and order."

It recalled "important steps" taken by the British Government for peace and stability in the Middle East and spoke of the Council of Europe as a "new and important development in international co-operation."

The speech welcomed the accession of the German federal republic as an associate member of the Council of Europe and the conclusions reached on Germany by the foreign ministers meeting in New York last month.

Milk Producers Paid $4.20 Cwt.

TORONTO, Oct. 26 (CP)—An arbitration board today set the price of milk for Toronto producers at $4.20 a hundredweight, an increase of 2½ cents.

The producers were originally given a 10-cent increase by the sociation when the retail price was raised one cent to 20 cents a quart. They asked for a further increase, and the arbitration board was appointed to hear their appeal.

J. E. Houck, secretary-manager of the Distributors' Association, said he did not anticipate any further increase in consumer milk prices "unless labor is granted more than the $3 weekly increase we have voluntarily given."

Following the retail boost, dairy employees were given a $3 weekly raise. They expressed dissatisfaction with this and asked a $4 increase. A conciliation board is expected to hear the case in a few weeks.

Two Distillers Buy 3,000 Tons Grapes

TORONTO, Oct. 26 (CP)—The Ontario farm marketing board said today that two distilling firms (Hiram Walker and Sons Ltd., and Distillers Corporation-Seagrams Ltd.) have agreed to buy 3,000 tons of the record Ontario grape crop.

Lack of market for the crop, estimated at 45,000 tons, caused "a great deal of concern," the board said. This arrangement should enable growers "to dispose of the remainder of the crop."

The board said the two firms arranged to buy the grapes at $35 a ton on the present basis of excise tax for making brandy.

Delivery will begin Oct. 30. Growers may take their grapes to Bright's Wines Ltd., Niagara Falls; the Jordan Wine Co., Jordan; or Danforth Wines, Ltd., St. Catharines. These will crush and press the grapes, delivering the concentrate to the distilleries.

Body Recovered

HULL, Que., Oct. 26 — (CP).—The body of Wilfred Costello, 55, of Pakenham, Que., was recovered yesterday by Hull police from Brewery Creek, on the western outskirts of the city. Mr. Costello had been missing from his home for four or five days.

Manitoba Growers Will Net Two Million From Sugar Beets

WINNIPEG —(CP)— A huge processing plant in suburban Fort Garry is working on a 24-hour schedule to turn 150,000 tons of sugar beets into commercial sugar.

The crop will net Manitoba growers about $2,100,000. The company (Manitoba Sugar) has about 20,000 acres of beets under contract this year, its 11th year of operation.

Sugar produced at the plant supplies much of Manitoba's requirements. The factory operates about three months each year.

An average of 12 hours is required from the time beets are carried into the plant by an underground flume to the stage where white sugar crystals are transferred to a warehouse for bagging and shipment.

The process involves removal of all foreign substances and impurities, slicing, purification and evaporation of water content.

Final Stage

Vacuum boiling precedes the final stage in which centrifugal machines—operating at 1,600 revolutions a minute—spin away the syrups, leaving white sugar adhering to an inner screen.

The processing is a continuous operation, marked throughout by rigid laboratory tests.

Heavy rain and snow delayed harvesting this season and temporary interrupted the essential steady flow of beets, by train and truck.

During the growing season, 2,500 men are employed in the fields of southern Manitoba. Four hundred workers man the factory, exclusive of a year-round staff which includes executives, office help, and field, warehouse, and maintenance men.

Sugar output from this year's crop is expected to be about 35,000,000 pounds of sugar—about the same as last year. This does not take into account various by-products, such as 15,000 tons of molasses and dried beet pulp. These find a ready outlet as cattle feed and in industry.

277,113 Buyers Savings Bonds

OTTAWA, Oct. 26 — (CP) — The Bank of Canada reported today that in the first eight days of Canada's Savings Bonds campaign 277,113 purchasers have bought $74,831,800 worth of bonds.

The total combines the results of sales through the payroll savings plan for eight days and reports of sales to the general public for five days. On the average, applications are for larger amounts this year.

Sales through the payroll savings plan for the first eight days of the campaign stand at $57,614,000 compared with $59,097,350 for the same period last year. The average purchase per employee so far is $235.58 compared with $222.28 for the entire campaign last year.

The number of individual applications from employees is now 244,560 compared with 264,130 a year ago.

With the campaign approximately at the half-way point, various regions are closely grouped. The Prairie region is slightly ahead at 53.09 per cent of last year's sales, followed by Quebec with 53.04 per cent. Following are British Columbia with 51.33 per cent and the Atlantic region with 45.72 per cent and Ontario with 44.31 per cent.

New York Baffles Scott Leaves His Spirit Broken

By JACK SCOTT

We hauled our home on wheels through New York City today. I'm an older man for it. You've heard of people whose hair turned color overnight? Call me "Whitey."

All the trailer tourists we'd met advised us to give New York a wide berth. We laughed gaily at this and plotted a course on a large and detailed map of the city.

It looked so neat and so simple on the map. We'd simply follow the route down the Hudson, zip across the George Washington Bridge, zoot through Jersey City and roll merrily on southward to de lan' of cotton. We did, in fact, follow this route. But when we emerged from the ordeal we were blazed of eye and broken in spirit.

First Mistake

Our first mistake was in abandoning the map and taking one of the "parkways." It was like being sucked into a vacuum cleaner. Here was a magnificent six-lane highway leading directly to George Washington Bridge. When we began to roll smoothly along it we chuckled and smirked at each other. We did, at any rate until a large sign loomed up bearing the sad news that this superhighway was for automobiles only and positively closed to trucks, taxis, hearses and trailers.

I turned off at the first exit and here we were in the heart of Yonkers. As far as my sense of direction was concerned we could have been in the heart of the Belgian Congo.

Our poor old lumbering tin box was embedded in platoons of traffic. Life suddenly became a mad montage of red and green lights, barking klaxons, shrill whistles of traffic cops, hordes of citizens lining the curbs looking at us with open curiosity.

And well they might. The two kids had climbed in the front and were gazing out with terror and delight. Brown Eyes was frantically unpleating maps and shouting directions. I, alone, maintained an appearance of savoir faire, puffing fiercely on two cigarettes.

In their order of appearance the first crises were the cop and the "El."

I defy any logical man to interpret the hand signals of a New York traffic cop. This one was the large, ferocious type. He stood directly in my path, yet seemed to be beckoning me to come on. I crept up on him until the radiator was nuzzling for a lump of sugar in his pocket. With each inch the cop waved more frantically. His head seemed to settle down between his shoulder blades. I couldn't understand why he didn't step aside.

"Where Ya Going?"

"Where d'ya think you're goin'?" he bellowed. He put his whistle between his lips and gave several penetrating blasts that stopped all traffic.

I dimpled wildly at him through the window. This seemed to infuriate the man even more.

"BACK UP!" he commanded.

Now, if you've ever tried to back a trailer you know how confusing life can sometimes be. I got into reverse. The caravan began swinging away out to one side. There was a great din of horns somewhere to the rear. Glancing forward I saw that the cop's head had now almost completely disappeared between his shoulders.

He strode up to the window. Slowly, in a voice just above a whisper he grated, "Get this thing outta here! Fast!" I blinked at him to show my Canadian independence and we crawled away.

In a Maze

Almost immediately we were confronted by the maze of posts and girders of the elevated railway. Trains crashed along overhead and what seemed to be a solid wall of traffic rushed at us from the shadow of this overgrown Meccano set.

I got into low gear, gave her the gas and we began weaving slowly through the posts. All three females were now shouting instructions and warnings. In defiance, I began to pick up speed. The onrushing traffic parted as if it had been combed aside. "Geronimo!" I cried in a hoarse whisper. My wife buried her face in her hands.

We trundled out from under the tracks and there was the sign: George Washington Bridge." For a moment I thought we were safe. But I had reckoned without the Holland Tunnel. We were being drawn inexorably to the Holland Tunnel!

Find the Lane

From the moment you hit that great bridge the mystery is to find your right lane. The traffic sweeps along at an incredible rate of speed and one must edge his way into whichever lane will get him to his destination. With a two-ton trailer dragging at your britches this is something of a feat. But if you miss that funnel you could easily end up in Michigan.

We were headed for Washington, DC, but each time we peeled off from the main flow of traffic brought us closer to the Holland Tunnel. I had vision of the headlines: Trailer Stuck in Holland Tunnel, or Lost Caravan Collapses in Times Square:

This anxiety was deepened by the occupants of the cars flowing past us on all sides. Everyone seemed so sure of where they were going! Only we yokels dragging this strange tin box were lost, forever lost, speeding along to God knows where. Kalamazoo, perhaps. Or Terre Haute.

Again another lane and again the great signs: "Holland Tunnel Ahead." Brown Eyes begun eating the maps. The children huddled in the back seat.

Then we were soaring over the tops of buildings and factories, racing along the Pulaski Skyway in a traffic tidal wave, five abreast with all these confident-faced natives, some glancing at us with what I could only interpret as disdain. "Pipe the peasants," their eyes seemed to say. "Doomed to die in the Holland Tunnel."

And then, suddenly, the signs split. The Holland Tunnel was that way, Washington this. I swung over into the right lane, nearly decapitating a week's output of the Detroit factories. The traffic had thinned suddenly from over a million to only a hundred thousand cars. The road ahead was straight and with a mere four lanes.

We began looking for a new sign. One that said "Bar."

Canada, U.S. May Stop Polluting Lakes

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26 (AP)—A Canadian-United States joint commission has recommended measures to prevent pollution in "boundary waters" connecting Lakes Superior, Huron, Erie and Ontario, the State Department announced Wednesday.

The commission submitted its proposal to the Canadian and U.S. governments Oct. 11, the announcement said.

The commission estimates a total cost of $125,000,000 over a number of years to "obtain or maintain the specific water quality" objectives.

Proposals

The proposal calls for:

1. Adoption by Canada and the U.S. of "specific objectives for boundary waters quality control" as the criteria for enforcing the Boundary Waters Treaty of 1909. In that treaty the two countries agreed that boundary waters "shall not be polluted . . . to the injury of health or property."

2. Provision for "continuing supervision" of the waters. This would be done by "boards of control" and local authorities charged with enforcing pollution control laws.

The commission held hearings in five boundary-waters cities—Sault Ste. Marie, Windsor and Niagara Falls, in Ontario, and Detroit, Mich., and Buffalo, N.Y. It also analyzed waste disposal practices of 60 towns, 100 industries and ships navigating the polluted waters.

Had Rheumatic Pains, Headaches Dizzy Spells! Praises Syntona

Condition Followed Years Of Suffering With Stomach Gas, Acidity and Constipation. "Felt Better After First Few Doses," He Says.

MR. JOSEPH CLANCEY

"Syntona certainly has been a wonderful tonic for me, and I advise anyone who is feeling rundown this time of year to take it," said Mr. Joseph Clancey, Base Line Road, London Ontario, in a recent report:

"For years I had been troubled with acid indigestion, gastritis and constipation. The gas pressed up into my chest and caused a palpitation and a smothering feeling. I suffered with frequent headaches and dizzy spells. Later, pains set into my back and limbs and I became fatigued and rundown.

"I had to be constantly taking laxatives and I tried so many medicines and liniments for my stomach and rheumantic pains, that I was discouraged. Then, one day I read about Syntona helping people with similar ailments, so I got some. Before I had finished the first bottle I could tell it was helping my stomach, and in a few weeks I could eat foods that I didn't dare eat before. I got relief from the headaches and rheumatic pains. I began to sleep better and my whole system felt so much better. Now, when my friends ask me how I keep so fit, I am glad to tell them that I use Syntona whenever I feel the need of a good tonic."

Syntona is made from the pure extracts of 12 of Nature's Finest Herbs, Roots and Barks. It acts on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. Aid in elimination of excess acids and poisonous waste matter and promotes better assimilation of food for strength and energy.

Syntona is sold and recommended in Peterborough at Elliott's Drug Store.—(Advt.)

Red Troops Check U.K., Australians' Advance to Border

SEOUL, Oct. 27—(AP)—Thinly-clad Allied troops trudged over snow and tortuous summits tonight toward Manchuria's Communist frontier. The forward troop movements was from the Korean west across the shiny peninsula to the Sea of Japan. The shivering troops braved wintry blasts but met few enemy troops near the border.

Behind the forward-most troops, however, Communist forces put up a fight. The Commonwealth 27th Brigade, made up of British and Australian troops, and the U.S. 24th Infantry Division were preparing to lunge toward the Manchurian border on the far western side of the peninsula. Heavy resistance from Communist troops today checked the Commonwealth brigade's thrust.

A U.S. Eighth Army spokesman here said the South Korean (ROK) 1st Division had beaten back an attack by a Red force containing "Chinese and North Korean elements" 50 miles south of the border.

The battle raged all day around Unsan, directly south of Chosan, the only Manchurian border point reached by United Nations troops.

At nightfall a U.S. Eighth Army headquarters spokesman said the South Korean 1st Division had beaten back the attacking Reds and driven them west of the town.

At Chosan, where the ROK 6th Division was perched on the banks of the Yalu River opposite Manchuria, not an enemy soldier was visible. The river forms the boundary.

Hungry Reds

But hungry bands of by-passed North Koreans popped up in scattered areas.

Two battalions of US and ROK Marines were rushed south of Wonsan port to stop a marauding band of 4,000 Reds striking from the Diamond Mountains. That is 30 to 40 miles from the big east coast port where US Marines and infantry and ROK Marines began landing Thursday.

An American Marine battalion from Wonsan landed at Kojo. A battalion of South Korean Marines landed farther south to sping a trap around the terrorists, led by a Red Korean brigadier-General.

More Behind

A US 10th Army spokesman at Wonsan said the situation was not serious, but added:

"There are more North Koreans behind us than ahead of us. They

US, France, UK Investigate Lost Scientist

HARWELL, England, Oct. 27 (CP).—Britain called in United States and French secret service men for conferences today on the search for Professor Bruno Pontecorva, missing atom scientist whose knowledge could aid an enemy power.

Agents of the three nations met in a locked room at Britain's atomic research station here, 60 miles west of London, to discuss the case of Pontecorvo, who vanished with his wife and three children in Finland Sept. 2.

The talks were believed to centre around these points:

Extent and nature of the secret information Pontecorvo could have carried out of the country.

A check-up of his movements and the people he knows both in Britain and across the continent.

Methods of finding him.

Most British newspapers and government officials suspect Pontecorvo is in Russia. He held a position of trust and responsibility in Harwell.

The missing atom man specialized in the study of cosmic rays, a field related to atom research which has greatly interested both American and Russian researchers.

British newspapers have reported Pontecorvo has been seen, or has had dates, in Spain, Italy, Sweden, France since he vanished.

Perhaps Lured

The authorities here are known to have investigated the theory that the scientist may have been lured by agents to a foreign country. That is because they have found signs to suggest he and his family had every intention of returning to this country after their vacation.

Prime Minister Attlee is personally watching the progress of the investigation. He is expected soon to take action to shake-up the whole structure and scope of the nation's security services. Control of the services presently is split among a number of different government departments.

Meanest Man Leaves Fortune

EAST RETFORD, England, Oct. 27 (Reuters)—Sidney Herbert Clay, six times mayor of this town, amassed a fortune of £125,000 (about $368,000) and left several legacies to charity when he died.

But, said a high court judge, he helped build this fortune by "a terrible meanness" at home, where he kept his wife and children on a strict budget while he lived as a man of means.

The judge then increased Clay's £500-a-year-legacy to his widow by £890 a year and a £150 annual legacy to his daughter by £500 yearly.

Clay's 74-year-old widow said last night that her husband "was always smartly dressed when he went out."

"But for the past few years, when he was at home he always changed into his dead brother's clothes, which were much too large for him," she said.

"Whenever he travelled by train, he went first class. The family, on the rare occasions they went anywhere, travelled separately and went third.

"Only once in 50 years could I prevail on him to have the house decorated."

While he "spent money like water outside the home and gave thousands to charities," his family never had enough to live on.

Neighbour Curious Saves Woman's Life

TORONTO, Oct. 27—(CP)—Curiosity of a fellow-tenant was credited today with saving Mrs. Edith Armour, 21, from asphyxiation. R. Weston heard Mrs. Armours' alarm clock ring and when there was no sound of rising went to her room. He found her unconscious from the fumes of a defective gas stove.

600 Flee As 3 Tons Of Molten Metal Spill

ST. FLORIAN, Austria, Oct. 27—(Reuters)—Six hundred persons fled to safety yesterday when three tons of molton metal spilled from a mould and flowed toward a stand erected for spectators at a bell-casting ceremony.

The stream of metal spread and set fire to wooden beams supporting the stand. Rescuers working in dense clouds of smoke led the guests out of harm's way. No one was hurt.

The bell, largest cast in Austria since 1711, was intended for St. Stephen's Cathedral in Vienna.

PC's May Quit Coalition

Manitoba Leader Will Ask Party To Pull Out

BRANDON, Man., Oct. 27 (CP)—Errick F. Willis today asked the Progressive Conservative party to withdraw from Manitoba's 20-year coalition government and fight to give the province its first Conservative administration in 35 years.

Mr. Willis, speaking as the party's two-day provincial convention opened, turned in his resignation as provincial leader and announced he would stand for re-election later in the day on an anti-coalition platform.

"This convention will long be remembered in the political history of our party in Manitoba," said Mr. Willis, who resigned from Premier Douglas L. Campbell's coalition cabinet last August.

"It will be recorded that by your action today you either brought about the doom of our party in the field of provincial politics, or that you gave it a new lease on life and a solid foundation for future greatness."

The Manitoba government is dominated by Premier Campbell's Liberal-Progressive party. Mr. Willis said the Progressive Conservatives had lived up to their responsibilities in the coalition but that the Liberals had not kept faith. In an obvious reference to some members of the party who still support coalition, Mr. Willis said:

"Anyone using the naming of coalition as applied to the government of Manitoba is doing so quite incorrectly and in error, and without any foundation in fact."

Nearly 600 Progressive Conservatives attended the convention.

Economic Pact Signed By Two Countries Sets Common Defence Goal

US Ban On Buildings For Amusement First Move To Conserve, Will Probably Be Copied By Canadians

By HAROLD MORRISON

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27—(CP)—The controls that are launched in the United States today may end up in Canada tomorrow. That, in a nutshell, is the policy that will be followed under the new Canada-United States economic pact, embracing six economic principles, formally agreed to in a historic signing ceremony yesterday. All of the controls in the cards for both countries—controls on use of scarce materials for non-essential production—are keyed to a common blueprint for joint defence planning.

Thus, with the United States yesterday proclaiming a ban on amusement construction, affecting 44 types from football stadia to pool halls, it appears likely that Canada will soon follow suit.

Trade Minister Howe of Canada, who witnessed the signing ceremony in the U.S. State Department, indicated that in a statement to reporters.

It was only the "end result" that had to be similar in both countries. How Canada achieved that result was a matter to decide by consultation between the Dominion and the United States.

If Canada found that amusement construction was using steel that should rightly go into defence programs, that amusement construction soon would be halted.

Metals Scarce

Steel, like nickel and aluminum, said Howe, are gradually becoming scarce items in Canada. Some industries, such as nickel and steel, are voluntarily rationing supplies to buyers.

If this voluntary rationing proved insufficient to provide enough supplies for defence production, then compulsory controls would follow.

(American manufacturers were told yesterday that a tentative plan under consideration calls for a cut of 20 to 30 per cent in the non-military use of aluminum, copper and nickel.)

In the same way, Howe said, if the United States decides to curb automobile production to conserve steel, it would indicate that the supplies of steel in both Canada and the United States were inadequate for defence production. In that case, Canada would likely follow the U.S. example and also cut automobile production.

Fewer Controls

Howe told reporters that it must be remembered that Canada is a far more compact country than the U.S. and scarcities do not strike as rapidly in Canada. Therefore controls were not so

Convicted Red, Dr. Boyer Missing, Hunted

TORONTO, Oct. 27 — (CP).—The Star says today in an Ottawa dispatch that Dr. Raymond Boyer, who served two years for espionage, "has disappeared, and is being sought by Department of Justice officials."

The newspaper said it is informed that all ships leaving Canadian ports are being checked and that immigration officers today went over the steamship Empress of Canada from stem to stern. The 43-year-old scientist's Montreal house is deserted, the Star says.

The paper adds that it was reported in Ottawa that Boyer recently obtained a Finnish visa for his passport and that it is believed he may be heading for Russia.

Boyer was convicted of giving Russia information on RDX explosive. He was released from penitentiary in July, four or five months before his sentence was due to expire.

Following his arrest during the Russian spy ring investigations in Canada in 1946, RCMP agents found $1,000,000 worth of negotiable securities in sofety deposit boxes belonging to him in Montreal.

Union Members Top 1,000,000

OTTAWA, Oct. 27 (CP). — Union membership in Canada in 1949 went past the 1,000,000 mark for the first time, the Labor Gazette reports in its current issue.

Membership of 1,005,639 reported to the Labor Department was almost three times the pre-war high according to the Gazette, official publication of the department.

In 1948 the membership was 977,594—the previous high. The pre-war peak was 383,492 in 1937.

Among the central labor bodies, the largest membership was in the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, which had 459,068 members in 2,865 locals.

The younger Canadian Congress of Labor was shown with 301,729 members in 1,175 locals.

In third place was Quebec's Canadian and Catholic Confederation of Labor, listed as having 80,089 members in 424 locals.

Cavan Farmer Assaulted

FRASERVILLE, Oct. 27 — (ENS)—Struck over the head with an iron bar, Glen Bothwell, 20, a Cavan township farmer, is in St. Joseph's hospital today with serious head injuries. Motive for the attack is unknown.

Hospital authorities say the full extent of his injuries have not been determined; he is only conscious part of the time and provincial police have not been able to get a coherent account of the assault.

About 3 a.m. today two men came to the Bothwell farmhome, on the 9th concession of Cavan, nine miles southwest of Peterborough, and asked for some gasoline.

Bothwell went out to the driving shed, about 50 feet from the house, presumably to get some gasoline from the tractor. He was then attacked and struck with an iron bar.

Mrs. Ruby Bothwell, Glen's mother, heard him climb the verandah about 10 minutes after he left the house. She went to the door and found him bleeding and in a dazed condition. Once inside the house he collapsed and was taken to hospital, unconscious.

There was no indication he had been robbed and provincial police are at a loss for a motive. There have been no arrests.

Trapper Dies Woman Unable To Stop Blood

LATCHFORD, Ont., Oct. 27 (CP)—A trapper died in a lonely bush cabin near here Wednesday despite efforts of a woman companion to stem the flow of blood from an accidentally-inflicted gunshot wound in his left arm.

The story came to light today when provincial police set out from nearby Haileybury to take out the body of Jack Adair, 36-year-old trapper, from his cabin on isolated Lady Evelyn Lake, some 70 miles north of North Bay.

Routine Call

Lands department officers said they first learned of the accident when they called at the cabin Thursday during a routine inspection tour of the area.

Mrs. Lola Shawera of Latchford told them she and Adair went duck hunting in Adair's canoe Tuesday. While Adair was reaching for his shotgun, the weapon was accidentally discharged. Adair took the full force of the blast in his arm.

Paddles Canoe

Bleeding profusely, he paddled to shore, where he helped Mrs. Shawera applied a tourniquet. But the tourniquet and crude bedsheet bandages were insufficient to stop the bleeding.

Mrs. Shawera said that, as a signal, she placed a tent on the roof of the cabin. No planes came by.

She tried to build a fire outside the cabin to attract the attention of forest rangers to Adair's plight. The fire would not burn, because all the sticks and brush she could find had been soaked by recent rains.

Adair lapsed into unconsciousness. He died Wednesday, nearly 24 hours after the shooting.

Failure!

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C., Oct. 27—(CP)—Harold G. Kristjanson flunked his driving examination yesterday. He drove Inspector H. H. Fehner through a plate glass window of the Motor Vehicle Licence building.

India Surprised By Tibet Attack

NEW DELHI, India, Oct 27—(AP)—India had asked its ambassador in Peiping, capital of Communist China, to convey his government's "surprise and regret" that units of the Chinese army have been directed to advance into Tibet, the foreign ministry announced today.

A communique issued by the ministry said India's government "read with considerable concern" the invasion directive and announced in Peiping Tuesday. Since then reports from Calcutta and various Communist capitals said Chinese Communist troops have crossed the Tibetan frontier on the road to Lhasa, Tibet's capital.

The foreign ministry statement added its views on the matter also have been communicated to the Chinese embassy here.

No Reports

A spokesman for the ministry said the government has not yet received reports from its representatives at Peiping and Lhasa. He added that further government action awaits receipt of those reports.

There was considerable speculation here on Prime Minister Nehru's personal reaction to any Chinese invasion order.

He was the first to recognize the Communist regime in China and has constantly urged Red China's admission to the United Nations.

Flies 1,376 Miles To Deliver Keys Home

LONDON, Oct. 27 — (AP) — Able Seaman C. Templer flew home from Malta—1,376 miles—last night to bring his mother the keys to the front door.

Mrs. Bella Templer had been working in Israel and her son on the Mediterranean, aboard a minesweeper. The son had the only keys to their house here.

Two days ago Mrs. Templer decided unexpectedly to fly home. She cabled her boy. To higher authorities in the Royal Navy, he explained the problem of the keys. He could airmail them but could not be sure they would arrive in time. The navy granted him compassionate leave.

CCL Asks Gov't Stop Firms Profiteering

OTTAWA, Oct. 27—(CP)—The Canadian Congress of Labor called on the government today for action against unwarranted price increases and profiteering.

In a letter to Trade Minister Howe, the 360,000-member Congress said some sections of Canadian business are proposing policies of hoarding and profiteering.

It quoted an editorial from a fashion-industry publication which it said urged the industry to hoard goods now to profit by later price increases.

The editorial was from the Canadian Reporter, described as the national magazine of the fashion industry. Headed "Lay it in, friend," it advised the trade:

Take Chance

". . . the merchant who takes some part of the risk involved in buying ahead of staples will also make the most money as soon as the market moves up; and unless there's a cataclysm coming (of which no sign appears), it's simply a matter of months before you feel the first upward price pressure in every field where you may buy goods."

The editorial also said labor was shooting for higher returns and management had virtually given up the struggle to hold the price line. This added up to only one answer: "Prices must go up."

21 Plus What?

NEW YORK, Oct. 27—(AP)—Mrs. Gilford Mayes of Kellogg, Idaho, told a luncheon meeting of the National Women's Republican Club yesterday that many women don't vote because they don't want to reveal their age.

"But you actually don't have to give your age," she said, "you can always just say, '21, plus'."

Trouble Ship Docks 10 Months Late

Breakdown, Near Mutiny, Sea Battle, Typhoons Plague Tramp

By STANLEY RICH

HONG KONG, Oct. 27.—(AP).—Almost with a sigh, the trouble ship Tamara eased into the harbor today and dropped her hook.

It was the end—or near the end—of an unlucky cruise. Ten months it took her to sail from Australia. Three weeks is par.

The Tamara is a Honduran-registered ship of 1,160 tons—a tramp if ever there was one, and a ship with a temper akin to that of a king cobra.

Six Nationalities

Her 38 crew members are of six nationalities—all volatile.

Her cargo is a group of Chinese deportees from Australia, seven dogs, four cats, two monkeys and a gorilla from Borneo.

Her destination — well, anywhere there is peace and quiet.

The Tamara left Newcastle, Australia, last December for Portuguese Macoa on the south China coast. It was to be a leisurely three-week cruise.

Two days out the Tamara's temper flared. She blew a boiler tube. The Chinese all became seasick. She limped into Brisbane for repairs.

But even in port her baleful influence was felt. Three of her South American crew members fell in love with the same girl. Knives flashed.

The result: one jail and two hospital cases.

Seven weeks and several court hearings, later she put out again. More trouble.

Crew Fight

The officers and crew got into a donnybrook. Don't know what it was about.

Result: a bosun and fireman hurt badly; 12 of the crew quit.

By mid-March the Tamara was headed for Thursday Island. Then a generator shaft snapped, her coal ran low and disgruntled seamen demanded back pay.

From Thursday Island the Tamara plodded toward Makassar in the Celebes. One day she found herself in the middle of a minefield while an Indonesian naval battle raged.

With her luck, you'd think the Tamara would have had her brains blown out.

She escaped unscathed — but once outside the battle zone she blew another boiler tube and her food ran out.

By the time she reached the Celebes her coal was gone. There she took on fresh water, food and wood and headed for Borneo.

At Samarinda she loaded on the dogs, cats, monkeys and gorilla.

On her way out she got stuck on a sand bar.

Weeks later she put into Manila for food, water and repairs.

Sept. 23 she sailed for Hong Kong. Two typhoons blocked her way.

Near Mutiny

She went back to Manila. The crew was getting tired of it all. They almost mutinied.

Finally the Tamara arrived here today, 10 months late.

Everybody, including the dogs, cats, monkeys and gorilla, was for getting right off the ship.

But port authorities blocked them.

It seems there had been trouble aboard the Tamara and nobody but the captain could come ashore until things were straightened out.

50 UK Miners Escape As Fire Blocks Exit

MANCHESTER, England, Oct. 27—(Reuters)—Fifty coal miners were brought up a secondary shaft to safety today when a fire at the head of the main shaft of a mine here cut off the main exit. No one was injured.

Thousands of persons tumbled out of nearby homes in their night clothes after the glow of the fire blazing furiously in buildings at the top of the main shaft became visible.

They feared a disaster, but when they got to the mine they found the miners helping firemen to fight the blaze.

Swedish King Collapses, Tired

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Oct. 27 (Reuters) — King Gustav of Sweden, 92, collapsed at a cabinet meeting at Drottninghold Palace this morning.

A communique issued by the royal doctors later said the king was "extremely tired" and had "pronounced difficulty in breathing."

Courtiers were gravely worried about the king's condition.

The doctors reported that the king had been suffering from a cough. This had now increased and the king was having "more pronounced difficulty in breathing."

Three doctors signed the communique, issued from Drottninghold palace outside Stockholm. The communique said:

"During the past few days the king's cough has increased and he has had more pronounced difficulty in breathing.

Symptoms Worse

"Since yesterday these symptoms have become more accentuated. At the same time they have affected the actions of his heart which is rather rapid with a sometimes irregular pulse and a more difficult circulation.

The king is troubled by extreme tiredness."

King Gustav was still "tired and weak" when he retured to Stockholm last month after a vacation at his summer residence, Solliden, on Oeland Island in the Baltic.

Dr. Hjalmar Casserman, the royal physician, then said his health had deteriorated, chiefly because of increased difficulty in breathing.

In January this year King Gustav was critically ill with bronchitis and a septic throat. Crown Prince Gustaf Adolf opened parliament in his place.

Doctor's Pet Collie Found In Toronto

"Shep," a fawn and white Scotch collie, one of the most popular citizens of the village of Pontypool, was brought home from Toronto on Thursday, following a ten-day disappearance. Its owner, Dr. G. W. McNeill, has been a patient at the Peterborough Civic Hospital for the past six weeks and news of Shep's sudden departure was very disquieting to him. He offered a $100 reward for his return and since the appearance of the advertisement in the newspapers, Dr. McNeill's housekeeper, Mrs. Margaret Curtis, has received more than a dozen false phone calls from people who were anxious to collect.

Mrs. Walter Fallis, a neighbor of the doctor's in the village, noticed two men drive up to his door ten days ago and entice Shep into a car. Until Mrs. Curtis showed alarm at Shep's disappearance, she did not report the incidence. The Bowmanville detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police were notified and assisted Mrs. Curtis in following rumor leads in Oshawa, Bowmanville and Newcastle.

On Thursday morning Mrs. Maude Blantford of 108 Jones Ave., Toronto, phoned Mrs. Curtis who, in company with her daughter Mrs. Alfred Mitchell, drove to the city and located Shep tied in the basement of the Jones Ave., residence. They brought the dog home.

Who Gets Reward

Who gets the $100 reward? That is the $64 question that will probably be untangled by the Provincial Police. The main thing is that Shep is home, apparently none too worse for his dog-snatching experience. He was scrubbed and combed and will accompany Mrs. Curtis when she goes to the New Civic Hospital today to bring Dr. McNeill home.

How does the doctor feel about Shep's return home?

"I'm very very happy about the whole thing," he said over his bedside phone.

Cheap Drug Seen As Substitute For ACTH Work

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

BOSTON, Oct. 27 (AP)—Discovery that an inexpensive drug seems to act like the wonder-hormone ATCH was announced today to the American College of Surgeons.

The drug, an old one named furacin, may become a plentiful new medicine against arthritis, rheumatic fever and perhaps some kinds of cancer. Tests on humans are just starting.

Furacin is derived from furfural, a by-product in milling flour and soybeans. The new discovery is that it apparently prods the adrenal glands to produce cortisone. This prodding is what ACTH does.

From Pituitary

ACTH (adrenocorticotropic hormone) come from the pituitary gland at the base of the brain. It acts on the adrenal glands, which lie over the kidneys.

Both ACTH and cortisone bring dramatic relief from rheumatoid arthritis, knock out rheumatic fever, and have temporarily helped against some kinds of cancer.

The hormone-like action of furacin was reported by Dr. Charles E. Friedgood and Dr. Charles B. Ripstein of Maimonides Hospital and the State of University Medical Centre, New York.

They gave it to mice with sarcoma, a cancer of connective tissues. Mice ordinarily die of this cancer in 21 days. When they got furacin, they lived nearly twice as long. When given cortisone, they lived about 45 days. The cancers grew slower and some cancer cells died when either drug was given.

Helped Glands

Both cortisone and furacin made the mice's adrenal glands grow larger and become more active.

But furacin didn't help mice whose adrenal glands were taken out. This was the hint that furacin acts on and through the adrenal gland, much as ACTH does.

Cortisone and ACTH temporarily help some humans suffering from leukemia, cance of the blood, and cancer of lymphatic tissue. A few humans now are being given furacin to see what it may do to their cancers, Dr. Friedgood said.

The drug can be given by mouth, or by injections into the muscles. The only bad effect noticed so far is that it makes people nauseated, or causes vomiting. What it may do to cancers isn't known yet, but any good effects are expected to be only temporary.

Other humans soon will get furacin for rheumatoid arthritis and for rheumatic fever. If furacin works, it may become a far-cheaper drug for these diseases than the hormones, which still are scarce.

G. W. Allen To Address Chamber's Dinner

George W. Allen will be the guest speaker at the first fall Chamber of Commerce dinner on November 2.

Mr. Allen is a well-known sales and advertising counsellor. He has spoken to organizations, businessmen's groups, service clubs and institutions in Canada and the United States. His talk will include something for every retailer, industrialist, salesman and professional man in Peterborough.

After the dinner, the executive will meet to decide the best group insurance that has been offered to the Chamber of Commerce for retail and smaller businesses.

Color Is Not Pink, Orange Terra Cotta

LINDSAY, Oct. 27 —(CP)— Reeve J. C. Kingsborough said today the decoration scheme of the courthouse here isn't going to be changed—even though a judge and several lawyers object to the color of the paint.

Judge J. A. McGibbon said yesterday that the "salmon pink" courtroom "looks like a ladies' boudoir or a beverage room."

Said Reeve Kingsborough:

"The painting is finished and, as far as I know, there won't be any changes made. Anyway, the color isn't pink; it's orange terra cotta, sometimes described as a restrained red."

OBITUARIES

EMMA JANE BENDELOW

Emma Jane Bendelow, R.R. 1, Ida, died at her late residence Friday following a short illness. She was born in Cavan township, daughter of the late George Bendelow and Mary Jane Trotter and has lived a lifetime in the community north of Springville.

She leaves one brother, George Albert Bendelow at home. Miss Bendelow was a member of Fairmount United Church.

The funeral will be held Monday at 2 p.m. at the Comstock Funeral Home. The Rev. E. F. Linstead of Fairmount United Church will conduct the service. Burial will be in the Ninth Line cemetery.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, Oct. 27 (CP) — General buying of an aggressive nature came into coarse grains in early trade today on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange.

Buying included good commercial demand from eastern shippers and others. Hedging sales and other offerings were almost negligible in the October contracts, with the barley contract moving eight cents higher.

Rye moved up in sympathy with the other grains under local demand.

Advances in U.S. grains and slow movement of grains in the west were major factors in the trade.

Prices:

Oats—Oct. 1¼ higher at 89¾; Dec. 1⅛ higher at 83¾; May ⅝ higher at 79⅜.

Barley—Oct. higher at 1.46¼B; Dec. 2 higher at 1.27¾; May 1 higher at 1.20⅛.

Rye—Oct. 1⅜ higher at 1.52-⅜B; Dec. 1⅜ higher at 1.49¼A; May 1¼ higher at 1.52¼.

Flax—Oct. 3⅜ higher at 3.75-⅞B; Dec. 1⅛ higher at 3.72b; May unchanged at 3.70.

Inspections: Wheat this year 602; last year 902; cars of contract 227; oats 165-181; barley 243-167; flax 16-23; rye 14-55; other grains 2-2; total 1,042-1,330.

Canada May Follow U.S. Ban In Building

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27 (CP) —The United States government Thursday imposed a sweeping ban on all amusement construction to save materials for rearmament and Canada's Trade Minister, C. D. Howe, indicated that the Canadian government would take similar action, if necessary.

The U.S. National Production Authority forbade, as of midnight last night, the start of construction on 44 types of construction, ranging from football stadia to pool halls.

Howe said that if such controls were necessary in Canada to obtain materials for defence production, the controls would be brought into force. However, the only controls required at the moment were those on nickel which were on a voluntary basis directed by the industry in consultation with the trade department.

frequently required in the Dominion.

Canada already has legislation on the books by which controls can be set up to cover materials considered essential to defence. The Essential Materials (Defence) Act, passed at the recent special session of the Canadian parliament, gives the Dominion government power to control and regulate production, distribution and use of "essential" materials and services.

May Have Army In Two Months

By ELTON C. FAY.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27 (AP). —The combined military force for defence of Western Europe may be a going concern, headed by an American as supreme commander within the next two months.

The military committee of the North Atlantic treaty organization last night completed a set of recommendations to be handed to the defence ministers of the 12 treaty powers when they meet here Saturday. Canada will be represented by Defence Minister Claxton.

The blueprint prepared by the chiefs of staff composing the military committee provides: creation of an integrated force for the collective defence of all the North Atlantic treaty area (both Europe and the Western Hemisphere group of Canada and the United States); an integrated force for protection of the European area; establishment of a supreme headquarters for the European force; appointment of a supreme commander.

There are broad hints that the nucleus of the European force, together with a supreme commander, will be functioning by January.

Neither the official communique nor an American spokesman who discussed it gave any hint on two points of major interest—the size of the collective force and its components or the nationality of the supreme commander.

are coming out of the hills all down the coast raiding towns, holding grains, and generally annoying us."

There were new prisoner reports that a heavy portion of the attackers were Chinese Communists who crossed over from Communist Manchuria.

Col. F. E. Gillette, United States adviser with South Koreans at Kunuri, 48 miles north of captured Pyongyang, said he was inclined to give the report "some credibility."

AP correspondent Tom Lambert was with the South Koreans at Kunuri. He said one captured Chinese Communist told interrogators that two mixed divisions of Chinese Reds and North Koreans had crossed the Yalu River from Manchuria into North Korea. The river is the boundary.

Mixed Battalions

Lambert said the Chinese prisoner identified the two divisions as the 118th and 119th of the 40th Corps. Each regiment, the prisoner said, was composed of one North Korean and three Chinese battalions, and both were well armed.

Maj.-Gen. Jae Heung Yu, South Korean 2nd Corps commander, speculated the Chinese Communists might send forces across the Yalu to try to hold a huge Japanese-built electrical generator at Supung. That town is 52 miles southwest of Chosan, border point captured by South Korean troops.

Cut Electricity

"If we get that (generator) Manchuria has no electricity," Jae commented. He added the Chinese Communists might want the United Nations General Assembly to decide the disposition of the Supung generator.

Gen. Paik Sun Yup, commander of a South Korean division in the battle area north of Pyongyang, was quoted by a U.S. 1st Corps spokesman as saying three regiments of Reds attacking his troops were Chinese Communists. The fighting was fierce.

No Confirmation

There has been no official confirmation from any high Allied source that Chinese Reds are in the attacking forces. It is possible that Chinese Communists joined the North Korean forces last spring when an estimated 80,000 Manchurian-trained North Koreans crossed back into Korea to fight the South Koreans.

Industrials Stage Strong Comeback

TORONTO, Oct. 27 (CP). — Industrials staged a strong comeback from their heavy losses of the last three days as the session progressed on the Toronto Stock Exchange today.

Grains ranged to a point and utilities, agricultures, foods, papers, refining oils and manufacturing companies showed a majority of gains in the groupings. Steels, liquors, and banks were mixed. Retail stores, textiles and constructions declined. Massey Harris featured the list by adding $1 to its $2 gain yesterday to touch a new high at $44.50.

Base metals were mixed. MacDonald was the most active issue, adding 7½ cents. Western oils continued their losing streak with a wide list of leaders down.

Senior gold producers were lower. Junior producers brightened with quite a few of the more speculative issues gaining pennies.

Police Arrest 5 Wildcat Strikers

MONTREAL, Oct. 27—(CP)—Five men were arrested last night when about 250 employees of the Hochelaga plant of the Dominion Textile Company staged a 30-minute wildcat strike.

One of the men was identified as Paul Croteau, an organizer of the United Textile Workers (AFL-TLC). Police declined to name the four others until they are arraigned in court. Police would not say under what charge the men are held.

The strikers delayed entry of the plant's night shift through demonstrations in front of the company's gates.

There was no apparent reason for the strike. One company official said he knew no cause of it. Madeleine Parent, UTW organizer, said the work stoppage was not called by the union.

Union and company officials at present are negotiating for a new collective agreement.

Late last night normal operation of the plant was restored.

E. B. JOLLIFFE

E. B. Jolliffe CCF Leader Rally Speaker

E. B. Jolliffee, CCF leader of the official opposition at Queen's Park, will speak on "What Ontaria Wants from its Government" at a membership dinner of the Peterborough CCF Association, to be held at the Kawartha Room, Empress Hotel, next Monday evening at 6:30.

Mr. Jolliffe, acknowledged as the leading labour lawyer in Canada, is also a practicing farmer and as such is interested in the conservation of national resources. He is a member of the provincial conservation committee and travelled with it throughout Ontario in 1949-50.

J. W. Noseworthy, CCF M.P. for South York, will also address the meeting.

Walter Dinesen, is in charge of arrangements for the dinner. Other members of the committee are: Alfred Barber, Maurice Ketcheson, William Whibbs, Alfred Birkhof, Mrs. Helen Yeo, Mrs. Mary Morton, Mrs. Reta Dinesen, W. C. Grant, Howard Miles, John Beggs and Irvin Yeo.

Foot Of Soil Flown From BC For Ceremony

TORONTO, Oct. 27 (CP) — A foot of British Columbia soil was flown here so G. M. Parke, president of the Automotive Transport Association of Ontario, could join the Cog Grinders' Club of British Columbia.

The club is an organization devoted to the interests of highway transport in British Columbia. But one of the club's rules says that honorary members can join the organization only in B.C.

A square foot of B.C. soil was spread out on the floor of a Toronto hotel Thursday during sessions of the Ontario trucking group's convention so Mr. Parke could receive his pin from Walter Harrington, a director of the club.

Civil Servants Vote To Affiliate With TLC

TORONTO, Oct. 27 (CP)—The Civil Service Association of Ontario has voted to affiliate with the Trades and Labor Congress, D. J. Master, association secretary announced Thursday night.

A count of ballots mailed to 51 branches throughout the province, showed 2,816 members voted for affiliation and 1,473 were opposed. Seven ballots were spoiled.

The question of affiliation with the TLC arose last July when the association executive resigned on the grounds it was unable to obtain co-operation from the Joint Advisory Council.

Affiliation with a strong labor force also was sought to strengthen the association's effort to obtain better pay.

United Church Secretary Speaks At Rally

MARMORA, Oct. 27 (ENS).—At a sectional rally of United Church cengregations of Madoc, Marmora, Springbrook, Rawdon and Stirling, held in St. Andrew's United Church, Marmora, on Thursday evening, the picture of total missions was effectively portrayed by the Rev. R. J. D. Morris, secretary of Church School and Youth Work of the Missions and Maintenance Department of the United Church. Rev. Morris has been spending the week in the Belleville Presbytery and his earnest addresses have been creating interest there. Rev. G. D. Young was in charge of the service.

Rev. H. E. Beare, Springbrook, read the scripture lesson and Rev. H. C. Vaclavik of the Rawdon charge offered prayer.

The speaker told of the disturbing world of today in which one age is dying and another age is being born.

A sociologist has declared that the world is unravelling faster than we can wind it up again. We have become a sectualistic and materialistic people. There is the tendency among the young to think that a man's life consisteth in the abundance of the things he possesses. In our practical life we have become as materialistic as Communists. We need to recognize the fact that "this is my father's world" in which we are called to be about our Father's business.

Seek To Encourage Industry To Cobourg

COBOURG, Oct. 27.—(ENS).—Cobourg Chamber of Commrce will compile a complete survey of the town with the view of lining up all information which might be of service to any industry making enquiries as to likely sites. The decision followed a meeting of the Town Council, Utilities Commission and Allied Labor Council. The meeting was addressed by Alex Smith, CPR industrial agent, who pointed out that many municipalities did not have available immdiate information on various municipal facilities which prospective industries wished to know when looking for sites.

Canadian Fire Damage $100,000,000 In 1950

TORONTO, Oct. 27, (CP)—C. A. Thompson, dominion fire commissioner, Thursday estimated Canada's property damage from fires in 1950 would total $100,000,000.

In an address to fire chiefs from centres throughout Ontario now attending a two-day course here on fire prevention and fire-fighting techniques, Mr. Thompson said half of Canada's fires in dwellings are caused from heating apparatus, electrical causes and careless smoking.

Dr. R. F. Legget, director of the building research division of the National Research Council, said greater attention is being given to fire hazards by the men now revising the National Building Code.

Attorney-General Porter of Ontario said the province's proposed new fire college likely will be opened some time next year. Guelph and suburban East York have been mentioned as possible sites.

Why Send The Special Force To The Orient?

The war in Korea is ending. There is no indication that Red China will at this stage send aid to the disintegrating Red Korean forces. If China takes no part in the Korean show, then the war is over except for mopping-up tasks and probably a somewhat prolonged occupation of the peninsula. Yet Canada has just sent the first contingent of troops over. Why?

* * *

These men are chiefly transport and staging-camp men of the Army Service Corps. They are presumably the forerunners of thousands, for their job is to make billeting and supply arrangements. If other Canadian troops are not to go, there was little purpose in sending the first contingent of Service men. It looks therefore as if Canada's Special Force will be sent east, unless Canadian Army paper work is slower than the facts of battle, and nobody in Ottawa got around to cancelling the draft orders of the first contingent before it set out.

* * *

Is Canada's Special Force to be used as occupation troops in Korea? It was recruited as a U.N. fighting force, and at the moment the war in Korea is the only one in which U.N. is engaged in the East. It cannot be sent to French Indo-China or Tibet. But did Canada recruit its Special Force to sit in occupation over Korea? Certainly Korea has to be occupied by the West, and Canadians have never been occupiers of a country. It is not their usual military role.

* * *

If our Special Force is to be set down to occupy Korea our parliament should take a second look at the situation and give its approval, for there are military and political aspects to occupation which should be considered with great care by the Canadian government and people. The decision made in 1945 not to keep Canadians in occupation in Germany was political, not military. Whether it was a good or bad decision we shall not argue here; but the fact is that then as now, an Occupation Force is quite a different matter from a fighting force. Its employment has most important peacetime international implications. Canada's Special Force should not now be sent to Korea until Canada herself has decided to become an Occupation Power in Korea.

* * *

This Special Force is earmarked as a U.N.—Atlantic Pact force. There are jobs waiting for it in parts of the world other than Korea. It is estimated, for instance, that fifty divisions are needed in Western Europe now. Prime Minister St. Laurent has not said that the Special Force will be sent to the East; he has not denied that it may be sent to Europe. If it is now to be sent to Korea, the new reasons for doing so should be explained as a part of a new policy to use Canadians in occupation duties. If it is not to be sent to Korea, then the Army should countermand whatever marching orders it has now given, revise its operational papers, and not put the country to the expense of sending several hundred or several thousand men on a 5,000 mile cruise, merely to call them home again.

Shrewd Blow Against Cats

We have received some correspondence from a lady named Gertrude Charny, who describes herself as president of Friends of the Birds, Inc. Miss Charny draws our attention to the fact that National Cat Week will be observed during November, and urges us not to believe the nice things which will be said about cats at that time. To keep a cat, she maintains, is a sign of a dirty household, for clean houses do not have rats and mice, and thus do not need a cat. The cat, furthermore, is not native to this continent; it is a nasty foreigner, and it destroys native birds who were here first. She concludes with a plea that cats be taxed, like dogs.

These are hard words, and only an enraged bird-lover could use them about cats. We like cats, though we agree with Miss Charney that it would be sensible to license those which have homes, and do away with the strays. But we do not agree that cats are a great menace to birds; indeed, we have spent many amused hours watching spiteful and mean-minded birds taunting innocent and somewhat stupid cats.

On the subject of birds, we are firm. We do not like them. They are insufferably noisy; they build dirty nests; their vaunted song is like the screech of a rusty wheel; for every bird which has decorative plumage there are a hundred which are dingy horrors, dropping messes on freshly-washed cars. In fact, we suggest that when the cats are taxed, special guano boxes be set out for birds, and birds which refuse to use them shall be shot by the police.

What interests us most about Miss Charny's letter is that she is trying to sabotage that sacred American institution, a "week". Next thing we know the Friends of Mice will be sneering at Cheese Week, the turnip cartel will be mocking Apple Week, and the Atheists' Union will be shouting rationalism throughout Read The Bible Week. This should add considerably to the gaiety of nations. But we cannot say that Miss Charny's attack upon the feline world has measureably reduced our affection for cats.

A Kiss For A Pinch Of Salt

A chemist has recently informed the world that, in his opinion, the custom of kissing originated with man's need for salt. When the earliest men discovered that they could get a taste of salt by licking one another's cheeks, the kiss was born.

We do not wish to discourage anybody, but we find this theory rather hard to swallow. For one thing, there are many peoples throughout the world who do not kiss; they rub noses, or express goodwill in some other way. And also, it is certainly not the custom in any circles in which we have ever moved to lick somebody when kissing them; at what period of history does the chemist think that the lick was left out of the kiss? And if a caveman wanted salt, why didn't he lick a piece of salt? We presume that he must have had access to some supply of salt other than that on the cheeks of his companions; if he had no salt but his natural salt he would not have lasted very long.

We think that kissing began because it was pleasant.

Every Tom, Dick And Harry

The most ordinary, common Christian names are thought to be Tom, Dick and Harry. That is the way the saying goes. In Canadian Registrar General's fact, however, neither Tom, nor Dick nor Harry is or has been the most common name. The Registrar General's department has put out a list of the ten most used names in 1869, 1899, 1920 and 1950. Tom (Thomas) appears in only the 1920 list, and then only eighth. Dick (Richard) appears in one of the four. Harry (Henry) appears in 1869 (seventh) and 1899 (eighth).

By far the most recurrently popular boys' names are William and John. William is first in 1869 and 1950 second in 1899 and 1920. John is fourth is 1869, first in 1899 and 1920 and drops down to sixth place in this year's popularity.

Other boys' names appearing in all four lists are George James and Robert. These are usually near the top. Apart from the five already mentioned, the 1950 boys' catalogue of ten most popular names includes David, Ronald, Paul, Gary and Brian. These suggest that the movies are having some inflence on even boys' names. Surprisingly, no purely Biblical names (like Joseph))appear among the first ten in any of the four lists.

The chronological tabulation of girls' names shows neither the persistence nor the plainness of boys' popular names. Only one girls' name is common to all four lists: Elizabeth. Margaret appears three times: at the top of the 1869 and 1920 lists, fifth in 1950. Helen is listed twice; in 1869 and 1920, seventh each time; so is Catherine: ninth in 1869, third this year. Those are the only girls' names in the forty given as most popular in four representative years which occur more than once. Dorothy, for instance, comes only in the 1920 list, when it is second. And surprisingly, Mary was one of the ten most popular names only in 1899, when it was sixth. Thus girls' names tend to be more fickle in popularity, and more ornate, than boys' names. Perhaps one characteristic is a result of the other, and both may be attributed to "fashion". Margaret and Sarah were the two most common in 1869; this year they are Linda and Susan. The 1869 list has names like Hannah and Emma; 1899 pairs like Mabel and Ethel; 1920 like Kathleen and Evelyn. And this year among the ten most popular girls' names are Sandra, Cheryl and Bonnie.

Well, there's no telling the taste in names, especially girls' names. But in each decade, the Bills, Bobs, Jacks, Jims and Georges seem likely to keep their popularity (like father, like son), but Tom, Dick and Harry will probably stay outside the popular ten.

Notes And Queries

By ALPHA

Questions are solicited for this column particularly those relating to local lore and tradition.

ALPHA: What was the cost of all this fol-de-rol of getting a coat of arms for Peterborough from the College of Heralds in London?

ANSWER: The warrant with description of the armorial bearings, and their registration, cost the city £150, which in today's terms is about $450. I consider is remarkably inexpensive.

Why is it fol-de-rol? Cities, provinces, and institutions have coats-of-arms, real or assumed. Peterborough had a set: amateurish, ugly and not authentic. When you sport armorial bearings you might as well sport good and authentic ones.

Peterborough can be justly proud of its new arms.

But let no family think it can get a coat-of-arms as cheaply. The chances are it could not get them at all. If it did, it would be a long process of tracing lineage, other family arms and the like and would probably run into thousands of dollars. Cities like Peterborough have no involved heraldic history or family branches to trace. It is merely a matter of assigning appropriate arms designed in proper heraldic style which have not been used before by others.

ALPHA: I have been trying to find out who wrote the line: "Procrastination is the thief of time." It looks literary, and not like a bit of folk lore handed down through the years.

ANSWER: Edward Young, English poet, 1683-1765. It is in his "Night Thoughts on Life, Death and Immortality' by which he is best remembered. Even that is seldom read now. It contains ten thousand lines of didactic and reflective blank verse in nine books. There are numerous quotable lines, which partly account for its great popularity for a time in the late eighteenth century. Such lines as

> At thirty, man suspects himself a fool;
> Knows it at forty, and reforms his plan;
> At fifty chides his infamous delay,
> Pushes his prudent purpose to resolve;
> In all the magnanimity of thought
> Resolves and re-resolves; then dies the same.

Another Young quote: "By night an atheist half believes a God." Another:

> "....Like our shadows
> Our wishes lengthen as our sun declines."

Another:

"Our birth is nothing but our death begun."

These two last are echoes of Dryden.

Edward Young became a clergyman for lack of another occupation (he had hoped for a parliamentary or professional career) and was named a rector in a quiet rural parish where he remained all the rest of his life. His friends thought he deserved preferment, but he never got it.

SIR: I see in a Canadian business magazine, in an article urging us to support the Red Feather, Community Chest campaign in our area, this sentence: "In 51 cities and towns across Canada, October brings the annual campaign for the Community Chest, signalled by the Red Feather, traditional badge of chivalry, of courage and generosity." How traditional is the Red Feather as a badge of chivalry, courage and generosity?

ANSWER: That is propagandist bunkum, as far as I know. The white feather, as a badge of cowardice, may be traditional. The red feather is, I think, a twentieth century invention, probably related by inverse association to the white feather, and directly with the Red Cross, the American Stephen Crane's novel "The Red Badge of Courage" and to slick public relations men. Red is traditionally a colour denoting courage in battle, good blood and the like. But the tradition varies. For instance, in Scandinavia, red is the traditional colour for mourning, and if 'Hamlet' were to be staged with local Danish colour, the Prince would be dressed in red, not black....A feather has no historical connotation in this connection, as far I as I am aware.

I note that "the Chest", the Community Chest, for which the Red Feather is a symbol, traditional or otherwise, "brings to welfare the business touch." Well, that's nice. The hand of Commerce in the hand of Caritas.

A CORRESPONDENT wrote me two weeks ago asking most difficult statistical questions about Peterborough in relation to Belleville, Brantford, Beaver Meadow et al. I have begun the answer, but bogged down in the Cavan swamp (looking for partridge), and did not finish the task. This week came a most treacherous question, about Lindsay, if I now remember correctly. (I am away from my desk, sitting on a knoll near Sturgeon Lake looking at a partridge walking down the path.) This was from the same correspondent. Really, you should ask some third or fourth form Collegiate student, for the questions seems to be beyond my resources. I shall admit final success or failure next week. By the way, partridge are very numerous, if that information is of any use to you.

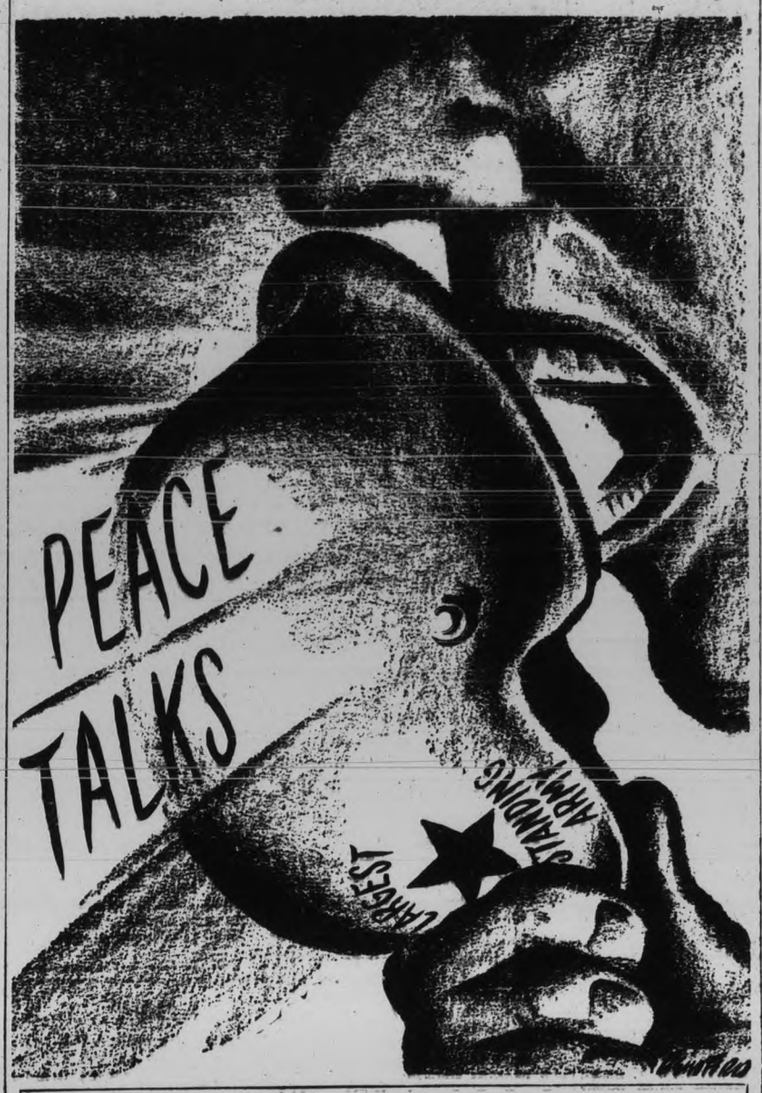
SIR: Wherefore the phrase "to shell out", meaning to come across with the spondulicks, to lay the money on the line, to cough up, etc.?



ANSWER: I cannot say authoritatively. It may refer to the oyster, to give up its pearl from the shell. It could be a pure American idiom, with reference to the crab in its different stages of crustaceous development—hard shell meaning unyielding conservatism; soft shell (and shelling out) flexible liberality. From 1848 to 1854 in New York state, two factions of the Democratic Party received the names of "Hards" or "Hard Shells" (conservative, right wing) and 'Softs' or 'Soft Shells'....the liberal, and (in N.Y. state) those who had leanings towards placating the South and their slavish tricks.

The phrase is used impolitely on Hallowe'en; when people are expected to "shell out" to falsefaced youngsters ringing doorbells. Do they expect peanuts without the shells?

✧ ✧ ✧

FOR THE RECORD: I am a little late with the information, but so is the Department of National Revenue which has just issued the taxation statistics of 1948. In a list of 49 Canadian cities, Peterborough ranked 37th in the average income of taxpaying citizens. The average income in this city of income taxpayers in 1948 was $2,387—in so far as tax collectors could find out. Next above it came Kingston, $2,411; next below it Kitchener and Waterloo $2,380. Topping the list were Sarnia ($2,819) and Trail & Kimberley ($2,815). Lethbridge, Oshawa, Montreal and Toronto came next in order. At the bottom of the list were Sherbrooke ($2,229), Guelph ($2,222) and Hull ($2,101). The average income of taxpaying citizens in all Canadian cities was $2,570.

THROUGH THEIR HAT

The Bombing of Monte Cassino

(OTTAWA CITIZEN)

VETERANS who served in the First Canadian Corps in Italy will recall Monte Cassino (Monastery Hill) as the towering mass that guarded the German positions on their right as they fought they way through the Liri Valley in May, 1944. Atop the mountain was a mass of rubble. Formerly this had been the famous Benedictine monastery, an ancient shrine. Because it served as an observation post and a secure lodgment for German troops, the monastery had been reduced by air bombardment in the previous March. At the time, the public accepted the bombardment, though with regret. But it was clearly understood that no stones, however venerated, were worth the destruction of Allied lives which would be caused if the monastery were left standing.

Yet now, six-and-a-half years after the event, men who served in that campaign are still trying to apportion blame for the bombing. General Mark Clark, then commander of the United States Fifth Army, recently blamed Lt.-Gen. Sir Bernard Freyberg, at that time commander of the New Zealand troops who attacked Cassino, and now Governor-General of New Zealand. The New Zealand government defends General Freyberg and says that the initial request for the bombing came from the 4th Indian Division, in accordance with a general instruction from General Eisenhower, issued several months previously, stating that the lives of men were more important than the preservation of buildings.

The heavy air bombardment was, in fact, ordered by Viscount Alexander, who then commanded the Allied forces in Italy, and who makes no apology, and needs to make none, for a necessary action. In his report on the Italian campaign, in discussing the bombing of Cassino after attacks by ground troops had failed, he says:

> It was no good putting my last fresh troops into a repetition of our former attacks unless I could produce some new tactics to give us a better chance of success. In this frame of mind I decided to try the effect of a really heavy air bombardment....I was very willing to try it on for I felt that if successful we should have found a way of capturing positions like this without the loss of life which more normal methods must involve.

Of the monastery itself, Lord Alexander says:

> This famous building had hitherto been deliberately spared, to our great disadvantage, but it was an integral part of the German defensive system, mainly from the superb observation it afforded.

This should settle the argument as to who ordered the Benedictine monastery bombed, and why. Lord Alexander is apparently big enough to take the responsibility, and for an excellent reason: He wanted to save lives.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Rejoice not against me, O mine enemy: when I fall, I shall arise, when I sit in darkness, the Lord shall be a light unto me.... Who is a God like unto thee, that pardoneth iniquity, and passeth by the transgression of the remnant of his heritage? he retaineth not his anger for ever, because he delighteth in mercy. He will turn again, he will have compassion upon us; he will subdue our iniquities; and thou wilt cast all their sins into the depths of the sea. (Mic. 7: 8, 18, 19.)

✧ ✧ ✧

And the scribes and Pharisees brought unto him a woman taken in adultery....Now Moses in the law commanded us, that such should be stone: but what sayest thou? This they said, tempting him, that they might have to accuse him. But Jesus stooped down, and with his finger wrote on the ground, as though he heard them not.

So when they continued asking him, he lifted up himself, and said unto them, He that is without sin among you, let him first cast a stone at her. And again he stooped down, and wrote on the ground. And they which heard it, being convicted by their own conscience, went out one by one, beginning at the eldest, even unto the last: and Jesus was left alone, and the woman standing in the midst.

When Jesus had lifted up himself, and saw none but the woman, he said unto her, Woman, where are those thine accusers? hath no man condemned thee? She said, No man, Lord. And Jesus said unto her, Neither do I condemn thee: go, and sin no more. (John 8: 3, 5,-11.)

Two Hardy Citizens

(Orillia News-Letter)

Collingwood's grand old man of nature, Alfred Staples, celebrated his 80th birthday the other day by walking to Duntroon and back, a distance of 16 miles. The remarkable Mr. Staples has done much during the years to keep Collingwood in the spotlight by his endurance feats. When younger he used to live in a cave in the Blue Hills, go swimming in the winter time by breaking the ice in the frigid Georgian Bay, and come out and run in the wind to dry himself. He never felt the cold, he assured shivering reporters.

About 10 or 12 years ago Mr. Staples walked to Orillia to meet the late Robert Starsmeare who used to go in bathing in Lake Couchiching in frigid weather.

One thing which is perhaps worthy of note concerning both these gentlemen that despite their cold baths, neither ever suffered from colds. This seems to support the theory that the pesky cold is due to the way we live. Mr. Starsmeare, who lived to be not far from 90, attributed his lack of colds to his habit of taking a cold bath every morning regardless of the weather.

CURLING NOTES

By HERB MARTIN

The ten commandments—(continued from Thursday).

6. Thow shalt not strew straws from thy broom in the path of thine own or adversary's rock, neither shalt thou spit in front of them causing them to become pork, for even as pork is an abomination to the few so also is a hog in the sight of a skip.

7. Thou shalt have no discourse with thine adversary while his foot is in the back and his hand is on the rock, but if thou will thou canst pray for him.

8. Thou shalt not push or kick a rock into the house from behind, stealthily, for the opposite skip will rise up in righteous indignation over the edge of the broom handle and thrust thee hence from sight of curlers, and the days of thy curling will be ended, for this is an unpardonable sin.

9. Thou shalt not covet thy opponent's rock, nor his lead player; neither shault thou filch from his third man who is his mainstay under a wall of defence in the day of battle.

10. Thou shalt honor thy opposing skip by substituting only player of the same ability as those absent, causing him to praise thy name for thy fairness and sportsmanship, for many there are who destroy their good name by such conduct, causing their opposing team much bitterness of spirit.

St. Peter's Oust Cobourg In Junior "B"

St. Peter's High junior Bees vaulted into the lakeshore junior "B" finals Thursday afternoon. They more than met Cobourg High halfway in Port Hope and returned home with a juicy 12-5 victory.

Coming from behind late in the second quarter, St. Peter's stayed ahead to earn the right to meet Whitby High in the finals. Whitby High won the other branch of the league from Port Hope and Bowmanville High Schools. The winner of the St. Peter's-Whitby series, Monday here and Wednesday in Whitby, will meet PCVS in the all-junior lakeshore sudden-death final game a week Saturday.

Long punts by both teams held play scoreless until late in the first quarter when Cobourg pushed the SPS crew into defensive territory. An intercepted sleeper pass gave the locals possession on the 25-yard line. After a loss of seven yards they tried to kick their way out. It was blocked. Harry Sirett recovered and jogged over easily for a touchdown.

A forward pass followed by a 30-yard kick shoved the lakeshore lads to the 15-yard line early in the second. A Cobourg play ran wild and the ball bounced back over the goal-line. It went over the deadline just as it was recovered by St. Peter's. It was ruled as a safety touch for two points.

Late in the half, the Cobourg team was pushed back to the goal-line. They worked their way to the 25-yard line. They gambled and lost on a third down, also losing the game.

Dick Foley and John Hickey carried to the six-yard line where Dick Foley went over off tackle. The convert attempt failed but the score was SPS 7, Cobourg 5.

Wound It Up

Early in the fourth quarter, Foley, Hickey and Murray Byrne plunged the ball for 33 yards. Foley had in the third kicked to the Cobourg 46-yard line. John Hickey crossed over for the second TD to make the final score 12-5.

In the heavy going both teams lost the brilliance of games in the regular schedule. SPS' greatest handicap in the game was short kicks. Both Foley and Frank McGillen were rushed and barely had time to punt. The ground attack met stiffer opposition in the large Cobourg line and were slowed down to short plunges. Often the Cobourg line held them to no gain.

Cobourg's Wilf Cavanaugh had similar trouble to Foley and McGillen, at one time he did manage to get away a 55-yard punt which is long for junior football. Soup Campbell, originally a lineman, played an outstanding game in the Cobourg backfield with his plunging. Actually he was the only member carrying the ball on plays.

Passing by both clubs was limited to short forwards and they were scarce. In nine passing attempts Cobourg had one intercepted, four complete and four incomplete: St. Peter's also threw nine, six incomplete, two complete and one intercepted. The Cobourg special, the sleeper play was shelved after it was smeared several times.

Lineups:

Cobourg High—Flying wing, Sirett; halves, Campbell, McIntosh, Douglas; quarter, Cain; centre, Calnan; insides, Spalding, Bayman; middles, Harden, Pearse outsides, Niles, Morris; alternates Round, Wilson, Jim Allen, Jack Allen, Ward, Galbraith, McIvor, Finley, Delaney, Lake, Brisban, Cavanaugh.

St. Peter's High—Flying wing, Fitzgerald; halves, Foley, Byrne, McGillen; quarter, Hickey; centre, Crough; insides, Hickson, Kirkley; middles, Clark, Hull; outsides, O'Connell, Legros; alternates, McCormick, Gooley, LeBarr, Taylor, Simmons, O'Brien, Ferren, O'Rourke, McDougal, Kingdon, Chretien, Corkery.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

Some hoopla chatter coming up these cool evenings as the basketballers square off for another season. The girls go tonight at the YW in a twin bill. Black's meet Normals at 8.15, followed by Neill's against Nurses Srs. an hour later. Men's city loop season should start soon at the YMCA. PCVS intermediate "A" and "B" boys have started drilling, going each Thursday at 6.30 in open workouts at the Collegiate, and each Tuesday eve at six in the "Y". No doubt, the girl PCI-ers will be at it soon, too. Yeah, 'tis basketball season once more in this 100-year-old city.

Thoughts of lacrosse still linger on, and we note with interest that most of the Mann Cup final gates in Maple Leaf Gardens weren't as good as those in the regular season in Miller Bowl, Peterborough. First Mann Cup playoff drew 4,236, but the next two were 2,880 and 1,800. A jump then to 4,775, a drop to 2,800 and 2848 ere the seventh hopped up to 6588.. These crowds, mind you, for the Dominion senior "A" final. We have drawn 3,000 and more fairly often in loop play, even though the Petes weren't going anywhere in particular. This is a fine centre for the gutted-stick sport.

Parkdale And Orfuns

POME: The Lions will roar and the Orfuns score tomorrow afternoon, and fans should consider the play of the gridder—as 'twill all be hockey soon. Yes, sir, and you, madam, the grid season is nearing a finish, but there's a big football game at 2.30 tomorrow aft in Morrow Park. An ORFU intermediate "B" semi-final betwixt Parkdale Lions and the local Orfuns. First fray of their home-and-home playoffs, and it will be a hard grid scrap. Plunging Bill Huntley and the rest will have to be at their best against stiff opposition, with no quarter asked or given—except a few at the gate, of course. This tussle should pack 'em in.

* * * * * *

And there's another football fixture Saturday, a 2.30 touch at the Oval. It's an Ontario Catholic Conference game between St. Mike's and St. Peter's High from here, a senior "B" scheduled match. A win for SPS would tie them for top spot, but they'll have to hustle like all getout, since the Irish haven't lost a game yet this semester and haven't even been scored on. Carl Brioux, Johnny Armstrong, Tom Cavanagh and the rest of the Allore outfit will be facing such toughies as Len McGravey, Jack Caffery and John Torella—is that one Irish?—in hot going. It should draw a goodly gallery. PCVS seniors are in Oshawa on the morrow.

Markham Plays Petes

Puck followers can view a tidy exhibition of senior "B" calibre at 8.30 tonight in Civic Arena when Markham Millionaires tackle the Petes. The locals edged 'em 5-4 a few nights ago in Oshawa and 'twas a rough session. The millionaires don't take kindly to defeat and will try to upset the Jopling bunch this fray. Most if not all of these Petes who saw action in the Motor City will be in the local lineup: Ray Harding, Earl Leonard, John Davidson, Jake Wade, Arn Dugan, Jack Mortimer, Honey Tompkins, Gus Leonard, Chum Fryia, Dave Casey, Drake Jopling, Jim Miller, Buck Legrow, Ted Collins, Junior West, Fred Garvey and Joe Nolan. Maybe a few more, as well. The schedule opens next week.

* * * * * *

Both our senior "B" teams see action in the schedule's start next Monday night. The Petes trek to Kingston to play the new Queen's entry, a team of which little is known yet. Kingston Nylons come here to clash with the Eagles, who wore the name Legion up until this season. Wednesday next week has Queen's vs. Petes here, while Friday is the junior Oddfellows' night at Civic Arena—if they wish to use it. When the latter's schedule starts two weeks hence, puck followers in Peterborough and district will have plenty of entertainment, two senior "B" and one junior "B" OHA games every week till the end of the winter.

Phil Rizzuto Most Valuable In American Loop

NEW YORK, Oct. 27 (AP) — Little Phil Rizzuto, brilliant New York Yankee shortstop, won the 1950 most-valuableplayer award in the American League by a landslide Thursday.

The Scooter capped his best season by polling 16 of 23 first-place votes of a committee of the Baseball Writers Association.

Boston's Billy Goodman, league batting champion with a .354 average, polled four first-place ballots. The other three went to Yogi Berra ,the Yankees' fine catcher.

They finished in that order — Rizzuto, Goodman and Berra — in the point tabulation with Rizzuto on top by 104 ponts. Ted Williams of Boston, most valuable a year ago but sidelined by injuries for half the season, finished way down the list.

Joe DiMaggio, the Yankee Clipper and a three-time winner, was ninth.

Back of Rizzuto, Goodman and Berra came Detroit's George Kell, the all-star third baseman, followed by Cleveland's Bob Lemon, a 28-game winner.

Walt Dropo, Boston's powerful first base rookie, took sixth place. Then came Vic Raschi, Yankee pitching ace with a 21-8 record, Cleveland's Larry Doby, Joe DiMaggio and Vic Wertz, Detroit's slugging right fielder.

Badminton Notes

By RALPH CHARLTON

The first tournament for the Market players will be on Saturday. Oshawa General Motors are bringing five men's doubles and four ladies' doubles. They lost their courts this year through expansion of General Motors so no return match in Oshawa is possible this year.

Grent Henry, Canadian Men's Doubles Champ was playing on Wednesday night. His club, Toronto Strathgowers are bringing 24 players down on November 11. With them will be Barbara Ince-who with Grant won the Toronto and district mixed doubles last year. She is also Ontario ladies' double champ.

Joe Noble, pro at Strathgower, is also coming. He toured with Jack Purcell when the latter was world champion for a few years. Joe is probably the best teaching pro in Canada. He will likely give a demonstration at the club, November 11.

Two Omemee players were in Wednesday night, C. Johnston and D. Eggleton. The Peterborough Club hopes to have a home and home tournament this season with Omemee.

C. Palmer, president of the Central Ontario Badminton Association called in Tuesday night. With Oshawa General Motors not having courts this year the C.O.B. tournament will likely be at RD No. 6, Trenton again this year.

The organization meeting is set for November 4. Peterborough delegates at this meeting will urge formation of a league along the lines of the Kawartha tennis league.

Lift Lock Leads

Lift Lock headed the scoring parade this week in the Mercantile Bowling League with pinnage of 2,768 and a single game of 1,034. Jean Ronco topped the lasses with her 262 roll and 663 triple, as Bill O'Donoghue led men in singles with 258 and Foster Ronco bashed out the best threesome of 634 among males.

Three coats of whitewash were applied in the night's play, at Duffus', Austin's over Bond's. Utilities against Prudential, and Loblaw's over Braund's No. 2. Lift Lock defeated City Hall 3-1, and Braund's No. 1 team came through with a 3-1 decision over the A. & P. trundlers.

Mollie Craig Named To Head Ski Section

Mrs. Mollie Craig, Peterborough Ski Club, was recently elected chairman of the women's section of the Ontario division of the Canadian Amateur Ski Association. The Ontario division is now a full division, there being five divisions in Canada for the C.A.S.A.

The semi-annual meeting was held in Hamilton this year for the southern section. Representatives from Northern Ontario were present and the officers for Ontario were chosen. The officers are: President, Ross Larway of Toronto; vice-presidents, Dick Westheuser and another to be named by the north; secretary-treasurer, Joan Wheel; ski patrol chairman, Bill Hern, Toronto; finance, Don Walkinshaw of Toronto; technical, Clint Melville, Toronto; juniors, Ellis Hazen.

A Bethany Meet

Peterborough was represented by Miss Mary Dodds, Miss Pat Moyles, Mr. and Mrs. James Craig. Miss Dodds, secretary, on behalf of the local club asked for the ladies in the novice class, including juniors, to be held at Bethany January 21.

On January 28 the ladies' senior championship for Southern Ontario and the junior meet will be held at the Beaver Valley Ski Club. The first men's meet will be in Oshawa January 20-21 followed by two, three and four-way meets at Orangeville, Hamilton, Midland, Collingwood and Osler Bluff.

Pete Peterson is making plans for the jumping and cross country ski school at Midland between Christmas and New Year's, especially for school-age skiers. The Ontario travelling ski school, now sponsored by the Department of Educaiton, will be January 6-13 at the Beavery Valley Club.

YUKON ERIC, above, who tackles a tough opponent in Wee Willie Davis at the Brock Arena Monday. This bout will headline the show and should provide plenty of action for both men are capable grapplers, Davis not paying too much attention to the rules, while Eric can handle himself in any kind of going. The semi-final spots the new Masked Marvel (and his manager) against Bobby Nelson. Both the Mask and manager are very unpopular. The opener brings together Dan O'Connor and Ray Gunkel. Fans are asked to note the change of date for next week only, the show being staged Monday night on account of Hallowe'en being on Tuesday.

Hawks Soar To 5-1 Win Pluck Canadiens Clean

By The Canadian Press

Chicago Black Hawks uncorked some of their vaunted scoring punch last night in deflating Montreal's high-flying Canadiens 5-1, with durable Doug Bentley scoring the 207th goal of his National Hockey League career.

Apart from snapping a two-game losing streak at home, the victory boosted coach Ebbie Goodfellow's Hawks from the league cellar into a third-place tie with Detroit Red Wings.

Small Crowd

The convincing win should bring back some of Chicago's wandering customers. Last night the smallest Windy City crowd in years—8,207—saw the Hawks waltz away to a long lead over the second-place Canadiens.

Three of Chicago's five goals were fired past goalie Gerry McNeil by the Bentley - Pete Babando-Bill Mosienko line. Each scored once, and Babando and Mosienko added two assist apiece.

The Hawks coasted to victory once they found the range and clicked for three fast goals late in the first period. Bentley started the rout with his first goal of the season while Bud McPherson of Canadiens was in the penalty box, and Bert Olmstead and Al Dewsbury ran the count to 3-0 near the end of the period.

Score Single

The middle session was scoreless. Floyd Curry bagged Montreal's lone goal early in the third frame. That one was matched 25 seconds later by Babando's, and Mosienko's effort completed the drubbing.

Canadiens made frenzied efforts to get back into the game, but spoiled their chances by wild shooting and even wilder passing as the minutes slipped by.

The loss prevented Canadiens from regaining the league lead from Toronto Maple Leafs, who have a one-point margin.

Here is the schedule of weekend games Saturday—Boston at Toronto; New York at Montreal; Chicago at Detroit. Sunday—Toronto at Chicago; Boston at Detroit and Montreal at New York.

Broda Rests

At Detroit yesterday, the Wings said that defenceman Clare Martin, who suffered a fractured cheekbone in a collision during Wednesday's game at Toronto, will be out of the line-up from two to four weeks.

Goalie Turk Broda of the Leafs, who registered his third consecutive shutout of the season Wednesday, will be given another rest when the Bruins visit Toronto Saturday.

Al Rollins, who substituted for Broda in Chicago last Sunday, will be back in the nets as the Turk temporarily rests on his laurels for the second time this season.

Finals Start; East Still Scrambles

By The Canadian Press

Edmonton Eskimos and Saskatchewan Roughriders meet at Regina tomorrow in the first game of 1950's senior football playoffs.

The winner of the sudden-death game will meet Winnipeg Blue Bombers for the Western championship.

In the east, senior clubs still face vital games for the season's playoff spots.

With two games left for each club in the tightly-locked Big Four, Ottawa invades Toronto and Montreal is at Hamilton. Only two points separate the first-place Argonauts from the last-place Rough Riders. Alouettes and Tiger-Cats are tied in second place.

ORFU Circuit

The last-place Windsor Rockets meet both Toronto Balmy Beach and Sarnia Imperials this week end in the senior Ontario Rugby Football Union. Sarnia, two points behind the first-place Beaches, play in Windsor Saturday. The last-place Rockets come to Toronto Sunday.

In the College circuit, the mighty McGill Redmen go to Kingston to play Queen's University Gaels. McGill is undefeated in three games this year.

Blues At Western

The University of Toronto's bruised and battered Blues face another game with University of Western Ontario Mustangs, who drubbed the Blues 41-6 in Toronto last Saturday.

Both Saskatchewan and Edmonton wound up the scheduled season with seven wins and seven losses. But Roughriders got a home game for their playoff because of their better scoring record—they scored 207 points with 177 scored against them. Edmonton had 201 for and 197 against.

Winnipeg scotted home in first place with 10 wins and four defeats.

Stress Passes

Coach Lew Hayman drilled his Montreal Alouettes overtime all week on pass plays—both offensive and defensive. And he expects to have a stronger club than last week, when Alouettes beat Hamilton 16-13.

Both Johnny Harper and Pete Thodos, plagued by injuries during the season, will be in action as running halves. But they meet a Hamilton club with the reputation of being tougher to beat at home than on the road.

Ottawa and Argos battled to a 21-21 tie in Ottawa last week, with supporters of each club claiming lapses by quarterbacks when their team was in a position to win. Rough Riders will be without halfback Pete Karpuk and probably without Big Paul (Spider) Gibson. Argos sadly miss Billy Bass, their star halfback, who will be out for the season as the result of an injury two weeks ago.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out about 2 pints of bile juice into your digestive tract every day. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food may not digest. It may just decay in the digestive tract. Then gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. You feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

It takes those mild, gentle Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these 2 pints of bile flowing freely to make you feel "up and up." Get a package today. Effective in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills, 35¢ at any druggist.

Appeal Court Rules Gas Sales Law Valid

TORONTO, Oct. 27 (CP). — The Ontario appeal court Thursday ruled valid a Toronto by-law which empowers the police chief to decide which service stations may remain open Sundays.

The Ontario Supreme Court earlier had upheld a magistrate's judgment that the by-law was ultra vires of city council and therefore not enforceable.

As a result of Thursday's judgment, Joy Oil Company Ltd., was fined $50 on each of two charges of selling gasoline on Sunday without the chief constable's permission.

Joy Oil questioned the by-law's validity last May and all 17 of its Toronto stations remain open on Sunday. All were charged and it was agreed that charges against two should constitute a test case.

Here And There In Sports . . .

By The Canadian Press

Remember that super-duper major series for selected senior teams that was adopted, then promptly ditched, by the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association last summer?

Well, it is very much alive and kicking, although somewhat different from what was originally intended.

Actually, the decision to go ahead with the major series was made last summer. But it wasn't until yesterday that George Dudley of Midland, secretary-manager of the CAHA, confirmed it after his return from Europe.

A special trophy will be put up—thus relegating the Allan Cup, traditional symbol of senior hockey supremacy in Canada, to minor-league status. From here in the Allan Cup will be open to weak-sister clubs and leagues who have been cluttering up the senior playdowns for years with little hope of winning the trophy.

The difference between the major series now and as originally planned is that there will be no contracts for players. Originally terms called for a minimum salary of $1,000 a year and various waiver and draft clauses similar to the NHL. These were dropped.

Owen Sound turned out in force last night to honor its Crescents —1950 Canadian senior lacrosse champions.

The players and the executive of the club were guests of honor at a civic banquet. Later they rode the city's biggest fire truck in a parade from city hall to the arena.

Crescents beat out New Westminster Adanacs in a seven-game series for the Mann Cup.

Rosalind, the world's champion trotting mare, died Wednesday night at Hanover Shoe Farm, Hanover, Pa. The 17-year-old Rosalind made her record of 1:58¾ for the mile at Lexington in 1938.

STOCKHOLM (CP). — Miss Dithy Grundstrom, 18, won top honors among 6,000 entrants in a typing and calculating contest and for a reward is getting an air trip to Rio de Janeiro with a week's holiday in the Brazilian capital.

Central Sure Of First In Senior School Loop

The 1950 Public School soccer season is about finished; in fact, there is only another week of the senior series and that will complete the league schedule. It will be to declare the championship and the holder of the Kinsman Trophy, emblematic of senior soccer supremacy.

Central will win the senior championship. There is no playoff series this year. The school with the largest number of points are the winners. They have 10 points now and the next team will have nine points provided they win next week.

How Much Per Groan?

LONDON, Oct. 27 (Reuters)—Britain is using live "victims" in practice air raids, a home office spokesman said yesterday. Carpenters building "blitz villages" are paid overtime to act as targets. They are sheltered by concrete walls and know where explosives are placed. During the "raid" they pour tomato sauce over their bodies and groan and scream to test the nerves of civil-defence trainee instructors.

Robinson KO's Olson In 12th

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 27 (AP) —The promoters are still marching in the lambs and Ray (Sugar) Robinson continues to slaughter them in masterly style.

Last night it was Carl Bobo) Olson who faced the Robinson fists.

Fresh from the Hawaiian Islands, 22-year-old Olson tried to win Robinson's Pennsylvania-version middleweight championship. All he got was his fourth defeat in fights, as Robinson at 158 set him down for the count in 1:19 of the 12th round of a scheduled 15-rounder at Convention Hall.

Olson at 159, never had a chance. One judge gave him a round while the other judge and the referee called on round even and gave Robinson the rest. A low blow cost the champion the 11th.

Tough Defense

Robinson had only one trouble with Olson. That was hitting him. The islander offered a unique defense that made him a tough target. He held his hands high and allowed his elbow to protrude in front of his midsection. It's a style to make an opponent work so hard trying to get in a punch that he wears himself out.

Olson, who never hit the canvas before in his career, called Robinson "the greatest fighter I've ever seen. He's awfully smart. I thought he finished me with a right to the head by the way my side feels there's not much doubt what did it."

Union Investigates Reds

TORONTO, Oct. 27 (CP).—H. A. Bradley, international president of the International Chemical Workers' Union (AFL), on Thursday re-opened his hearing into allegations of Communist activity in the Canadian wing of the union.

The hearings were held in private. The names of the four members who appeared before Mr. Bradley to answer charges of Communist leanings were not released.

The union's constitution authorizes the president to expel any member affiliated with the Communist party.

Earlier hearings by the union president led to the expulsion of Reg. Wright, former head of the Consumers' Gas Company local here, and Charles Manser and William Johnstone, other members of the local. The three were dismissed by the company under its work agreement which stipulates employees must be union members.

Mr. Bradley said four men appearing before him Thursday admitted Communist affiliations. One of them was barred from holding union office for five years.

Military Might Only One Way To Defeat Reds

OTTAWA, Oct. 27 (CP).—E. B. Jolliffe, Ontario CCF leader, said Thursday night military preparedness is only one essential to the defeat of Communism.

Mr. Jolliffe, in an address prepared for delivery at a dinner of Ottawa CCF supporters, said many other measures were necessary.

"We must," he said, "prove our ability to co-operate with other nations in the relief and reconstruction of devastated or backward areas.

"We must take down the bars of racial discrimination. We must show that we can use our natural resources without wastage and so that they will help raise standards in other countries. We must maintain production at such a high level that we can meet consumer needs as well as the costs of defence."

"There will be grim satisfaction in the Kremlin," he added, "if Canada drifts into a disastrous inflation, or if our housing crisis becomes worse, or if a better pensions system is postponed once again."

China Clay Deposits Found In Annapolis Valley Area

PARADISE, N.S., October 27 — What may well prove to be a multi-million dollar industry for the Annapolis Valley is shortly to be developed if deposits of China clay discovered near the south mountain at Paradise materialize in the quantities presently anticipated.

Principal source of world supply of china clay was first discovered in Britain in 1750 near the Devonshire-Cornwall border in Southern England. Not only is this material used in the manufacture of high grade chinaware, but is also used in the production of coated paper stocks. Supply has never kept up with demand, and millions of tons yearly are imported from Britain.

On the North American continent the only known deposits in any appreciable quantity are located in South Carolina, but smaller quantities of a more or less inferior quality have been discovered in various sections.

Geologists have been consulted in regard to the Paradise deposits and it is an estimated fact that these are of the purest known quality with a test of over 99 per cent, and according to these same reports show every possibility of being the largest deposits in North America.

First intimation of this valuable find came in 1946, but only in recent months has any definite action been taken towards development of these deposits. First verification that china clay existed, in this area, in almost unbelievable purity, was made by Dr. Warren Longley, son of Major and Mrs. Harold Longley of Paradise, who was the geologist responsible for the great discovery of titanium in Quebec Province.

Football Game Confuses Jean Simmons

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 27 (AP)—Jean Simmons has seen her first American football game, and she's confused.

Miss Simmons is Britain's brightest young star. She came here to announce her engagement to Stewart Granger; and to help ballyhoo her latest picture, "Trio." Also, she is taking in some of the local attractions, one of these included last wek's grid encounter between UCLA (University of California at Los Angeles) and Stanford.

"I think our own football, or soccer, in England is more exciting," she said. "The players cover more ground and you don't have the long waits between plays."

No Cheerleaders

The young actress wasn't impressed by the cheer leaders. "I don't like those people waving their arms to get people to yell," she observed. "Goodness knows, we scream our guts out at soccer matches, but not at somebody else's direction."

She was surprised to find an old friend at the game.

"I went down the aisle for a hot dog during the half," she related, "and coming back, a man accosted me. He wore a wide-brimmed rooter's cap, dark glasses, a slight beard and an old coat. I was about to scream when I realized who it was."

He was Laurence Olivier, who played Hamlet to her Ophelia. It turned out that Sir Laurence was a UCLA rooter from his earlier Hollywood days.

That Tax

She leaves in a couple of weeks for Rome, where she'll make Shaw's "Androcles and the Lion." Her contract with Rank lasts two more years. Then she'll come to Hollywood to live with her future husband, who has a new seven-year contract with MGM. They'll be married either here or in England, according to when one gets free of film commitments first.

"It's also according to the tax," she added. "If we are married this year our income taxes in England may be lumped together putting us in a super-tax bracket."

Ah, even love has to worry about income tax.

Shot At Each Other

WINDSOR, Ont., Oct. 27 (CP)—Fines of $25 each were levied in court Thursday against two of three youths who spent a morning earlier this week shooting at each other when they couldn't find any animals. Ronald Infanti of Windsor and George Jackson of Detroit paid the fines and had their guns confiscated. Their companion, Donald Sears of Windsor, is recovering from a bullet wound in his thigh.

IODE BADGE—This jewelled badge has been presented to the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire by the family of the late Mrs. Clark Murray, founder of the IODE. The badge was given Mrs. Murray in 1919 by Quebec primary chapters of the organization. The seven points of the star represent seven divisions of the Commonwealth—the British Isles, Canada, Australia, India, New Zealand, South Africa and British West Indies. The white circle indicates the bond of Empire and the crown donates sovereignty.

Murder Charge Laid After Shot In Friend's Back

TORONTO, Oct. 27 — (CP) — A big Austrian-born railway worker was charged with murder on Thursday when his friend Michael Bortnick died of a bullet wound inflicted during a street-corner argument about Communism.

John Picca, 51, surrendered to police five minutes after the shooting at the west-central intersection of Queen and Cameron Streets.

The 52-year-old Bortnick, a .38-calibre dum-dum slug in his back, was taken to hospital and died a few hours later.

Police said the argument began when Picca accused Bortnick, a native of Russia, or intercepting mail from his wife in the Ukraine. Picca pulled out a revolver, shoved it in Bortnick's back and pulled the trigger, detectives said.

Witnesses said Picca leaned over the wounded man, took what appeared to be a letter, and tried unsuccessfully to lift him to his feet.

Telephoned Police

He then telephoned police and waited calmly until they arrived. He handed over the gun and letter without a struggle.

Police said Picca and Bortnick knew each other for 10 years. Bortnick was receiving mail from the Ukraine and Picca wasn't. Picca claimed it was because Bortnick favored the Communist regime there.

The letter taken by police contained three pictures of Bortnick's wife and son, now living in Alberta.

Police said they searched Bortnick's room and found a number of letters from the Ukraine, none of them addressed to Picca. A picture of Josef Stalin hung over Bortnick's bed, they said.

Police said Picca obtained the gun, a special model with dum-dum bullets, from Mexico. When arrested he had 17 bullets in his pockets. One shot had been fired from the gun.

Two Financiers Visit Kiwanis Club

Kiwanis Club was preoccupied with aspects of finance personified by Stan Longhurst, winner of approximately $30,000 in the Irish Hospitals draw, and W. L. Somerville, Toronto, assistant general manager of the Toronto Stock Exchange, guest speaker at the Thursday luncheon.

Kiwanian Longhurst ran a gauntlet of banter at the outset of the meeting, including a proposal that he be fined $1,000 for gambling. Somebody said an even worse offense was that he got his picture in the paper. There was also allusion that he should be a prospect for Mr. Somerville's institution.

Finally, Mort Knox sang a couple of verses of a hurried composition about the good horse Zina, (sounds like a filly's name) which just missed by a neck boosting the Longhurst luck to $73,000. The only pertinent omission from the spirit of the session was: "See Him Smiling."

Art Newson, new proprietor of the Reid photoengraving business, was inducted by Jack Lewis.

Blake Bell introduced Mr. Somerville, who sketched the functions of the Toronto Stock Exchange, and mentioned its laws and regulations drafted in the interest of the public and fair and equitable principles of trade.

Assured of Opportunity

The Exchange did not engage in buying and selling securities for itself, Mr. Somerville said. It brought together a large number of buyers and sellers of securities in a continuous auction, so that each buyer and each seller was assured of full opportunity of the best price at the time of a transaction.

This market provides a continuous measure of worth for any particular security of the 904 that are now listed for trading. It began in 1852 with 36 stocks on the first board.

"If you have a used car to sell, you have to enquire around for some days until you get an idea of its selling value, and the amount you are likely to receive for it," Mr. Somerville said. "But for a listed stock you can get current quoted value from your broker or banker in a few minutes."

Trading Sets Price

Trading establishes the price or measure of worth. Finally, the Exchange provides the investor with a prompt means of withdrawing his capital from a company whose stock he owns.

"There is always a bid in the market," Mr. Somerville said, "unlike other commodities such as real estate."

An additional function of the Exchange is in the form of a primary market for certain approved oil and mining companies. It was speculative money to some extent, but such securities were investigated for approval by engineers, auditors, lawyers. Oil prospects had to be able to show some production.

To critics of that phase of the market, Mr. Somerville said for the first nine months of this year more than $19,800,000 had passed through Toronto Exchange accommodation into the treasuries of mining companies of the province.

Two Yearly Audits

Finances of the listed companies are subjected to two audits a year, one at an unannounced date. Advertising and other published information about companies on the board are carefully scrutinized. Brokerage partnerships are required as a further deterrent, instead of being limited companies. Supervision extends to disciplinary measures whenever necessary, even to the extent of suspension. Appeal tribunals are composed of competitor brokers.

Mr. Somerville mentioned also the requirements upon companies before they are accepted by the Exchange. Seventeen classifications of documents must be filed with a listing committee which deals with applications for companies seeking a place on the board.

In the future development of the resources and industries of Canada the securities business should of necessity play an important part as a medium for providing capital for such development, and the Toronto Stock Exchange should have a large place in that financing.

A vote of thanks to Mr. Somerville was moved by R. C. Bastable.

Okay Gunnery Range Over Lake Ontario

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Oct. 27 — (AP).—Chief inspector Gomer Games of the civil aeronautics authority Thursday night said that federal government agencies have approved a 1,000-square-mile gunnery practice range over Lake Ontario.

The range is situated between Oswego and Rochester, and extends into the lake to the United States - Canadian international boundary.

Six air National Guards units will use the area for bombing, strafing and air-to-air gunnery practice.

Games said that warnings have been issued to all craft plying the lake to keep clear of the area. The range has been approved for an unlimited time, he added.

OBITUARY

The funeral was largely attended with relatives and friends from Barrie, Toronto, Oshawa, Peterborough, Keene and the local community. The floral tributes were beautiful.

Pallbearers were Albert Jory, Gordon Taylor, Wilbert Taylor, Harry Garbutt, Elwood Garbutt and Ernie Garbutt. Flower bearers were Ivan Jory, Elmer Dixon, Ralph Garbutt and Allen U. Payne.

2 Railwaymen Hurt As Scooters Collide

SUDBURY, Oct. 27 (CP).—Two Canadian National Railways employees are in hospital here today as a result of a head-on collision Wednesday between a motor scooter and a handcar on the CNR main line at Bayswater, 15 miles south of Burwash.

Injured were William Wilson of Toronto and Leo Morin of Capreol. Wilson suffered scalp lacerations and bruises and Morin an injured left shoulder.

Wilson and Morin, employed with a telegraph gang, were riding the motor scooter when it collided with a handcar carrying three men of the bridge crew. None of the latter was injured.

Arthur Swayne, 84 Dies In Belleville

Arthur Swayne, who for 45 years was employed by the old Central Ontario Railway and the Canadian National Railways, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. William Fairhead, 42 College St., Belleville, recently. He was in his 85th year.

Born in Ormsby, Ontario, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Swayne, Arthur Swayne lived most of his life in that vicinity.

Mr. Swayne was employed with the railways as a foreman and roadmaster, and retired in 1930. He was a member and elder of Coe Hill United Church, and had lived with his daughter in Belleville for the past 16 months. He was also a Past Master of the Ormsby Orange Lodge. He had been ill for some time past.

Mr. Swayne is survived by his widow, the former Jessie Livingston; four sons, Fletcher, New Liskeard, Ont.; Raymond, Englehart, Ont.; John, Iroquois Falls, Ont., and Norman, Grosse Point, Michigan; three daughters, Mrs. Edmund (Annie) Maguire, Camborne, Ont.; Mrs. Alexander (Janet) Martin, Peterborough, and Mrs. William (Edna) Fairhead, Belleville.

Also surviving are one brother, Rev. E. F. Swayne, Napanee; three sisters, Mrs. Lottie Letts, of British Columbia, Mrs. Elizabeth Steenburg, Michigan, and Mrs. Thomas Brenton, Deseronto.

VOL. CI. No. 98 — FRIDAY, OCTOBER 27, 1950

Court To Visit Brookdale, Caddy St. Areas

Court of Revision decided Thursday night to visit Brookdale and Caddy St. properties whose owners appealed against their assessment for 1951 taxation as being excessive.

T. J. Carley, K.C., presented the joint case for 35 of the 52 owners of houses in the Brookdale area on the north border of the city.

"Necessity does not make a free market" he said in reply to the observation of T. C. Ephgrave that assessments were 36 per cent of the value indicated by purchase. The factor of necessity arose out of the extreme scarcity of houses at the time the Brookdale project was completed. People bought because they needed homes, and those houses became available.

No Sidewalks, Storm Drains

Mr. Carley said the area lacked sidewalks, storm drains and graded boulevards. He cited properties of recent construction for purpose of comparison. Some of them are in the Arndon area in the south end of the city.

Several of the house owners on Caddy St. said their expected boulevards were so far only weed grown, ungraded land. It was also said that Mayor Swanston and members of the council had promised curbs, but so far nothing had been done. Another complaint was that grading of the street had left almost impossible the making of a driveway entrance to some properties.

Mr. John A. Harstone presided as chairman of the Court, with Mr. Ephgrave and Fred Finnie.

Two Boys, 16, Sent To Jail For 3 Months

Two 16-year-old boys today were sentenced to three months in county jail by Magistrate W. R. Philp. They pleaded guilty last Tuesday to a total of seven charges of breaking and entering.

They are: Ernest Graham, 16, Douro, and Donald Gibbs, 16, 220½ Edinburgh St.

To Graham; Magistrate Philp said: "It is a fact that you are very young, and have no prior convictions. But here are four charges of breaking and entering against you. This is one of the more serious charges.

"Because of the seriousness of your offences and having in mind your age, I am giving you three months in the county jail."

Following sentence, His Worship said to both: "When you two boys get out, I would suggest that you get in touch with the Salvation Army and you would be well advised to follow what they suggest."

On Tuesday, the boys elected summary trial and pleaded guilty to breaking and entering four downtown stores. Graham faced four charges, and Gibbs three.

At the original hearing, Det.-Sgt. John Stevenson told court the two were arrested in the early morning of October 22 and later that morning admitted breaking into other downtown stores.

The two were caught crouching behind the counter of a Hunter St. furniture store. On one of their ventures, the pair took $110 from a clothing store, and on another, $16.

Third Offender Given Term In Reformatory

Because he wanted to work during his imprisonment, Milton Barnard, RR 10, Peterborough, was today given a four-month term in Ontario reformatory by Magistrate W. R. Philp.

Barnard pleaded guilty to being drunk and admitted two previous convictions.

Asked if he had anything to say, Barnard declared he was asking for a reformatory sentence. Magistrate Philp asked why, and Barnard said: "Because I want something to do, to work at."

His Worship obliged.

Chairman of Utilities Given Quarter Century Club Pin

Marking his 25th year on the Peterborough Utilities Commission, Gordon S. Matthews, chairman, Thursday received his Quarter Century Club pin and cheque from E. F. Reid, retiring president of the club.

Normally, the pin and cheque would have been presented at the club's annual dinner Thursday night, but Mr. Matthews has been ill in Civic Hospital for some time, and received his membership pin on a hospital bed.

Three other new members — Harry Brook, H. M. Wilson, and Frank Worsencroft—were presented with Quarter Century buttons at the banquet. The buttons were presented, with cheques for $25, by Commissioners Fred M. Hills, and George A. Macdonald.

Officers for 1950-51 in the club were elected at the banquet and are: president, Howard Clegg, vice-president, S. B. Cummings, and secretary, James Cumming.

About 30 members and their wives were present at the dinner.

Thieves Active In Grafton Area

COBOURG, Oct. 27 (ENS)—Thieves were active last night in the Grafton area. They broke into Fred Cloustone's garage, made a vain attempt to start his car but departed without taking anything.

They also tried to steal a car owned by Fred Roberts and one owned by Bill Munro of Grafton but failed to get the wires bridged correctly. An attempt to break into Lawless' general store in Grafton was balked by bars on the back door and window.

However they gained entry to Goody's garage and stole 50 cents in pennies and a .38 calibre revolver. They finally made off with a car owned by Mrs. Blanche Boucher of Grafton. The car was found abandoned later this morning at Wellington. Provincial Constable Lyle Erskine of Cobourg is investigating.

Never Saw Welch English Declares

James Nicholson, Twin Lake arrested Tuesday night and charged with assaulting Michael English, elderly nightwatchman at a Reid St. transport office, appears in police court Monday to answer the charge. Mr. English, who suffered a cut head, says that two men entered his office; the other was not James Welch, whom police arrested about the same time as he was standing at the corner of Reid and McDonnel Sts. waiting for a taxi which he had called. Mr. English says he has never seen Welch in his life.

Welch, charged with being drunk, pleaded guilty Thursday and paid the fine of $50 and costs as a second offender under the act.

90 Grove Boys In 1899 Race

Ronald McCann of Bridgenorth won the 51st running of the Cowley handicap race held Thursday in Lakefield by the Grove School for students of the school. McCann, a midget runner, with a handicap of six minutes, completed the three-mile event first. Ninety boys from the school took part.

Started in 1899 the race consists of running to the old Cowley home site across the fields one and a half miles from the school. Some time ago the house was razed and the boys had to run to the fence Thursday.

Harold Grant, a senior runner from Val d'Or, Quebec, was the first in his class and had the best time completing the race in 12:49 minutes.

Other class winners for the race initiated by the Hilliard family were: Robin Sinclair of Smiths Falls, intermediate; Ted Wilkes of Toronto, junior; John Stuart of Peterborough, midget.

Campbellford Man Dies In Hamilton

MAIN ST. TOPICS

COUNCIL MEETS MONDAY

With an eye on the hunting season, city council is switching its first regular meeting in November to Monday, October 30.

ORGANIZE REUNION

Organization meeting for the 93rd Battalion reunion to be held November 11-12 will be held in the Armouries Saturday at 7.30 p.m. All ranks from Peterborough and district are asked to be present.

HAIRCUT PRICE UP

Some 75 barbers in Ottawa are increasing the price of haircuts to 65c Monday, an advance of five cents. This applies to union shops. Otherwise the tariff varies upward from the 50c minimum set by the Industrial Standards Act.

FRESH FROZEN FRUIT

Mrs. R. A. Armstrong of 644 Orpington Rd., went out into her garden today to find one ripe red strawberry and several green ones on the vines. She does not expect even a small dishful now that Thursday night's frost froze everything.

RE-ORGANIZE TEENAGERS

The re-organization meeting of the Southend Teentown will be held tonight at 8:15 in Confederation school. This group was formed by the parents in the southern area a year ago. Dancing and other forms of entertainment will be held each Friday night.

CHIMNEY FIRE

Firemen were called to put out a chimney fire this morning at the home of J. Post, 137 Romaine St. The fire was caused by overheated pipes. Assistant Fire Chief Verg Carr reported that little damage resulted from the fire.

SALVIAS DROP OUT

The dark scarlet salvias were stricken by the sharper frosts this week. Along Charlotte St. near Reid St., their leaves were wilted and the light was gone from their color. Marigolds are still standing up to the weather, and some of the catalpas are holding their leaves, but the floral company is now mostly a memory of summer.

PROLIFIC POTATOES

With 897 bus. of Chippewa potatoes to the acre, C. H. Chapman of Nipissing has set an all-time high record of yield. Clarence Ladd of Dunchurch, at 855 bus., and Leonard Hummel of Trout Creek with 848, have both averaged higher than previously recorded top yields. They are members of Parry Sound 600 Bushel Club.

BUY J. A. GIBBS BUSINESS

The real estate and insurance business of the late J. A. Gibbs has been acquired by Bruce Sargent and Roy Irwin who have been in partnership at 226 George St. for the last year. They are moving into the former Gibbs office at Water and Brock Sts. Nov. 1.

CHRISTMAS RESPONSE

Christmas will be colorfully celebrated in Peterborough this year. Already 34 business establishments have ordered wreaths and lights through the Chamber of Commerce, Jim Fraser, manager, reported to-day. There has also been a good response to the Chamber of Commerce Santa Claus fund with a total of 17 donations to date.

SELL STAPLES STOCK

Sale of the farm stock of the late Sam S. Staples will be held at his former home, north of Springville, Saturday, Nov. 4 at 1 p.m., Mr. Bruce Sargent told the Examiner today. Mr. Staples had largely reduced his interests to horses, and the types for sale include hunters and jumpers, saddle horses and ponies.

Veteran of Riel Rebellion Wm. Wedlock, 89, Dies

One of Peterborough's last surviving veterans of the 1885 Northwest Rebellion, William Wedlock, 89, of Clonsilla Ave., died today in Civic Hospital. He had been ill for the last five weeks.

On March 21 he would have been 90.

When the Riel Rebellion broke out in Western Canada Mr. Wedlock promptly joined the Midland Battalion in Peterborough. Six other men were recruited from Keene, the home of Mr. Wedlock, as well as seven men from Norwood, and seven from Havelock.

Mr. Wedlock was born in County Cavan, Ireland, and came out to Canada at the age of six months with his parents, the late Janc Irwin and Richard Wedlock. The boat that brought them to Canada also had as passengers Viscount Monck, Canada's first governor generla.

Settled In Keene

The family settled in Keene where Mr. Wedlock lived most his life.

Here is part of his account of the 1885 campaign:

"We left Peterborough by train but when we reached Lake Nipissing the CP railway had not been completed. The Battalion had to walk across the ice to some distance on the other side, where we again took a train and went west. At the Saskatchewan river we were put on barges which had to be poled. On either side of the barges, long oars were operated by the men."

"When we approached the battle area, the right half of our battalion went forward to engage the halfbreeds while the left flank, which I was in, brought up supplies."

Whites Massacred

"In the matter of a few days we arrived at Frog Lake where an Indian Chief, Big Bear, had led his tribe to massacre the whites. The little village lay in ruins and dead were to be seen."

After an intensive hunt for Big Bear following the collapse of the rebellion he was captured and hanged.

"We returned to Ontario in August of 1885, after spending six months in the west. Captain Burke, then editor of the Norwood paper, and Lieut. Brennan of Norwood were the officers in our "G" battalion." Mr. Wedlock said.

A year after the rebellion Mr. Wedlock married Sophronia Harris in Keene. In 1936 they celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary and three months later Mrs. Wedlock died.

About 50 years ago he bought a grist and saw mill and he operated them for more than 15 years. A nearby waterfall provided the power for the mills.

To Peterborough In 1916

In 1916 he sold the mills and came to live in Peterborough where he entered the coal, wood and cartage business with his brother Tom. And Mr. Wedlock did not retire till 1938.

Mr. Wedlock took a keen interest in curling years ago at Keene, playing in several competitions at Peterborough and Toronto. He was also an excellent shot.

Mr. Wedlock leaves six daughters — Mrs. Wesley Montgomery (Mary), Mrs. William Boyle (Millie), both of Hastings, Mrs. Joseph Gibson (Margaret), Toronto, Mrs. George McIntyre (Lily), Mrs. William Fletcher (Lottie) and Mrs. William Jeffries (Phoebe), all of Peterborough; four sons—William, Irwin and Thomas of Peterborough, and John of Baldwinsville, New York.

A sister, Mrs. Peter E. McKay lives in London, Ont.

Funeral arrangements have not yet been completed.

Israeli Concert Performers Most Generous

A very large audience was present at the concert given by four artists from Israel in the PCVS auditorium on Thursday night; the concert group was brought to Peterborough by the local B'nai B'rith and Hadassah, in association with the American Fund for Israel Institutions. As a demonstration of the talent of the young people of Israel the performance was unmistakably a success. The performers were generous and the audience greeted them with enthusiasm.

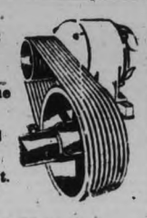
Owing to the illness of Ingrid Rypinski. Ruth Biller sang two groups of songs. Miss Biller has a mezzo-soprano voice remarkable for the evenness of its tone in all registers, and for its power. She appeared to greatest advantage in two arias from "La Tosca" and "La Boheme"; her style is dramatic rather than lyrical, and her singing of a number of modern Hebrew ballads and folk-songs was less interesting.

Zvi Zeitlin is a violinist of remarkably sensitive and poetic quality, and the two groups of pieces which he played were consistently fine. If a preference is to be made, his performance of "Nigum" by Ernst Bloch may be mentioned as showing his talent and his musicianship to greatest advantage. It is good to hear music in this modern idiom in Peterborough, for we do not have opportunities to hear much of it at first-hand. Mr. Zeitlin revealed the beauty which lies in a mode of music expression to which our ears have not yet become fully accustomed.

The accompaniments for all the performers were played by David Bar Illan, a young pianist with a prodigious technique. He played a group of solos, all of which were interesting and some of which were very fine. The tone-poem "Night in Galil" showed that he has much more than technique to offer; it was beautifully done; he rose above technical proficiency to genuinely poetic playing. Later he played a Chopin Ballade of staggering difficulty with the greatest ease, but there was not the same illumination of the music. It is clear, however, that Mr. Bar Illan is a pianist of notable quality, and that experience will add musical insight to his wonderful command of the piano.

To the present writer the most interesting and fully developed artist to appear during the evening was Zamira Gon, a dancer who appeared three times. First, she showed us a little student in an orthodox rabbinical school, praying and indeed arguing, most eloquently with God, and later bouncing and frisking in mockery of the teacher. Next, she danced a dance symbolic of the persecution of the European Jews, with a grotesque expressiveness which was disturbing to many members of the audience, who felt, perhaps, that dancing ought always to be pretty. This dance, called "One of Many" was splendidly dramatic and forceful. Later in the evening she danced a joyous Hora, a folk-dance which permits great freedom of expression. It was a fine experience to see someone so utterly and triumphantly alive as Zamira Gon.—R. D.

Liberals Name Six Delegates



At a representative meeting of the Liberal Association of Peterborough County held on Thursday evening delegates to the forthcoming Ontario convention were named. President Arthur Lewis presided.

The delegates are Tom Davis, Warsaw; Ralph, Standish, Mrs. P. J. Anglesey, John Wolfe, W. B. Gordon and Thomas Doughty. Mrs. Anglesey will represent the ladies organization and Mr. Wolfe the young liberals. Alternates are Harry Sherin, Lakefield, Dr. A. R. Atkinson, Norwood, Mrs. J. A. Dewart, Eldon Purvis, P. D. Scollard and Frank Hughes.

Delegates at large are Charles H. Elliott, Aubrey (Dit) Clapper and Senator J. J. Duffus.

US Plan To Void Russ Veto Rose In Korea, May Make UN Potent, Says Famed General

Peterborough heard Thursday night in the Queen Mary auditorium one of Canada's most distinguished sons and greatest public servants, as Colonel Alderman J. A. Dewart said in introducing him, denounce "the forces that seek our downfall" with a fervour born of personal contact with Kremlin leaders. They heard General McNaughton also praise the "courageous initiative" of the United States in Korea, and his belief that UN action in Korea has spelt a new dawn for UN and a new hope for the preservation of peace.

"Here at last many nations have together found a way through the vetoes and obstructions of the Soviet". A lesson learnt of Korea is embodied in the United States plan put this month before the Assembly of UN, the "United Action for Peace". "This plan . . . is a constitutional development of far-reaching promise for the United Nations and for the world at large . . . It promises to provide the means for effective collective action on a world wide scale."

Andrew G. L. McNaughton, engineer, famed gunnery officer in the Great War, Chief of Staff of the Canadian Army before 1935, head of the National Research Council until the outbreak of war in 1939, Commanding General of the Canadian Army overseas, Minister of National Defence in a politically critical late ware year, Canada's permanent delegate to UN until this year, sometime head of the UN Atomic Energy Commission, and sometime President of the Security Council, arrived at the door of the Queen Mary auditorjum to address the Peterborough branch of the United Nations Association in a casual trench coat.

Familiar Picture

As he sat on the platform while introductions were being made, he looked much like the war-time photograph of himself known to every Canadian home and mess, though more mellow and less furrowed in brow. His hands were interlocked over the left lapel of his waistcoat in a characteristic attitude; the forelock of hair was not completely disciplined.

As he sat listening to L. W. Copp, Principal of the Normal School and president of the Peterborough branch of the UN Association hand over the meeting to the chairmanship of G. K. Fraser, M.P., as he listened to Mr. Fraser's homey, colloquial remarks; as he heard his honors being recited—Privy Councillor, Companion of Honour, Companion of the Bath, Commander of the Noble Order of St. Michael and St. George, member of the Distinguished Service Order — of what were this great man's thoughts?

Of Molotov and Malik, and his difficulties with them in UN councils? Of Peterborough which he has visited a number of times as an electrical engineer dealing with the Canadian General Electric Company, and as President of the Research Council requiring special CGE equipment? (He told this interviewer after the meeting that his relations with the company were both of long-standing and great cordiality). Some part of his incisive, scientific mind must have been on his prepared speech.

It was obvious from the scrupulous care with which General McNaughton adhered to his manuscript that what he had to say was both important and carefully considered.

To Meet Aggression

He spoke deliberately, in a voice reminscent of his natal province, Saskatchewan. Sparks of fire and experienced authority shot out here and there; and warm concern when he spoke of present plans at Lake Success to equip the United Nations to meet "lawless aggression with lawful force."

It was not an oratorical flourish, but passionate conviction when he spoke of those who would seek our downfall "who work by spells and incantations, fabricated by evil men who act like witch doctors and false prophets to conceal their malicious designs." General McNaughton has had to deal with Molotov, Vishinsky, Gromyko and Malik.

The world today has become a very small place, the General noted. "No longer is it permissible or even possible to adopt the role of spectator in the play of the vast forces for good or for evil which are loose in the world today." And so it had been necessary to Canada and UN to take a stand in Korea and to reach correct conclusions and firmly grip the situation as you would a stinging nettle, which becomes quite harmless when boldly and firmly held."

Between The Wars

Between the two wars there was "a very melancholy spectacle of one disastrous retreat after another, brought about by the threat of force." The old League of Nations did not lack ideals nor did it fail to command the services of able men of good will. But between the wars the nations "degenerated to the pursuit of narrow, selfish interest, and the general welfare had come to be regarded with apathy."

We must profit by the lessons learned at Geneva and put them into practice at the United Nations — "the new opportunity which has been given a conflict-ridden world to put itself in order."

The first lesson we should have

Blowtorch Fires Elm St. House, Heavy Damage

A blowtorch caused a fire that resulted in extensive damage this morning to the residence owned by Mrs. M. Marrocco, 483 Elm St.

The interior of a second floor storeroom and passageway to the storeroom and the attic were burned. The three upstairs bedrooms were scorched and damaged by smoke and water.

Firemen fought the fire for more than a half hour before it was brought under control.

Russell King, Lakefield, was repairing a sink pipe in the pantry of Mrs. Marrocco's home with a blowtorch when he noticed smoke coming down from the upstairs. He rushed out for a garden hose and placed a fire alarm.

Partition Took Fire

Assistant Fire Chief Verg Carr reported that the partition in the pantry had caught fire from the blowtorch and the flames spread to the second floor.

The occupants in the house at the time of the fire were Mrs. Marrocco and her daughter, Mrs. E. R. Bartley. Mrs. Marrocco was treated for shock.

County Farm Notes

By HARRY THEOBALD

Farm Radio Forum Season Opens Monday — Junior Farmers Dinner Nov. 7 — 800 Dairy Cattle Sold Since Jan. 1 From Three Local Counties — Francis Walsh and Murray Pimmett In National Judging Finals — Only Four Reactors In Test Of 3,685 Haliburton Cattle.

More than 800 dairy cattle have been exported this year from the Peterborough district comprising, Victoria, Haliburton and Peterborough as reported to the Examiner by Dr. George R. Penhall, of the local division of the health of animals branch of the federal Department of Agriculture.

They have been distributed into twelve States, Rhode Island, Vermont, Connecticut, New York, Massachusetts, Ohio, Illinois, Indiana, Maryland, Virginia, Pennsylvania, Iowa.

"These cattle were not all bred in the district," Dr. Penhall said. "For instance, W. J. Murphy of Lindsay not only has his own herd, but he also buys and sells, and engages in the export business.

On the other hand buyers outside our district have probably bought cattle in these three counties, and have exported them from outside our district."

Haliburton Tested

Testing of cattle for tuberculosis in Haliburton was completed Oct. 20. The final figures were:

Herds tested	440
Cattle tested	3,685
Reactors uncovered	4
Infected premises	3

"The general health of the livestock was found to be excellent," Dr. Penhall said. "Results of the test reflects freedom from tuberculosis in the cattle population, taking into consideration that this marked the first testing of cattle in Haliburton county. In due course it is expected that this county will be declared by the Veterinary Director General, Ottawa, an Accredited Area, for a six year period.

The second general test of the cattle in Peterborough county was completed during the past summer, and at that time 1,836 herds comprising 33,779 cattle were tested. Thirty-five reactors in twenty-one premises were uncovered. This county has now been classified as an Accredited Area until June 1, 1956.

Second Victoria Test

The second general retest of Victoria county is under way, and up to the present 32,688 cattle in 1,611 herds have been tested. We detected 214 reactors on forty-seven premises.

Reactors to the test are promptly removed from the herd and slaughtered under government inspection at an abattoir under federal supervision. Stables are thoroughly cleansed, limewashed and disinfected. After a period of 60 days the herd is again retested as a precautionary measure.

Dr. K. Mitchell of Peterborough left for Parry Sound district this week to assist in the first general test of that area. The district of Muskoka has been under test for several months and it is expected that the test of these counties will be completed before entire southern part of Ontario has been tested or is under test."

FORUM OPENING MONDAY

"Can We Farm on Shorter Hours?" is the first topic in the farm management series opening the new Farm Radio Forum season Monday evening Oct. 30. A Keene wag remarked to the Examiner: "What about take home pay?" The subject Monday Nov. 6 is: "Who Should Pay for Soil Conservation?"

60 JERSEYS TO TEXAS

Sixty of the Pickering Jerseys owned by F. M. Chapman, Ontario county, have been sold to W. Willis Cox of Abilene, Texas. They will be delivered early in November. Included in the shipment are the recent gold medal cow Pickering Peggy Jean, four times grand champion at local and parish shows, and the herd sire, Branpton Goodenough Basil.

Willis Cox bought a cow from this herd a few years ago, and later won the grand championship of Texas with her. Mr. Chapman is second vice-president of the Canadian Jersey Cattle Club. He still has 20 head which he intends to keep until he sells his farm, Grasmere Orchards.

✦ ✦ ✦

SAYS SOIL FIRST

Frank C. Paterson says the Holstein breeders committee who managed the district championships show deserve all the compliments they received on the success of this big event.

"If we can all be as keenly interested in the healthy condition of our soil as we are in the quality of our animals, we should be in a good sound position as farmers," Mr. Paterson commented. "I'm concerned about all our farmers appreciating the fact that soil comes first, and when we have it right, we can't go far wrong whatever our program may be."

✦ ✦ ✦

IN FINALS AT ROYAL

Murray Pimmett and Francis Walsh both of Otonabee, move up to national company as Ontario representatives in the beef cattle section of the interprovincial judging competitions Monday Nov. 13, preceding the Royal Winter Fair. Their club associates and all the rural supporters of the Peterborough junior clubs that were active this year were highly pleased by the success of these two teenage lads in winning the provincial beef cattle judging competition at OAC last week. Their club leader was Lorne Pimmett, older brother of Murray.

Club work this year was largely the responsibility of Robert Bell, assistant agricultural representative. Frank C. Paterson, agricultural representative, was in charge of several of the beef club series of meetings.

The two Otonabee youths have a week's tour in prospect, with all expenses paid, by industrial firms who are supporting the club work.

TRIP TO TRAFALGAR

Ald. E. C. Braund is hoping to have a bus group go to Oakville Tuesday, Oct. 31, to hear a talk by John C. Thompson, director of livestock research for Ralston Purina Co. The meeting is in the Hays Sales Arena, near Trafalgar, No. 5 Highway, at 1.30 DST (12.30 standard time). It is said of Mr. Thompson that he was "raised with Holsteins," worked as herdsman at Ohio State University, where he handled and milked a world champion Ayrshire; graduated with a Master of Science degree; taught animal husbandry five yeahs; worked another five years as a Jersey cattle club fieldman, and has been with Purina since 1943.

NORMAN W. McCONKEY has received delivery of the Guernsey bull calf, M.F. Le Phelan, which he bought last spring from McDonald Farms, Cortland, N.Y. as a prospective herd sire. Canadian Guernsey Breeders' Journal says: "He is rich in the blood of Foremost Prediction and Douglaston Lady Augusta. He is sired by McDonald Farms S. Leader, he by McDonald Farms Steadfast by Riegedale Melba's Emory who sold for $30,000. "Leader" is out of McDonald Farms Della (Excellent) by Foremost Prediction out of Douglaston Lady Augusta (Excellent), 12,106 lbs. of milk and 607 lbs. of fat. The dam of this young bull imported by Mr. McConkey is the two year heifer, McDonald Farms Fore Milady by McDonald's Foremost Prediction, a full brother to M.F. Della, dam of the sire. The dam of Milady is McDonald Farms Charming, 14,103 lbs. of milk and 743 lbs. of fat."

URGES NEW FORUM GROUPS

Wellington Sutton, Otonabee, chairman of the local Forum committee, is appealing to all Peterborough county Forum groups "to start promptly Monday night."

"We are hoping to get five or six new groups under way, possibly some of them Monday night," Mr. Sutton said. "Some members of our established groups are taking an interest in this idea of expansion."

JUNIORS' DINNER

Prof. G. A. Reaman, head of the English department of OAC, will be the speaker at the annual dinner of Peterborough Junior Farmers Tuesday, Nov. 7, at the Empress Hotel. That announcement bears the stamp of the quality of action to the credit of the junior group this season. By the way, and apart from the dinner, Juniors are selling draw tickets to raise some funds for the expense involved in the extra things they have been doing, especially in the club projects for the juveniles. There are fifteen prizes ranging in value from $25 down to $5. Tickets are a quarter.

NO LIME PROBLEM HERE

Mr. Paterson said that Mr. Richards summarized the general land problem of this district in three directions: erosion, fertility and drainage, in that order.

Otonabee loam is one of the better types of soil in this district, and that name carries across the nation in the nomenclature of types, and likewise Emily loam. They are two distinct types.

Otonabee loam probably averages a depth of fifteen inches, Mr. Paterson said. Much of it is eroded because it is all on rolling land. Good drainage is a characteristic. Under it is the parent calcareous material, calcium rock or limestone, and its presence accounts for the fact that this district has no liming problem.

"But, we've got to take care of it better than we have been doing, because the top soil is so thin. It is good soil if it gets the right attention."

Emily loam is recognized as bottom land, imperfectly drained. It makes good pasture land.

The surveying group made their rounds in chill weather Tuesday and Wednesday, spent much time in discussion of what they saw, and are still faced with the problem of getting "more" farmers interested in this primary agricultural matter.

They are hoping to attract more junior farmers to the question of soil types and use, because the future of the land is bound to devolve into their hands and their knowledge.

"I would not want our elders to think we were making any reflection on them, because, as I say, a large number of them have been practically interested. But, somehow we've got to a bigger job."

Farm Forum subject for Monday, Nov. 6 is "Who should pay for soil conservation?" presenting a timeliness associated with the soil survey made this week.

D. MILBURN TO W. VIRGINIA

A larger proportion of active junior farmers in the United States are going through for university degrees before going back to farming, Don Milburn remarked yesterday as an impression gleaned on his recent trip to Weston, West Virginia.

He was one of the nine delegates from Ontario who attended a three day conference of Rural Youth organizations of the USA.

"One difference is that they have quite a number of separate organizations," Mr. Milburn said. "We have the Junior Farmers Association of Canada with provincial and county branches. So, they are not so closely tied together as we are.

"The theme of their conference was 'Farming as a Way of Life.' One of the speakers applied this theme to a specific community, and it was interesting to observe the similarity between their problems and ours, even in regard to relations between urban and rural communities."

Mr. Milburn said: "I don't think they have much on our clubs."

The Canadians were all from Ontario. Mr. Milburn was appointed as executive director of the Ontario Junior Farmers, with Miss Eleanor Syracuse of Norfolk county, a provincial vice-president. T. H. Hillard, secretary-treasurer, was another member of the delegation.

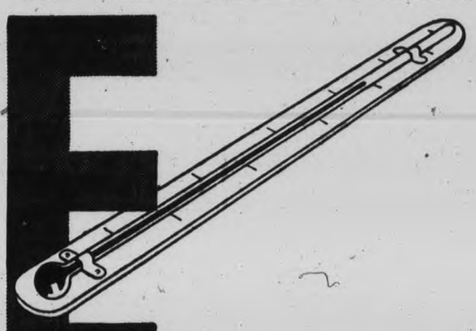
Soil Lacks Glamor To Catch Popular Interest It Needs District Survey This Week

"Save the top six inches" is about the nearest approach to arresting phrase coined in the purpose of propaganda for stimulating interest in types of soil and its use.

"There's no glamor attaching to the land, although a great deal has been written about it down through the ages," said F. C. Paterson in relating some aspects of a two-day survey this week of farms in four counties. He was one of the agricultural representatives accompanying Dr. Ford A. Stinson, head of the Soils Department of Ontario Agricultural College; Norval Richards, Ottawa, of the survey staff of Experimental Farm Service, Canadian Department of Agriculture; John Ketcheson of the Soils Department, OAC; J. A. Garner, director of Extension Service of the Ontario Department; and with them county representatives in that service: Ed. A. Summers, Durham, Ralph Banbury, Northumberland, LeRoy Brown, Victoria, Oliver Dalrymple, Hastings County, Mr. Paterson and his assistant, Robert E. Bell.

That company indicates the joint concern of several departments in spreading soil information among farmers, and arousing broader interest in such subjects as soil types and soil use.



Soil Maps Accurate

"We visited farms in Peterborough, Victoria, Durham and Northumberland," Mr. Paterson said, "going over various types of soils once more with the object of trying to lay out a program for developing the interest of farmers in this subject. In a brief summary of the trip, we can begin with the importance of increased use of our soil maps because we know they are accurate and really valuable.

"This subject is broadly technical, and is not easy of resolving into a simple plan or way of approaching farmers. In our own office we have had a great many genuine inquiries from farmers making their own approach to their own soils. They have been looking for helpful informtion about the use of their own land, and they can get this technical service free if they want it. I don't think it is an exaggeration to say we have had some hundreds of such inquiries altogether, certainly many scores.

"This is a fundamental of sound farm practice, examining into soil types, suitability and use."

New Memorial Tower Marks 115th Birthday Of Church

OMEMEE, Oct. 27 —(ENS)— The 115th anniversary of Christ Church, Omemee, is being celebrated this year, and upon this occasion the members of the congregation are dedicating a new memorial tower which they have just completed.

At an outdoor ceremony to be held on Saturday, October 28 at 4 p.m. the tower will be dedicated by Archdeacon W. P. Robertson of Peterborough and Rt. Hon. L. M. Frost, Premier of Ontario, will unveil the tablet in the Memorial Tower.

The Tablet reads thus:

1835 — 1950

This Memorial Tower was erected by the congregation to the glory of God to commemorate former parishioners called to higher service, and the coming of peace after two world wars. We gratefully remember those who served their King and Country. We praise and bless God's Holy Name for His servants who gave their lives that we might live in peace.

"Greater Love Hath No Man"

Services will be held on Sunday, October 29 at 8.00 and 11.00 a.m. and at 7.00 p.m. Bishop George Arthur Wells, associate Bishop of Toronto Diocese will speak at both public services.

On Wednesday, November 1, a turkey dinner will be served from 6.00 to 8.00 p.m.

Interesting History

This church has a most interesting history. For collection and preservation of early data and records they are indebted to Rev. W. H. Jones, incumbent of the parish from 1869 to 1874, at which later date he placed a copy of the same in the cornerstone of the second church, which was built in that year and which is the body of the present building.

This church, as well as the one that preceeded it, was situated in the old graveyard behind the building across the street. In 1901 the church was moved on rollers to its present site. At this time the documents were removed and read by Rev. Dr. Langfeldt and then replaced along with some additional papers. These documents once more came to light this year when the tower was rebuilt and have again been replaced.

Rev. J. H. Teney succeeded Dr. Langfeldt before the church was reopened, but the latter was invited to preach on that occasion. He also rededicated the church which had been improved to the extent of a good basement, a new roof on the tower, cathedral glass windows, brick siding and a completely renovated interior. In 1931 under the leadership of Rev. A. T. Weir, an addition was put to the back which gave a larger and more beautiful chancel, a larger vestry and dressing rooms and a much larger basement.

And now an imposing new tower has been added, which is a credit to the congregation and to their rector, Rev. F. W. Pooley.

The oak doors of the tower have been given by the congregation in memory of the late Rev. A. T. Weir, who was rector from 1923 to 1936, and is the only rector to have died on the charge.

The present beautiful edifice is a far cry from the church begun in 1835, but the families of the present fellowship have not forgotten the sacrifices of former days.

As early as 1827 Rev. Thomas, rector of Cavan parish, held occasional services in this village, as did also his successor, Rev. Armour. Dr. Bethune of Cobourg (afterwards Bishop Bethune) also officiated at services, then held in an old log school house south of the present Sturgeon Street.

About 1835

The records say: "About the year 1835, although no clergyman was in charge, God put it into the hearts of the laymen of the infant settlement to build a House to His Praise. Those most prominent in pushing the work were: James Balfour and son Gabriel, Richard Marmion, John Collum, Robert Dixon, Robert Montgomery, Charles Corneil and John Toole."

In 1840 Rev. G. C. Street got his appointment as first incumbent of the parish which embraced the village of Emily (as Omemee was then called) and the surrounding country. He brought workmen from Cobourg to put the finishing touches on the church. The first church records were made by him. From these we learn that 93 persons were baptized in the fifteen months of his incumbency; the first marriage was solemnized by special license, uniting Thomas Rea of Ops to Mary Taylor of Cavan; the first Sunday School was organized with John Beatty and Gabriel Balfour as teachers and the first musical instrument introduced into the church was a bass fiddle.

In 1885 Rev. Street, then Canon of St. Paul's and St. Peter's Cathedral in Chicago was invited to be present at the semi-centennial anniversary of the church. Being unable to accept he wrote his regrets in a most interesting letter from the standpoint of early history, but from its great length only small portions can be related.

Heard Wolves

To a small cottage close to Cottingham's saw mill, which was south of the old foundry and on property now owned by Mr. Fred Evans, Mr. Street brought his bride of a few weeks. In his letter he says "I well remember how in long winter nights after retiring we could hear the deep baying of wolves echoing drearily across the frozen snow-covered surface."

Previous to his appointment to Emily village he states that he frequently visited this settlement in the capacity of Travelling Missionary in the Newcastle district. His sphere of duty was a wide one, embracing in one direction Lindsay, Bobcaygeon, and Fenelon Falls, and in another Grafton, Colborne, Seymour, Asphodel, Dummer, and other localities. The journeys were made on horse back—a plucky old race horse by the name of "Ginger," presented to him by the Hon. George Bolton of Cobourg. His saddle bags contained on one side prayer books, testaments and tracts, and on the other changes of raiment which exposure to heat and cold and storms made most imperative. A third contraption on the back of the saddle, which proved an annoyance to Ginger had to be abandoned.

Schools Under Clergy

At that time the common schools of the country were placed under the direction of the clergy of the Church of England. It therefore became his duty to establish and supervise schools in some localities. One of these schools was requested by fellow citizens of a Roman Catholic settlement north of the village and separated from it by a dense forest, which settlement was later given the name Downeyville. This, he said, occasioned several excursions on horseback over the rough muddy forest trails, but he was always met with a hearty and grateful reception. The organization meeting was held, for want of a better place, in a cow house. As there were no chairs the people stood, but minutes had to be recorded and a list of parents and their children of school age. Mr. Street writes, "The ready Irish wit of Father Fitzpatrick was equal to the occasion. 'Here, Mr. Street' he exclaimed as he folded his arms, bowed his head and turned his burly back to me, 'Here, Mr. Street, place the paper on my back." And so I did, and as well as the motion of his laughter-shaken shoulders would permit, I wrote all that was necessary, using the priest's back as my desk until the meeting was dissolved."

He tells of another instance when a deputation from an Orange Lodge asked him to hold a service in the church and preach a sermon on November 5th—the well known anniversary of the Gunpowder Plot. Knowing that a parade having the nature of a triumph would stir up bad blood on the part of their neighbors to the north, and that there already existed a state of chronic feud between the settlements, he agreed to comply on condition that they would attend as ordinary Christians, leaving their banners and regalia behind. They refused point blank and stayed away from church until Mr. Street at last gave notice that on a certain Sunday he would preach on the desired subject. The church was filled. He took for his text: "Ye know not what manner of spirit ye are of," and from that day on, with one exception, all resumed their attendance at church. He had many recollections of the kind heartedness of his flock and of their Christian virtues.

938 Baptisms

Mr. Street was succeeded by Rev. Wm. Shaw, and he, in 1845, by the Rev. Robert Harding, who was incumbent for twelve years. During these 16 years there are recorded 938 baptisms, 202 confirmations, 150 marriages, and 112 burials. The names of Arthur McQuade, John Jones and James Toole first appear in this period. Some of the earlier recorded burials are, Maurice Cottingham, Elizabeth, wife of Charles Corneil, John Toole, John Beatty, and in 1863 that of Thomas Stephenson.

Clergymen who followed were: Rev. Thomas Leach 1859-1860; Rev. Noah Disbrow, 1860-1869; Rev. W. H. Jones, 1869-1874; Rev. R. H. Harris, 1874-1881; Rev. W. T. Smithatt, 1881-1887; Rev. W. H. French, 1889-1892. Rev. W. McCann, 1892-1898; Rev. Dr. Langfeldt, 1898-1901; Rev. J. H. Teney, 1901-1909; Rev. Henry Earle, 1909-1914; Rev. E. R. James, 1914-1923; Rev. A. T. Weir, 1923-1936; Rev. G. H. Johnson, 1936-1941.

The present rector, Rev. F. W. Pooley, took up the work of the parish February, 1942.

In 1892 a Women's Auxiliary was organized in the parish with Mrs. Thomas Stephenson as the first president. Miss Margaret Adams was the first president of the Girls Guild, which was organized during the incumbency of Rev. Teney. Afterwards it developed into the Women's Guild. The AYPA was also started by Mr. Teney, being organzied in 1906. The first officers were: President, Miss O. McQuade; vice-president, Miss Edith Curry, and secretary-treasurer, William Gallagher.

Several special gifts have been received by the church since it was moved: The oak pulpit presented by the family of the late Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Cottingham; Memorial Alms Basin presented by the late Mrs. E. Stephenson; the Chancel window presented by Miss Edith Curry; the Altar presented by the late Mrs. N. P. Clark; the Chancel carpet presented by the late Mrs. R. Stinson; the Credence Table presented by Mrs. F. Bent; Altar Cross presented by the late Rev. A. T. Weir; Altar Prayer Book presented by Mr. H. W. Hill; Font Ewer presented by Miss O. McQuade.

Canal Freight Hits New Record

OTTAWA, Oct. 27 (CP). — Freight passing through Canadian canals reached a record total of 3,681,939 tons in August, an increase of 20 per cent over the August, 1949, tonnage of 3,063,408.

In reporting this Thursday the Bureau of Statistics said that the nine-day rail strike at the end of August "probably contributed to the increased tonnage."

Oil and gasoline, corn, soft coal, iron ore, pulpwood and paper all were moved in greater volume.

Freight tonnage on the Sault Ste. Marie canals—Canadian and United States locks—rose to 16,457,540 tons, an increase of 1,696,261 or 12 per cent over August, 1949. Both eastbound and westbound traffic increased.

On the Welland Ship Canal, 1,841,495 tons of freight were moved, 119,825 more than in the corresponding month last year which the St. Lawrence canals tonnage increased 48 per cent from 978,223 to 1,451,270 tons.

Gen. McNaughton On Korea and US Plan To Make UN Function Despite Russia

Following is the verbatim text of the central part of General McNaughton's address Thursday night to the Peterborough Branch of the United Nations Association:

The outbreak of war and the violation of frontiers in Korea proved the need for means to be brought into existence through which those countries determined to maintain their freedom could co-ordinate their armed forces and bring them to bear collectively in defence when the security of any one of them was threatened.

It was the intention of those who framed the Charter of the United Nations that this new organization should provide this safeguard. The Founders wrote into the Charter provisions for the establishment of collective forces which would be available to maintain peace and security. As we all know these provisions never became operative because, in the military staff committee of the United Nations the Soviet Union stubbornly refused to agree, or even to discuss in practical terms, the measures which would have been essential to make collective forces available to the United Nations. What has happened, however, in Korea during the past three months when members of the United Nations, in response to recommendation from the Security Council, have taken co-ordinated action to defend the Republic of Korea is clearly in accordance not only with the letter of the Charter but also with its real spirit and intention. Here at last many nations have together found a way through the vetoes and obstructions of the Soviet and have acted promptly and in unison and with military forces against aggression. It is a fact and not a theory any longer.

Restored Hopes

In displaying its power to rally the free world in resistance to a premeditated attack launched without warning the United Nations has restored the hopes and confidence of people everywhere who otherwise might not unreasonably have given way to despair in the face of the mounting powers of the Soviet Union and their declared intent to overrun the world eventually.

It is because we have learned that aggression must and can be resisted collectively, and because we know that the United Nations provides the only available means for organizing this defence on a world-wide scale, that we have associated ourselves with United Nations action in Korea. It is within the framework of this knowledge that we must examine the capacity of the United Nations to act in the future as a deterrent to those recurrences of aggression which unfortunately it is all too evident we must continue to expect in the circumstances of the idealogical aggression which is the continuing central purpose of Soviet policy.

As you undoubtedly know the General Assembly during the past three weeks his discussed and adopted—under the title "United Action for Peace"—a plan for strengthening the capacity of the United Nations to deal with future cases in which there may be a threat to the peace, a breach of the peace, or an act of aggression. This plan, which was put forward by the United States Delegation and which was outlined to the Assembly by the Secretary of State, Mr. Acheson, is a constitutional development of far-reaching promise for the United Nations and for the world at large. I do not say that in itself it is any complete guarantee against a repetition of the Korean situation, for the success of any plan depends on the will and the energy of those who will be responsible for carrying it out in particular circumstances. I do say that if this plan is pursued in good faith, it promises to provide the means for effective collective action on a world wide scale.

It is for this reason, that from the outset the plan has commanded the respect and the active support of the Canadian Delegation which, in deed, has acted as one of its seven co-sponsors.

The American Plan

I do not propose to enter into a lengthy dissertation on every facet of this plan. I am sure, however, that in following the accounts which have appeared in the daily and periodical press you will have formed an accurate impression of its main provisions. It is founded on the premise that if the Security Council fails to act against aggression—if, in other words, the Security Council is prevented from performing its proper functions—the General Assembly can go ahead and make its own recommendations which will be implemented by special means created in advance by the Assembly.

In this connection the plan includes four positive provisions. It establishes a body to be known as a Peace Observation Commission for the years 1951 and 1952 with the duty to proceed to areas where international tension threatens and to investigate acts or threats of aggression, and to report thereon to the Security Council, the General Assembly or the Interim Committee as may be appropriate. It develops the rules of procedure of the Assembly to permit the calling of emergency sessions on twenty-four hours notice on the vote of any seven members of the Security Council, or on the request of the majority of the members of the United Nations. It asks member states to set aside armed units equipped and trained to be ready to answer the call of the Security Council or the General Assembly—very much on the model of the Canadian Army Special Force. And finally it creates a Collective Measures Committee to report to the Security Council and the General Assembly on the mechanics of co-operative action to keep the peace.

A Product of Aggression

In one sense this resolution is a product of the aggression committed in North Korean forces last June. It stems from a realization that the democratic nations of the world should not delude themselves into imagining that the dread wheel of Soviet ambition has turned full circle. In the words of the United Kingdom weekly—"The Economist": "The free nations are not only concerned to see the North Korean aggression brought to an end. They must see to it that such episodes are not repeated. They now know from experience that they cannot expect restraint from the Soviet side. Wherever the opportunities for 'all trouble short of general war' seem inviting . . . the Soviet Union can be relied upon to make that trouble. The problem is to see to it that the restraints which were effective in Korea . . . are maintained."

In this connection I think it is important to remember that the action taken by the United Nations in Korea and its success was made possible only by a combination of circumstances which could hardly be expected to recur. Not the least of these favourable circumstances was the profound miscalculation by the Soviet Politburo as to the speed with which their North Korean puppets could bring the invasion of South Korea to a conclusion.

This, they quite wrongly anticipated, could be achived before the military reaction of the United States could be effective and before world public opinion would be dangerously aroused. Also in this case it is now evident, although by no means certain when the invasion was launched, that the Soviet at this time is fearful of becoming involved in a general war.

New Life Infused

By the decisions of the Security Council in June and July, new life has been infused in the United Nations—a new pride and a new prestige has been conferred upon it which are everywhere recognized in the free world. But these decisions by the Security Council could not have been made if the Soviet representative had been occupying his lawful place as a permanent member, and in his absence it was even claimed by some who were opposed to these decisions that they were invalid because they lacked the concurring vote of the Soviet Union.

In reply to this contention I would remind you that the members of the Security Council are under an obligation to insure that the Council remains in continuous session (Art. 28 (1) and Rule 13). If some countries wish to stay away from the Security Council that is their concern and neglect of duty. But let them not then argue that their absence invalidates the Council's decisions!

Further, it has long been established by practice, with the explicit consent of the Soviet Union as well as of other permanent members of the Security Council, that an abstention from voting in the Council does not constitute an exercise of the so-called 'veto' which was granted in the Charter (Art. 27 (3)) to each of the five permanent members. If abstention does not invalidate a decision recorded by the affirmative votes of any seven members, how much less can it be claimed that wilful and premeditated absence can have that effect!

Commission On The Spot

Another factor of considerable importance in the situation at that time was that the Security Council had on the spot the United Nations Commission for Korea which was able to furnish clearcut and incontrovertible evidence and reports. Certainly also the Council's decisions could not have been enforced with the same degree of promptness and military success had it not been for the presence of United States troops in Japan in convenient proximity to the area where the North Korean attack took place and under the command of a distinguished military leader and strategist.

It is the aim of the "United Action for Peace" resolution that collective action against oppression may be possible even at a time when the Soviet becomes more ready for war and despite the absence of such a combination of the fortuitous circumstances which made that action possible in the case of Korea.

It has been asked by some whether the seven-power plan will have the effect of transferring outright the powers of the Security Council to the General Assembly. I can assure you that such is not the case. Speaking on this very point in the Political Committee of the General Assembly on October 11, Mr. Pearson, the Secretary of State for External Affairs, stated:

"The General Assembly, in this draft resolution, is only to be used when the Security Council fails to perform, or is prevented from performing, its peace-preserving functions. If the Security Council acts, that will satisfy us, and there is nothing in this draft resolution which interferes in any way with that action."

To Check Cynical Violation

Mr. Pearson's statement makes it evident that this resolution is not an attempt to relieve the Security Council of its powers under the Charter but that it is, on the contrary, a bold plan to ensure that, if the Council is not exercising its powers, the United Nations will not stand idly by in frustrated impotence and watch an aggressor reap the harvest of his cynical violation of the spirit and intent of the Charter.

I am sure you will agree that there is a striking contrast between the high purpose which inspires the provisions of the "United Action for Peace" resolution—and the long and dreary succession of propaganda resolutions on peace which we have come to expect as a matter of routine from successive Soviet delegations to the Assembly. Member states have not been slow to perceive and to realize the contrast which it presents with the insidious provisions of the Communist sponsored Stockholm Peace Appeal—indeed the Democratic nations have seized upon this opportunity to move into what may well be a new phase of effective action by the United Nations.

Fifty member states out of a total membership of sixty supported the plan, and only five—the Soviet Union and its quartet of slavish Comminform disciples—voted against it, while the five remaining nations, largely for reasons connected with specific parts of the proposals which they were unable to accept, abstained. On one provision, the establishment of the fact-finding Peace Observation Commission, even the U.S.S.R. voted in favour, and Mr. Vishinsky, on behalf of the Soviet government, later accepted membership to this body.

I interpret this as showing that the Soviet continue to regard the United Nations as a forum from which they cannot afford to be absent and we certainly want them there so that we can bring to bear the whole weight of our arguments in the hope that perhaps we may yet convince them that their best future lies in co-operation and not in war.

It has been fashionable, in recent years, to discount the capacity of the United Nations to meet an aggressor in his own terms and on his own ground. The events of the past three months have shown the potentialities of collective action against aggression. And the Assembly's action in adopting the "United Action for Peace" proposals has shown that the great majority of member states are determined that these potentialities must be developed and used.

"INDISCREET"—RETIRED—Second retirement ordered in Windsor, Ont., police force shuffle was that of Deputy Chief W. H. Neals, 58, who had 32 years' service. The order was made by a police commission shakeup aimed at getting "alert and aggressive leadership." The commission said his connection with an equipment company that supplied the police force was "indiscreet," but not prohibited by regulations.

Crash Victims Buried Today

EDMONTON, Oct. 27 (CP).—The body of FO. Albert B. Dalman, 26, one of two RCAF pilots killed Tuesday in an airplane crash six miles south of here, will be buried in Kingston, Ont.

After a brief military service here today, the body will be sent east by train. It is expected to arrive in Kingston Monday. The crash victim's widow, the former Evelyn Wellwood, is a native of Kingston. His mother resides in Winnipeg.

The other crash victim, Flt. Lt. L. C. Coffey, 32, of Edmonton, will be buried here Saturday with full military honors.

An air force board of inquiry is investigating the crash.

Postal Workers Assoc. Seeks $480 Pay Hike

KINGSTON, Oct. 27 (CP). — Delegates to the Canadian Postal Employees Association decided to seek a general salary increase of $480 a year for all workers, time-and-a-half for overtime and double time for Sunday work.

Daniel Cross, chairman of the wages and hours committee, told delegates to the annual convention that in 1939 a postal clerk received $1,700 a year compared with $2,590 today.

But the high cost-of-living today has reduced the dollar's purchasing power to such an extent that the clerk actually is worse off now than he was in 1939, he said.

Of Interest to Women

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Lamb Stew Recipes Said Common As Good Cooks

The ways of making lamb stew are as diverse as the number of good cooks in Canada, and remember,—their number is increasing every day.

I think the majority of you will agree that lamb stew is best with dumplings and that when they are in season and the price is within reason, green beans give it a just-right flavor and color.

Breast of lamb is ideal for stewing for it has enough fat for the searing process. Neck lamb is also good.

✧ ✧ ✧

Lamb Stew with Dumplings

Order 1½ lbs. breast lamb and wipe it with damp cloth and cut into 2-inch pieces. Sear in heavy hot frying pan. If you move it around in the pan at first enough fat will form to prevent sticking. If you add fat the finished stew is too greasy. When some fat has formed in pan add 2 large onions sliced, and when these are just a little bit browned add 3 cups boiling water. If your pan is not big enough transfer to stewing pot. A Dutch oven is ideal for this dish. Cover and simmer 1½ hours. Remove cover and add 1 teaspoon salt, 2 large carrots cut in dice, 1 cup diced turnips, 1 to 1½ cups cut up green beans, and if desired ½ to 1 cup parsnips diced and 1 cup tomato. Simmer for another hour. Then add potatoes cut in large dice, and more salt if needed and some pepper to taste. Simmer until potatoes are tender. Stew using breast or neck lamb requires 3 hours in all. (See variations below.)

Potato Noodle Rolls

One cup each mashed potatoes and milk, 1 egg, 1 tablespoon fat, ½ teaspoons baking powder. Add beaten egg, melted fat and salt to mashed potatoes. Sift flour with baking powder and add alternately with the milk. Mix dough thoroughly, knead it a few minutes on a floured board. Pinch off pieces of dough the size of a small egg and roll each piece between your palms until it is about the size of your middle finger. Fry in deep fat until golden, turning once. Drain a minute on paper towel and serve immediately.

Dumplings

Two cups flour are sifted with 5 teaspoons baking powder, and 1 teaspoon salt. Make a hole in centre of this, pour in 1 cup milk less 1 tablespoon and stir quickly with a knife until flour is just barely all wet. Immediately drop by dessertspoonfuls onto boiling stew—12 minutes before stew is to be served. Cover at once. Simmer gently, without removing lid, for 12 minutes.

You will notice no shortening is called for. If boiled dumplings contain shortening they are very apt to be heavy. However steamed dumplings are good and can contain shortening.

Potato Dumplings

This is for the cooks who will take a flier. It looks very strange, pee-kool-yar in fact,—but take it from one who tried—it is a honey. In a bowl cream 1 tablespoon shortening or margarine with 1 teaspoon salt and shake of nutmeg. To this add 4 beaten egg yolks and beat again. Add 2½ cups hot mashed potato and beat well. Add 1 cup fine cracker crumbs and ½ cup sifted flour and beat until your arm is tired, then fold in the stiffly beaten whites of 4 eggs. Drop onto boiling stew from large teaspoon. Cook 10 minutes without removing lid. Instead of nutmeg you may use ½ teaspoon marjoram, which is what a famour Ottawa hostess does. Try this on the family first, then spring it on your impressionable friends.

Variations of Lamb Stew

(1) Use rice instead of potato. (2) Add a little curry powder. (3) Let green pepper be one of vegetables—cut in rings. (4) Two tablespoons vinegar, 2 tablespoons water, 1 bay leaf, 1 clove, 6 peppercorns overnight. This marinade may be added to stew if desired.

IODE Is Given Jewelled Memento

TORONTO (CP)— A jewelled IODE badge originally belonging to the founder of the order has been presented to the National chapter here.

It came from Miss Greta Murray and Miss Elizabeth Murray, daughters of Mrs. Clark Murray, wife of professor at McGill University who founded the organization in 1900 for service to king and country and for promotion of a better understanding among the people of the British Empire.

The famous badge was first presented to Mrs. Murray by the Primary chapter in Quebec in 1919. It has a seven-pointed star representing seven divisions—the British Isles, Canada, India, New Zealand, South Africa, Australia and the British West Indies. A white circle represents the bond of Empire and the Union Jack in the centre has three crosses representing loyalty, unity and sacrifice.

Mrs. C. Thompson had charge of a bazaar table with Mrs. Szanfranski and Mrs. C. Sutton assisting. Mrs. G. Hall was selling sandwiches.

Prize winners at euchre were Mrs. Buckner and Mrs. J. Armour and at bridge, Miss Betty Goldie and Mrs. George Batley.

Lois Ann Healey Is Bride of Francis Condon

The Church of the Immaculate Conception was decorated with white and mauve 'mums on Wednesday for the wedding of Lois Ann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Healey, 158 Dufferin St., to Mr. Francis Condon, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Condon of Douro.

The Rev. J. O'Sullivan performed the ceremony and said the nuptial mass. Mrs. D. O'Donnell played the wedding music and Mrs. D. Campanaro was soloist, singing "Ave Maria" during signing of the register. Rosebuds were on the altar table for the occasion.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was gowned in white slipper satin, made with sweetheart neckline and a tiered skirt with a graceful train. French embroidered net veiling fell into a full train and was caught to her head with orange blossoms. She carried a cascade bouquet of red roses.

Maid of honor for her sister was Miss Marie Healey and her niece Caroline Healey was flower girl. The maid of honor's gown was of ice blue satin, made with a square neckline and cap sleeves and tired skirt, and with mittens to match. Her headdress and cascade bouquet were of yellow 'mums. The flower girl was dressed in pink taffeta with full ruffled skirt and ruffle sleeves and her headdress was of the same material. She carried a nosegay of mauve and white 'mums.

Mr. Joseph Condon attended his brother and the ushers were the bride's brother, Gerald Healey and Charles Condon, cousin of the groom.

The reception was at Club Aragon, where Mrs. Healey was receiving in a royal blue crepe dress with grey felt hat and grey accessories, and the groom's mother, wearing a navy suit with grey accessories. Each had a corsage of pink rosebuds.

The bride and groom went on a honeymoon trip to Niagara Falls and United States. For travelling the bride wore an ensemble of brick red and grey and had black accessories. When going away she had a corsage of white 'mums.

Masquerade Party At St. Joseph's

Jack o'lanterns, witches, owls and all other items associated with Hallowe'en were the fitting setting for St. Joseph's student nurses' masquerade party Tuesday evening in the residence auditorium.

All classes were on hand to contribute to the entertainment.

The probationary class delighted with a minstrel show, in costumes appropriate to the deep south and with Dixie-land tunes.

Highlight of the seniors' entertainment was a mock wedding.

Prizes were awarded to Miss J. Ellery and Miss B. Brown for their impersonations of "Big Chief Buckskin and his squaw," equipped with papoose and peace pipe.

Miss M. Lamey, in Highland costume, received an award for dancing the Highland Fling, while Miss B. Crough was voted a prize for her comic costume depicting "Old lazy bones," and Miss M. English for her fascinating rabbit suit.

Delicious and colorful refreshments were enjoyed. The social committee of the Ladies' Auxiliary was represented by Mrs. J. J. Crowley and Mrs. P. J. Anglesey who brought a treat of Hallowe'en candy.

Effective Setting At Chrysanthemum BB Auxiliary Tea

The Baby Band Mothers' Auxiliary members of George St. United Church are highly pleased today with the results of their annual chrysanthemum tea at which they catered to a crowd of about 200.

General convener Mrs. G. Gatfield and Mrs. L. S. Wells who was in charge of the tea table achieved a triumph in their decorating. The color scheme was wine and pink, carried out in large baskets of 'mums around the room, and with a large wine bowl filled with pink 'mums on the piano, and a mantlepiece setting of crystal bowl filled with wine 'mums and matching candalabra with pink candles.

The table, laid with beautiful white cutwork cloth, was centred with a most attractive set piece, trimmed with pink 'mums and rosebuds and tied with a large wine satin bow. It was on a raised reflector, underclouded with tulle which shaded from pink to white and trimmed with wine bows. All the dishes, except the silver tea services, were crystal and the cripta candalabra held pink candles.

The president Mrs. S. J. Rowe was receiving, assisted by Mrs. A. A. Mathews and Mrs. F. A. Huck was taking the tickets.

Tea pourers were the presidents of other Baby Band Auxiliaries in the city, Mrs. Eric Edmondson, Trinity Church; Mrs. Horace Guppy, Mark St. Church, Mrs. James, St. James Church, and Mrs. W. Rose of Stewart Hall.

The home-made baking table was in charge of Mrs. Arthur Black, assisted by Mrs. A. Long, Mrs. J. M. Lowes, and Mrs. J. Stenton. Home-made candy was sold by Mrs. R. Colmer and Mrs. R. Russell Mrs. Ray Parnell was taking subscriptions for various magazines for which the Auxiliary acts as agent. Mrs. W. Scott attended the display of layetes made by members, and also a table of potted plants for sale.

A nursery for visiting children was run by Mrs. R. Delahaye, assisted by Mrs. I. Ellicott, Mrs. L. H. Edwards, Mrs. H. Kelsey and Mrs. J. Edgerton.

Hostess in the tea room was Mrs. H. Morton and the servers were Mrs. L. Parnell, Mrs. L. B. Martin, Mrs. H. Barnard, Mrs D. McDonald, Mrs. R. Nicholls, Mrs. F. G. Sargent, Mrs. E. Beatty, Mrs. J. W. Thirnbeck, Mrs. P. Wellwood, Mrs E. S. Kingdon, Mrs S. James, Mrs. D. Douglas, Mrs. S. Gilgour, Mrs W. Ward, Mrs. J. Telford, Mrs. G. Davis, Mrs. A Bacon, Mrs. O. Mackie, Mrs. K. McKee, and Mrs. A. Clysdale.

Replenishing plates was in charge of Mrs. C. H. Lang with Mrs. O Anderson, Mrs. R Kingdon, Mrs. R. Miller, Mrs. J. Thorburn and Mrs. J. Weaver assisting.

A background of soft piano music throughout the tea hours was provided by Mrs. Bacon, Mrs. Ellicott, Mrs. Black and Mrs. Ross Moore.

THE EXPERTS SAY

Shape of Foot Must Decide Type of Shoe Should Wear

By KAY REX

OTTAWA, Oct. 27 —(CP)— Just as the shape of your face should determine the style of hat you wear, so the shape of your foot should decide the shoe.

And take it from the people who know—the Shoe Manufacturers Association of Canada—milady should know her foot type when she goes shopping for shoes.

A slim foot requires a shoe long in the vamp with high-walled last, but a stocky one needs a shoe broad in the vamp.

A high arched foot should have a shoe which fits well across the instep; a combination last—broad in the ball, snug at the heel—is best for a foot low in the arch.

The association also has a few tips on styles. Long slender shoes increase the length illusion of feet and legs whereas short, stubby footwear decreases this illusion.

Wide horizontal lines such as straps give width illusion to ankles and feet; intricate arrangement of cross straps, bold single colors, multicolors, ornamentations and contrasting textures centre attraction on the feet.

If she wants to appear taller, the short person should stay away from light-colored shoes. Then lessen the illusory height of the figure.

On the other hand, opera and V-throat pumps give length to the foot and figure.

The girl with big feet will find they appear smaller when she wears a full skirt. Pronounced color contrast between shoes and costume make the feet seem larger and the figure shorter.

Ever try dressing up an old garment with new buttons? It's one of womankind's oldest tricks for brightening a wardrobe. A row of tiny pearl buttons will emphasize a garment to the skies. Flattery is made by a large jeweled button strategically placed.

Christmas may seem a long way off, but it's never too soon to begin present-making. The housewife who's handy with her needle should find plenty of gift suggestions between the pages of her favorite knitting book.

A doll, complete with hand-knitted wardrobe, would be an ideal present for one's favorite niece—and easy-to-make too.

Socks are always welcomed by a young nephew. He would feel particularly proud if they were diamond socks, "just like dad's." These could be easily made from left over wool aranged in a suitable color scheme.

Too Many Fathers Leave Child-raising to Wives

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I am tired of hearing the mothers blamed for the way their children turn out. What about the father's responsibility in rearing their children and fitting them to meet the bumps and hard knocks in life? It is during childhood that character is formed, and every boy needs a father who is a friend to whom he can go with his problems. There is no greater crime than that so many fathers bring children into the world and do not pay any more attention to them than if they were stray dogs. What do you think about this?

A READER.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: I fully agree with you. In our curious American school structure there is nothing so strange and inexplicable as that our men should be at once the best and the worst fathers in the world. The best in the sense that they are most anxious to give material things to their children and the worst in the sense that they so seldom give them any personal attention.

Might As Well Be Fatherless

It is hardly too much to say that except for purpose of legitimacy the average American child might as well be fatherless as to have the kind of father he possesses. Except for supporting his children the average man washes his hands of all responsibility for them. He doesn't play with them as babies. He doesn't take the trouble or the time to get acquainted with them. He hasn't any more idea of what his own little Johnny and Janey are thinking and doing and what kind of minds they have and what their desires and aspirations are than he has of any other youngsters in the neighborhood.

All of his contacts with his children are financial and these are mainly negotiated through their mother, who tells father that Sam wants a bicycle or Mary a pink dress. There are plenty of fathers and children who never in their whole lives have a single free heart-to-heart talk. Instead both of them are embarrassed to death when they are left alone together, and one or the other of them makes a sneak as soon as possible.

It is because fathers have so little to do in rearing the children that we blame the mothers for the way the children turn out. But that does not exonerate the fathers for having failed in their obligation, for children need two parents, not one. No matter how good a mother is nor how conscientiously she tries to do her best by her children there is need for the father's influence, too.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I am going with a girl who has an apron-string complex. When I ask for a date she goes into a consultation with the family to see if they are going any place that night. If they are going to stay at home, I get a date. If they are going out, I don't. This girl is 21 years of age, but she has no more freedom than if she were a little child. Do you think it right for the family to feel that they have the first claim on all of her time and for me to run a bad second? I don't intend to put up with this much longer.

ANXIOUS.

ANSWER: If the girl prefers going to the neighborhood movies with the family to stepping out with you, it doesn't look as if she cared very much for your society. Most girls don't consider an outing with father and mother and little sister and brother a very hilarious experience.

No doubt this girl who prefers dull times with her family to good times with boys is an admirable character. But, take it from me, son, in reality this family obsession is about the worst fault a girl can have from a marrying point of view. For she is always more married to her family than she is to her husband. The family always comes first with her.

Many a man can never get ahead in the world, no matter how hard he works, because his wife spends his earnings on her family. Many a man has to give up opportunity that would have made his fortune because his wife refuses to move away from Mother and the girls. Many a man's whole life is ruled by what Mother says and what Father thinks, and is dominated in every way not only by his wife but also by his wife's family. So, son, I'd think a long time before I would tie up with any girl who put her family before me.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: About a year ago I met a man who is now 38 years old and divorced. He never mentioned my age to me but at times would remark about girls of 35 being older than he liked and would be sarcastic about old maids. This man and I fell in love with each other and we were married, but when we were getting the marriage license I gave my age as 32, whereas I am really 37, though I do not look more than 28. The only thing that keeps me from being the happiest being on earth is because I have deceived my husband. What must I do?

WORRIED.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Keep your mouth shut. Never tell him. For two reasons. One is because if you only look 28 that is all you really are. And in the second place because his idea that a woman ceases to be attractive at 35 is silly and, anyway, the difference between your ages is neglible.

U.S. Plans

learned is that nations which become intent on conquest will not be deflected by appeasement, "nor in the pursuit of their evil purpose will they show any consideration for the rights of the weak." General McNaughton repeated Prime Minister St. Laurent's quotation: 'It is the strong men, armed, who keepeth the peace.'

"Positive Strength"

"I say that it is only through the positive strength in being, individual and collective, of the nations who think alike with us that we can create a deterrent which will stop those who would not hesitate to plunge us once again into war the moment they deemed that this would be to their advantage". (The General spat out these last phrases with sudden fervour.)

The second lesson we should have learned is that "lust for conquest grows progressively with what it feeds upon".

Korea has been an application of these two lessons; and the thwarting of Russia's designs in Korea has given the West a key to a method of dealing with Russia, and suggested a feasible reform of UN procedure.

Mr. Dean Acheson, American Secretary of State explained the American "United Action for Peace" plan, which General McNaughton thinks will revive UN and make it as potent as it should be to maintain peace, although "I do not say that in itself it is any complete guarantee against a repetition of the Korean situation". General McNaughton's explanation of the American plan which fifty out of the sixty UN memberships have accepted, is reported verbatim on page 16.1 "It is the aim of the 'United Action for Peace' resolution that collective action against aggression may be possible even at a time when the Soviet becomes more ready for war and despite the absence of such a combination of the fortuitous circumstances which made that action possible in the case of Korea".

For Undeveloped Countries

The speaker turned from these imminent matters to other UN activities, particularly the great plan to help backward countries to develop their own resources and farm technicians.

Canada is taking a share in this work, having already contributed, through the federal government, $850,000 for the first 18 months of the program.

Canada is also sharing in the Commonwealth scheme to help undeveloped areas in Asia; her cash contribution for the first 12 months of this program has been $400,000. General McNaughton asked that any persons, industries or schools in Peterborough knowing of experts willing to offer their services under these far-reaching schemes to communicate with Ottawa. Canadian technical ability is highly valued in UN and Commonwealth circles.

These schemes are an altruistic part of the West's efforts to combat Communism. "We must seek to include on the side of democracy the understanding and support of the less fortunate peoples in the Far East and in other less-developed areas of the world; to secure this we must be willing to show, and show in a practical way, our interest in their welfare."

Question period

General McNaughton consented to answer questions following his formal address. A lively half-hour followed, which showed that the speaker's remarks had not fallen on barren ground. The General was at his best in this informal period, replying to questions about UN, Korea, Africa, Russian intentions and the like with nimble wit, frankness and ease, and where necessary, adroitly. He seemed to enjoy this experience as much as the audience did.

General McNaughton was thanked by Colonel R. J. Bolton.

COOKBOOK OF THE WEEK

Candy Fun to Make, Eat Book Gives 250 Recipes

Candies are so much fun to make and so much more fun eat that a glance at "250 Ways to Make Candy" will tempt novice or experienced cook to try her hand at this delightful bit of culinary art. This Candy Book is the fifteenth in the series of Cookbooks currently being made available a book-a-week to readers of The Examiner. Like its predecessors it covers a single phase of cooking thoroughly and temptingly.

Imagine the "Ohs!" and "Ahs!" of pleasure as you bring to the table a plate of assorted homemade candies. If you are brave you can try making dipped candies or luscious fondants, but if you want to start out with something simple, try one of these two recipes from the Candy Book.

Candied Orange Peel

4 large navel oranges, sugar, cold water.

Peel oranges and cut the rinds into pieces of uniform size, about 1 inch long by ¼ inch wide. Place in a saucepan, cover with cold water, and bring almost to the boiling point, but do not boil. Pour off the scalding water and repeat this process two more times. Add to the peel its own weight in granulated sugar, cover with cold water and boil until syrup shows in the saucepan when it is tipped. Spread on a buttered platter, and roll in sugar when partially cooled.

Lemon peel may be candied in the same way.

The peel of oranges, lemons or grapefruit may be candied in larger pieces as halves or quarters if a longer cooking time in the syrup is allowed. Dry thoroughly before packing in airtight containers.

Opera Creams

2 cups sugar, ½ cup cream, ½ cup milk, 1 tablespoon glucose, 2 teaspoons vanilla extract, confectioners' sugar.

Place the sugar, cream, milk and glucose in a saucepan; bring slowly to boiling point, stirring constantly. Then cook, stirring constantly, to 240 degrees, or to the soft-ball stage. Let stand for 1 minute, then pour gently into a wet platter. When cool, beat with a wooden spoon until thick. Cover, let stand for about 1 hour, then add the vanilla extract. Knead until creamy, using confectioners' sugar to prevent sticking. Cover, let stand for about 3 hours, then roll out and cut into squares. Allow to harden on waxed paper for 24 hours.

All you need to do to obtain this excellent Candy Book is clip a coupon from page 2 of any issue of this newspaper ond present it with 25c at The Examiner Office, Braund's Food Markets, or to your Examiner carrier boy.

If you wish to order your copy by mail, send 30c (5c additional for postage and handling) to Cookbook Department, Examiner Office, Peterborough.

What's Right

You know a bit of gossip that you realize should not be spread about.

WRONG: Tell only a few close friends warning them not to "tell a soul."

RIGHT: Realize that the only way to help keep gossip from spreading is to let it stop with you.

Courtesy And Friendly Service

Is an important part of Evangeline Policy

The greatest satisfaction we have in this business is the appreciation of many thousands of customers who tell us how much they enjoy shopping in an Evangeline Shop.

Of course, we're very proud of the girls who staff our various stores and whose efforts are responsible for this expression of appreciation.

It is rather difficult to define—but when you come in—you'll realize that there is an atmosphere of friendliness and helpful service. It is an attempt on our part to make shopping a real pleasure.

We believe you'll find the same atmosphere in

6—In Memoriams

ROLLINS—In loving memory of Gordon, who died three years ago, October 26.
Nothing can ever take away
The love a heart holds dear,
Fond memories linger every day
Remembrance keeps him near.
—Lovingly remembered by brother Jack, sister-in-law Betty and children.

ROLLINS—In loving memory of our dear son, Gordon, who passed away three years ago, Oct. 27.
Three years have gone, no one can tell
The loss of one we loved so well,
Short and sudden was the call
Of one so dearly loved by all.
The blow was great, the shock severe
We little thought his death so near,
And only those who have loved can tell,
The pain of parting without farewell.
—Ever remembered by Mom, Dad, brothers and sister.

WOOD—In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Hamlet Wood, who passed from this life Oct. 27, 1944.
Sunshine fades and shadows fall
But sweet remembrance outlasts all.
—Ever remembered by his wife and family.

7—Cards of Thanks

Women Unable To Handle Two Careers

MONTREAL (CP)— A woman cannot be a complete success both as a housewife and career-woman. That was the theme of an address by Dr. Charlotte Whitton, CBE, at a meeting of the Montreal Business and Professional Women's Club.

"No woman's job and no woman's home can be balanced or subdivided, and each receive a woman's best," Dr. Whitton said. "One or the other is going to be short-changed."

If in the pursuit of her career a woman entrusts the care of her home to another woman, then it remains a house, not a home. Yet it is the "standard of the day" for a woman to be both mother and bread-winner, she said.

Dr. Whitton also spoke on discrimination against women in the business field. She noted that in spite of women's importance in the consumer market, few women could be found on the directorates of banks or corporations which deal with the Canadian market.

There is definite need for women in the business world "for leadership of women," she said.

CGIT Doings

ST. PAUL'S

Senior group of St. Paul's CGIT met at the church Monday night. The plans for the tea to be held on November 1 were discussed jointly with intermediate groups. Helen Ward, president, read coming events of the next two months. The proper uniform of a CGIT girl was discussed and questions were answered on this subject. Plans were made for making plaster of paris moulds to sell at the tea, at the home of Ping Hum, on Tuesday evening.

Stagger System By PCVS No Tax Saving

Ratepayers of Peterborough will be saving very little money by refusing the $585,000 wanted by the Board of Education for a second collegiate in the city. C. S. Browne, principal of PCVS, gave this warning Thursday night speaking at the regular Kinsmen meeting.

If the ratepayers say "no" at the referendum vote in the coming civic elections, it will mean that PCVS will have to go on "the stagger system." That is, the school will be divided into two groups of students: one on shifts from 8 a.m. to 11 a.m. and 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. and the other on shifts from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. and 3 p.m. to 6 p.m.

Apart from the inconvenience, the system would require a 20 per cent addition to the staff, according to Department of Education estimates. At the end of the year the ratepayer would find the municipality had saved only a few thousand dollars on the annual debenture payment for a new collegiate, said Mr. Browne. The problem of future accommodation in this rapidly-expanding city would be still unsolved.

(At present there are less than 1,300 students at PCVS but in 1959 the Board is estimating that 2,200 will be wanting secondary education. To begin with the new collegiate on Monaghan Rd. S., still in the planning stage, will accommodate 500 students, but eventually 1,000.)

Record Set In June

Last June's graduates set a record for PCVS, Mr. Browne said. Altogether they won eight scholarships against province-wide competition; three of them were major scholarships.

Thirty-four of a class of 72 are now attending university. At one time the average was four or five that went on to university but for the last few years the number has been 18.

"This record was set in spite of increasingly difficult conditions at school, such as lack of accommodation and the teachers being overloaded with work."

"Education will deteriorate in Peterborough unless this problem of accommodation is solved," said Mr. Browne.

Urges Bylaw Acceptance

If the money bylaw were defeated the stagged system would be introduced. An alternative to this would be converting the assembly hall—the only large-sized one in Peterborough—into five classrooms.

Mr. Browne urged the Kinsmen to vote for the money bylaw and make these steps unnecessary. He thanked the club for its financial help this year to needy students and explained also the various scholarships and bursaries at PCVS.

He was introduced by Harry Tewsley and thanked by President Harley Weir. Vice-president Clare Boorman was in the chair.

Union Investigation Of Red Activity Ends

MONTREAL, Oct. 27 (CP) — An investigation of charges that the Canadian leadership of the United Textile Workers (AFL-TLC) is Communist-influenced ended here Thursday.

Lloyd Klenert, chairman of the inquiry board, would not comment on the four-day investigation.

He told a press conference that the facts collected would be judged by the executive committee of the UTW and a report would be made public in six or eight weeks.

He said a trial will be held if charges made before the investigations warrant such action. Mr. Klenert said he had the fullest co-operation from the members and staff of the UTW here, as well as from the labor movement in the city, while collecting data for the inquiry board.

OHA Orders Guelph Hold Up Centreman

GUELPH, Oct. 27 — (CP) — Guelph Biltmores have been instructed by the Ontario Hockey Association not to play centre Willie Marshall until Ken Laufman reports to Toronto St. Michael's College, club officials said last night.

Marshall, subject of a dispute between the two clubs, was awarded Guelph by the OHA in a deal whereby St. Mike's would get Laufman and John Negladuke.

But Laufman has refused to report to St. Mike's and the Toronto team claims he is being held by Guelph who deny the allegation.

West Needs Stronger Army To Halt Aggression - Marshall

FELLING A TREE in the fall is Mikko Mustonen, pulpwood cutter of Caramat, Ont. First he notches with his axe, then moves down for a low cut with his buck-saw. "High-stumping" is a major crime in the bush, where every possible inch of the matured timber must be used. The buck-saw, or Suede-saw, is kept sharp with often as much as an hour's filing each night. Mikko was born in Finland. He sets himself a comfortable pace of two cords a day.

2 Cabinet Ministers Left As PC's Leave Coalition

BRANDON, Man., Oct. 28—(CP)—Speculation centred today on the future of two Progressive Conservative Cabinet Ministers remaining in the Manitoba coalition government following the party's decision to break up its 10-year partnership with the Liberals.

Education Minister W. C. Miller and Labor Minister C. E. Greenlay pleaded at the two-day Provincial convention yesterday for continuance of the coalition for the life of the present legislature. Both said they were elected at last year's general election under the coalition banner and felt under obligation to stick by the bipartisan administration.

But the convention voted them down 205 to 26, then voted 215 to 17 to end the political arrangement begun during the war years and continued in to peace time.

Errick F. Willis, the party leader who resigned as deputy minister Aug. 10 and called on Progressive Conservatives to go into opposition was re-elected leader. Pro-coalitionists nominated no candidate and Mr. Willis was elected 188 to 35 over 37-year-old George Victor Hastings of Winnipeg who said the party needed a new leader in order to start out with a clean slate.

The convention turned today to resolutions and the election of officers.

Drew Confers

George Drew, national leader of the party who addressed a banquet last night, continued talks with provincial leaders.

Mr. Willis before his re-election answered criticisms of his leadership. Dr. J. S. Poole of Neepawa, who said dissolution of the coalition "probably will mean an election," claimed Mr. Willis had supported Premier Douglas Campbell during the Red river floods last spring and had sided with the Liberals on the Compulsory marketing of coarse grains and the redistribution of legislature seats.

India May Shift Policies In UN

By STEVEN V. DAVID

NEW DELHI, India, Oct. 28 (AP) — India's ambassador to Communist China today confirmed reports that Chinese army units have been ordered to advance into Tibet, but has no confirmation that any troops actually have entered the country, a government spokesman said.

This was the first word from Ambassador K. M. Pannikar since reports of the invasion order circulated.

The spokesman added that no reply has been received from Peiping to the Indian note yesterday expressing regret and surprise at the invasion order.

Referring to Lake Success reports that India would cease her efforts to win Communist China a place in the United Nations, the spokesman said the government policy would "naturally have to be reviewed in light of latest developments."

Earlier, a foreign ministry source said India had informally advised Peiping that an invasion of Tibet would "make more difficult" Indian efforts to secure Red China a U.N. seat.

Concerned

It is known that top Indian officials are gravely concerned over the invasion order, particularly since the Communist Chinese government assured Prime Minister Nehru a few months ago that it desired a peaceful solution to the question of Tibet's future.

Sioux Helps In Air Support

TOKYO, Oct. 28 (CP). — The Canadian destroyer Sioux accompanied the British carrier Theseus in a tour of air-support duty along the Korean coast during the last two weeks, it was disclosed today.

The action was made known when Rear-Admiral William Andrewes, commander of the Commonwealth fleet in Korean waters gave congratulations for the work of the 14,000-ton British carrier.

The Sioux is commanded by Cmdr. Paul Taylor of Victoria, B. C. The two other Canadian ships in Korean waters are the destroyers Athabaskan and Cayuga.

Aircraft based on the Theseus flew 401 sorties in 13 days. The only casualty was a sea fury pilot shot down by anti-aircraft fire and later rescued by an American helicopter.

During its tour of duty, the Theseus steamed 4,476 miles.

The Australian destroyer Bataan, and the British destroyer Constance also accompanied the carrier.

Alexander To Serve Extra Year

Governor-General Started Term In Canada In 1946

OTTAWA, Oct. 28—(CP)—The Prime Minister's office announced today an extension of the term of Viscount Alexander as Governor-General of Canada.

The announcement said the King has approved an extension for an additional year from the spring of 1951.

Viscount Alexander became Governor-General in 1946.

The statement quoted Prime Minister St. Laurent as saying he was sure the people of Canada "generally will share the gratification of his colleagues and himself that Lord and Lady Alexander have found it both pleasing and convenient to agree to this extension of their stay in Canada."

Radar Scientist Lost In Germany

GOETTINGEN, Germany, Oct. 28—(Reuters)—Allied and German security agents in West Germany today searched for Dr. Walter Zimmermann, described as a rocket and radar expert, who mysteriously disappeared here four weeks ago.

A British spokesman at Bonn said last night that British authorities were investigating reports that the 36-year-old rocket expert may have been kidnapped by the Russians after disappearing from his Goettingen home.

Police headquarters here said he was employed at a newly-built electrical plant for special high-frequency apparatus.

Frau Luise Hennebero, Zimmermann's 34-year-old fiancee, who lives here, told reporters she had been working with Zimmermann for several years in a research institute under control of the Soviet military administration of Germany and later fled to the British zone.

Weather Forecasts To 2008

Weather History Repeats Itself—Australian

BRISBANE, Australia, Oct. 28 —(Reuters)— Australians may soon be able to learn the worst about their weather, not only a few months ahead but for years into the future.

Inigo Jones, 78-year-old long-range weather forecaster, has already made so many accurate predictions that he is regarded by many as a weather genius. Some of his forecasts, however, relate to periods so far ahead that others say that he is a crank.

Government Helps

Queensland farmers count heavily on his predictions and the Queensland government has sufficient confidence in his forecasts to pay a subsidy to help him gather the data on which he builds his predictions. Recently they appointed an assistant, schoolteacher Clifford Hamay, to learn his methods and carry on his work after him.

Inigo Jones works on the basic theory that weather history repeats itself.

"If my theory is confirmed," he said in an interview, "we have a system that will give at any time and with complete accuracy the positions and periods of all good and bad seasons on which our material prosperity so greatly depends."

Weatherman 62 Years

Inigo Jones, who has been in the weather business ever since he left school in 1888, is a descendant of the Bernouilli family which has produced astronomers, philosophers and mathematicians.

Guided by data already in hand Jones has issued drought predictios for the period from now until the year 2008. To build his theory, he has collected weather data from all over the world. Some of it goes back 2,000 years.

Believed Controls Growth

Scientists Find Acid Clue To Cancer

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE

KANSAS CITY, Kas., Oct. 28—(AP)—The University of Kansas medical school is making progress in its study of the No. 1 suspect in the cause of cancer.

This suspect is nucleic acid, a substance present in all living tissues.

Dr. Robert E. Stowell, director of the Kansas University cancer resarch program, described the work yesterday.

Central Growth

"We are looking," Dr. Stowell said, "for the substances that control growth, because cancer is abnormal growth. It is extremly important to identify them, because we could hope to control the growth of cancers.

"The best prospect is nucleic acid and nucleo-proteins, the latter being proteins containing this acid. These nuclear proteins form the genes, which control heredity.

Several Clues

"We have a number of leads. We know there are two types of the acid. And that cancer cells contain excess nucleic acid. Also that X-rays and ultra-violet rays, both of which can cause cancer, alter the acid.

"The viruses that cause animal cancer likewise contain the acid. So do the particles called the 'milk factor' that cause breast cancer in mice.

Use Mice

"When we feed cleaning fluid to mive, the acid in the liver tissue cells decreases and the cells die. But the young cells which replace the dead tissues contain excess nucleic acid.

"Despite the excess, they do not become cancerous.

"We think some now unknown change in the nucleic acid may account for this difference, and we are just getting methods to study these changes."

U.S. Will Help Philippines If Gov't Reforms

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28 (AP) —The United States proposed today a $250,000,000 five-year economic aid program for the Philippines provided the island republic makes sweeping reforms in its government.

The proposal was sent by President Truman to Philippine President Elpidio Quirino in Manila. Details of the plan for dealing with an economic crisis were laid down in the long-secret report of a special survey mission headed by Daniel W. Bell, a former undersecretary of the treasury. It was made public today both here and in Manila.

On the basis of its two-month, one-the-spot survey last summer, Bell's mission said bluntly that the Philippine government had failed to deal effectively with its post-war problems.

"Inefficiency and even corruption in the government service are widespread," the mission reported.

The mission outlined a detailed seven-point program based largely on Filipino self-help. It provided for tight U.S. supervision over the spending of the proposed $250,000,000 in loans and grants.

Truman made no mention of the sharp feeling already stirred up in the islands over the Bell report. Quirino announced in Manila last night that the author of an article accusing Washington of harboring worse grafters than the Philippines had been disciplined.

Sweden's King Critically Ill

STOCKHOLM, Oct. 28 (AP)— King Gustaf of Sweden, his tired old heart weakening in the grip of critical illness, was making a determined fight for life today in hushed Drottingholm Palace.

The 92-year-old monarch's physician, Dr. Hjalmar Casserman, said early today that Gustaf was "strikingly tired" though still "clear and lucid of mind." He said the king's heart functions, affected by a bronchial catarrh, showed "no profound deterioration" during the night.

Europe's oldest reigning king, who delighted his countrymen by playing tennis until he was 88 and hunting until 91, was stricken yesterday noon. The first medical bulletin spoke of "considerably affected heart functions," and "marked difficulty in breathing."

Alarm spread through the capital. It was not eased by subsequent announcements from the specialists ministering to the staunch old ruler. People clustered around news stands for extra editions, or stayed close to their radios to follow developments.

Few Koreans Appear To Sit In Assembly

SEOUL, Korea, Oct. 28 (Reuters), — Only 62 of the 210 members of the South Korean National Assembly appeared here for a special session today. Many had been delayed by transport difficulties. This was 43 short of the required minimum for an assembly meeting, and the proposed session had to be postponed.

North Korean Army Stalls Allied Force Moving North

SEOUL, Oct. 28—(AP)—Tank-led North Koreans today slowed to a walk the United Nations juggernaut grinding toward the Manchurian border in Northwest Korea. The Communists were fighting with reborn fury. Reports persisted that their ranks were bolstered by Chinese Communists wearing North Korean uniforms.

On the northeast coast, South Koreans drove into the port of Songjin, 75 miles southeast of the border.

But more than 150 miles to the south, near liberated Wonsan, 4,000 by-passed Korean Reds battled United States Marines. They ambushed one leatherneck company and cut it to pieces.

Heavy and well-organized Communist opposition appeared in North-west Korea. A Red convoy of 50 vehicles was reported sighted 12 miles south of the frontier town of Kanggye.

Chinese Mystery

A spokesman at Gen. MacArthur's headquarters in Tokyo said intelligence sources could neither confirm nor deny presence of Chinese Communist troops in North Korea. But he said the situation is not considered alarming.

Intelligence officers expressed general belief that the "Chinese" would prove to be Manchurian-born Korans, possibly trained in Chinese armies.

American, Commonwealth, and South Korean forces found it hard going today in the north-west area along a 35-mile front extending from Kasan to Onjong —points 45 to 55 miles from the Manchurian frontier.

Far to the north of Onjong, a regiment of the South Korean 6th Division reached the Yalu River boundary Thursday, but had to pull back because the Reds cut its supply road.

Brigade Stalled

The Commonwealth 27th Brigade, operating just ahead of the US 24th Division's 5th Regiment, was forced to halt near Kasan. Two miles west of the town the British and Australian soldiers came under fire of tank-suported Reds dug in on hills on both sides of the road.

South-east of Kasan at Anju, engineers repaired a bridge across the Chongchon River for a build-up of Commonwealth and American forces.

Twenty-five miles northeast of Kasan, the South Korean 1st Division gouged out gains of three miles north and west of Unsan.

But the Red resistance, which forced South Korean troops into a withdrawal during a day-long fight Thursday, continued bitter.

Beat Reds

Last night the division beat off one Red counter-attack from the north and another from the west. One South Korean regiment had to fall back half a mile, but later retook the ground.

The stiffest fighting broke out about 10 miles northeast of Unsan at Onjong.

AP correspondent Tom Lambert reported that the Reds wrested the town from the South Korean 6th Division's 2nd Regiment and snapped a trap on three battalions.

Police Guard CIO Officials

DETROIT, Oct. 28 (AP). — Police, acting after reports of intimidation, today guarded the homes of members of a CIO union trial committee hearing "Communist subservience" charges against a group of fellow members.

Guards were posted at the homes of the 11 trial committee members following reports of untoward incidents last night at the homes of two and anonymous telephone "threats."

A trial committee of Ford Local 600 of the United Auto Workers (CIO) is hearing testimony against five minor local officers.

The five are charged by Carl Stellato, Local 600 president, with following the Communist party line. The accused group face expulsion from union office if convicted.

Two members of the trial committee, Frank Savage, chairman and Anthony Guido, told police of incidents at their homes.

Both said stones were thrown against their houses shortly after midnight and afterwards came telephone threats.

The callers warned them to leave the trial committee, they said, or that "next time it won't be a stone."

Threat of UN Force Failed To Stop Red Invasion Of Korea
Proposed Army Inadequate For Europe

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28—(AP)—Defence Secretary George C. Marshall appealed today to the defence ministers of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization to be "realistic in the appreciation of the present critical situation" as they shape the combined force for defence against Communism. "We must face facts without prejudice," the United States Defence Chief said in an address prepared for the opening of the Defence Committee session.

He offered some sober words of warning about what can happen if the North Atlantic countries let down in their efforts to build strong defences against Communism.

"We must not sink into complacency or over-confidence, for the struggle may only have begun," he said. And then, at another point in his speech:

Not Enough

"What has been done so far, good as it may be, is far from enough."

The potential collective force of the United Nations was not enough to deter the aggressors in Korea. The actual collective forces of the North Atlantic States might not be enough to deter aggression in our North Atlantic area and definitely was not enough to resist attack without serious and critical initial losses.

"That gap in our military strength we must close as quickly as possible. Out of this meeting should come definite recommendations that not only will make us stronger to meet the present threats but to do so more quickly than past procedure would indicate."

Marshall also proposed that the peoples of the pact members be told what each of the countries is giving to the common force. The people "are entitled to a bill of particulars."

"The eyes of the whole world I imagine are upon this meeting today," he said. "Our citizens are eager to ascertain what forces are to be raised, how, and when and what every nation under the North Atlantic Pact will contribute. They are clearly entitled to such information."

Evicted From YMCA Man Shoots Secretary

ATLANTA, Oct. 28 (CP) — An evicted and violently-disgruntled former YMCA resident shot down and killed the general secretary on the Y steps Friday, then took refuge in an evangelistic crusade office until police came for him.

The victim was William L. Parker, 60, widely known for YMCA work. He died at a hospital with two pistol wounds in the head, one in the chest and two in the side.

As a half dozen stunned witnesses watched, the assailant fired upon Parker in the Y doorway.

Boyer In Toronto Phones Police, Passport Seized

TORONTO, Oct. 28. (CP)—Dr. Raymond Boyer, wealthy Montreal chemist who once served a penitentiary term for wartime violation of Canada's Official Secrets Act, is here today and says he has no intention of leaving Canada.

Last night, External Affairs Minister Pearson said in New York that the RCMP had lifted Dr. Boyer's passport two days ago "as a result of information which had reached the government and which led them to believe that Dr. Boyer intended to leave the country."

He did not amplify his statement.

The question of Dr. Boyer's whereabouts was brought up by Toronto newspaper stories yesterday which said he had disappeared and might be heading for Russia. A check with the RCMP in Montreal indicated that Dr. Boyer's passport had been picked up, and a further check with Dr. Boyer's friends indicated he might be vacationing in the Laurentians north of Montreal.

Called Mounties

Dr. Boyer last night called the RCMP and announced his presence in Toronto. He also issued a statement to the Toronto Globe and Mail which said:

"I have no intention of leaving the country. I have not applied for any visas. One of the newspapers said I had applied for a

2 Die In Crash In Kingston

KINGSTON, Oct. 28 (CP). — Two persons were killed and one severely injured today when an automobile collided with a truck at a street intersection.

Ernest Gordon, Toronto truck driver and Mary Nichoveau, Kingston, a passenger in the automobile, were burned to death in the collision.

Dr. H. M. Campbell of Kingston, driver of the automobile, was taken to hospital where an operation was performed in an effort to save his left leg.

Police said Dr. Campbell was driving home Miss Nichoveau, who had been baby-sitting with his children while he and Mrs. Campbell were at a Queen's University dance.

Russians Find Oil In South-West China

TAIPEI, Formosa, Oct. 28—(Reuters)—Russian oil prospectors have discovered 40 workable oil-fields in Shensi, southwestern China, reports reaching here said today.

The reports said news of the Russian finds has been passed to the Sino-Russian petroleum enterprise in Peiping, Communist capital, and further exploration is being planned.

About 30 Russian geologists and oil experts went to Shensi following the Chinese-Russian agreement on exploitation of mineral products early this year.

You Can Make Your Own Flying Saucer

Reporter Glues Together Wood, Tin Foil, Balloons—It Works

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The following story was submitted to the Associated Press with a note that said, "Don't think I'm nuts I just got fed up with people reporting flying saucers. I made one. It worked fine. We let it go Friday, a pay day when Main Street was crowded with shoppers. It seemed as though every telephone in town went into action.")

By PETE STEVENSON,
Lock Haven Express Staff Writer.

LOCK HAVEN, Pa., Oct. 28 — (AP).—This flying saucer business is nothing to get excited about.

It's easy as pie to build one. It's not much harder to make it fly. There is nothing mysterious about it. Any boy who builds model planes can put a flyable saucer together in a couple of hours.

Snarled Traffic

It took a little invention on the part of the "flying saucer department" of the Lock Haven, Pa., Express but on a recent afternoon a saucer flew over central Pennsylvania. It caused quite a stir and traffic was snarled on main street. Here's how it's done:

Go to a shop where model planes are sold. Buy some four-foot lengths of quarter-inch Balsa wood strips and some airplane cement. At a grocery store purchase two or three rolls of aluminum foil. Get a ball of kite string and a box of balloons.

Instructions

Before setting to work order a tank of helium. Then follow these instructions and you'll have a flying saucer.

Lay out a circle of balsa strips on the carpet. Secure the ends together with string and cement. Now reinforce the circle with a couple of cross-sections of balsa. Repeat the process and you have the top and bottom of your saucer.

Cover the circle frameworks with aluminum foil. Use cellophane tape to secure the seams. Then fill the balloons with helium, placing them between the two circles like the meat in a sandwich. Keep the balloons inside the two circular sides by lashing the top and bottom together with string.

Get Clear Space

Make sure there are no trees or telephone wires nearby then let her go and it will rise into the sky. Once the home-made disk is up a 100 feet or so and moves with the wind, you can't tell the difference from a genuine article.

This should settle the flying saucer problem for all time, don't you think?

Claxton Suggests Gen. Eisenhower Allied Commander

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28—(CP)—Canada's Defence Minister has come out for the appointment of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower as Supreme Commander of Allied Forces in Europe. And, amid a growing belief that the General is slated to receive the post, Eisenhower has indicated that he is willing to take on the peacetime equivalent of the job he held during the Second World War. Brooke Claxton, here to represent Canada at today's meeting of the North Atlantic defence ministers, told a press conference yesterday that he knows of no one better than Eisenhower for the job of commanding a combined force to defend Western Europe.

Eisenhower, Supreme Allied Commander in Europe during the Second World War and now president of Columbia University, said that if he is named to the post "I am a soldier and will do as I am told to do."

The meeting of the defence heads of the North Atlantic pact is expected to propose the country which will provide the supreme commander. The government of that country then would name the man for the post.

Nothing Official

While there has been no official word of the country to select the supreme commander, it is generally believed the United States will be named and President Truman will then ask Eisenhower to assume the post.

Eisenhower today will hold conferences with the president and Army Secretary Pace.

Claxton disclosed that the defence ministers will discuss organization of the integrated defence force for Western Europe and how to bring this force into being as soon as possible.

Duplessis Cuts Throne Debate

QUEBEC, Oct. 28 — (CP) — Premier Duplessis announced yesterday that legislation will take precedence over the throne-speech debate when the Quebec legislature session opens Nov. 8.

The premier said that after speeches by the mover and seconder of the address in reply to the speech from the throne the debate usually following will be adjourned until January after a December adjournment.

Havelock Boy Awarded First Oratory Contest

Gary McNeely, 11, of Havelock, was awarded first prize at the Peterborough District Oratorical Contest held at the Normal School Friday night. The subject of his speech: "The Mighty Midget of Birdland (The Hummingbird)"

Second prize went to Isabel Fulton for her address on "Reforestation" and Patsy Hester stood third speaking on "A Visit to an Indian Mission."

C. E. Fox, Normal School master, in his criticisms of the speeches explained that the contestants were judged for their appearance, stage manner, speech, choice of topic and the structure of their address.

"We placed Gary McNeely first, because his talk sounded very much like a personal experience that has led to some extensive research," Mr. Fox stated. "His manner captured the audience. He had good pitch and his pauses were most effective."

One of the main criticisms of the judges was the choice of topics and speech that seemed to be above the understanding of students in Grade 7 and 8.

First and second prize winners will compete in the Inter-County Contest to be held in Havelock, November 17.

The names of the remaining contestants are Sheila Greenley, Keene; Barbara Brown, Norwood; Albert Walsh, Westwood and Arlene Payne, Smith.

The judges were C. E. Fox, J. D. Londerville and J. L. Ireland, all masters at the Peterborough Normal School.

Mrs. Joseph Moore of Lakefield, first vice-president of the Women's Institute was chairman.

The contest was sponsored by the Peterborough District Women's Institute.

Campbellford Chief Brings Back Prisoner

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 28 — (ENS).—Chief Constable George H. Hardy of Campbellford has returned from Montreal, where he went to bring back a prisoner, Gerald Collins, on the wanted list since he left town some weeks ago.

Montreal police apprehended Collins in the Seamen's Club, after they realized his description tallied with that on a circular sent out after the man fled to escape charges of cruelty to animals, and three charges of assault. He is now in Cobourg jail awaiting trial.

Poultry Venture A Failure Co-Op Members Informed

Prospects of earnings estimated at $20,000 for distribution among patrons dwindled to an operating loss of $613.79 largely in the poultry department, Vern Campbell, chairman of the board of directors of Peterborough District Co-Operative Services, reported to the annual meeting of members Friday night at the Empress Hotel.

The business year ended June 30, 1950. Cheque for the sale of the poultry section was received yesterday, Mr. J. Howard McLean, accountant, announced.

"Some members may be inclined to criticize us for disposing of that branch of our services," Mr. Campbell said in his review of the year to the large attendance of members.

"We made two grave mistakes. We should never have allowed ourselves to become saddled with the poultry department in the first place, and if we had given it away the day after we did get into it we would have been better off to the extent of $60,000."

Mr. Campbell remarked that this venture into the marketing of cleaned, eviscerated and frozen poultry accomplished one objective. Through research and application, Peterborough Co-Op. put out a product that was in a class by itself.

"There was not another plant in Ontario doing that quality of job. There was only one in western Canada, but "the cost priced us out of the market."

Specialty Business

Quite frankly, Mr. Campbell said that "we realized we were dabbling in a specialty business. It required three essential things, a buyer capable of going out to the producers and telling them what we required; we needed continuity of supply; and finally a good salesman. We had an excellent salesman, but he was better at selling optimism than chickens."

Loss averaged one dollar a bird on the 10,000 birds bought in the last three months of the year, and the plant had incurred a further loss of $8,000 in the previous nine months.

Mr. Campbell recalled difficulties of business caused by such disturbances as the increasingly high price of feed through the winter and spring months, heavy liquidation of poultry flocks last December and January with consequent drop in demand for feeds, and other circumstances which caused deep concern to the directors.

A retrenchment program was mapped out, and at one stage the bank proposed a debenture security. One of the directors moved for a survey of the business by the Ontario government, for a report an early meeting. That suggestion was conveyed to Frank C. Paterson, agricultural representative, who asked for an interview with Hon. T. L. Kennedy.

"The minister told him to come alone to Toronto. I informed Mr. Paterson that all we wanted was time to do the things we had in mind. We owe more to our agricultural representative for what he did in Toronto that day than many of us appreciate. I know he thoroughly presented the situation as it existed here, and I feel sure he conveyed in a diplomatic way that time was our greatest asset."

Mr. Campbell said Mr. Paterson was told here that the directors were afraid of getting the bank on their necks.

"He reported to us that he got a resounding clap on the back, and that Col. Kennedy told him to go back to Peterborough and tell us to quit worrying, that the bank wouldn't be on our necks yet."

Mr. Campbell said the survey was never made, and the meeting which had been proposed for receiving its findings was never called.

"If that meeting had been held, and the members had voted 'no' (on the debenture security which had been mentioned) I don't know what would have happened."

The Co-Op retrenchment program went into effect with decision to sell the poultry plant, reduce inventories and so on. At an earlier stage of the year's progress, Mr. Campbell said the directors "did not think they were overly optimistic in looking forward to having $20,000 to distribute in patronage dividends."

Ahead of Last Year

He referred to an increase in the capital cost or allowance for depreciation from $12,000 in the previous year to $19,000. Mr. Campbell said "we are between $6,000 and $7,000 farther ahead than last year."

The directors received on July 17 the written resignation of Mr. R. M. Pierson, who had given a verbal notice several months before that. It became effective on August 15. He was succeeded by Norman McMurchy of Co-Op staff. Mr. Campbell concluded his statement to the meeting with an outline of the retrenchment program. He thanked the directors for their co-operation during a trying year, the members of Co-Op and also the entire staff. Mr. Pierson resigned to give all his time to Canadian Timber Structure Ltd.

The financial statement by Howard McLean, after Mr. McMurchy's report, follows for the year to June 30, last:

Net earnings from operations before provision for interest and depreciation — $38,760.07.

Patronage refunds received—$3,812.98.

Dividends on United Co-Op of Ontario shares—$1,281.50 amounting to $43,854.55.

Deduct

Depreciation allowance or capital cost: $19,393; interest payments, $25,075.34; total $44,468.34.

Net loss for the year, $613.79.

Statement of reserves position: Balance of reserves June 30, 1949, $36,961.71 (built up in nine years operations).

Sundry credits, $173.50.

Total $37,135.21.

Education payments, $2,001.92; loss on livestock operations, $80.80; loss for year 1950, $613.79. Amounting to $2,696.51.

Balance of reserves at June 30, 1950, $34,438.70.

Guest speaker of the preceding dinner was W. H. J. Tisdale, assistant manager of the Canadian Co-Operative Wool Growers.

At the conclusion of the discussion of the financial report, Mr. Tisdale interjected: "Your meeting takes me back 28 years to an occasion very similar to this, but not so large an attendance. We were up against a situation such as you are coming through. From my experience I'd like to assure you that the first 30 years are always the worst. You've only had 10, and I believe you are over the worst. If you all roll up your sleeves and get behind your directors and management, everything will be all right."

In his dinner talk Mr. Tisdale, introduced by Frank C. Paterson, sketched the history of the Wool Growers Co-Operative, in its 30 years of service to wool producers, to its present business of handling 70 per cent of the Canadian wool clip. He told of an early venture into dealing in woollen goods, and feminine apparel, a mail order business, that nearly wrecked the wool co-operative in its third year.

Mr. Tisdale also offered the members and directors advice from his long experience, and described a co-operative as a form of big business, operated by a group of people working together as harmoniously as possible for the benefit of all. He cited the western grain pool, British Columbia fruit co-operative and the United Farmers of Ontario as three examples of the success that could be attained.

MILLBROOK, Oct. 28 (ENS)— The death occurred Wednesday evening from a heart attack of Wilbert Charles Walsh of the Fallis Line, Cavan township. Mr. Walsh would have been 72 next Tuesday. He had been plowing during the afternoon and had lain down to rest in the evening. Shortly afterwards he was discovered to be dying.

Mr. Walsh was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Walsh (nee Martha Evans). He was unmarried and had been born on the same farm on which he died, and where he lived all his life.

Mr. Walsh was the last surviving member of his family. Two sisters, Jenny and Mabel, predeceased him.

Surviving cousins include. Dr. Charles Walsh of Vancouver, George Walsh, KC, of Toronto; Alfred Walsh, or Montreal; T. A. Campbell of Millbrook; Ormond Ball of Scott's Corners; Mrs. Reg Armstrong of [illegible]nto, and Miss Lula Heard who had made her home on the Walsh farm for some years and who was with Mr. Walsh at the time of his death.

Rev. T. G. Husser, BA, BD, of St. Andrew's United Church, where Mr. Walsh was a member, conducted the funeral service from McPherson's funeral home at 2 o'clock on Friday. Interment was in Gardner's cemetery, Cavan township. The pallbearers were Clarence Ball, Milton Fallis, Reginald Fallis, Nathaniel Belch, Austin Sutton, neighbors and Wesley Heard of Whitby.

Damage Unexplained Car Driver In Custody

Harold T. Harding, 19, of 260 Euclid Ave., has been taken into custody by provincial police after his damaged car early today ran into the ditch on Highway 28 at Kendry crossing.

The right side of the car was smashed in from a previous accident but Harding has so far given no satisfactory explanation of what happened. Damage is estimated at $250.

Provincial Constable Roy Feeley is investigating.

THREE AWARDS to be known as "The President's Medal, University of Western Ontario, London," will be awarded annually for the best short story, article and single poem written by a Canadian citizen and published in the English language in any calendar year. The judging has been entrusted to the Governor- General's Awards Board, Canadian Authors Association. Announcement of the awards was made at a meeting of a special Canadian Authors Association committee. Scott young, internationally-known Omemee author, who suggested wider recognition for Canadian writers, left, discusses prototype of the new medal with Dr. G. Edward Hall, President, University of Western Ontario.

Western Gives Literary Medals

TORONTO, Oct. 28 CP)—Annual literary awards for Canadians, recognizing the best short story, article and single poem appearing in English-language publications, will be given starting with work published in 1951, it was announced last night.

At present, five governor-general's awards and the Leacock medal for humor are awarded annually through the Canadian Authors Association for books adjudged best in their fields. The three aditional awards will recognize merit in fields not covered by these honors.

The new awards will be known as "the President's Medals, the University of Western Ontario." Announcement of their establishment is made by Dr. G. E. Hall, president of the university, and Franklin Davey McDowell, chairman of the governor-general's awards board, the Canadian Authors Association, to which the annual judging has been entrusted.

Dr. Hall, in making the announcement, said: "It was recognized that the governor-general's medals for the five book classifications and the Leacock Medal for humor have had stimulating influences upon Canadian writers. But still certain fields of writing were not covered. With a course in creative writing within the honors course of English language and literature and an honors course in journalism, it was only natural that this university should wish to encourage Canadians in those fields of writing at present without recognized competitive awards."

Mr. McDowell said the governor-general's awards and the Leacock medal had been won by a wide cross-section of Canadian authors. The new president's medals would be of great value by their enlargement of recognition to other fields of writing Dr. W. G. Hardy, president of the CAA, called them an outstanding contribution to Canadian letters.

The suggestion that recognition be given to literary work other than in book form was made at the last annual meeting of the CAA by Scott Young, of Omemee, Ont., outstanding free lance writer.

All entries must be given by submission, each entry being in the form of tearsheets giving name of publication and date of issue. Entries should be sent to the Governor-General's Awards Board, the Canadian Authors Association, 7A Forest Hill Road, Toronto.

If in the opinion of the judges the work in any of the three categories is not deemed of sufficient merit, the award will be withheld for that year.

School Inspector Dies

TORONTO, Oct. 28 (CP). — Alexander Austin Jordan, 89-year-old retired chief inspector of schools for York Township, died Friday night. During his teaching career he was successively principal of schools at Meaford, Prescott, Port Hope, Kingston and Sturgeon Falls. In 1936 Queen's University, his alma mater, honored him with the degree of Doctor of Laws.

Honey Crop Drops

OTTAWA, Oct. 28 (CP). — Canada's honey crop fell below average this year, the Bureau of Statistics reported Friday. The crop amounted to 30,717,000 pounds, compared with 33,204,000 in 1949. Ontario, largest producer, accounted for about one-third of the year's crop at 10,157,000 pounds, against 10,809,000 in 1949.

Oil Saves Money

VANCOUVER, Oct. 28 (CP) — Revenue Minister McCann said in an interview Friday that Canadians will save $150,000,000 in American exchange due to Alberta oil developments. He forecast that the Canadian dollar may ultimately become of more value than the American dollar.

Old Era Fading As Jolson Dies

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 28 (AP)—Looking at the week's news:

The death of Al Jolson Monday night was a grave loss to the magic of the show world. His tireless singing and jesting will be missed by all.

After the first shock of Jolson's death was over, Hollywood observers discussed the significance of it. They concluded that a great era of American show business is fading.

It's true that Jolson could keep up with today's popular favorites —the Hopes, the Crosbys, the Bennys and Sinatras. But actually he harked to the time when our national amusement was not as mechanized and standardized as it is today.

Jolson got his start in minstrel shows at the Winter Garden. Among his contemporaries were such great names as Will Rogers, W. C. Fields, Lillian Russell, Bert Williams, Marilyn Miller, Weber and Fields. All are now dead.

And minstrel shows and vaudeville are dead, too. The question arises: Where will the Jolsons of the future come from?...

Speaking of oldtimers, there are still some around and they're going strong. People like Eddie Cantor, Jimmy Durante, Bobby Clark, George Jessel and Sophie Tucker.

Title of the week is "Love is Better Than Ever," which will star Elizabeth Taylor and Larry Parks. Like the industry's current slogan, "Movies are better than ever," this brings up a number of issues.

Did love, like the movies, hit a slump after the war? If love is better than ever, how much better? What has brought the improvement? This is very confusing. Maybe they'd better call the picture "Love is as Good as it Ever Was"...

Cooking Course Given At Percy WI Meeting

WARKWORTH, Oct. 28 (ENS) —October meeting of the Percy Women's Institute was held on Tuesday at the home of Mrs. George McCubbin with 18 members and 15 visitors present.

A short course "Let's Cook It Right," was held in the council chamber when Miss Barbara Broadfoot, home economist from the Ontario Department of Agriculture conducted the meetings.

It was decided to sent $10 to the "Save the Children Fund."

Some of the members of the branch attended the district course on "Health Before and After 40" held at Codrington.

Mrs. George Arkels was appointed delegate to the Belleville convention November 8th and 9th.

A quilting party was planned to be held on Thursday t the home of Mrs. Clarence Potter.

The members decided against sending for the legislative grant this year.

Justice To Decide Enticement Case

TORONTO, Oct. 28 (CP)—Mr. Justice F. H. Barlow Friday night reserved judgment in the enticement suit brought against a 33-year-old blonde widow by Mrs. Gertrude Brydon.

Earlier Friday, Justice Barlow discharged a jury which for five days had heard testimony concerning Mrs. Brydon's charge that her husband was "enticed" away by her neighbor, Mrs. Ruth Abernethy.

He said "hearsay" evidence introduced by both lawyers as to the "state of mind" of principals in the case, would cause a mistrial in the hands of a jury.

Postmen's President

KINGSTON, Ont., Oct. 28 (CP) —Daniel C. Cross of Kingston Friday was elected national president of the Canadian Postal Employees Association.

Columnist Breaks Leg

TORONTO, Oct. 28 (CP). — Bruce West, staff writer for the Globe and Mail now on a European tour, fractured a leg when a horse he was riding fell on him on the outskirts of Berlin, it was learned Friday night. At the British military hospital in Spandau, Berlin, attendants said it will be three weeks before the break is mended.

$1,736,200 To Be Saved In Peterborough

Earlier this week our news columns reported that employees of the Peterborough works of the Canadian General Electric company had subscribed to $1,070,700 worth of the new issue of Canada Savings Bonds. There was no canvassing; no drumming of patriotic motives and the like, as used during the war to increase the sale of Victory Bonds. The blank forms were available to those who wished to use them, and to have payments for the bonds deducted from their pay envelopes. This is a most remarkable showing. Today our news columns report on Savings Bond sales in other plants in the city. These bring the total subscription by employees of Peterborough industry to $1,736,200.

* * *

Savings and plans to save on this scale are a comment both on the character of our people engaged in industry and on their ability to save from their pay. They are making enough money to put aside, or to plan to put aside, as much as one and three-quarter million dollars, by weekly payments deducted from pay envelopes at their request by the companies. And they are planning for the future, a future when they will put this money to good use. There is, of course, patriotic sense to the buying of savings bonds at this time. There is already a great deal of money free to compete for goods. This has an inflationary effect. The voluntary withholding, as savings, of money from the buyer's market is a deterrent to inflation. Our industrial workers are wisely not splurging all their money now; they are holding it back as savings for good, substantial days ahead.

$1,040 Taxes For Family of Four

Even if the dollar is now worth much less than it was in 1939, and therefore the tax dollar is worth less, Canada's taxes are nightmarishly high. In 1939 taxes collected by federal, provincial and municipal governments amounted to $95 for every man, woman and child in the country. Now it is $260 a person. That works out to $3,600,000,000.

People tend to look at the two chief direct taxes, income and municipal tax on property, as the main bugaboos. They are not. As a matter of fact, municipalities collect only 13 per cent. of that huge total of more than three and a half billion dollars. Income tax accounts for about 19 per cent. The rest of the money comes through taxes on corporation, business taxes, customs, and vast numbers of indirect taxes such as the sales tax. It is obvious that if a couple with two children pay an average of $1,044 dollars a year (four times the $260 per person), they do not pay much of it in income tax or real estate. The rest is hidden in a hundred different ways, but they still pay it.

If people began to reckon the cost of governing in terms of $260 a head, more than a thousand dollars for a family of four, they would be more sharply alert than they now are to the purposes to which their money is put by Federal and Provincial authorities, and to the ways it is spent. Thinking of taxes only in terms of income tax and property tax, they tend to have spasmodic bursts of indignation or penny-pinching, usually once a year for as each tax bill becomes due. If they fully realized the vast amounts of money being taken from them in taxes they might interest themselves more in the business of government and the activities of government, such as external affairs (which now consumes many millions), U.N. which takes a slice of hundreds of thousands, the recruiting, equipment and despatch of our military forces, the operation of railways, post offices and other government enterprises. It is their money that is being spent, $1,000 a year of it raised by a family of four; they should be much more interested than they are in where that money goes.

Much of Canada's greatly increased governmental expenditures are direct results of the war and of her expansion. (The gross national production has risen from $5½ billion in 1939 to $17 billion.) We cannot, for instance, now avoid spending tens of millions of dollars on national defence. But if we cannot avoid these expenditures the people, as careful citizens, should interest themselves in the uses to which it is put, and the thrift with which it is disbursed.

The Federal Government is, of course, the chief spender; it gets 67 per cent. of the total tax receipts (in 1939 it got 48 per cent.). But provincial governments get a sizeable nibble, a fifth of all tax money collected from all sources. In 1939 the provinces got 22 per cent. Because the spending body is right under the citizens' noses, and the tax is taken from them directly, municipal governments get the most constant scrutiny and most criticism of their spending. But they have all told only 13 per cent of the total to spend. If the big spenders, the provinces and Ottawa, were given as passionate and detailed scrutiny as the municipal governments there would be a much healthier attitude throughout the country about government business and spending.

Montreal-Toronto Via Peterborough

Montrealers and Torontonians are beginning to discover that the long and generally dreary Highway 2 route between the two cities is neither the fastest nor the most pleasant. They are learning from experience that they can go up the "back" way through Ottawa and Peterborough with despatch and find it interesting as well.

A Montrealer reported his discovery of the alternative route in a letter to the editor of the Montreal Gazette. He went up to Ottawa (thus avoiding the dangers of the Soulanges Canal road), then over to Perth and on to Peterborough by Number 7. He then forked down Number 28 to Welcome, thence on to Number 2 and the new double highway from Oshawa.

Here is part of what this writer said:

I had heard that the road between Perth and Peterborough had now been paved so I decided to go to Toronto via Ottawa and found a first-class clearly-marked highway all of the way. On my speedometer it showed that the distance to Toronto was about 30 miles greater than by highway No. 2, but because it is easier to maintain better average speed (without speeding at all) the time taken for the journey was much less.... Between Ottawa and Peterborough most of the surfacing is new and the scenery is much more interesting than the road alongside the river and the saving in time is in the few towns which must be negotiated.

After Ottawa there is nothing like the traffic difficulties through Brockville, Belleville and Kingston because the road by-passes Perth and by-passes the business district of Peterborough and I feel that I can recommend it as a very suitable alternative route to Toronto.

We in Peterborough have known for several years the advantages of this back route, certainly for driving to Montreal from this city. Ottawans also appreciate it for their trips to Toronto. And really, it is not much longer than the lakeshore-St. Lawrence route between the two big cities; about seven per cent. The map is our proof. The river runs northeast, not due east, and Montreal is further north than Toronto. Taking the northern run at the Peterborough end, rather than spreading it along the whole dull southern route's length, is no hardship.

The Decline Of Hazing

The Brantford Expositor—with which paper we appear, rather surprisingly, to be in full communion at present—comments with satisfaction on the decline of hazing in Canadian universities during recent years. We can all remember the days when hazing was severe; for a few years before 1929 it would not have been too much to describe it as savage. For some reason it was considered unsuitable for boys and girls to go to a university without being subjected, in their first year, to a variety of more or less rough practical jokes.

Occasionally there were rather ugly outbreaks. Not all second-year students knew when a joke had gone far enough. One of the curious features of the hazing craze was that few university presidents took any stand against it, though Principal Hamilton Fyfe at Queen's showed that firm faculty opposition could reduce hazing from a large to a small feature of university life.

We do not think that anybody will regret the disuse into which hazing has fallen. It never made sense, and the nonsense which it made was rarely of a very lively kind. Nobody that we have ever heard of was improved by it; very few people, discussing it reasonably, could give any excuse for its continuance.

University students today are a more sober lot than they were twenty years ago; their attitude toward their work lacks the good-time fervour of that earlier day. It no longer seems funny to them to rub tar in a freshman's hair or to march him through the streets in his pyjamas. And in this respect we think that their sense of humour is greatly improved.

NOTE AND COMMENT

The newest jewellery, we read, is fastened to the skin with suction cups. There are going to be nasty moments when some underbred fellow mistakes a priceless pearl for a wart, and offers to cure it with a bit of bacon rind or an old dishrag.

The Marchbanks Correspondence

To Mr. Adam Mulligrub
Dear Mulligrub:

Please send me, at once —

(1) 12 bundles containing twelve different Canadian leaves.

(2) 12 packages containing twelve different Canadian nuts.

Some schoolchildren in whom I am interested have been told by their teachers that they must make collections of leaves and nuts as specified above and it occurs to me that you, as a market gardener, are the man to supply them. I shall sell the collections to the children for 50 cents each, or $1 for both leaves and nuts, and will send you half. The teacher will be happy, you will be happy, and I shall be happy.

I do not know why the teacher wants this rubbish. The ways of teachers are past understanding. Personally I regard leaves as things to be burned at this time of year. Perhaps she stuffs her mattress with them.

Anyhow, she wants them, and I have been utterly unsuccessful in getting any together. The fact is, I can only recognize three kinds of leaf. There is the evergreen leaf, which is easy to recognize because it smells like bath salts and probably pricks you. Then there is the maple leaf, which has a jagged edge. All other leaves, to me are beech leaves.

The teacher, however, thinks differently. She sent one of my small clients back to me with a beech leaf which she said was from a Kentucky coffee tree. Did you ever hear of such a thing? Two other beech leaves she identified as cucumber tree and black cherry. She also asserts that there are 36 kinds of maple and even 6 kinds of willow, which I had always considered a straightforward, honest, one-type tree. The children who bother me about this talk wildly of such trees as the mockernut and hickory. I do not believe that such trees exist.

As for nuts, I believed until last week that nuts were made in those shops which smell so strongly of hot fat. To me a nut has always been a confection, something like a humbug or a Scotch mint. But it appears that nuts grow on trees.

Rush the colections as fast as you can, and I will see if I can drum up any more trade among the Nature Study set. They may be wanting stuffed birds next.

Yours faithfully,
S. MARCHBANKS.

To Amyas Pilgarlic, Esq.
Dear Pil:

I have been living among the ghosts this week. A few nights ago I went to see a film in which Gloria Swanson is making a return to the screen; as well as herself, H. B. Warner, Buster Keaton and Erich von Stroheim were in it, all looking a good deal older than when last I saw them. It was a good film, and I enjoyed it, but I was disturbed by the appearance of the people on the screen; they looked so old and so worn. And this forced upon me the horrid feeling that I, too, must look old and worn to the younger members of the audience who were seeing them for the first time. Several people of my own age and older, I observed, left the theatre quietly humming "A Day's March Nearer Home".

This was as nothing, however, to what happened to me when I absent-mindedly bought an album of Caruso records a few days ago. When I was noticeably yonger than I am now, and Caruso was the idol of millions, his records were the high-brow's delight, for not much good music was recorded then. When he died in 1921 I recall that for a few weeks there was inflicted upon the public a popular song which, even by the standards of today, was outstandingly vulgar and cheap. It began —

God needed a songbird in Heaven
So he took Caruso there.

I turned on my gramophone, and there was Caruso, as sweet, as clear, as golden, and, I must say, just as deafeningly loud as ever. I recalled the days when it was not uncommon upon being invited to a friend's house, to find that one was expected to sit all evening listening to a concert of records; sometimes even printed programs were supplied. If one behaved decently, there were refreshments at the end.

I never relished such festivities. I can sit for hours in a theatre or concert hall, watching and listening to live people. But more than half an hour of mechanical reproduction gives me the fidgets. At such concerts as I have described, the records of Caruso were kept for the last, along with Arthur Prior's band playing the Overture to "William Tell". In the third spasm of this last piece there is a very famous and difficult flute obligatto, which the old style of recording did not even catch, except for an occasional squeak; nobody could hear it on the gramophone, but we knew it was there, somewhere, out of earshot, and we marvelled accordingly.

How I have run on. Growing old, obviously.
SAM.

To Raymond Cataplasm, M.D., F.R.C.P.
Dear Dr. Cataplasm:

A physician who writes for the papers says that a slow heartbeat is a good thing. This is just what I have been saying for years, but nobody will listen. You doctors are really the most self-sufficient tribe!

What animals live longest? Those with the slowest heartbeat. I have no figures handy, but I remember hunting them up once in a medical book. An elephant lives to a great age, and its heart beats about 45 times to a minute. A tortoise, if my memory serves me aright, has a heartbeat of approximately 22 thumps a minute. When you get down to really long-lived animals, like crocodiles, the beat is likely to be two or three times a minute. And I once pressed my ear to a parrot's bosom (getting badly scratched for my pains) and I couldn't hear any heartbeat at all.

Don't you think you could extend your patients' lives indefinitely, and make your fortune and ruin the insurance companies, simply by giving your patients some simple drug to slow down their hearts to the speed of a crocodile's?

Yours perennial patient,
SAMUEL MARCHBANKS.

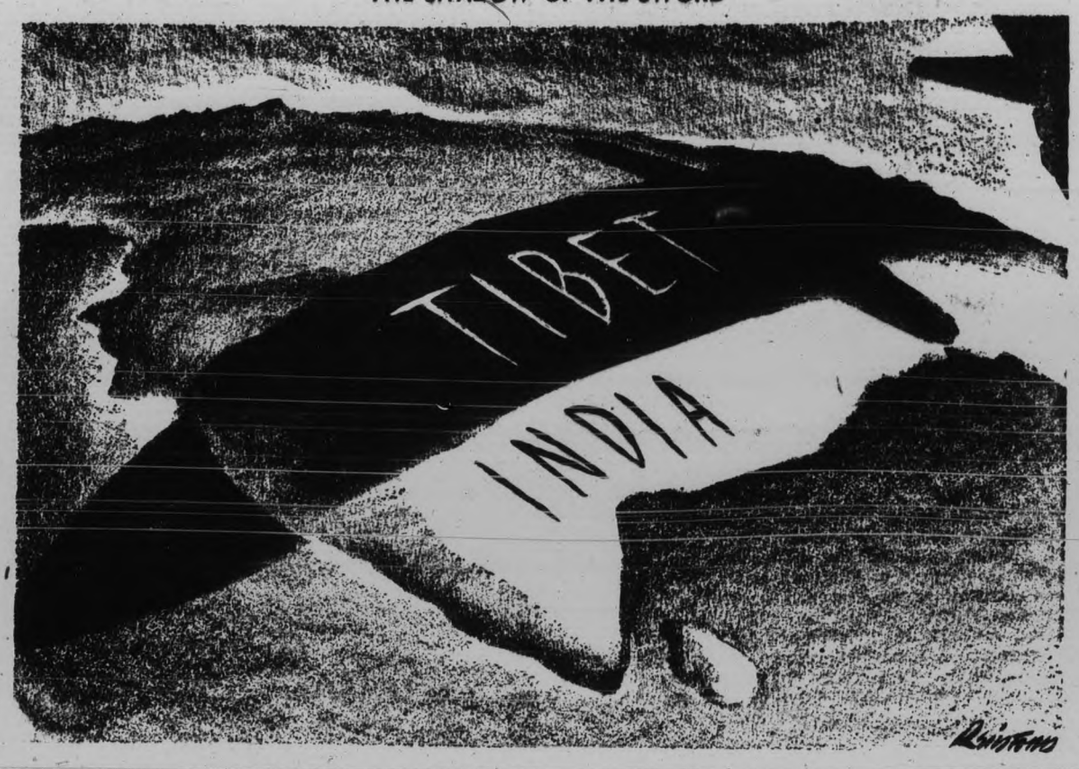
To Samuel Marchbanks, Esq.
Dear Marchbanks:

I can't go on like this! It half-kills me to live near a man who hates me the way you do! My lawyers say that if you take that case to court it might cost me my shirt, even if I win. I'm sorry I put the skunk in your car. Honest, Marchbanks!

So here's what I'll do. I'll sell you my car, at a sacrifice. It is a Pierce Arrow 1923, and I'll let you have it for $1500, cash.

I can't say fairer than that, can I?

Your despondent neighbour,
DICK DANDIPRAT.



To Richard Dandiprat
Abhorred Dandiprat:

The jaws of our irresistible legal system are closing upon you. It will be my pleasure, when the jaws open, to pick you out of their teeth.

Yours with demoniacal laughter,
MARCHBANKS.

Letters To The Editor

THANKS FROM TROJANS

Sir: This letter is to acknowledge the donations we received when we appealed for help for the Trojan Girls' Club.

We heartily thank Local 524 U.E., Silverwoods Dairy, Bill Grey of Bill's Place on Brown St., Mr. and Mrs. T. P. Davies and Mr. H. Roach for their generous donations.

We also thank the Examiner for publishing our appeal.

WARNS AGAINST RUSSIA

Sir: Re your article "Peace Mongering". I think if you will look the facts in the face you will see that the Communist element which at present dominates Russia, is determined to obstruct every move for peace on the part of the democracies. They talk peace but do everything in their power to cause confusion, strikes and unrest in all parts of the world; and it would be a blessing for humanity if men like Mr. Churchill were heeded, and their timely warnings promptly attended to, instead of pandering to the group of oppressors and liars whose only aim is to enslave the rest of humanity:

Those Russians who have escaped from their homeland all testify to the ruthless cruelty and oppression of Stalin and his followers.

VERITAS.

APPRECIATED BOOK REVIEW

Sir: I wonder just how many letters your beautiful nostalgic piece on Donn Byrne will bring forth. It was only the other day that I was telling a friend who shares my tastes in reading all about him; she had somehow missed him. I have heard now he died, but will not tell you since you prefer not to hear; except that I understand that it was in his beloved Ireland, and was, it a cruelly untimely death, at least a fairly appropriate one. And it was more than twenty years ago, for he was already dead when my favourite teacher at Montreal High introduced an entranced group of First Formers to him back in 1928.

You mention several of his novels but you didn't mention Crusade; did you miss that? Get it by all means. There's one wonderful chapter where the young knight happens upon a Coptic church in old Jerusalem and watches the Ethiopian priests chanting and dancing to the glory of God. And do you remember the part in Hangman's House where the old Irishman tells the long rambling tale of "Dan Hoyser"?

Destiny Bay was the first of his novels that I read, and I remember being caught up in its spell from the very first sentence. You know, of course, that it was the basis for that rather lovely old technicolour film with Henry Fonda and Annabella, "Wings of the Morning"?

Are Donn Byrne's novels still in print, and if so who publishes them? If not, it is high time someone brought them out in an appropriate uniform edition at a moderate price.

Thank you for your evocative review. I'm glad there's at least one newspaper in Canada which goes off the beaten track into such pleasant bypaths every once in a while.

Sincerely,
JOAN HUNTLEY.

Toronto.

Students Curbed

(Windsor Star)

Rt. Hon. Herbert Morrison has pin-pointed another mark of Communism's lack of moral courage by stating that Soviet Russia doesn't dare permit student exchanges.

Other countries, even if there are degrees of variation in their political systems, freely give and receive students. It's an effort toward greater individual development and better international understanding. But Russia stands aloof.

The reason probably is that Russia doubts their indoctrination has gone deep enough. Properly supervised, the sending of diplomatic and economic missions to other lands can be chanced. It's difficult to get the same quality of political dependability in students.

Impressionable, quick to observe propaganda falsehoods, they make a bad risk. Russia likes to assemble pinkish students from other lands within its borders for so-called congresses. The poverty of its program is shown in its fear to let Russian youth travel abroad with equal freedom

Libel

(The New Yorker)

It did our nostalgic old heart good last week to read of the settlement of a libel suit, on the West Coast, in which the plaintiff was awarded $3,500 damages because the defendant had called him a "swashbuckling opportunist" and a "boastful ruffian".

There was a time when nearly all libel suits involved some such intemperate appraisal of character, and to call a man a cad was generally considered far more insulting than to call him a Red. It's cheering to know, these days when so many libel suits have to do with ideological charges, that our judiciary still has the time and the patience to deal with the matter of one man's affront to the dignity of another man.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And one of the scribes came, and having heard them reasoning together, and perceiving that he had answered them well, asked him, Which is the first commandment of all?

And Jesus answered him, The first of all the commandments is, Hear, O Israel; The Lord our God is one Lord: and thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind, and with all thy strength: this is the first commandment. And the second is like, namely this, Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself. There is none other commandment greater than these.

And the scribe said unto him, Well, Master, thou hast said the truth: for there is one God; and there is none other but he: and to love him with all the heart, and with all the understanding, and with all the soul, and with all the strength, and to love his neighbour as himself, is more than all whole burnt offerings and sacrifices.

And when Jesus saw that he answered discreetly, he said unto him, Thou art not far from the kingdom of God. (Mark 12: 28-34.)

The Hollywood film director who had lunch very unwisely returned to the studio for an interview with a distinguished author. His visitor was waiting.

The director sat down and took up what he thought was a manuscript, but what, in reality, was the local telephone directory. This he studied gravely for some moments before saying: "Say, this isn't a bad li'l tale, but you'll have to cut down the number of characters."

Baldwin Created Peterborough Town

By DAVE WHITE

(Ed. Note: In this account Mr. White of the Examiner staff examines the Baldwin Act by which Peterborough was incorporated in 1850.)

A granite monument marks the grave in St. James' Cemetery, Toronto, of a man who might well be an honorary member of Peterborough's Centennial Committee. For it was the statesmanship of the Hon. Robert Baldwin (1804-1858) that made this year's celebration possible.

January 1, 1950, was the 100th anniversary of "The Baldwin Act," hailed as the greatest piece of legislation in the province's municipal history from 1793 right up to the present day.

Passed in 1849 and coming into effect the next year, the Act gave all municipalities—counties, villages, townships, towns and cities—local autonomy not previously enjoyed. It roughly paralleled the fight for "responsible government" on the provincial scale.

Peterborough was just one of 15 towns specifically mentioned in the Act. Others were Belleville, Brantford, Brockville, Bytown (Ottawa), Cobourg, Cornwall, Dundas, Goderich, London, Niagara, Picton, Port Hope, Prescott, and Saint Catharines.

Other municipalities incorporated the same year were Ontario's only three cities—Toronto, Kingston and Hamilton—and six villages.

Baldwin (who together with Louis LaFontaine headed the reform ministry) saw the need for responsible government in Canada. In brief, this meant that the cabinet or council, in line with British practice, must be chosen from the party in power; and it would remain in power only so long as it was able to maintain a majority in the House.

This became permanently established in the years 1848-1851 under the Baldwin-LaFontaine ministry and the enlightened generalship of Lord Elgin.

Baldwin's Vision

The need for directly elected officials in the various municipalities instead of all-powerful justices of the peace, appointed by the Crown, was also realized by Baldwin.

Before the Baldwin Act the major unit of local government was the "district." For example Peterborough County was part of the Colborne district.

Dr. G. E. Hall, president of the University of Western Ontario, describes how the centrally-appointed justices of the peace controlled the people and finances at the Quarter Sessions of the Peace.

"The Quarter Sessions of the Peace had complete authority over finances, each year estimating by some strange means the expenditure of the district, and then struck a local tax rate sufficient to meet the bill.

"The wages of local members of Parliament, interest and principal on borrowed monies for public works were paid from additional taxes levied by the Quarter Sessions. Ferries, roads, bridges, jails, court houses, markets and all the rules and regulations which were part of their construction and operation were vested in the Quarter Sessions.

"The appointment of townclerks, pound-keepers, and collectors were at one time prerogatives of these unqualified arbitrary justices of the peace, who for long held the oath-administering monopoly."

Besides being undemocratic the system was unworkable because, as Dr. Hall puts it, 'both the number and the quality of the justices was wanting'.

Rural centres suffered most; through private Acts many of the urban centres acquired ever-growing powers. Generally it was a struggle to determine whether the Crown and its appointees would turn over their jealously-guarded powers to elected representatives.

Baldwin knew the political climate at the time.

"Solons in Muddy York"

"....the people in the colony and their representatives in the Assembly had become more and more restive under this system. They became more and more desirous of governing themselves instead of being governed by a body of self-constituted solons in Muddy York. The rise of democracy was making itself felt in Canada just as it was making itself felt in the two countries that most influenced Canada — the United States and Great Britain."

Some progress toward a more democratic and efficient method of local government was made before 1849, but the drastic reorganization was embodied in the Baldwin Act: "An Act (according to the preamble) to provide by one general law for the erection of municipal councils and the establishment and regulation of police in and for the several counties, cities, towns, townships and villages in Upper Canada."

It was a detailed and comprehensive piece of legislation covering a host of matters of interest to the community. It defined the various municipalities.

Towns Over 3,000

A village attaining 3,000 inhabitants could become a town (such as Peterborough). The town might incorporate adjacent streets and bridges convenient to it.

The town of Peterborough had to be divided into at least three wards, none of them having less than 500 inhabitants. However, Peterborough was large enough to be divivded into four wards, and they were defined in the Act:

East ward to comprise all that part of the town east of George Street. North ward — west of George Street, south of Brock Street, and north of Simcoe Street. South ward—west of George, and south of Simcoe, including the Government Reserve south of the town; and Central ward—west of George, south of Brock, and north of Simcoe.

Boundaries Defined

The town's boundaries were defined, following the description of a previous survey. And there followed a long, detailed list setting out the jurisdiction of the town. Regulations could be drawn up by by-law.

Peterborough was empowered to make by-laws covering such varied items as establishing a police force, work house, and house of correction, building regulations, purchase of land for industrial farm, lighting, licensing of livery stables and public conveyances, assessing real property for special improvements, street cleaning, and the all-important power to borrow and levy rates.

There was an overriding omnibus clause giving the town permission to pass by-laws "for the peace, welfare, safety and good government of the town."

There was a proviso that these by-laws could not conflict with "an Act of Parliament of this Province or Upper Canada Parliament, or the general laws of that part of this province."

Maximum Fine £5

For breaking one of these by-laws nobody could be fined more than £5 or imprisoned more than 30 days; and an elected or appointed municipal official who refused to perform his duties could not be fined more than £20.

Further, the town was permitted to legislate on the many hundreds of matters of local concern only: From regulations on the use of highways and waterways to the elimination of "public nuisances" such as "privy vaults," slaughter houses, tanneries, gas works, blowing of horns, shouting and "unnatural noises" in the streets.

The town was empowered to seize and destroy all tainted and unwholesome meat, poultry, fish or other articles of food. Should a marketer fail to pay rent for his market stall his butcher's meat might be seized and sold after six hours notice.

One by-law regulated the making and selling of bread; if it was thought that some of the ingredients were deleterious, the bread could be seized and forfeited.

A similar free hand was given with enforcing an observance of the Sabbath; prevention of vice, drunkenness, profane swearing, obscene language (catch the distinction), and "any other species of immorality and indecency in the streets or other public places."

Mission Completed

Having completed his political mission to see responsible government in Canada and local autonomy in the hands of the municipalities, Baldwin resigned in 1851 at the age of 47.

Professor George E. Wilson, his biographer, sums up:

"Baldwin had not the talents to strike the popular imagination but amongst the makers of Canada there is none more worthy of remembrance."

Earlier this year an Examiner editorial saluted him:

'Robert Baldwin should be given his just and honorable due as the architect who made the Corporation of Peterborough a reality."

Hints On Horticulture

MUTILATING SHRUBS

The habit of the shrub alone determines its treatment and the time of treatment as far as pruning is concerned. Pruning being one of the most vital operations and which is improperly done, or at the wrong time, may result disastrously indeed. The manner in which the pruning is done will determine the success or failure of the plant to flower properly and also its shape, whether it will be of a pleasing one because natural and graceful, or grotesque and ugly because artificial.

Unfortunately we find as a rule among amateurs and also among many so-called professionals, a tendency to clip their shrubs, no matter what kind, during spring, to a given height and shape, and to say the least, the result is that a time when their natural beauty and gracefulnetss should be asserted, hideousness takes the place of these desirable attributes. In the individuals could only see one of these mutilated shrubs flowering beside one or its kind properly pruned and flowering in all its natural grandeur, they would never again clip a flowering shrub, for flowering shrubs should never be clipped.

It is only foliage shrubs such as the evergreens, privets or others which are planted in hedges which should be clipped to cause their foliage to become dense and serve its purpose as a barricade. Flowering shrubs in hedges should never be clipped, but be treated in the manner advocated for such previously. Specifically flowering hedges should be thinned when necessary to prune by removing the long and wayward growths. Keep the finer, uniform and graceful branches to produce their wealth of bloom.

Last week-end was quite a session for beagle breeders when large entries of dogs were put through their field trial paces at the first meet of the Peterborough Beagle Club, a fitting milestone in their first year of existence. After results were chalked up, visitors' dogs from Oshawa and Western Ontario walked away with most of the prizes but George Hill's Jacob's Jay Boy was up there with the best of them. It's great credit to this young enterprising club that members are determined to attract the best beagle flesh they could find to show their paces in Peterborough regardless of their own animals' showings. From what I overheard from outsiders the PBC boys are known as the best of sportsmen. What could be better praise than this?

Beagles are a mighty purty type of dogflesh as well as being useful to sportsmen, too. They were developed in England in the 16th century for running hares. Some types were so small that ladies carried them in riding cloak pockets. For all this apparent pampering they showed great heart for the chase when set down on game scents.

Would you believe it when district beaglers tell you that there are nearly 100 animals owned by PBC members? It is not a rich man's hobby by any means, for, the ordinary chap can keep two or more very cheaply—they eat very little. Beagles make good house pets and are especially affectionate with children.

Now here is an advance tip for your kiddies' Christmas shopping demands. A flop-eared beagle puppy for little Beatrice and Bertie should be tops for your consideration. Give me a shout and I will put you onto the source scent.

Oh! Deer. All Fed Up

Charlie Carson put me on the trail of one of those fairy stories of the woods with the lion and lamb twist. Louis Cadesky's farm superintendent, Ken Hunt of Lakehurst, he said, had been feeding a herd of deer on the 2500-acre estate this summer. One animal used to eat regularly with the deer hounds from their dishes. I was all for seeing this, toute suite. But a phone call to Ken dashed all hopes. The herd, Ken said, was released two weeks ago and nary an animal has been seen since. The call of the wild is very real indeed.

Busman Laurie Mitchell and restaurateur Dave Foster have been out in the duck blinds pretty faithfully without much luck. Early this week at daybreak on the Deer Bay marshes two flocks came over, fives and sixes. They brought down five out of six and four out of five, all butterballs. It has given them heart to try it again.

Many district partridge hunters have done very nicely by themselves during the past week now that the leaf screen is off. Bag limits have been taken off by many and they will bang away until this evening, the end of the first half of the season. It is ALL over for the district below Highway 7. The second shoot above Highway 7, which is from Nov. 6th to 18th, will fit in with the Kawartha deer season.

Armchair Fishing For Winter

The load on an outdoor writer's shoulders is lighted occasionally upon receipt of a publisher's ink-damp book for comments as to contents. I refer to David V. Reddick's FISHING IS A CINCH, published by McClelland and Stewart of Toronto that came this week in the mail. In its 297 pages Dave has packed away a great deal of personal experience and observations on that broad subject of fishing. It makes a valuable handbook and entertaining reading. Written in light story form, it covers the subject mighty thoroughly about the types of fish, gear, phobias, et al, that are familiar to everyone that wets a line.

For some reason or other, as the book was stripped of its wrapping, it flopped open at a section devoted to the experience of Dave and his wife Marie as they tangled with a Moby Dick muskie at South Bay on Stony Lake. Had they landed it, I would have been disappointed, but instead, the lunker was left lying in the dark waters. It might still be there and you, and you might have fought the same fish. It is this type of yarn and many others and the manner in which they are told that will make it delightful reading for all district fishermen. Geoffrey Goss' black and white chapter headings are excellent. So, for $4.50 at any of the city's bookstores, you've got yourselves some real entertainment for winter evenings.

Now that vacation time is ended along comes some progress news about the Big Cedar Lake Park, a public recreation ground that was given much publicity several months ago. Plans which were to have started in the Spring as to driving a road into the proposed property, were held up due to a new executive being appointed and delay in completing the charter at Queen's Park, all unavoidable. Six delegates who viewed the location as late as Wednesday of this week were Fred Marshall, Conservation Officer Stan Windsor, Percy Edwards, Jim Gordon, J. L. McKeever and Harold Rehill. They observed new road building progress, rough grading which will be completed before freeze-up, and tramped the bush for six miles. "We'll get cracking, come Spring," was the general opinion of the panel, "and hope to have the Park in full swing by summer."

Ladle In A Pot Of Gold

She Walks In Beauty

She walks in beauty, like the night
Of cloudless climes and starry skies;
And all that's best of dark and bright
Meet in her aspect and her eyes;
Thus mellow'd to that tender light
Which heaven to gaudy day denies.

One shade the more, one ray the less,
Had half impair'd the nameless grace,
Which waves in every raven tress,
Or softly lightens o'er her face;
Where thought serenely sweet express,
How pure, how dear their dwelling-place!

And on that cheek, and o'er that brow,
So soft, so calm, yet eloquent,
The smiles that win, the tints that glow,
But tell of days in goodness spent,
A mind at peace with all below,
A heart whose love is innocent.

Progress of Peterborough: XLII

Churches, Schools and Homes Multiply Fine Carriages and Patent Elixirs Appear

By HOWARD PAMMETT, M.A.

In 1851 the church denominations ranked by numbers as follows in Peterborough County Roman Catholics, Presbyterians, Anglicans, Methodists, Baptists, Bible Christians; the order had not changed by 1861, although all groups had grown in numbers. In Victoria the order was: Presbyterians, Anglicans, Roman Catholics, Methodists, Bible Christians, Quakers, Baptists and by 1861 as follows: Presbyterians, Roman Catholics, Anglicans, Methodists, Bible Christians, Baptists, Quakers. In both counties the first four denominations had 90% of the population.

In Cavan, the main groups were Anglicans, Methodists, Presbyterians, with Roman Catholics and Baptists numerically few. Because they were split into three or four sects, the Methodists had most ministers in the district; and their clergy moved more frequently. Miss C. Sanderson in "John Sanderson the First" (Tor. 1910) tells of her father's pilgrimage: after serving as a Methodist minister in Cavan 1831-40, he was moved in the next twenty years to Norwood, Lindsay, Chemong, Madoc, back to Cavan, before retiring to live in Peterborough.

In Cavan, the New Connection Methodists under Rev. J. Oates held services in various schools. After several years of home services, Fairmount Methodists built Fairmount Church in 1858. Due to the growth of Presbyterianism in Cavan and North Monaghan, Springville Presbyterians from 1854 had their own pastor. Downeyville Roman Catholic parish was organized in 1851 with Father Burke, and in 1858 they built a frame church.

At Lindsay, the first resident Methodist minister held services in 1852. From 1855 on Rev. J. Hickey of Fenelon held Anglican services at Lindsay, and a church was built in 1859, served by Rev. J. Vicars. In 1858 a Methodist congregation began services at Bobcaygeon with Rev. J. Dowler, building a frame church in 1862. The Methodists and others had missions on Chemong Lake for the Indians, but most Smith settlers journeyed to Peterborough for Sunday services. 30% of the buggies in the county were owned in Smith. At Lakefield, a stone Anglican church was opened Christmas Day, 1854, where Rev. P. Warren served until 1863.

Other Churches

In Dummer the Bible Christians had services before 1850 in one or two small missions. Methodist churches were built in 1850 on lot 21, con. III, and in 1852 on lot 26, con. IV, called Bethel and Zion Chapels. At Warsaw the Methodists held services in the Presbyterian Church until their own was built in 1869; this Presbyterian church had been built in 1856, and an Anglican church two years earlier. At Norwood, Christ Church (Anglican) was built in 1853, after earlier services in various homes and the Orange Hall; the first minister was Rev. J. Hilton. At Marmora, a small Methodist church was erected in 1858. At Keene in 1850 Rev. F. Andrews of the Presbyterian Church began a pastorate lasting 52 years, at $500 a year which was raised in 1879 to $800; in this church a "female association" was formed in 1851 which developed into the Ladies' Aid Society.

Where yet was ever found a mother
Who'd give her booby for another?
JOHN RAY:
Fables, 1, 1727

On his retirement from St. John's Church, Peterborough, in 1856, Rev. Mark Burnham built St. Mark's Church, Otonabee, and served in this mission field. In 1852 Father Farrely built a rectory at Hastings from which to serve Roman Catholic missions at Hastings, Norwood, Campbellford and Warkworth; before then mass had been celebrated in Tim Coughlan's house at Hastings. The first Presbyterian services at Hastings were in 1852, and a church was built six years later. The number of churches in the district doubled in the 1850s.

Ryerson School Act

Ryerson's School Act of 1850, the charter of Ontario schools, set up a Council of Public Instruction, strengthened the trustee boards, levied school taxes on all real property, and paved the way for free public school education. The schools improved steadily as more trained teachers came from Normal Schools, and government grants were used to buy books, maps, blackboards, etc. The district schools in 1850 have been described.

In Peterborough County by 1861 there were 56 schools—3 brick, 3 stone, 25 frame, 25 log—attended by 4,471 children (2,426 boys, 2,045 girls) for 11 months each year; 80% of children of school age were attending school. There were 241 maps in 36 schools, and in use also were 43 blackboards and 10 globes. 20 schools had libraries totalling 6,748 volumes. There was one separate school in Otonabee, opened in 1856, with 58 pupils. Legislative grants to the schools (excluding the town, described later) were $2,332.

In Victoria County there were 76 schools—2 brick, 2 stone, 13 frame, 60 log—attended by 4,980 children (2,697 boys, 2,283 girls) for 10 months a year; 85% of children of school age attended. 45 schools had a total of 279 maps, and in use also were 16 globes and 47 blackboards. There was a separate school in Lindsay, opened 1855, with 187 pupils under one (male) teacher. Legislative grants totalled $4,271. Thomas Benson was school superintendent for the United Counties in 1851-52, at £130 a year, but quit after one year. From 1852 on, there were township superintendents, of whom by 1857 were 9 (5 Victoria, 4 Peterborough).

Grammar Schools

In the counties there were five grammar schools, the original one at Peterborough, and others erected under the Grammar Schools Act 1853 at Norwood (1855), Lindsay (1857) Oakwood (1858) and Omemee (1859), getting legislative grants in 1860 totalling £1,370.

Peterborough Grammar School in 1860 under Headmaster James Dunn and one assistant had 73 pupils, 46 of them town residents; the fee was $1.50 for each 3-month term, and the school was open 12 months a year. The Headmaster received $800 a year, the assistant $400. The new brick school had been opened in 1858.

Norwood Grammar School, also a new brick building, had 28 pupils, 21 of them Norwood residents; the residents paid no fee, but others paid $1 a term. Wm. MacWilliams, Headmaster, received $680 a year.

Lindsay Grammar School, a frame building, had 16 pupils, 15 of them Lindsay residents, paying $2 a term, and was open only 6 months a year. R. Hudspeth, Headmaster, received $600 a year. Oakwood Grammar School, a frame building, had 70 pupils, 55 of them residents who paid no fee, non-residents paying $4 a term. Wm. Carr, Headmaster, received $700 a year, his assistant $250. Omemee Grammar School, a frame building, had 43 pupils, 40 Omemee residents paying $1 a term, the others paying $3 a term. S. Cowan, Headmaster, received $600 a year. In Peterborough County there were no private schools outside Peterborough town, but in Victoria there were three with a total of 14 pupils.

"Pleasure Carriages"

There are many indications of the increased prosperity of the district in the 1850s: the first "pleasure carriages" came into the district about 1850, yet by 1861 there were 784 in Peterborough, 440 in Victoria, and 455 in Cavan, besides 90 kept for hire. In fact, the period 1850 to 1910 might be called the "Buggy Era" as a majority of families procured two or three-seat buggies to take the family to church or visiting, as well as single-seat buggies for faster travelling over the improved roads and streets. In the towns, a few gentry were buying private carriages, hiring coachmen, and investing in smart matched teams of trotters. Between 1851 and 1861, "gentlemen with private means" increased from 22 to 49 in Peterborough, from 7 to 41 in Victoria. Small fortunes were being made in land, timber, and produce-trading. In the two counties the number of male servants increased from 77 to 166, female servants from 301 to 469.

White Collar Workers

People were buying more from stores, rather than making everything at home: in the United Counties of Peterborough and Victoria, merchants increased from 73 to 181 in the decade, grocers from 3 to 32, butchers from 5 to 20, tailors from 92 to 106, dressmakers and milliners from 18 to 41.

Craftsmen were being hired to do special jobs: carpenters and cabinetmakers increased from 166 to 430, blacksmiths from 107 to 137; painters from 10 to 30, bricklayers from 1 to 23, plasterers from 6 to 22; on the other hand, the number of coopers and masons remained steady, while weavers declined from 76 to 50 as more people bought ready-made clothes. The number of labourers for hire rose from 2,552 to 3,716, and the number of store and office clerks, "white-collar workers," from 118 to 186. People were more concerned about their physical, mental and spiritual welfare: the number of doctors increased from 8 to 26, teachers fom 56 (3 of them women) to 139 (24 of them women), clergy from 55 to 60.

With railways, stagelines and steamers beckoning, as well as private vehicles, there was much more travelling on business and pleasure: saddle and harness-makers increased from 25 to 49; keepers of hotels, inns and taverns from 45 to 83, in addition to 10 "saloon-keepers" listed in 1861. The 1851 census listed: in Peterborough County 107 stores and 29 inns, in Victoria 85 stores and 20 inns, in Cavan 61 stores and 9 inns, but the 1861 census unfortunately did not give figures for these buildings.

One important measure of increased comfort is shown in housing statistics:

The increase in log cabins in Peterborough and Victoria was mostly in the northern townships, being newly settled, as noted previously.

Wages in the 1850s continued much the same as in the previous decade. Prices rose until 1856 and then dipped due to depression, but averaged:

Food: Wheat 85-95c a bu., oats 30c a bu., hay $10-12 a ton; coffee 25c lb., tea 75c-$1.25 lb., sugar 12-22c lb., butter 10-15c lb., eggs 8-10c doz., raisins 25c lb., currants 20c lb., molasses 35c lb., bullseye candy 25c lb.

Clothing: Coats (men's) $3-6, linen coats $1, trousers $1-5, boots $4-5, moccasions $1.50, shoepacks $2.50, "canvass rubber shoes" 60c a pair, women's shoes $1.50-2, shirts 50c, gloves 10c, a shawl $2.50, a parasol $2.25, a muslin dress $1.80, a riding-skirt 90c, fulled cloth 80c a yard, flannel homespun 50c a yard.

Petes Trounce Markham In Rugged Puck Contest

The Petes pasted Markham Millionaires 9-3 here last night in an impressive showing in their senior "B" hockey exhibition before several hundred fans. It was a speedy, open and rugged tilt wtih each side drawing nine penalties, including misconducts to H. Forgie and Roberts of Markham. Plenty of slashing and some high-sticking were in evidence and several fights threatened.

After a 1-1 first frame, the Petes outscored the Millionaires 2-1 in the middle heat, and roared in strongly for a hefty 6-1 margin in the third stanza. Even when shy two players a couple of times, they flipped the disc into the hemp, showing plenty of class for the start of the season. The visitors fought back hard, too, and had one player injured with a skate gash and forced to leave.

Led The Way

Freddy Garvey led the local marksmen with two goals and two assists for four points in a fine showing. Honey Tompkins, Junior West, Ted Collins and Chum Fryia also stood out, each being in on three markers. Arn Dugan, Gus Leonard and Jim Millar were others who caught the eye, and were in on a goal apiece. Jack Davidson was solid on defence throughout, and Ray Harding hard to beat in goal. The whole team clicked well over the distance and finished stronger than the other side, as well as having an edge on play throughout.

Markham used two goalies, Hector standing out for two frames and Holliday finishing up in the cage. Williams got their first goal from McElroy, H. Forgie tallied the next from Sluce, and Clements hit the twine for their third tally in the last frame with McElroy also in on the play. They were full of fight but met a hefty team which didn't back up any, and it resulted in a game exceptionally rugged for an exhibition. The fans seemed to enjoy the show. Teams:

Markham — Goal, Hector; defence, Robertson and Allen; centre, Clements; wings, Howell and Turnstead; alternates, Sluce, Williams McElroy, Jarvis, H. Forgie, B. Forgie, Digby, Morrison and Holliday.

Petes — Goal, Harding; defence, G. Leonard and Davidson; centre, Wade; wings, Dugan and Turner; alternates, G. Leonard, Mortimer, Legrow, Tompkins, Collins, West, Garvey, Millar, Casey, Fria and Nolan.

Referees—R. Ouimet and P. Nigh.

The summary:

First Period

Markham—Williams (McElroy) 17:05
Petes—Tompkins (Fryia) 18:55
Penalties— Morrison, B. Forgie, Clements.

Second Period

Petes—West (Garvey, Collins) 1:35
Petes—Collins (West) 8:59
Markham—H. Forgie (Sluce) 11:18
Penalties—Sluce, Nolan 3, Howell, Turner, Williams

Third Period

Petes—Fryia (Tompkins, G. Leonard) 2:20
Petes—Collins (Garvey) 4.05
Petes—Dugan 8:14
Petes—Garvey (West) 11
Markham—Clements (McElroy) 16:25
Petes—Fryia (Tompkins) 19:10
Petes—Garvey (Millar) 19:50
Penalties — Legrow, Wade, Dugan H. Forgie, G. Leonard, Davidson, Sluce, and Robertson.

Western Abducts Varsity Majorette

LONDON, Ont., Oct. 28 (CP) —Varsity's beautiful drum majorette, Hilka Filppula, was snatched right off the University of Toronto campus Friday by four University of Western Ontario students.

Just where the students are keeping Hilka is a secret but it is expected she will appear before the football game when Toronto Varsity take on Western here today.

The abduction comes just one week after a "farce abduction" of Western Majorette Lois Fulton by Toronto students when Lois confessed to a reported that she knew all about it and just loved being abducted.

Black's-Neill's Get Wins In Cage Start

Foul-plastered games opened the Ladies' City League in the YWCA Friday night as Black's turned back a second half drive by the Normals to win 23-21 and the small Neill's squad outspirited the Senior Nurses 22-17.

Black's Carol Ferguson with six points, Marion McKee and Rita Naylor, led th. attack in the first half of the opening game as the Normals went behind 16-7. With a complete reversal of form the Normals drove back in the second half with points by Doris Reynolds, Carol Raper and Joan Krogh. Carol Ferguson kept up her first half scoring pace with five points to allow Blacks to take the edge.

Blacks' Rosy McInroy left the game late with five personals while the Normals' Amy Curtis was just about to go out with four. A number on each squad had three fouls.

Carol Ferguson easily led the scoring with 11 points, five field scores and a foul shot. Doris Reynolds of the Normals was tops with nine.

More Fouls

Fouls were again featured in the second game between Nurses Seniors and Neills. The nurses jumped to an early lead in a low-scoring first half on foul shots, but just before time ran out gave way to Neills' drive. The half ended with the shoe girls up two points, 9-7.

Neills' ran up 13 points in the second half as the nurses had trouble finding the range on field shots. In the dying minutes three Neills' players, Dot Callan, Polly Stewart and Marg. Freeman were benched for five personals. Three others, one of them off the nurses cage squad, had four fouls.

The Nurses' Anita Davis had seven points while teammates Bev Pringle had four, Joan Plunkett two, Ruth Green two, Barb and Joan Deyell one each. Wilma Byers and Joan Dunk shared Neills' honors with six points each while Polly Stewart had five.

First game: Normals—Scanlin, Krogh 5, Shunk, Curtis 2, MacKenzie, Plowman, Raper 5, Reynolds 9, Peters, Hollingsworth.

Blacks—McInroy 2, Naylor 3, Vint, Nice, McKee 4, McGill, Laing 1, Ferguson 11, Knox 2, McIlvena, Briggs.

Second game: Nurses—Pringle 4, Davis 7, Welchorech, Plunkett, 2, Collins, B. Deyell 1, J. Deyell 1, Townsend, Gamble, Langdon, Martyn, Green 2.

Neills—D. Callan 3, Freeman, Padgett, Floyd, Dunk 6, Stewart 5, Byers 6, Livings 2, Castle, M. Callan.

Until this year the art of colorful drop-kicking had been slowly disappearing from the local games. Even in Big Four games and American football drop-kicking has been neglected for punting and place-kicking.

This year Peterborough football teams have two players who have attempted this type of kick. PCVS' Dave Langhorne and SPS' John Jones have had some success with their drop-kicking for converts.

Patience is the key to the art. Its demand for perfect timing demands hours of practice. Even when developed the kicker must continue to practice more than for place-kicking or punting to keep his timing perfect. A week or two of little practice will throw the drop-kicker off.

The drop-kick uses are similar to the place-kick's but its method is similar to the punt. Drop-kicks are used by football teams for attempting converts. However, if the kicker has an unusually long distance lick, he may try a placement. This method of kicking a placement or convert eliminates the possibility of a fumble on the snap when the ball is placed.

On the drop-kick the ball is held with the fingers along the seams on either side. The ball is dropped from the hands with the point down so that the ball will contact the ground in the position used in the place-kick. The toe should meet the ball midway between the belly of the ball and the point touching the ground just as the ball is touching the ground. Follow-through by the kicker is just as important in drop-kicking as in punting.

Again the emphasis is placed on the team's blocking. For if the opposing line breaks through, the drop-kicker's timing will be thrown off and the kick muffed.

D. Martin Tops Loop

Two teams took all points in the YMCA lasses' bowling league this week, Corvettes taking three from Tigers and Aces taking the same from Commandos. Bombers helped themselves to two points over Glengarrys, as Lucky Strikes did likewise against the Hurricanes.

Just three bowlers rolled 600 or more, Dot Martin leading with 687, Betty Castle having 633 and Winnie McCarrell 611. Helen Reid hit high single with 257, as Dot Martin rolled 253 and 252. L. Bell counted a 243, Wanda Lockie 240, Mary Morton 238 and M. Arnold 251.

Lugging the leather lemon this week-end for a para, we note two grid tilts on tap here this aft. Parkdale Lions play the Orfuns at 2.30 in Morrow Park to open their two-game ORFU intermediate "B" semi-finals. Points to count, next one being in Parkdale a week from now. St. Mike's and St. Peter's have a 2.30 Catholic Conference senior "B" scheduled fixture at the Oval, with top spot at stake. Senior PCI-ers have a playoff today in Oshawa, but that should be a cinch. Monday here, Whitby opens the junior "B" playoffs against St. Pet's at 3.30 in the Ex, and Tuesday sees the junior "A" PCVS pack ending their schedule in Lindsay.

* * * * * *

The pro wrestling program at the Brock next week will be on Monday eve, instead of Tuesday—which is Hallowe'en. Yukon Eric battles huge and misnamed Wee Willie Davis in the final bout. The Masked Marvel and his hooded manager come here a day before All Hallow's Eve to take on Bobby Nelson in the semi-windup. Prelim has Ray Gunkel in against dangerous Dan'l O'Connor, a rough hunk of an Irishman. Yukon Eric will seldom face a bigger and rougher opponent in the main go than Wee Willie Davis, the Hollywood villain. But, then, Willie will probably never meet up with a more powerful opponent than the Alaskan. A nifty Monday card.

* * * * * *

Kingston And Eagles

Comes Monday night and the OHA senior "B" schedule and a long winter of hockey here start. It'll be Kingston Nylons and the local Eagles—the ex-Legionnaires—at 8.30 in Civic Arena, as the Petes trek that night to Queen's. The Eagles, under their old name, won the provincial title two years ago and were Ontario finalists last spring. Yet, they've been building lately and will be pretty potent once more. Three newcomers, Andy Millen, Vern Smith and Lally Lalonde, along with the pick of such former aces as Nicholls, Godfrey, Doug and Freddy Mortimer, Burns, Montgomery, Rochetta, Crowley Vitarelli, Parnall, Greenlaw, Hill, Coombs and Stewart. Kingston have bolstered a lot, too, so it should be an oldtime sizzling scrap between these teams, and it deserves a big crowd.

* * * * * *

Plenty of new faces will be seen on local OHA teams this year. The junior "B" Oddfellows lost a lot via the overage route, so there'll be oodles of changes there. Eagles have three new puckists of proven ability, as mentioned in the previous para. And the senior "B" Petes will have quite a few newcomers, as well, though the final lineup hasn't been quite decided upon yet. Jake Wade and Arn Dugan are two Peterborough fellows who have been playing in other towns but are wearing local livery this season. Jack Davidson is a new one here and Earl, a brother of Gus Leonard. Johnny Baker and Bill Dalton of the Orfuns have signed but are finishing out the football season. Some young material being brought up, also. Yes, fans will see a lot of puck changes.

* * * * * *

They Won't Be Pushed

Not too many on deck at Civic Arena last gloaming, most fans no doubt figuring on waiting for the opening of the schedule and then taking 'em in regularly. But the Petes and Markham served up a right rousing exhibition with the Jopling bunch winning handily by a 9-3 count. No less than 18 penalties passed out as the puckists roughed it up most of the way. The Petes have a bigger team this year than they've had in a long spell, and they were full of fight last night. Took no pushing around at all. Husky Joe Nolan, who played lacrosse here the past summer, likes the going rugged, somewhat like large Bill McMaster of last season's Petes. Others are ready to mix, too.

* * * * * *

But, in any case, the Petes looked impressive. Ray Harding has always been a nifty goalie, and he should get a lot of protection from his defence this year. The team isn't complete, as yet, and we understand Sid Wright will be with them shortly. Big Jack Davidson looks good back of the blue line and several others should click. Up front the line of Gus Leonard, Chum Fryia and Honey Tompkins will score a lot of goals ere spring. In this game, Freddy Garvey, Junior West and Ted Collins were hustling all the way. And the rest of the forwards were in there, also. It's a bit early to make any predicitons but the Petes showed quite a lot out there last eve.

Dese, Dem And Dose

There's an exhibition soccer game at three today in King Edward Park between Batawa and UEW.... Corvettes and Aces had clean sweeps this week in the YM lasses' bowling loop. Black's beat Normals 23-21 and Neill's took Nurses Srs. 22-17 last e'en to open the girls' cage season in the YW.... Girls' softball banquet will be Nov. 23 in the Legion, Prexy Bill Flint advises. Neither softball league made any money at the Bowl the past summer—and we use the last word quite loosely.... With a clamp coming up on building materials for recreation, the poor old Memorial Centre project is shoved further away than ever... The Petes' executive isn't happy about the senior "B" schedule and will ask some revisions on dates ....Lakefield will be back in OHA intermediate competition again this coming winter. Belleville's senior "B" team may be known either as Redmen or Maroons.. Udy Udall will be a familiar figure in the Nylons' net once more.. The song Nov. 6 will be "A huntin' we will go," but it'll be "a-haunting they will go" comes Tuesday night next.

Rejects Invitation

THREE RIVERS, Que., Oct. 28 (CP).—United States Congressman Emmanuel Celler (Rep.-N.Y.) has turned down an invitation to visit pulp and paper plants here, Mayor J. A. Mongrain said Friday. The mayor invited him following statements by Mr. Celler several months ago that Quebec and Ontario authorities and pulp and paper manufacturers told down pulp production to keep prices up.

Britain Bids For Auto Racing Honors

By JEFFREY RYAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Oct. 27—(CP)—Britain has bred a new speed baby in a bid for international automobile-racing honors.

This sprightly infant, only just recovering from preliminary teething troubles, is a low-slung, pale-green racing machine which may be the fastest thing on wheels.

It's known as the BRM—British Racing Motor—and more than £200,000 ($620,000) has been spent on it in an effort to redeem Britain's racing reputation. For a while it was thought the money might be wasted, but now at last it looks as though the BRM will pay dividends.

Two BRM cars will go to Barcelona Sunday for the Spanish Grand Prix. If successful there, against top international racers, Britain's "dream" car will finally have proved its worth.

Foreign Monopoly

It will be about time. Ever since pre-war days, German Mercedes —built in a sky's-the-limit spirit —or Italian Alfa Romeo and Maserati machines have dominated international speed lanes.

In 1945, British racing driver Raymond Mays and designer Peter Berthon approached 160 car-and-component manufacturers. They persuaded them to put up money for a racing car that would be sure to end the foreign monopoly.

After much hard work and many disappointments, the B.R.M. —a 16-cylinder job with five gears and a new type of pneumatic springing—made its first public appearance three months ago. It flopped. The car refused to start. Mechanics who had toiled day and night to cure an engine defect couldn't get it going.

Reputation Redeemed

But a couple of weeks later, at Goodwood track in Sussex, the B.R.M. got another chance. This time it acted as its sponsors had hoped. Showing powerful speed, it coasted home ahead of the crack Siamese driver, Prince Bira.

Reg Parnell, who guided the B.R.M. to its first victory, commented after the race: "It's the most wonderful car I've ever driven. The acceleration was terrific and I had a lot in reserve."

He said he hopes to reach a speed of more than 200 miles an hour.

The B.R.M. isn't out of the woods yet. Financial troubles are piling up now that the government has refused a grant. But the sponsors hope a clean-cut victory at Barcelona may change the picture.

Tony Janiro Loses To Graziano

By JACK HAND.

NEW YORK, Oct. 28 (AP). — "I don't wont to be famous. I just want to stack up that old annuity."

Rocky Graziano was talking. The new Graziano who last night barely squeaked past welterweight Tony Janiro of Youngstown, Ohio, in a close 10-rounder at Madison Garden.

The Rock flailed Tony. Between savage misses he raked Janiro with an unexpected body attack. He jarred his mouthpiece loose with looping rights. Once he wrestled Tony through the ropes. But he never knocked him down.

Still there seemed to be some of the old fire missing in Graziano, who used to eat welterweights for breakfast in the old "Rockabye Rocky" days. Through the early rounds young Tony made him eat leather from sharp left jabs and hooks.

Higher Mathematics

One fellow walking out of the Garden remarked: "You have to be an accountant to cover Graziano fights any more." He didn't mean Rocky's out-of-town fights, where he scored five straight knockouts. He meant his Garden scraps with Janiro.

Last March 31, Rocky and Tony fought a draw, decided on the vote of the referee who scored it even in rounds 5-5, and 10-10 in points.

The rematch last night was close, too. Referee Ruby Goldstein and judge Joe Agnello saw it 5-5. Goldstein gave Graziano an edge in points 10-8 and Agnello 7-6. Judge Artie Schwartz found for Graziano 6-4 in rounds.

So it was a unanimous ballot but two officials had to go to Eddie Eagan's point system to break a draw. On the AP card it also was 5-5 with Graziano a point winner. Graziano lost the round on all cards because of a low blow.

What next for Graziano? Matchmaker Al Weill of the International Boxing Club wants him to fight the Nov. 10 Garden winner between Paddy Young and Laurent Dauthuille. But before that he fights Honeychile Johnson in Philadelphia, Nov. 13.

Janiro, who did a fine job against Graziano until he tired in the late rounds, will be in line for future Garden main bouts.

Graziano, still way off in his timing, weighed 158½. Janiro was 153½ on the night of his 23rd birthday.

The bout, reopening the Garden to boxing for the fall season, drew 10, 461 fans and a gate of $55,270.

St. Catharines, East York Win First Round

TORONTO, Oct. 28—(CP)—St. Catharines Red Raiders and East York Goliath won the first of two major games tonight of the annual interscholastic Red Feather football tournament before 21,000 high school fans.

The Raiders smothered Guelph 52-0 while the Goliaths came from behind with a converted major in the last quarter to edge Hamilton Cathedral High 17-12.

Eight teams are entered, with the Ted Reeve Trophy as the prize.

In tomorrow night's games, Ottawa Tech meets Sudbury High and London South Collegiate Institute plays Malvern Collegiate.

Players from several centres took part in kicking, punting and passing competitions, but due to a complicated system of points-scoring, results were not immediately available.

Semi-finals and finals in these events will be run off on tomorrow's program.

Scoreless Quarter

The big St. Catharines teams were held scoreless by Guelph in the first quarter but piled it on with 29 points in the second, 12 in the third and 11 in the fourth.

Max Woolley was the Raiders' standout ground-gainer, eluding Guelph tacklers to count three majors and help pave the way for a few others. Nearly all St. Catharines backfielders, shared in the scoring, with touchdowns being turned in by Fred Martin, Jack Thompson, Jim Shook, Tom Quinlan Jim Buchanan and Steve Oneschuk.

Oneschuk, whose punting was brilliant, also kicked four converts and a single, while Thompson added two more extra points.

The tournament's eight judges selected Pete Newman, of St. Catharines and Mel Wolfand, Guelph fullback, as the standout players of each side.

Yukon Eric Opposes Davis In Mat Feature

Two of the biggest and most colorful athletes in the ranks of professional heavyweight wrestlers will be the main bout opponents on Monday night at the Brock Arena, when Yukon Eric will oppose Wee Willie Davis.

Davis is one of the roughest grapplers in the sport but it would seem to be a good idea for him to think twice before getting too rough with Yukon, for the husky, northern woodsman is a past-master at the rough-and-tumble style of batling that prevails in the lumber camps and bush county. Thus if Davis should arouse Yukon's anger, Wee Willie might be in for more than he bargained for.

Of particular interest is the semi-final, in which the Masked Marvel will get a stern test, his opponent being Bobby Nelson, the clever, fast Californian. Nelson has an outstanding victory record. If he can add the Mask to his victims, the fans will be in for the big thrill of discovering the mystery man's identity.

In the first match Ray Gunkel will oppose Dan O'Connor. Fans are asked to note change of date for next week only, the card being Monday instead of Tuesday.

Winless Boston Bruins Take On Flying Toronto Maple Leafs

By The Canadian Press.

Boston's winless and goal-starved Bruins tonight make their sixth try of the young National Hockey League season to crash the victory column. They'll be tackling the league-leading Toronto Maple Leafs in Toronto and there'll be no Turk Broda around to slam the door in their faces.

Broda, the league's current shutout king with three straight, will sit this affair out as the Leafs go after their fifth consecutive triumph. One of his shutouts was scored against the Bruins in Boston, 2-0.

Good Record

The Bruins are unlikely to find Al Rollins, the Leafs' second-string netminder, a soft touch. He substituted capably for Broda in Chicago last Sunday when the 36-year-old veteran was given his first rest of the season.

In tonight's other games, Chicago invades Detroit and New York Rangers will be entertained by the second-place Montreal Canadiens. On Sunday, Canadiens play at New York, the Leafs at Chicago and Boston at Detroit.

Offensively, the Bruins have appeared weak this season. They've scored but three goals in five starts. However, only six goals have been scored against them, which indicates strength in the defence department. Goalie Jack Gelineau has the best goals-against average in the league.

Bashing Bill Barilko will be back in the line-up for the Leafs bringing their roster of defencemen back up to four. Barilko suffered a knee injury in Boston 10 days ago in a collision with Paul Ronty. Still sidelined, also with a knee injury, is Toronto rookie Hugh Bolton.

Capt. George Eyston of England 13 years ago today shot his motor-car "Thunderbold" over the Utah Salt Flats at 309.6 miles an hour but the car broke down on the return spurt, leaving intact the record of 301 mph. set by Sir Malcolm Campbell in 1935. A few days later Eyston set a mark of 311. Present mark is 394.2 mph., set by John Cobb in 1947.

Marlboros Trounce Tigers Presented With Allan Cup

By The Canadian Press.

Toronto Marlboros Friday night were presented with the Allan Cup they won last spring. Then they promptly won their second straight game of the 1950-51 Ontario Hockey Association major series season—an 8-2 trouncing of Hamilton Tigers.

But the Marlies junior edition took a 9-2 beating from Barrie Flyers in the OHA junior division. The win moved the Flyers into first place.

Game Forfeited

In Windsor, referees cancelled the Windsor-St. Catharines game in the final period and awarded the contest to Windsor when coach Rudy Pilous of St. Catharines refused to send a player to the penalty box.

Windsor was leading 5-2 when referees Len Loree of Windsor and Frank Udvari ordered the game forfeited. Loree had called a boarding penalty against an unidentified St. Catharines player.

He increased the minor to a 10-minute misconduct when no one went to the box. After a verbal clash with Pilous, the two officials ordered the game forfeited under a Canadian Amateur Hockey Association regulation.

Rugged Match

Erwin Grosse, Jim Anderson, Early Johnston, John Offidani and Eddie Joss had scored for Spitfires in the rugged, penalty-studded game. Pierre Pilotte and Bill Young scored for the Teepees.

The junior games had no effect on league standings. Barrie still is in first place, followed by Galt, Stratford, Guelph and St. Catharines.

In tonight's junior games, Stratford is at Waterloo; Guelph is at Oshawa, and St. Michael's is at Galt. Kitchener-Waterloo is at Toronto for a game with St. Mike's in the major series.

Barrie had little trouble bouncing the Marlboros. Each scored once in the first period. Then Flyers broke out for three in the second and five in the third.

Doug Towers and Jim Morrison each scored twice, Jerry Toppazzini scored once and got five assists with other goals by Chuck Wood, Bill Hagan, Jack McKnight and Don Emms. Bibber O'Hearn and Bob McFarlane scored for Marlboros.

Threaten Once

In the senior game, Tigers threatened only in the first part of the opening period when Fred Liscombe scored on a pass from Harold Hursley. Nick Bangay tied it up three minutes later and Bus Wycherley banged in one more before the period ended.

Red Johnson with two, Don Rope, Jack McKenzie, Scotty Mair and Bobby Hassard got the other tallies for Marlboros with Johnny Conick getting a third-period goal for Tigers.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

Scores of bettors—some of them angry and some delighted—stormed the stewards' stands and pari-mutuels at Toronto's Dufferin Park Friday when a wrong result was announced in the featured sixth race.

Pennask won the race in a photo-finish. Dud's Worry ran second and Tab Wales came in third. But Tab Wales' number was erroneously sent to the mutuels as the second horse and cashiers began paying off.

When the finish photos were posted, bettors milled around the stewards' stand. The stewards immediately ordered the result changed.

By that time, many spectators had torn up place tickets on Dud's Worry and others had cashed place tickets on Tab Wales.

Dud's Worry paid $10.50 and $5.00. Tab Wales paid $5.90.

Mutuel clerks took the names and addresses of persons who claimed to have torn up winning tickets on Dud's Worry.

Anything can happen in a football game, as was proved in a University of Toronto interfaculty game Friday. St. Michael's College rolled to 23 first downs against the Faculty of Engineering junior squad. The Engineers made nary at first down. But they won 7-0.

If for no other reason, the oft-beaten Harvard football team must win against Dartmouth today because they are all out of crying towels at the Harvard Stadium. A fire in the Dillon field house laundry Friday destroyed $500 worth of towels that were to have been used after the Harvard-Dartmouth game at Boston.

An offer of $100,000 for Ezzard Charles to fight Joey Maxim "isn't anything at all," the heavyweight boxing champ's handler said in Pittsburgh Friday.

Jake Mintz, co-manager of Charles, was replying to an assertion by William P. Kyne, of San Francisco, that nobody would guarantee Charles $100,000 to defend his title.

Mintz turned down that figure guaranteed by Kyne for a Charles-Maxim scrap at San Francisco in February.

Said Mintz:

"We can get more than that much for a fight with Maxim right here in Pittsburgh or in Chicago or in Cincinnati.

"The television and radio rights alone would be more than $100,000."

Mintz repeated his claim that the Cincinnati Negro will defend his title once a month "if we get the right kind of offers."

Shareholders of the Calgary Stampeder Football Club have extended a full vote of confidence in coach Les Lear, president Tom Brook and manager Archie McGillis.

The vote at the club's recent annual meeting dispelled rumors about the status next season of the "Big Three" of Stampeders, who finished in the cellar of the Western Football Conference after two Western championship years.

All French sports federations will observe a one-minute silence at all events held Sunday in memory of Marcel Cerdan, former world middleweight boxing champion who died in an air crash in the Azores a year ago Friday.

Susderland Friday paid £30,000 (about $90,000) for a soccer player —the highest sale price in the history of English football.

The player involved was Trevor Ford who has competed in international games for Wales and who belonged to the Aston Villa club of the English Football League.

The previous record sale price was the $26,700 paid last December by Preston North End to Sheffield Wednesday for Eddie Quigley.

Cornwall Blasts Army

CORNWALL, Ont., Oct. 28 — (CP).—An Ottawa Army team folded up completely Friday night while absorbing a 12-4 shellacking at the hands of Cornwall Calumets in an Eastern Canada Senior Hockey League fixture.

After holding a 1-0 edge after the first period, the Army defences fell apart. It was 6-1 at the end of the second frame and Army was unable to make headway in the wide-open final period.

Jim Denneny led the Cornwall scoring with three goals, with Pete Payette and Jean Lafortune getting two each. Gillies Genereux scored one and assisted in four others.

Rode In Comfort

LONDON (CP).—The Cockneys, London's traditional pearly kings and queens, paraded in full dress for their annual church service. But Fred Cole didn't walk. "I had to read the lesson, so I came in a car—just like a toff," he said.

Iron Surpasses Precious Metals

TORONTO, Oct. 28 —(CP)— Premier Frost of Ontario said today that new iron-ore developments in northern and eastern Ontario will mean more in the future of the province than the mining of precious metals has meant in the past.

He said iron ore has recently been found near Marmora in eastern Ontario. In the north, known reserves of iron northwest of Sault Ste. Marie exceed 500,000,000 tons.

"These developments of iron deposits are going to mean an enormous industry," the premier said in a statement. "We are going to see explorations that have been known for years come into their own in this great development. This will have a profound effect on the economy of the country."

The eastern Ontario iron range, considered probably of low grade, had been found running from Haliburton on the west through Peterborough, Hastings and into Adington and Frontenac. The same range reached southward into New York State.

Miscellaneous: Land—wild land from 50c to $1 an acre, cultivated from $2-10 according to location, e.g. an Asphodel farm of 100 acres for $600; tobacco 25-35 lb., twine 10c lb., candles 16c lb., jews-harps 1c each, meerschaum pipes 25c each, lead shot 10c lb., gunpowder 65c lb., buffalo robe $6.50, whisky 20-40c a gallon. Hammond's Distillery in Peterborough advertised in 1850: "Best Home Distilled Upper Canada Whisky, 1s. a gal." Patent medicines, also 90 per cent alcohol, were coming in, mostly from the United States: One of the most interesting advertised in the newspapers was Dr. Larzette's Juno Cordial or Procreative Elixir, 50c a bottle, with the intriguing slogan "Be Ye Fruitful and Multiply!" and the sanctimonious warning "Avoid all counterfeits." Since district families in the 1850s averaged seven persons, there was little demand for Dr. Larzette's Elixir.

Famous Natives

Some nationally-noted persons were born in the district in the 1850s including Pat Burns, millionaire rancher and meat packer; Sir Joseph Flavelle and his brothers, prominent in finance and business; Robert White, famous newspaperman and politician; and General Sir Sam Hughes, soldier and minister of militia. It is fitting to list here a larger group of humble citizens of the district, born almost a century ago, who have seen the Kawarthas change from a backwoods frontier to a modern industrial and tourist centre; many of these "veterans" are still active although unfortunately not all:

Mrs. A. Wease, of Chandos, born in 1850, moving to Chandos in the 1870s. Lachlin Mackay, of Peterborough, born Jan. 1, 1850, active a century later. James Long, born 1851, and living from 1868 to 1950 in Peterborough. Mrs. W. Jennings, of Havelock, 103 years old in 1949. Mrs. Wm. Smith, born in North Monaghan in 1852, died in 1950. Wm. Thompson, born in Douro 1852, moved to Ashburnham 1860, working 60 years in Auburn Woollen Mills.

Other Old Timers

Wm. Lynch, born in Asphodel 1854, interviewed in the Examiner in 1945. Mrs. W. Pinner, of Marmora, born 1854, celebrating her 96th birthday in 1850. Wm. Davis, born in Cavan 1855, 95 years old in 1950. E. Sullivan, born in Douro 1856, died 1947. Jacob Wilkes, born in Marmora 1856, active at age 89 years. Mrs. J. R. Reynolds, of Bethany, born 1855, celebrating 93rd birthday in 1948. Mrs. L. Hope, of Westwood, born 1855, celebrating her 94th birthday. Mrs. F. McGee, born on the Bobcaygeon Colonization Road 1858, still active in 1949. Mrs. James Garside, born in Hastings 1858, celebrating her 90th birthday. Mrs. M. J. Wilson, of Peterborough, came here in 1883, died at age 92 in 1950. Thomas McCamus, born in Cavan 1858, interviewed on 88th birthday. Mrs. Jameson, of Peterborough, born in Cobourg 1880, now 90 years old. A. E. Bottum, of Bobcaygeon, born in 1860, still active at 90 years of age.

The memories of these and other pioneers should be preserved, and the stories and facts they can leave for us should be cherished and not buried away with them. Their living monument is the Kawartha District of 1950.

Knives Cause More Trouble Than Gun Shots

Crime statistics show that knives cause far more trouble than guns. In some communities the ratio is as high as five to one. Yet, points out Jack Harrison Pollack in his November Women's Home Companion article, "The Toy That Kills," the deadly switchblade knife is as easy to buy as a package of gum.

Police officials all over the country are disturbed about the increasing number of juvenile knifings in which switchblades figure. They warn that it is only a short step from carrying a switchblade to gang warfare.

Cleveland's Record

Take the record of one city. In Cleveland last year there were 169 stabbings, 140 of them with switchblade knives. Switchblades were responsible to one-quarter of the city's homicides, and half of the killers were under 23.

Every day as teen-agers discard their practical Boy Scout knives for the vicious push-button switchblades, violence increases.

"Countless crimes would never be committed if switchblades were banned," says Assistant United States Attorney J. Warren Wilson.

"Many cuttings result from trivial disputes," Virgil W. Peterson, director of the Chicago Crime Commission, has found. "If the courts would enforce laws making it illegal to carry dangerous knives, crime would be greatly reduced."

A typical trivial instance is the 14-year-old New Jersey boy who pulled out a switchblade knife and cut a hole in another boy who accidentally had bumped into him in school.

"For Protection"

Asked why he carried the knife to school, the youthful stabber answered, "For protection! A couple of kids jabbed me with a switch knife last week and took 33 cents from me. So the next day I took 67 cents out of my sister's penny bank and bought me a switchblade."

Several cities have recognized the danger of the free sale of switchblades and have declared all-out war against them.

Newark's law-enforcement officers are co-operating to battle the problem. Judges are handing out stiffer sentences to carriers of dangerous knives. Merchants have been ordered to remove them from their windows and threatened with stiff prison terms for selling them to minors.

The superintendent of schools has instructed principals and teachers to suspend—even expel—students bringing "oversized pocket-knives" to school.

Because of the growing number of knife assaults in Washington, D.C., Congress will soon be asked by the United States attorney's office to pass a local ordinance requiring people buying switchblades to secure permits.

In Gun Category

"We want to make it as hard to buy a switchblade as a gun," says Assistant United States Attorney Wilson.

What the District of Columbia and Newark are doing, other places all over America should be doing. Why aren't they? Simply because of public apathy.

The article urges parents to spearhead a drive to discourage the switchblade fad and recommends these steps:

1. If your son has a pocketknife for scouting or fishing, discourage his taking it to school, the movies or other public places.
2. See to it that your local storekeepers don't have flagrant window displays of dangerous knives. Help prosecute dealers who sell them to minors.
3. Help your local law-enforcement agencies round up dangerous knives.
4. Work for passage of a state law which bans switchblades and control other dangerous knives.

Bible Lays Great Stress On Inner Life Of Man

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, DD

The Bible, both in the Old Testament and the New, lays great stress upon the inner life. Old Testament writers, whose words of devotion and wisdom were the heritage of New Testament writers, were constantly insistent upon the fact that the true life did not consist in outward appearance, nor even in a display of good works.

"As a man thinketh in his heart so is he"; "Keep thy heart with all diligence; for out of it are the issues of life" (Proverbs 4:23). Not only were such thoughts constantly expressed in various ways, but a repeated and most distinctive prayer of these Old Testament saints was that God would search their hearts. "Search me, O God, and know my heart: try me and know my thoughts" (Psalm 139:23).

It is a solemn thought that whatever we may appear to others, or even to ourselves (Paul admonished early Christians not to think of themselves more highly than they ought to think), we cannot hide from God. But it requires courage, as well as faith, to face that fact, and pray in sincerity that our hearts and lives may be open to that searching but loving, all-seeing eye of God.

The late Dr. James Stalker, eminent Scottish minister, once published a sermon under the title "The Four Men." The four, as he identified them, may be found in II Corinthians 4:3-4. They are: 1, The man his friends see, "that I should be judged of you"; 2, The man the world sees, "or of man's judgment"; 3, The man as he sees himself, "yea, I judge not mine own self"; 4 The man God sees, "He that judgeth me is the Lord."

It is to know and be that last man, the man God knows, that is the true end and purpose of all a Christian's thought, prayer, and meditation. In achieving that, there are many aids to thought and devotion. The late George Matheson, the famous blind preacher of Scotland, and author of the hymn, "O love that wilt not let me go," published a series of what he called "devotional meditations," some under the title of "Moments on the Mount."

There are standard devotional aids, both in Roman Catholic and Protestant literature, and there are current booklets from which many derive help. I edited for several years the little manual, "Daily Devotions," for the Congregational Christian churches, and one of the best known, and widely used among those of all denominations, is the Methodist booklet, "The Upper Room."

I do not disparage these, but it is my conviction that the best aid to Christian thought and devotion is the New Testament itself, and all other aids are of value only as they help to bring light and understanding to what is there. It is my belief, also, that much reading and meditation upon the Scriptures, even without any other aid, brings its own reward.

John Robinson, pastor of the pilgrims in Holland, before they came to Plymouth, warned them that there was more light to break from God's word; and there is even more such light to break for those who seek it.

FLOWER EXPERTS

FOREMOST, Alta. — (CP) — The Van Staalduines came to this district from Holland with a love of flowers and horticultural experience gained in the old country. Flowers grown on the Van Staalduines farm scored notable triumphs in shows at Calgary, Lethbridge and Medicine Hat.

PETERBOROUGH EXAMINER

VOL. CL No. 99 SATURDAY, OCTOBER 28, 1950

David E. Bell Railroaded For Fifty Years

Next Monday David E. Bell, 505 King St., is going to hold a doubleheader celebration. For on October 30 Mr. Bell is not only marking his 65th birthday, but ending more than 50 years of railroading.

For the past 16 years he has been known to Peterborough residents as the CNR's supervisory agent, in charge of staffs in the freight office, freight shed, station and yard.

"I don't know of any better occupation," Mr. Bell assured the Examiner. "I'm on my 51st year now but it doesn't seem very long as I look back on it."

Mr. Bell was born in Frankford, the same year the railway was built through that town. And in his 15th year he started work on the old Central Ontario Railway operating betwen Trenton and Bancroft.

He spent two years as freight agent-telegrapher at Eldorado with the Canadian Northern (later taken over by the CNR). His longest stay before coming to Peterborough was 32 years in Marmora.

Old Wood Burners

During his years of service railway travel has changed from chug-chug wood burning engines to coal burners and now the sleek diesels; from link-and-pin couplers ("there were a good many hands and fingers lost with them") to automatic couplers.

Mr. Bell also recalls how on mixed trains (passenger, baggage and freight cars) the crew had to crawl out of the baggage car and scramble along the roofs of the cars to turn on the hand brakes.

Only One Strike

Last August was the first time in his half century of service that he was ever affected by a strike.

When asked if he ever got exasperated by the demands of a sometimes impatient public, he replied: "Oh yes, that's all part of the job. But sometimes it's a hard proposition to hang onto your temper. Once in a while anybody reaches boiling point."

Mr. Bell regards his retirement on pension with mixed feelings. He still feels active enough to do the work and capable enough. But he realizes that there are younger men coming on to fill the shoes of railway veterans like himself.

Not a sporting man, Mr. Bell intends "to take it easy for a while." His hobbies are carpenter work and tending flowers, and he is able to indulge in both at his summer home on Crowe Lake, near Marmora.

MILLBROOK AND CAVAN MEMORIAL CENTRE is well under way at Millbrook and the timber structures were finally placed on Thursday afternoon. Citizens and school children, Left Photo, spend a great deal of time watching building progress on their $25,000 structure. Rink executives hope for skating in it by Christmas.—(Examiner Staff Photos)

Last Timbers Go Up In Rink Millbrook Mutual Project

If everything goes forward without a hitch, there will be skating soon in the new covered rink now abuilding at Millbrook. Its structural timbers were set in place this week and the final bolts driven on Thursday afternoon. Community projects of this nature, the rink committee found, are slow to start, especially the drive for funds.

Canvassing began late in 1949 under the chairmanship of P. E. Hamilton who had as his assistants, 1st vice-president A. Woods, 2nd vice H. Kennedy, secretary F. Hindle and treasurer H. Perkin. Directors of the canvassing committee are J. Coulter, F. North, W. O'Brien, D. and E. Hutchison, the Rev. Husser, E. Fallis and M. McDowell.

The structure which will cost $25,000 when completed, is in a bright financial position at the present time. More than $15,000 has been pledged, and of this 75 per cent paid in private and municipal funds, and the promised government grant of $5,000 totals up to within $5,000 of the whole cost.

Voluntary Labor

Of the remainder, the executive are not unmindful of the splendid co-operation they have had of voluntary labor and the 15,000 feet of pine lumber donated by farmers and the township roads department. Only a boss carpenter and his two assistants receive wages on the building; the contractor is A. W. Cochrane of Douglas, Ont.

The Millbrook and Cavan Memorial Centre is situated on the site of the old open-air rink behind the Armouries and beside the Cavan Stream. Its overall size when completed will be 90 by 208 feet with an ice surface of 75 by 175 feet and a seating capacity for 700 people. At the entrance end there will be two dressing rooms, a ticket office and snack bar, this section to be furnace-heated from ground level. The structure will be sheated with aluminum.

Last Timbers Cut

On Thursday afternoon the public school children were out in full force to watch the erection of the last cut roof timbers any many village people find it a pleasant daily routine to drop down to the rink after visiting the Post Office and stores to watch building progress on their rink. One official said that community interest has quickened measureably since building commenced about the first of August and they have set up a challenge that their rink is to be finished in jig time and not hang fire like the one appeared to do in Peterborough.

The Memorial Centre will provide sporting space for more than 2,000 people in the village and surrounding country and they hope to not only use it in full measure for winter sports but in summer for basketball, badminton and lacrosse.

Reporter Injured On Way To Ship

Examiner reporter until last weekend when she left for a return trip to her home in England, Hazel Paull was severely injured in a car accident at the first of the week between Montreal and Quebec as she was being driven by her brother, John Paull, to take ship at Quebec.

The car, a small English model owned and driven by John Paull, of Montreal, formerly of Peterborough, hit the side of a large transport truck. Both Paull and his sister were knocked unconscious. They were taken to St. Luke's Hospital in Montreal.

John Paull escaped lightly. Hazel was badly cut and bruised about the face and ankle. Her nose was broken and stitches were required above the eye, on the forehead, under the mouth, and bruises on the right leg near the ankle.

Miss Paull expects to leave hospital this weekend, but it will be two weeks before she is out and about. The Cunard Company have transferred her trans-Atlantic passage to a ship sailing Nov. 15.

The new car was a total wreck.

See Albino Squirrels

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 28 (ENS). — A pure white squirrel may be a rarity in some parts of the country, but Campbellford has two such freaks. The two albinos, complete with pink eyes, can be seen almost any day near the residence of William Shaw, Church Street. They are somewhat smaller than the average squirrel, and are between the size of a chipmunk and a red squirred. Just where the two little animals came from, or how long they intend to reside in the district, is not known.

Film Council Names Officers

Officers for the Peterborough Film Council were returned for coming year at its annual election Friday night at the library.

Rev. William Kibblewhite of All Saints' Anglican church was re-elected president. Honorary president is Mayor M. J. Swanston and the past president, A. E. Borland. Dr. J. J. Craig was returned as vice-president and William Graff, public librarian, as the secretary-treasurer.

The only two new members this year are directors, the Rev. R. D. Duncanson of Norwood and Leonard McNeil. Other directors are Lewis Bird, Joseph Cooper, the Rev. Bernard Heywood of Bailieboro, Mrs. Gordon Langhorne, Miss Margaret McCulloch, Arthur Pitchford, R. H. Ruskin and Sister Vincentia.

Two of the four films shown at the meeting will be purchased by the local council. The first was Family Tree, a colored film on Canada's history, and the second, Beethoven's Fifth Symphony by the Vienna Philharmonic orchestra. The other films shown were Chopin's Polonaise, played by Paderewski, and Sailing in Canada.

The council plans to hold a Film Festival on November 24-25. It will provide outstanding documentary and educational films produced in various countries of the world.

Payroll Plan Bond Sales To Employees $1,785,000

Fifty-six per cent of the employees of manufacturing plants in Peterborough, Durham, Victoria and Haliburton have already subscribed in the fifth issue of Canada Savings Bonds $12,700 more than the final total a year ago. Amount of investment by payroll deduction is $1,785,650 as compared with the closing aggregate of $1,772,950 in 1949. That comparison is quoted from the progress report of subscriptions to the new government bond issue.

CGE Works $1,070,700

Employees of Peterborough works of Canadian General Electric Company have put their names down for $1,070,700.

In other words, 61% of the employees of that company have accounted for 60% of the present district total.

In percentage of personal response to this opportunity of saving, the employees of Colonial Weaving Company are at the top with 96% of their number investing; Peterborough Utilities Commission employees are second at 95%; Fanning Launderers and Dry Cleaners are third at 93% of their staff; Dominion Woollens and Worsteds are fourth at 89%, and from that percentage level there is a drop to the sixties brackets in the statement of percentage of subscribers.

Western Clock $108,050

In volume of bond value, employees of Western Clock Company with $108,050 as their present saving goal are second to CGE, and Outboard Marine and Manufacturing staff are third for $90,150.

This buying of bonds as a means of saving money is entirely optional, and is largely a recognition by men and women of the plants of the opportunity of enlarging their savings by weekly deduction from their pay through the agency of their office treasury departments.

The present statement of subscriptions for the four counties follows with amount subscribed in first column and percentage of employees subscribing in the second column.

Infant Daughter Dies

The Rev. W. E. Kibblewhite of All Saints' Anglican church officiated at the funeral service today for the infant daughter, Dorothy May, of Mr. and Mrs. Nickolas Peconi. She is survived by a brother, Nickolas, and a sister Patricia. Burial was at Little Lake cemetery.

MAIN ST. TOPICS

ANDERSON IMPROVED

G. A. Anderson, 25, of 4 McKellar St. spent a good night and is reported today to be in an improved condition over Friday. X-rays indicate no fractures. Mr. Anderson was the driver of the northbound pickup truck in the fatal collision with Gordon A. Ham, Aylmer St. His apparent injuries include a cut lip and left knee.

MORE RASPBERRIES

Two weeks ago, a twig from a raspberry bush was brought into the Examiner office, and the berries on it were thought to be among the latest of the season. Friday, two twigs from raspberry bushes with twice as many berries on them were brought in. They were grown by Gordon McIntosh, RR 3, Peterborough, who said he had three or four bushes with berries on them.

Y's Men Club Supports Collegiate Bylaw

Peterborough Y's Men's Club, at this week's dinner meeting, was addressed by Walter Bannon a member of the Board of Education and Superintendent of Schools K. S. Wightman in regard to the building of a new collegiate in the south end of the city. By presenting the facts of overcrowding at the present time, giving estimates of school attendance in the future, and outlining the staggered system that would have to be adopted, the speakers gained the full support of this club in urging that the by-law be approved in the December election and work be started on the building as early as possible. They were told that approval has already been given by the Department of Education and it will pay 25 per cent of the yearly payments, thus lessening the tax increase. The speakers were introduced by Don Harwood and thanked by Ray Brown.

Pete The Raccoon Has Luxury Diet

OSHAWA, Oct. 28 (CP)—Once a motherless waif who had to be forced to eat, Pete now thrives on ice cream and candy — and raw meat.

The raw meat is proper racoon diet, while Pete soon acquired a taste for the ice cream and candy after Stan Pollard found him in the woods near here several months ago. At first, Mr. Pollard had to force milk into the starving baby coon's mouth, but Pete caught on fast.

Pete roams about in the open at night and follows Mr. Pollard around like a pup in the daytime. Apart from a weakness for picking pockets and raiding the family fruit preserves in the cellar, he's a welcome household guest.

Police Called To 6 Accidents On City Streets

A charge may be laid following an accident Friday afternoon at Parkhill Rd. and George St., in which about $240 damage was done to two cars.

Harvey Elliott, 7 McClennan Ave., was driving south on George St., and stopped for the stop sign at Parkhill Rd. As he pulled away, Frank Juszczynski, of Embro, came west on Parkhill Rd., and failed to stop at George St., according to witnesses.

Juszczynski's car hit Elliott's on the left front fender, doing about $190 damage to the car. Damage to the other car was about $50.

Police say Juszczynski had no driver's license or ownership permit, but that he had an insurance policy for the car. The Embro man told police he had bought the car from a used-car dealer in Toronto.

Minor Cuts

In another city accident, two Ashburnham residents suffered bruises and minor cuts Friday night on Charlotte St., near Aylmer St.

A westbound car, driven by B. Harvey, 195 Rutherford Ave., attempted to turn left onto the CNR property at the south side of Charlotte St., striking an eastbound auto driven by R. Robinson, 378 Mark St.

Mr. Robinson and Mrs. E. Robinson suffered minor cuts to their foreheads and both had bruised knees.

Hit Side of House

When the front spring broke in his car, Thomas Middleton, Emily township, took an unexpected ride Friday afternoon. He was driving on Reid St., near Aberdeen Ave., when the spring broke.

The car left the road and travelled 172 feet to hit the side of the house at the intersection of Aberdeen and Reid, then went 56 feet further and came to rest in the middle of Aberdeen Ave.

The right front fender of the car was crumpled, the axle bent, two front tires flat and the front spring broken.

About $180 damage was done to a car driven by Charles H. Simmonds, 64 Dunlop St., when it was in collision early today with an auto driven by Raymond A. Collins, 202 Park St.

Collins told police he was driving west on McDonnel St., when a car in front of him, driven by Simmonds, started to make a left turn south onto Donegal St., and then swung back to turn north onto Donegal in front of Collins' car.

Minor damage was done to two cars late Friday night at Hunter and Rogers Sts. Blake Trennum, 857 Water St., told police he was driving east on Hunter St., behind a city bus.

F. W. Chapman, 54 Hunter St. E. was driving west on Hunter when a car southbound on Rogers St., turned right onto Hunter. Chapman swung to the left to avoid this car, striking the Trennum auto. The left rear fenders of both cars were damaged.

104 Years Old On Sunday

Not Been Sick a Day In Several Years

HAVELOCK, Oct. 28 (ENS)—Mrs. Margaret Ashby Jennings, Belmont township's grand old lady, celebrates her 104th birthday Sunday at the home of her daughter Mrs. Ezra King, Belmont Lake.

Mrs. Jennings is enjoying excellent health and beyond a slight cold a few weeks ago has not had a day's sickness for several years. Her eyesight and memory are failing, but she can still read large print.

Her birthday will be quietly celebrated with members of her family and visits from friends and neighbors. There are only two members in her family, the other being a son, Mr. Thomas Ashby of Peterborough. She has eight grandchildren. They are: Clyde Ashby of Peterborough; Mrs. George Boyd, West Hill; Mrs. Ray Forbes, Mrs. Edward Barker, Mrs. Eric Ellis, Mrs. Randal Anderson, of Belmont township; Mrs. Edward Henderson, Mrs. Wilbert Barton of Havelock. She has also 13 great-grandchildren.

Born in England

Mrs. Jennings was born in Lincoln, England, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Gibson and came to Canada with her parents at the age of eight years. The family settled near Port Hope, later moving to Pontypool. Her first marriage was to Charles Ashby when she was 20 years of age. Mr. Ashby died 33 years ago and later she married Simon Jennings who died in 1927. She has resided in this distict for 87 years.

PETERBOROUGH COUNTY'S OLDEST PERSON, Mrs. Margaret Ashby Jennings of the Cordova Road, north of Havelock, will celebrate her 104th birthday on Sunday. Hale and hearty, with none of her faculties impaired, she told the photographer in a firm voice that she would be seeing him at the same time in 1951.—(Examiner Staff Photo)

HOUSE No. 94—Many Canadian families these days are looking for a little house with attractive lines, and we think this home, in West Vancouver, British Columbia, fits the bill very well. It has five compact rooms designed for convenient living, with an exterior that is sure to please. Outside walls are of white cement stucco combined with rough cedar siding stained a pastel blue-green. Due to its hillside site, the basement area can be used to good advantage, if desired. Notice how the sunlight reaches the windows beneath the dining room. House contains approximately 19,000 cubic feet. For further information write 372 Bay St., Toronto.

Plumbing In Small House Calls For Careful Designing

Planning the plumbing system for the small house calls for two main considerations: (a) The inclusion of all necessary fixtures for bathroom and kitchen served by an efficient drainage and hot and cold water system; and (b) a special effort to make the plumbing installation economical by concentration of the location of fixutres. This latter consideration must play an important part in the planning and structure design of the dwelling.

For greatest economy it is desirable in one-storey houses to plan the kitchen and bathroom as adjoining rooms, but with sufficient space in the separating wall to carry the necessary plumbing lines. Through this combination of rooms and by placing the fixtures in the adjoining rooms along the common wall, only one vent stack is required for all the fixtures, and the lengths of drainage and water lines are reduced to a minimum.

In two-storey houses it is desirable to have the plumbing fixtures on the second floor located over the fixture on the first floor, so as to assure a concentration of mechanical equipment, minimizing drainage and water lines and permitting a single vent stack. In two-storied houses considerable additional drainage and water piping will be required in any design where the second-floor plumbing fixtures are removed from the vertical line rising from first-floor fixtures.

Laundry-Sink Combinations

In small dwellings at least one laundry tray should be provided in the case of one-storey houses, due to space limitations, it may be advisable to include the laundry tray in the kitchen in combination with the sink. In two-storey houses, where more utility space is provided, a double laundry tray should be located in the utility room as near the kitchen plumbing as possible.

The question of whether the bathroom shall include a shower in conjunction with the bathtub is entirely one of personal choice. A shower installation does not represent a great financial outlay, but in such minimum houses in order to achieve the maximum economy the shower should be considered as an extra. A separate shower compartment will generally be out of the question, unless it is substituted for a bathtub.

With the exception of the water closet, which should be of vitreous china, the plumbing fixtures should be either cast iron or pressed steel with a porcelain enamel finish. It is desirable to have the porcelain enamel acid resistant, but this refinement will increase fixture cost. The fixture fittings should be of good quality, of a type which can be easily repaired or replaced. Chromium finish on fittings and exposed pipe is desirable, due to its high resistance to corrosion. The slightly higher cost will be offset by longer life. In designs where the laundry tray is not part of the kitchen sink, an economical solution in the use of good quality cement trays with metal-bound edges and a steel supporting frame.

Painting Radiators

Radiators and pipes to be repainted should be first gone over thoroughly with a wire brush, taking off any blistering or peeling that may have occurred. Having given careful consideration to the decorative requirements of the room, apply your first coat tinted to approximately the colour desired in the finishing coat. Then follow with a second coat of the exact shade required. When a full gloss is desired, a good prepared enamel should be used for the finishing coat.

Ample time should always be permitted between coats so that each may dry and harden thoroughly before the next coat is applied. If it is possible to permit heat to pass gradually through the pipes between coats, the drying may be hastened . . but do not apply full heat or the coating will undoubtedly be affected.

Nearly all light shades show a tendency to darken slightly due to heat. This should be taken into consideration when the color is selected.

The radiating power of the top coat of paint has a marked effect on the amount of heat the radiator will throw out. Metallic paint (one in which the pigment consists of small flakes of metal, such as aluminum) has one-sixth less radiating power. If a paint of this type is used it is therefore equivalent to removing one-sixth of the radiator. It is not necessary to scrape off existing paint before applying the new, since it is the outside surface that governs radiation.

Gasoline Sale Bylaw Tested

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 28 — (ENS)— Validity of a by-law the town council didn't want to pass will be tested November 9 in a magistrate's court hearing before Magistrate R. B. Baxter.

The by-law regulated the hours of gasoline sale in the municipality, and two men—David Bowen and T. Hall—are charged with breaking it.

Most council members went on record some weeks ago when the by-law passed as not being in favor of it. They claimed it was undemocratic, but were informed that they had no choice as 75 per cent of the garage operators favored it.

The by-law was passed after the Garage Operators' petitioned the council, and it was a representative of the organization who informed council they had no choice but to pass it.

HOUSE NO. 448 — It is rare indeed that house and site compliment each other to the extent they do here. Each appears to be made for the other. And the picture above fails to tell the whole story, for the rear garden reaches down, by gentle slope, to the banks of a river. This is the reason all principal rooms in the house have large windows at the back — to take in the fine vista of the river and opposite shore line. After examining the floor plan shown we believe that you will agree it reveals a layout that's hard to equal. Not shown are the many built-in features, such as the dining-room corner cupboards, and the living room book shelves. Notice that there is no basement provided; and that the utility room contains the oil furnace and laundry facilities. Roof shingles are painted blue-gray, as are the shutters. Clapboards and trim are white. For further information write Home Building in Canada, 372 Bay St., Toronto.

Films On U.N. Shown

All Saints' Women's Church year meeting Thursday afternoon in the parish hall was opened with prayers, led by Mrs. J. Morley and a scripture lesson read by Mrs. H. Collingwood. Mrs. E. Gurney reported 12 visits and nine telephone calls to sick and shut-in members of the congregation. Twenty-three cards had been mailed to sick and bereaved during the month. The amount of the collection was $162.98. A delightful vocal solo was contributed by Mrs. Morley, who was accompanied by Mrs. P. Hooper. Very interesting and enlightening films reviewing the work of the United Nations were shown by the Rev. W. E. Kibblewhite. The rector closed the meeting with prayer and refreshments were served by Mrs. Gurney and her group.

Mrs. A. E. Metcalfe Auxiliary Hostess

HASTINGS, Oct. 28 (ENS)—The Evening Auxiliary of Trinity United Church met at the home of Mrs. A. E. Metcalfe with a very good attendance.

The President Mrs. J. M. Bakerr presided.

The worship period was in charge of Mrs. F. Crate assisted by Mrs. L. Humphries, Mrs. W. Dodd, Mrs. R. Glass and Mrs. Stan Fisher.

Mrs. Walter Thompson conducted a contest.

Mrs. E. Hess, Mrs. L. Humphries, Mrs. A. Orr were named as a nominating committee.

Mrs. F. Crate invited the ladies to her home for November meeting.

Mrs. Metcalfe assisted by the committee served delicious lunch.

Groups Meet With Millbrook

MILLBROOK, Oct. 28 (ENS)—Members of missionary groups from St. Thomas Anglican, St. Andrew's United and Centreville churches were guests Wednesday of Grace Presbyterian Church WMS at their autumn thankoffering meeting.

Miss A. Johnston, the president, welcomed the guests and conducted the worship service, assisted by Mrs. Dick Hutchison, who read the scripture and Miss Alice Berry, who led in prayer.

Mrs. L. T. McLaughlin of Bowmanville, first vice-president of the Peterborough Presbytery, was the special speaker. She was introduced by Mrs. J. Thompson. Mrs. McLaughlin told of her trip last winter to Australia and New Zealand and of the four months spent there. She described sunrise on the snow laden trees on the Canadian Rockies, the "liquid sunshine" of Hawaii, and its wealth of flowers. She told of travelling to Auckland with the group taking part in the British Empire games there. She mentioned her surprise at finding churches in New Zealand filled for evening services in midsummer. The Anglican church is strongest there and the Presbyterian comes next.

The Rev. Walter Patterson on behalf of the missionary groups present thanked the speaker.

Marmora News

Mrs. E. D. O'Connor is visiting relatives and friends in Toronto.

Mrs. Robert Harris spent past week with relatives in Peterborough.

Mrs. Hugh Brady has returned home from Hotel Dieu Hospital, Kingston.

Mr. Vaughan Glover is erecting an addition to the rear of his grocery store. It will consist of one storey of cement block construction and a basement. The basement will eventually be used for a heating plant for the entire building and for storage purposes. The main floor will be a warehouse permitting all ground floor space of the present building to be used as an enlarged store.

Warsaw WA Meets

WARSAW, Oct. 28 —(ENS)—The Women's Association held their monthly meeting in the Sunday School room with 15 ladies present. Mrs. T. Cooper, president, presided for the meeting. Mrs. Dyson took the worship period on Thanksgiving. Mrs. George Taylor read the scripture lesson and Mrs. Dyson gave a very interesting paper on the life of Helen Kellar who was both deaf and blind. A cake contest was enjoyed by all. The roll call was answered by the word "Thanksgiving." Mrs. Sherwood Payne, treasurer, gave a detailed report of the recent turkey dinner. Miss Clara McCracken reported two sick calls made during the month. The flower convener reported several get well cards and two sprays having been sent. The meeting closed with the Mizpah benediction. Lunch was served by Mrs. Gordon Payne, Mrs. F. Crowe and Mrs. Harold Payne.

Many Fine Prizes Given At Second "Coiffure Ball"

Prizes galore were won at the Coiffure Ball Friday night—handsome door prizes, spot dance prizes and 21 permanents. The waves, of course are to be given on appointments with the various local hairdressers for tickets found in the balloons that were lowered into the crowd during one dance.

More than 300 were enjoying this well-conducted second annual event sponsored by Peterborough Branch of the Ontario Hairdressers' Association and held at the Club Aragon. The guests were mostly all in formal attire and the ladies' hair stylings were particularly attractive on this occasion, giving evidence of the skilfull operators in this city's salons. Decorations were the silhouetted ladies' profiles that hairdressers so often feature in their establishments and favors handed out at the door were samples of shampoo and hair dressing.

Association president Vincent Marino officiated in the giving of prizes, assisted by Don Moore and Jack Donoghue.

Luckiest couple was Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Heffernan who got the first door prize, a handsome pair of lamps and a mantel radio. Miss Marg Sullivan and Doug Thackeray were next, winning another pair of beautiful lamps.

Among those at the ball were:

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Marino, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Perry, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Johnston, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Roberts, Mr. and Mrs. V. Marino, Mr. and Mrs. A. Caravaggie, Mr. and Mrs. H. NEW CHAPTER CHARTERED

Bestowal of a charter and presentation of a standard to the newly formed Edith Carleton Chapter, IODE, occasioned much interest among IODE members of this city.

Arrangements were made and carried out under direction of Municipal Chapter and the standard bearer Mrs. M. E. Clarke led the procession at opening of the meeting Thursday evening in the YWCA Green Room. She was following by Municipal regent, Mrs. W. G. Hall, Provincial organizing secretary, Mrs. M. S. Somers, Municipal organizing secretary, Mrs. R. S. Allin, National convener of commonwealth and Empire, Mrs. C. M. Scott, honorary member of the new chapter, Mrs. H. G. Carleton.

They were followed by Miss Wanda Deyell, regent, and the 12 members of the new chapter: Misses Fay Adams, Sonia Bissett, Mary McRae, Joan McFadden, Helen Watson, Joan Stock, Betty Adams, Marilyn Pomeroy, June Miller and Mesdames Nell Hood and Robin Stocker.

The chapter was handed to the regent by Mrs. Allin and each member was presented to Mrs. Somers, representing Provincial Chapter, who gave them into the care of Municipal Chapter. Mrs. Carleton presented her gift of a flag to the standard bearer, Miss Fay Adams, and Mrs. Scott gave the prayer dedicating the flag.

In her address to the assembly Mrs. Somers stated: "It is most important at this time to increase membership and form new chapters to combat evil influences rampant in the world." She outlined the work of the Order, stressing that of some conveners particularly, and advised of projects, work and study the new chapter might undertake.

The guest speaker pointed out there are two courses open to the new chapter—self-achievement and success or self-sacrifice and a sincere desire to do good,—and said "The future of IODE is assured when chapters follow the aims and objects of the Order."

Two piano selections were contributed by Miss Marilyn Pomeroy and Mrs. G. H. Cutmore rendered two vocal solos. Mrs. D. Munro was pianist for the program.

A vote of thanks to Mrs. Somers and the artists was moved by Miss Anne Heideman.

Mrs. Gordon K. Fraser expressed interest and pleasure in the growth of IODE under the Municipal Chapter. Regents of Peterborough and Lakefield chapters spoke briefly of their activities, and Mrs. Carleton told, on request, a few details of her overseas trip.

After withdrawal of the standards, refreshments provided by Municipal Chapter under convenership of Miss M. Greer were served by the members of Edith Carleton Chapter.

Soroptimists' President Gives Observations in Europe

Soroptimists of Peterbbrough observed the 29th anniversary of their organization, which is a service club now sponsoring projects of national and international scope, by reviewing the history and purposes at their dinner meeting Friday. Each contributed a penny for each year which goes to form the American Fellowship Fund to enable women to continue study in unusual fields.

The local club was chartered in November 1945, has retained the charter membership except for one loss by death and one by retirement from business, and has increased each year. Its greatest service to the community to date is the forming of the Golden Mile Club which began in November 1947 with 11 members and has increased steadily. The bi-weekly meetings of these older women were resumed on October 17.

President's Tour

Entire executive of the club is changed each year and the present head is Miss Florence Scott, who, immediately after being installed president in June left on an European tour. At this meeting she sought to appease the curiosity of her fellow members with a travelogue.

Her tour was extensive, covering Portugal, Spain, Italy, Austria, Germany France. Belgium Holland, England and Scotland.

Highlight experiences she recounted were on the religious side, an audience with Pope Pius at his summer palace near Rome, a day at the Oberammergau Passion Play, and various tombs and shrines. Also a visit to the Peace Palace in Holland, made up of gifts from all the free countries.

Of interest were her personal observations on the "very blue" Mediterranean, dearth of dress shops in Lisbon, and high prices in Paris stores, Rome being the best city for shopping she found; Venice the dirtiest but the most romantic city at night, bright with crystal chandeliers everywhere since that is a big industry there, and where every house has an entrance on the water and on the street and fire reels and ambulances are boats. Belgium she remembers for lace curtains and fields of solid color tuborous begonias, Holland for millions of bicyclists.

Miss Scott was joined on leaving the continent by a member of the sister Soroptimist Club of Blackburn, England, and while in London stayed at Soroptimist House.

Miss Olgo Haskill who enjoyed the same tour was the president's guest at the dinner and was winner of the draw prize, a sandwich plate donated by Mrs. Isabel Hughson.

Right Choice of Gloves Keynotes Smart Costuming

NEW YORK —(CP)— The right choice of gloves, designers say, is essential to the well-dressed look. And to be "right" the gloves must be in tune with the costume in color, style and quality.

A number of top-flight designers have co-operated with the glove industry by selecting gloves to complement costumes of their own design. In almost every case their selections, as shown in current displays here, are marked by absolute simplicity of design.

For a black wool afternoon dress with sculptured lines, Molyneux chose simple, close-fitting gloves of yellow kid teamed with a head-hugging little yellow felt hat.

Jacques Fath designed for daytime wear a hand-sewn double-woven cotton glove with flaring, turned-back cuffs. It is featured in a rust tone in combinations with a flower-pot black felt hat designed by Mr. John.

American hat-designer Walter Florell carries the hat-and-glove team into the evening picture with his dainty tricorne of white kid and elbow-length white kid gloves, used to set off a black lace evening dress.

Both texture and color contract appear in Molyneux' choice of black antelope elbow-length gloves and huge bouquet of black velvet carnations to dramatize his chartreuse taffeta evening gown.

Furs call for luxurious gloves, says fur-fashion-designer Esther Dorothy. With fur coats having loose, turn-back sleeves as well as with capes and stoles she advises long, crushed-down gloves. She likes the contrast of white kid with the darker fur, but notes that interesting effects can be achieved also by using monotone or blending glove colors.

Readers' Saturday Column Conducted by Mary Moore

QUESTION: Would you please send me a recipe for pickled eggs? Have you a recipe where water glass is used? Mrs. R. O.

✧ ✧ ✧

QUESTION: Having written your paper for the recipe for pickled eggs I was advised to write you for same. Would you please forward it to me as soon as possible if you please?

Mrs. W. L. J.

✧ ✧ ✧

QUESTION: Would you please send me a recipe for pickled eggs if available? Thank you for your trouble. I. M.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: There are two kinds of eggs that you may be referring to: one is eggs preserved in water glass; the other is hard-cooked eggs pickled in a herb-flavored vinegar. I will give you both.

✧ ✧ ✧

Egg Preserved in Water Glass (raw for winter storage)

These amounts are for from 9 to 12 dozen eggs.

Mix I pint water glass (to be purchased in large drug stores), and 5 quarts cool boiled water in a clean 4-gallon jar. Use only clean, infertile, fresh eggs. Do not wash them. A few eggs may be put in at a time,—if you are collecting them from your own hens. Those on top should be at least 2 inches below the surface of the solution. Keep covered in a cool place, where they will not freeze. If solution jellies, add more boiling water.

Wash off solution as soon as eggs are removed from it or this hardens.

Pickled Eggs (hard-cooked with shells removed)

Twelve hard-cooked eggs which have been cooked by covering them when raw with cold water, putting over low heat with lit on and simmering for 20 to 30 minutes. Drain and cover with cold water at once. Remove when cold and peel off the shells. Have ready 1 quart spirit vinegar which has been brought to boiling point with 1 teaspoon dry mustard or 1 tablespoon mustard seeds, 1 teaspoon each salt and white pepper, 6 cloves, 1 bay leaf. Pour this into a glass jar when slightly cooled, and when cold drop peeled eggs into it. Cover and let stand as least 14 days before using. These are commonly colored green or red by adding green or red vegetable coloring to the vinegar after it has been boiled. This color tints the whites, penetrating more as the eggs stand. Colored eggs are pretty sliced as a garnish for salads.

✧ ✧ ✧

QUESTION: I have just been advised to read your column since I need help with my cooking so badly. My first request is for a veal loaf—not jellied. Mrs. Joel.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER:

Veal Loaf: Two lbs. veal shoulder ground with ½ pound sausage meat or fresh pork, 2 tablespoons each catsup and minced parsley, 1 chopped or grated onion, 1 egg, ½ cup dry breadcrumbs, ¼ cup hot milk, 1½ teaspoons salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper. Mix all ingredients together with the hands and pack down into loaf pan and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 1 hour or at 300 deg. Fahr. for 2 hours covered. This amount will serve eight.

Write whenever I can help.

Lakefield Friends Honor D. Calberry

LAKEFIELD, Oct. 28—(ENS)—Mr. Douglas Calberry, son of Mrs. Mabel Calberry, left on Thursday for Aylmer, Ontario, where he will be stationed with the RCAF.

Previous to his departure, Doug was guest of honor at a theatre party. Later the crowd went on to Reydon Manor, home of Miss Denise Doubt, for several hours dancing.

During the evening he was presented with a leather wallet by his former school mates. Lunch was served by the girls.

Among those present were: Misses Ruth Bullock, Marilyn Fraser, Barbara Graham, Donna Edwards, Anne Richardson, Elaine Wasson, Alma Gherry, Lenore Armstrong, Marg. Calberry, Denise Doubt, and Messrs. Gordon Coyle, Gordon Blake, Ross Calberry, John Pue, Bill Twist, Eugene Sabitino, Jim Sloan, Derry Wilford, Doug Darling, Don Hill, Dick McCracken, Delmar Sloan.

Anglican Y.P. Hold Masquerade

About 40 young people of St. Luke's Anglican Church were gathered for a hilarious Hallowe'en party in the parish hall. They heartily enjoyed a scavenger hunt, ducking for apples and other Hallowe'en games. From the variety of costumed figures four winners were chosen: Morley Coombs and Bill King, the funniest; Ted Chapman, the most authentic; and Miss Pamela Humphrey, the most "terrifying." Mrs. W. J. Gilling was judge. The party came to a close with dancing, a highlight of this period being an exhibition of the "Charleston" by those in the crowd dressed as "flappers."

COOKBOOK OF THE WEEK

Tricks for Extra Goodness In Candies Shown by Book

If you are the type of homemaker who loves the added goodness of homemade candies but have never had the opportunity to learn the whys and wherefores of making them, now is your chance to learn all about it.

"250 Ways to Make Candy," the fifteenth in the series of twenty-four cookbooks currently being released to readers of The Examiner, has all the detailed instructions for making the most elaborate or the simplest of candies. The instructions include matrials needed, temperature tests, and many basic recipes that can be varied to suit your own whim.

For instance there are several basic recipes for marzipan in the Candy Book. The basic recipe can be colored or not as desired and rolled into balls that are rolled in cocoa or, cinnamon for a coating. Or the basic marzipan can be dipped in chocolate or pressed between nuts or into dried fruits. But here are two of the basic recipes:

SIMPLE COOKED MARZIPAN

3 cups sugar
1 cup water
5 cups ground almonds
Flavoring extract to taste
Food coloring

Dissolve the sugar and water in a saucepan and add the almonds. Cook, stirring constantly, until the mass will not adhere to the pan. Then remove from heat and turn on a clean marble slab, enamel table top or baking sheet. Knead until smooth, adding extract and coloring while mixture is still warm. Shape as desired.

UNCOOKED MARZIPAN

½ cup confectioners' sugar
½ cup granulated sugar
2 cups ground almonds
2 egg whites
Flavoring extract
Food coloring

Sift the sugars together, then add the almonds and mix well. Beat the egg whites until frothy and blend into the sugar and almond mixture; add extract and coloring. Knead until smooth. If necessary, add a little more sugar to form a stiff paste.

Allow mixture to stand for a few hours, then press small pieces of it into molds or make into dainty shapes; or roll out and cut with small cutters. This marzipan should be used at once as it does not keep for any length of time.

To get your copy fo the Candy Book simply clip a coupon from page 2 of any issue of this newspaper and present it with 25c at The Examiner Office, Braund's Food Markets, or to your Examiner carrier boy.

Most Homes Ruled by Wives Though Husbands Deny It

Considering that a man is legally and technically the head of the family, and as most men are better educated and have had far more worldly experience than their wives, it is a strange thing that wives have so much more influence over their husbands than husbands have over their wives.

Dorothy Dix

Of course, husbands will deny this. Every man fondly believes that he is Czar in his own house and that his wife takes her opinions, her convictions, her likes and dislikes from him. It would surprise him beyond measure to know that instead of his leading the way he is following meekly in his wife's footsteps, and that he is echoing all of her sentiments instead of her subscribing to his.

Nevertheless, such is very often the case, and when one of a married couple dominates the other it is nearly always the wife who rules the roost. There are a thousand henpecked men to one roosterpecked woman.

Women Not Brilliant

We could understand it if the women who make rubber stamps of their husbands were possessed of supernatural cleverness and cunning, or if the husbands were dumb and stupid or weaklings, but the most curious feature of this whole inexplicable phenomenon of Nature is that very often the wife who imposes the color of her every thought upon her husband is married to a man who is her superior in every way and who is noted for his independence and courage in the outside world.

I knew a scientist, a brilliant and original thinker, who was broadminded, liberal in his views on every subject and the soul of generosity. He married a stupid, uncultured, narrow, prejudiced, stingy woman, who in less than ten years had made him over into her own likeness. From their very wedding day he began to degenerate. She killed everything that was fine in him and pulled him down to her own level.

I have known innumerable men whose wives' influence was so great over them that they separated them entirely from the mothers who bore them and the sisters and brothers they loved. The reason a bridegrom's family is always in tears at his wedding is because they know that John's marriage ceremony may be his funeral ceremony just as far as they are concerned, and that they may be losing him just as much as if they were laying him in his grave.

Her Attitude Sets Relationship

Everything will depend upon his wife's attitude and whether or not she wants him to be friends with his people. Otherwise she will break off the relationship. How any man can have his mind poisoned against the mother whose devotion and tenderness he has known all his life; how any man can be separated from the brothers and sisters whose loyalty and help have never failed him, only the devil knows, but he has taught the secret to every jealous wife and she can turn the trick.

In the cominon, everyday affairs of life it is the wives who influence their husbands, not the husbands who influence their wives. It is the wives who decide where the family shall live and in what style; whether they shall be savers or spenders; whether they shall try to keep up with the Joneses or live according to their income; what church they shall go to; what schools the children shall attend, et cetera. Husbands have precious little say-so in the domestic circle.

It is women who start to make over their husbands according to their little paper patterns as soon as they are married. Men seldom attempt the job of changing their wives. Perhaps it is because men know that it makes for peace and happiness to take a wife "as is," instead of trying to change her. Maybe it is because they know that it can't be done, and so do not wear themselves out attempting a hopeless task.

But at any rate, it is a fact that wives influence their husbands far more than husbands influence their wives. No man, for instance, can alienate his wife from her own people. She will love them still and cling to them no matter how much he dislikes them. No big man can make a little woman see life from his point of view. No intelligence of a husband can cure a fool woman of her folly. As she was born and reared a woman stays, and her husband can no more change her than he can the shape and quality of the Rock of Gibraltar.

6—In Memoriams

BARKER—In loving memory of Mr. T. T. Barker, who passed away Oct. 28, 1949.
In our hearts your memory lingers,
Sweetly tender, fond and true,
There is not a day dear brother
That we do not think of you.
—Ever remembered by Garton, Alden and Norma.

MANN—In loving memory of a dear father, Sgt. Jas. S. Mann, who passed away October 29, 1944, overseas.
He bade no one a last farewell,
He said goodbye to none.
The heavenly gates were opened wide,
A loving voice said "come."
We often sit and think of you,
The things you used to say and do;
We often wonder why, you had to die
Without a chance to say goodbye.
—Sadly missed by brothers and sisters.

6—In Memoriams

CULLEN—In loving memory of a dear mother, Mrs. Helena Cullen, who passed away nine years ago today, October 28, 1941.
—Always remembered by Mr. and Mrs. Gildo Silvestro and family.

MANN—In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Sgt. James S. Mann, who was killed in Belgium, October 29th, 1944.
We think of him in silence,
No eyes can see us weep,
But still within our aching hearts
His memory we keep.
—Lovingly remembered by his wife and family, Donna and Bobby.

7—Cards of Thanks

The family of the late Mrs. Ada Mann wish to express their sincere thanks to all who sent flowers, loaned cars, also the attending doctor, all friends who called during their recent sad bereavement.

Mrs. Alex McLaren wishes to thank the nurses of Civic Hospital, attending doctors, Rev. E. C. Moore, and all her friends, who were so thoughtful during her recent stay in hospital.

Sex Forms Basis Of Social Life Says Church

LONDON, Oct. 28—(CP)—A Church of England Council said today sex "is the basic human fact and therefore the main ground of all social life."

"If the church is to save the world from its own despair," the group said, "she will have to take more seriously than she has so far done her duty to help men and women understand and accept, in the deepest sense, their sexuality, and to see in it a clue to their very nature."

Issues Booklet

The comments were made in a booklet on sex, marriage and the family, published by the Church of England Moral Welfare Council. The booklet is entitled Moral Crisis, the Church in Action.

At the same time, the social and industrial commission of the church's governing body, the assembly, issued a report citing gambling as "dangerously indefensible" when it comes to be an amusement.

Much of the report of the moral welfare council was devoted to the activities of the council in educational and remedial work in moral matters. It called for more extensive sex education on a moral and physical plane, rather than mere lectures on biological facts.

Half-Truths

The report decried half-truths and falsehoods" it said were found in the movies, advertisements, novels and magazines. It summarized them as follows:

"Sex is what you were made for. Sexual experience is the thing you can't do without. If you miss it, you miss the thing most worth having in life. And if you do not get all that you want in marriage you are free to seek it elsewhere."

Church Must Help

The council said persons seeking help in dealing with their moral problems "represent critical situations for the Church and the most searching test of the method of dealing with souls in this generation." It continued:

"If the church has something to say, and can say it simply and clearly, about the relations of men and women in love and in marriage and all the manifold problems of family life, she can count on a hearing from tens of thousands of people who will not trouble to listen to anything else she says."

Defends Lotteries

The social and industrial commission defends parish lotteries, card tournaments, and other small-scale gambling on the grounds that they combined mild entertainment with benefit to church funds.

But it said the British national soccer pools, in which prizes of more than £100,000 have been won recently, would be better prohibited.

The commission said the modern gambling habit is "the diversion of enfeebled spirits and frustrated minds."

Modern Hockey Stick Kingston Invention

VICTORIA, B. C., Oct. 28 (CP).—The modern hockey stick was invented in Kingston, Ont., by a schoolboy who later became a Dean of the University of British Columbia, a Victoria writer claims.

In his column in the Victoria Times, David Brock said that his father, the late Dean R. W. Brock originated the stick when he was a small boy.

Mr. Brock writes that when a Kingston team was formed and played the first hockey games as distinguished from shinny, his uncle Frank Jenkins was a member of the team. The team used shinny sticks, much like those used for grass hockey.

One day Mr. Jenkins noticed the stick his nephew had invented. The uncle grabbed the stick, threw 50 cents at young Brock, and skated off. Next week the Kingston team all had new sticks, the first of the design that has been used since.

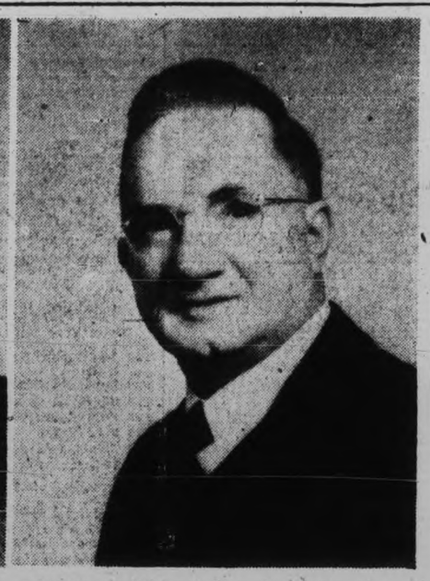
Wed In Ireland In 1900 Couple Mark Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Owen, 596 McCannan St. will be married 50 years on Oct. 31. However, celebrations marking this anniversary will take place tonight, at a banquet supper at the Club Aragon followed by a party at Mr. and Mrs. Owen's home.

Mr. and Mrs. Owen have lived in Peterborough for seven years. Before this they lived in Montreal.

Mr. Owen was born 73 years ago in Manchester, England. He was educated there and at the age of 21, he went to Belfast, Ireland, where he worked as a boilermaker.

Mrs. Owen the former Annie Marie Stewart, was born in Magheramorne, Ireland, 69 years ago. When she was 15, she went to Belfast.



Mr. and Mrs. Owen were married on October 31 1900 in Magheramorne Presbyterian Church. They lived in Belfast until 1924 and then came to Canada. Mr. Owen continued his trade as a boilermaker until 1943. In that year, he retired and moved to Peterborough.

Mr. and Mrs. Owen have four children, Mrs. James Blackwood (Margaret), Mrs. Kenneth Maunder (Elizabeth) and Mrs. Fred Spencely (Annie) and one son, Thomas Owen, Jr. and four grandchildren, all of Peterborough. Another son, James Ernest, was killed in 1941 while serving with the RCAF in Britain.

Mr. Owen has two sisters, Mrs. Margaret Morgan and Mrs. Elizabeth Reeves and one brother, John, all of Manchester, England. Mrs. Owen also has two sisters and one brother. They are Mrs. Robert Adrian of Montreal, Mrs. Margaret Young and Thomas Stewart both of Belfast, Ireland.

Mr. and Mrs. Owen have been visited daily this week by the postman with greetings and congratulatory messages from relatives and friends both in this country and the British Isles.

MR. AND MRS. THOMAS OWEN, 596 McCannan St., are celebrating their 50th wedding anniversary this evening with their relatives and friends at a banquet supper at the Club Aragon. Mr. and Mrs. Owen have lived in this community for the past seven years.

Secretly-Reds Unionists Meet

BERLIN, Oct. 28 —(AP)— An East Berlin newspaper claimed Friday that a secret meeting between West German trade unionists and leaders of the east zone Communist government was held last Saturday at an unnamed place in the Soviet zone.

Neues Duetschland. organ of the Socialist Unity (Communist) party, claimed that "more than 1,000" officials of West German trade unions had attended a meeting with East German president Wilhelm Pieck and his prime minister Otto Grotewohl.

The newspaper said that the request for the meeting had come from West German Socialists.

The meeting was held primarily, Neues Deutschland said, to answer questions which the West German trade unionists wanted to ask. These included queries concerning the Korean war and the recent east zone elections in which the single-ticket Communist list of candidates was returned to office.

Neues Deutschland quoted Grotewohl as calling for Socialist cooperation with the Communists "because of increased war preparations in West Germany."

It described the session as the first all-Germany conference for concerted action and declared that the "common front of the workers is the need of the hour."

Sold Fake Syrup

OSHAWA, Ont., Oct. 28 (CP)—For selling fake maple syrup J. Jersofsky of Toronto Friday was fined $200. Persofsky admitted obtaining a quantity of produce labelled "pure maple syrup" which he said he purchased from Bonsecous Market in Montreal. An analytical report said the syrup was a concoction of pine tar flavoring and sugar syrup which could be made for 10 cents a gallon. Persofsky sold it for $3.50.

Cripps Finishes As British MP

LONDON, Oct. 28—(Reuters)—Sir Stafford Cripps, who resigned as chancellor of the exchequer last week, ceased to be a member of parliament Friday night.

But parliamentary rules do not allow an MP to quit. He must either die or be expelled. And Sir Stafford is, in effect, being expelled.

As part of the formal expulsion procedure, he applied for appointment as "steward and bailiff of His Majesty's Three Hundreds of Chiltern'—more familiarly known as "The Chiltern Hundreds".

The word "hundred" indicates that each of the royal tracts in the Chiltern Hills can be covered by 100 oxskins. The oxskin once was a unit of measure for land.

But the job of steward and bailiff is considered an "appointment of profit under the crown," —something no MP can hold (outside of cabinet minister).

Today the job has neither duties nor salary—and Sir Staford will have to resign it almost at once so that the loophole will remain open should another MP have a legitimate reason for quitting parliament.

Wine Fumes Kill Man

TORONTO, Oct. 28 — (CP) — Gordon Woods, 22, died Thursday night after he fell into an empty 20-foot-high wine vat at a winery in west-central Toronto. Police said Woods was preparing to clean the vat when he lost his footing while waiting for wine fumes to evaporate. He crashed to the bottom and was overcome by the fumes. An inquest will be held.

Start Survey To Learn If UK Women Bulkier

LONDON, Oct. 28 (CP)— A mass-measurement survey is under way to determine whether British women really have put on weight during 11 years of austerity.

One in every 100 women from Land's End to John O'Groats will be measured for Britain's first "figure chart" since pre-war days. Formerly manufacturers depended on United States research, but this is thought to be misleading since it is generally supposed women have grown slightly bulkier on the starchy diet of austerity.

Experts from the government-controlled clothing development council, who are conducting the survey, expect to have present assumptions on women's sizes revised a little.

"It's quite possible we shall find the shape of women of various heights much different from that generally assumed," one official said.

Instalment Buying Curbs Come Into Effect November 1 Ottawa Rules

Put 18-Month Maximum On Time Payments Loans Also Under New Law; Require 33% Down On Purchase of New Cars

OTTAWA, Oct. 30—(CP)—The government has moved to make "easy payment" instalment buying more difficult. New regulations, designed as anti-inflationary discouragement to needless buying, come into effect Nov. 1, covering a wide field in the expanding trade in credit purchasing. They set minimums on the amount of down payments and on weekly or monthly instalments, and clamped an 18-month maximum on time payments. Practically all goods with such exceptions as building materials, fuel, buses, trucks and educational and religious books, are affected.

Loans for the purchase of consumer goods also come under the new laws announced Sunday by Finance Minister Abbott, as a "means of helping check inflationary presures arising from mounting defence expenditures."

Mr. Abbott said Canadians have been "going into debt on an increasing scale in order to buy goods, thus adding to the upward pressure on prices." The government had therefore decided to act under the powers conferred in the Consumer Credit (temporary provisions) Act passed at the recent special session of parliament.

May Be Varied

The finance minister said the restrictions, mild compared with those effective during the Second World War, would be varied "as required by changing circumstances." They parallel closely similar curbs on consumer credit already in effect in the United States.

The main provisions:

1. A down payment of 33⅓ per cent of the purchase price is required at time of delivery on automobiles, motorcycles and other motor vehicles except buses and trucks and those intended for use by salesmen as demonstrators.

2. Other goods bought on the instalment plan with the exception of such things as real estate, securities and goods for professional use, require a down payment of at least 20 per cent and not less than $5.

3. A flat 18-month maximum time allowed for full payment of goods purchased on the instalment plan with instalments to be not less than $5 a month or $1.25 a week. At present the length of time given to pay varies.

Cardinals Give Approval To New Dogma

VATICAN CITY, Oct. 30—(AP)—More than 500 cardinals and bishops approved today the Pope's decision to proclaim the bodily assumption of the Virgin Mary into heaven as a dogma of the Roman Catholic church.

The dignitaries—35 cardinals, including James Cardinal McGuigan of Toronto, and more than 500 bishops from all parts of the world—signified their assent to the papal decision, at a great consistory after the Pontiff outlined his reasons for his action.

The Pope told the assemblage the proclamation on Wednesday of the dogma will "fill the whole Roman Catholic world with unspeakable joy".

After the belief that the Virgin Mary ascended bodily into heaven is proclaimed at the most important ceremony of the 1950 holy ye.r, every Catholic must accept it without question or expose himself to the sin of heresy.

Speaks In Latin

Addressing the consistory in Latin, the Pope expressed the hope that Mary, Mother of God, would "lead to that divine light the entire human race, which in many places is still enveloped in the darkness of error, tormented by cruel chastisements, and afflicted by grave dangers".

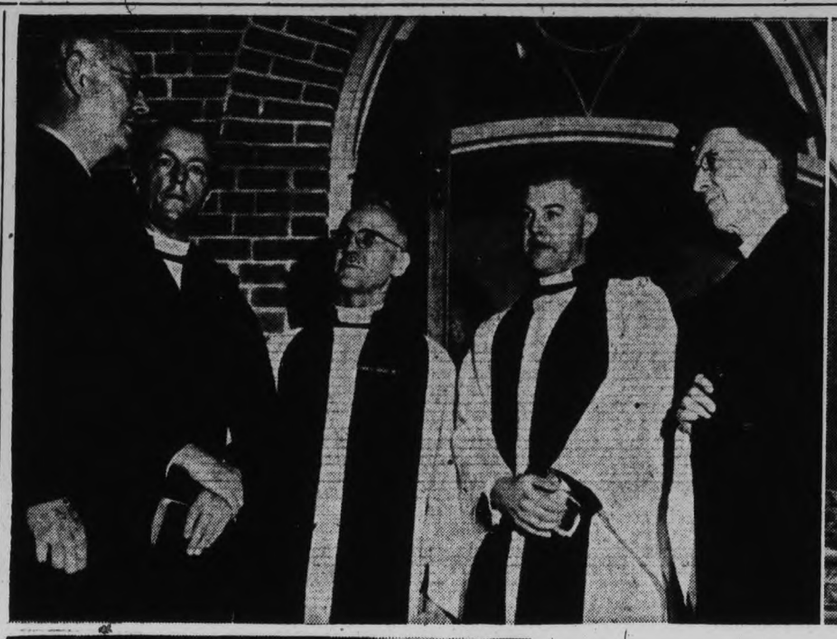
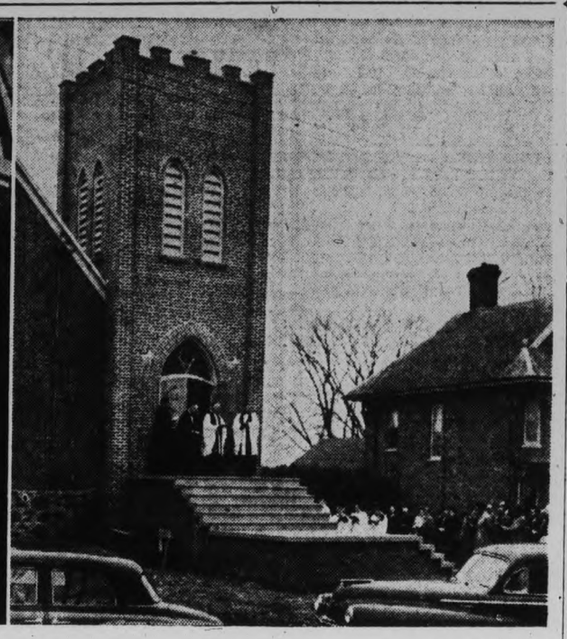
Fire Breaks Out On Luxury Liner

BARROW, Eng., Oct. 30 (AP).—Fire broke out Saturday night in the forward section of the new 28,200-ton British luxury liner Oronsay as she lay at her fitting dock here. The blaze was reported under control three hours later.



The ship, owned by the Orient Steam Navigation Co., was launched last June. She was built to carry 1,551 passengers and a crew of 622 in the Australian trade. First reports did not say whether any one was aboard when the fire broke out.



At 11 p.m., two hours after the fire was discovered, firemen wearing breathing masks groped between decks trying to reach the heart of the blaze.

Lebanese General Shot At Car Stop

BEYROUTH, Lebanon, Oct. 30 (Reuters).—Gen. Sami Hinnawi, who organized a coup d'etat in Syria last year, was shot and killed today at a streetcar stop here.

Police said the killer was Ahmed Barazi, cousin of the former Prime Minister, Mohsin Bay Barazi, who was executed on Gen. Hinnawai's orders after his coup d'etat.

OMEMEE, Oct. 30 (ENS)—Premier Leslie M. Frost of Ontario unveiled the memorial tablet on the new $5,000 tower of Christ Church, Omemee, Saturday. Dedication of the tower was made by Archdeacon W. P. Robertson, of St. John's Church, Peterborough. As local veterans stood at attention, the premier unveiled the tablet, saying he felt as St. Paul did, "encompassed with a great cloud of witnesses."

He spoke of the church's historical site, overlooking the spot to which the district's first settlers came.

Pray In Silence

The service, in honor of the men of Omemee who fought and died in two world wars, was in charge of the rector, the Rev. F. W. Pooley. It included two minutes of silent prayer, and a prayer led by the Rev. H. Hasketh of Lindsay.

An audience of about 100 sang two hymns — "O God, Our Help in Ages Past," and "O Valiant Hearts."

On Sunday, Bishop George Arthur Wells, associate bishop of Toronto diocese, delivered two addresses dealing with Joshua as a statesman and soldier, and as a religious leader.

Gone To Extremes

The bishop, using Joshua as an example, condemned a religion that is not carried into one's business relations, and complete life. He emphasized the futility of half-way allegiance, and said that the modern age has gone to extremes in entertainment and superficial living.

The church was built in 1835, 115 years ago, although there was at that time no minister in the district. In 1840, the Rev. G. C. Street was appointed and he later became Canon of St. Paul's and St. Peter's Cathedral in Chicago.

Most prominent in building the church were James and Gabriel Balfour, Richard Marmion, John Collum, Robert Dixon, Robert Montgomery, Charles Corneil, and John Toole.

Customs Holds Gold Shipment

LONDON, Oct. 30 (AP). — British customs officials waited today for a mysterious American couple to make the next move in a cat-and-mouse game involving £20,000 in gold.

The customs people have the gold. Half of it is locked up at the Bank of England. The other half is held under bond at London airport.

The officials seized the first half Sunday at the airport on the ground that a richly-clad middle-aged woman—described as a New Yorker named "Mrs. C. Schwartz"—had tried to export it without the required treasury licence. She arrived Saturday by plane from New York.

The other half was left at the airport by a man named Schwartz who appeared to be her son and who arrived on a later plane. Both were booked to leave London by air later in the day for Bombay.

"We have nothing to say about Mr. Schwartz because he has not attempted to export this gold," a customs official said. There is no law against importing gold into England but it cannot be exported without a licence from the treasury. Customs officers said they are now waiting for Mrs. Schwartz to tell them what she intends to do.

2,200 Fleeing Oregon Flood

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 30—(AP)—Storm-swollen rivers that drove 2,000 persons from their southern Oregon mountain valley homes spilled seaward today. Their crests threatened new flooding of downstream lowlands. Two persons were drowned and one man was missing after the weekend flooding. Scores of Oregon-California borderland towns and cities were isolated and many rural families marooned. The rivers burst their banks early Sunday when an overnight deluge dumped three and four inches of rain into headquarters of streams swollen by four previous days of storms.

Oregon National Guardsmen were on duty at stricken Myrtle Creek and on alert orders at Roseburg.

Red Cross flood relief volunteers sheltered about 1,000 Sunday night in the Eugene, Ore., area where Sheriff Tom Swarts had issued a general evacuation order for all Willamette river lowlands in Lane county. Some were taken from their homes in rowboats to shelters in nearby Springfield and Eugene.

Another 1,000—perhaps more, the Red Cross said—had scurried Sunday to higher ground along the Umpqua river valley.

Roseburg's plight was declared a flood emergency by the Red Cross and supplies and staff aides were rushed there from other west coast cities.

Crescent City, Calif., was isolated Sunday and passengers of four buses and more than 100 cars were stranded there. They were fed in churches and houses in a boy scout building. A parachute drop was planned today to get food to about 50 families isolated at Douglas Park near there.

Sweden Gets New Ruler As Oldest Monarch Dies

STOCKHOLM, Oct. 30—(AP)—Gustaf VI today was proclaimed "King of the Swedes, the Goths and the Wends," the first new ruler to ascend the ancient Swedish throne in nearly a half-century. He succeeds his father, 92-year-old King Gustaf V, whose death Sunday morning after a reign of nearly 43 years plunged the nation into deepest mourning.

For all practical purposes the son, born Prince Oscar Frederik Wilhelm Olaf Gustaf Adolf, has been Sweden's Monarch since his father's death. But at colorful ceremonies today in the Cabinet council room of Stockholm's Royal Palace he took the Royal oath pledging himself to adhere strictly to the constitution and to rule "as a righteous King and gracious father of the Swedish people by a legal, just and mild government."

Socialist Premier Tage Erlander read the oath in the presence of his cabinet and Sweden's hereditary princes, who immediately gave their pledge of allegiance to the new king. Erlander then formally tendered his government's resignation and the king in turn asked the cabinet to remain in office.

Leads Stately Procession

The king then led a stately procession to the Great Hall of State in the palace, where his wife, Queen Louise, members of the royal family and the court awaited.

Thousands of Swedes stood outside the palace in the rain, waiting to see their new king who will be 68 years old Nov. 11.

At 3 p.m. the King and his Queen emerged to sit on a palace balcony. The waiting thousands greeted him with tremendous ovations and waving nandkerchiefs.

British-born Queen

The new Queen, British-born Louise, is the monarch's second wife. She is a sister of Earl Mountbatten and a great-granddaughter of Queen Victoria.

The new Crown Prince is a blonde, curly-haired, four-year-old boy—little Prince Carl Gustaf. His father, the new ruler's eldest son, died in a plane crash in 1947.

The body of Gustaf V lay today in Drottningholm Palace, where he died. His democratic rule had been one of the longest in Europe and the longest in Swedish history.

KING GUSTAV V

He had suffered from chronic bronchial catarrh for several years and last week took a sudden turn for the worse.

The funeral will be held Thursday, Nov. 9, it was officially announced.

The death of the monarch plunged his country into deepest mourning. Flags were at half-staff. Newspapers were black-bordered. Movie and theatre performances were cancelled.

Canadians Stranded As Fog Halts Ferry

BROCKVILLE, Oct. 30 (CP).—More than 100 Canadians were stranded in the United States Sunday night when the ferry running between Brockville and Morristown, N. Y., was unable to make its last two scheduled trips across the St. Lawrence river because of heavy fog.

Many Canadians who had planned on taking either of the ferry trips drove home by the Thousand Island bridge 21 miles to the west, but others were forced to remain in hotels and boarding houses in the U.S. returning home on the first boat today.

Bullet Creases Scalp Of Hallowe'en Guest

BALA, Ont., Oct. 30 — (CP) — Police say a high-powered rifle was fired near here on Saturday night during a Hallowe'en party argument over a girl.

They arrested Harry Stock, 26, and accused him of firing a shot that creased the scalp of Sidney Commandant. They said an argument between the two men started at a dance in a schoolhouse on the Gibson Indian Reservation, nine miles from this Muskoka district community.

They said the shooting took place in a farmhouse a few hundred feet from the schoolhouse. Stock fled, but was later arrested by two Provincial Police constables.

South Korean Division Badly Mauled Enemy Gets Through

SEOUL, Oct. 30—(AP)—Two Red divisions—reported made up mostly of Chinese Communists—drove tonight on the Korean east coast city of Hamhung, far behind the slowing Allied advance toward the Manchurian border.

South Korean Republican officers said the counter-attacking force numbered more than 10,000 men and was 30 miles northwest of Hamhung. The Reds were reported well-organized and full of fight.

The enemy force was reported smashing at the flank of the South Korean 26th regiment about 10 miles south of the big Chosin hydro-electric reservoir. The reservoir is about 40 air miles south of the Manchurian border.

A captured Korean Red officer said the attacking force was under orders to capture Hamhung—a huge one-time chemical centre—by Wednesday.

There still was no indication whether this was considered open intervention by Red China in the Korean war. Other official spokesmen earlier disclosed some individual Chinese had been captured. That was not regarded as intervention.

Try To Halt Break

The most critical area in the blazing northwest front was near Onjong. U.S. tanks and artillery were rushed there to help the Republic of Korea (ROK) 6th division. This is about 45 miles south of the border.

More than 10,000 Communists, reported to include some Chinese, chewed the division by one-third in three days of fighting and forced it to flee in disorder.

North Korean women were reported going to the front. The Reds evidently were trying to hold at all costs until wintry blasts overtake the allied forces.

Clear Rebels From Airport

SAIGON, Indo-China, Oct. 30 (Reuters) — French forces have cleared Communist-led Vietminh rebels from positions overlooking the airport at Laokay, last French fortress in northwest Tonking, a military spokesman announced today.

Planes have resumed operation from the airport, which had been neutralized by rebel bombardment. Several military aircraft landed on the airport Sunday, the spokesman said.

But the rebels steadily advanced on the isolated outpost from other directions and bridged the Red River north of Pholu, about 20 miles downstream from Laokay.

The rebels control 100 miles of the Red River valley from Laokay down to Phutho, 40 miles northwest of Hanoi.

Ride With Thrills

Malayan Trains Never Dull You're Liable To Get Killed

By LARRY ALLEN

SINGAPORE, Oct. 30 (AP) — If you're looking for a thrill, try riding the mail train from Singapore to Kuala Lumpur, capital city of the Federation of Malay.

Likely as not you will be blown out of your berth, injured, or even killed on the 250-mile stretch northward.

Communist terrorists, you see, delight in taking cracks at the mail trains.

Here's a typical government press announcement — and such come often:

"Last night, in Johore, the Kuala Lumpur to Singapore day mail train was derailed by an explosion caused by bandits. The engine capsized and three coaches were [illegible]. The driver of the engine was killed and two firemen were slightly injured."

Or—

"Early this morning, in Negri Sembilan, the pilot train of the Kuala Lumpur to Singapore night mail train was derailed by bandits. The driver of the engine was slightly injured."

British soldiers and police guard the trains, but that doesn't seem to put an end to the planting of mines or other explosives on tracks, or otherwise derailing the trains.

The Communist terrorists in the dense jungle bordering the railroad frequently fire on the slowly-moving trains.

To prevent destruction of the main mail trains, and loss of life or injury to crews and passengers, a pilot train usually makes the first run.

Communist Star Rises

Tibetan Troops Retreat Before Reds

NEW DELHI, India, Oct. 30 — (AP) — Tibetan troops were reported today to have retreated in the face of Chinese Communist invaders to within 200 miles of the mountain country's capital of Lhasa.

India's representative at Lhasa advised his government here that the defending troops abandoned Lho Dzong (Lolungchung) Oct. 22 and Shoshado Oct. 27 and fell back to Pemba Go.

Pemba Go is 200 miles east of Lhasa, on a main caravan route to Chamdo, an important East Tibetan defence centre.

Earlier the Kalimpong correspondent of the Calcutta newspaper, The Statesman, reported the Chinese Communists are believed planning a three-pronged drive on Lhasa from both the northeast and southeast, as well as other advances into Eastern Tibet and into the north of the remote Himalyan Lama-ruled country.

Ask India's Help

The Indian government spokesman added that Tibet has asked India for any diplomatic assistance it can give—specifically for the "continuance of the good offices which India has made available in the past."

The spokesman did not say what assistance India plans, but denied that the Tibetan message included a request for military assistance or that the Chinese invasion be brought before the United Nations.

India already has sent a note to the Chinese Communist government in Peiping expressing regret and surprise at the Red order to invade Tibet. The spokesman said no answer has been received to this note.

To Continue Talks

By latest reports the Tibetan delegation which has been negotiating here with the Chinese Communist Ambassador still plans to go to Peiping for further talks.

The Indian spokesman said his government's representative in Lhasa also reported considerable Communist infiltration into the country. Pamphlets were being distributed in an effort to spread disaffection among the Tibetans.

The statesman's correspondent in Kalimpong reported the Communist advance units are in the 15,000-foot Dongma Pass, about 360 miles northeast of Lhasa.

The correspondent said that contrary to popular belief, the weather is considered suitable for military operation. Snowfalls are light and river levels are low due to freezing at their sources, he said.

Atlantic Powers Working On Defence Plan

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30 (AP). —The Atlantic powers' defence committee set out today to finish framing the structure of a combined defence force to protect western Europe against any aggression from Russia.

But interposed was an old obstacle over which the Atlantic partners had stumbled before — should German forces be organized to participate in the common defence? If so, under what conditions?

The opening of today's session held forth hopes that the defence ministers of the 12 pact countries could iron out details and agreements by tonight. It was a hope, not a certainty.

In the first closed-door meeting of the defence committee on Saturday, the French defence minister, Jules Moch, presented his government's ideas about the German question. Presumably they were as stated before: rearming of western Germany and formation of German military forces should wait until some form of European defence council is formed. This civilian council would control a supra-national military force. If eventually there are any German units in it they shouldn't be big.

Different Ideas

This isn't the idea of the United States and Britain, who contend that the menace of Russia is so great and urgent that everything possible should be done swiftly—including formation of German units to help the combined defence. They have offered guarantees on the size and control of the German units, but not the kind Moch's government demands.

Everyone talked about it for long hours on Saturday. Then, after all the ministers had a chance for phone consultations with their home governments during a Sunday recess, they were called back this morning to talk some more.

Instalment Buying

4. Loans made by banks or other lending agencies for the purchase of consumer goods will be subject to the same terms. For instance, a loan for the purchase of a car must not exceed 66 2-3 per cent of the purchase price of the car and must be repaid in regular instalments within 18 months.

Accounts Affected

Charge accounts are not affected but the regulations apply to revolving credit accounts, permanent budget accounts and budgetted charge accounts by which a purchaser can get a continuing amount of credit by making regular monthly instalment payments.

Persons using such accounts will have to pay at least one-sixth every month of the maximum amount of credit or 1:26th every week. And the first such payment will have to be made at the time the account is opened, something which is not generally required at present.

During the war, consumer-credit curbs required a 33⅓ per cent down payment with anywhere from six to 15 months to pay depending on the type of goods purchased. Minimum instalments were put at the same figure as in the new regulations—$5 monthly or $1.25 a week.

Jute, grown in India, was not introduced as a textile into Europe until about 1828.

Smashed Car With 2 Dead Kills Third Toronto Man

PICKERING, Oct. 30—A car with two dead youths jammed in the front seat struck and killed a third Toronto man as he sat on the fog-shrouded roadside of Highway 2A near here early Sunday morning. Two freak accidents within seconds took the lives of Brian Boyle, 19, of 14 Simpson Ave.; Norman Scherb, 19, of 496 Roxton Rd., and Earl Kirk, 58, of 296 Markham St.

Boyle and Scherb were killed instantly when their car plowed into the rear of Kirk's westbound truck about a mile west of here.

Dazed and shaken, Kirk and a passenger climbed from the truck. But fate was dogged. As Kirk sat at the edge of the road, horror-stricken after viewing the original victims, another car came out of the fog and hit the rear of the O'Boyle car, knocking it against the truck driver.

He was pulled from under the death car and sped to hospital in an ambulance, but died shortly after being admitted.

Both Toronto boys were linotype apprentices. Scherb, a former Central Technical Collegiate student, leaves his mother and a brother. Kirk leaves his wife and three children.

The accidents occurred about 6 a.m.

Lindsay Driver

The driver of the second car, Charles A. Stone of Lindsay, and his 14-year-old son, Albert, escaped injury.

Kirk's passenger, David Steinberg, 64, of Haliburton, suffered from shock and was picked up by a passing taxi and taken to Oshawa General Hospital.

O'Boyle and Scherb were on their way home from a wedding party at Orono.

A motorist told provincial police Kirk flagged him down at the accident scene and when he saw the truck driver was in a nervous state he suggested he sit down.

"No sooner had he sat down than the car knocked him over," police quoted him as saying.

Ambulance driver William McKechnie of Pickering made an 80 m.p.h. trip to hospital with the dying Kirk but doctors had no chance to help him.

Shortly after the accident, Wilfred Hunt, also of Pickering, who was passing in his tow truck, helped police pry out the bodies of O'Boyle and Scherb. The youths were jammed to their seats as the front end of their car was torn apart.

Industrials Climb Strongly On Exchange

TORONTO, Oct. 30 (CP)—Industrials climbed strongly ahead with gains ranging to a point as the session progressed on the Toronto stock exchange today.

Papers and steels led the list with nearly every issue in the two groups showing good gains. Abitibi gained $1 to feature papers and Algoma added $1.25 for a new high at $29.25 in steels. Utilities, agricultures, constructions, foods, refining oils, banks, manufacturing companies and retail stores showed a majority of gains. Textiles and liquors were mixed.

In the mixed base metals group, International Nickel, Labrador, Noranda and Steep Rock were ahead. MacDonald Mines was the most active issue, gaining seven cents.

Quesabe Mines held the spotlight in the junior gold list, trading heavily for a four-cent gain. Acme Gas traded the most actively in an irregular western oil group.

Rockingham Believes Brigade Korea-Bound

MONTREAL, Oct. 30 (CP).—Brigadier J. M. Rockingham, commanding officer of Canada's United Nations force, said Monday night that as far as he knows the brigade is still going to Korea.

Headed for Quebec to inspect the 240 battalion of the Royal 22nd Regiment, one of the units making up the special brigade and training now at Valcartier, Que., Brigadier Rockingham said he is "not unduly alarmed" about the number of men of the brigade who have been reported absent without leave.

The Brigadier arrived by plane from Ottawa on the last leg of a tour of eight training centres across Canada.

Official forecasts issued by the Dominion Public Weather Office at 8:30 a.m. EST.:

Synopsis:

An unprecedented late October heat wave over the western United States sent temperatures soaring to the upper 80s on Sunday, some 25 to 35 degrees above normal. Ontario also had its share of unseasonably mild weather when temperatures were 15 to 20 degrees above normal. Hamilton reported a high of 70 degrees while Moosonee at the foot of James Bay had 61 degrees.

Slightly cooler air moved into Northern Ontario this morning and will move through Eastern Ontario today, but Tuesday will again be very warm in all but extreme northern sections of the province.

An intensifying disturbance over Montana will move rapidly eastward reaching Northwestern Ontario late Tuesday. It will cause increasing winds over the province on Tuesday with rain in northern sections.

Regional forecasts valid until midnight Tuesday:

Lake Ontario, Niagara, Georgian Bay and Haliburton regions; Toronto and Hamilton cities:

Sunny with a few cloudy intervals today. Cloudy and a little cooler tonight, clearing during the early morning. Sunny and warmer Tuesday. Winds light becoming southwest 15 Tuesday afternoon. Low tonight and high Tuesday at Trenton and Muskoka 40 and 70, St. Catharines and Hamilton 45 and 73, Toronto 45 and 70, Killaloe 35 and 65.

Summary for Tuesday: Sunny and warmer.

Shinwell Plans Ottawa Visit

OTTAWA, Oct. 30 (CP). — Britain's defence secretary Emanuel Shinwell will discuss defence matters with Prime Minister St. Laurent and later with the defence committee of the cabinet during a four-day visit to Ottawa next week, it was announced today.

He and The Netherlands' war secretary, W. Fockema-Andreae, are slated to come here from Washington Friday with Defence Minister Claxton after meetings of the North Atlantic pact defence ministers.

Defence headquarters issued itineraries for their visits, showing that a military guard of honor will greet them on arrival at noon. There is a chance, however, that Mr. Fockema-Andreae will not be able to make the plane trip with Mr. Claxton and Mr. Shinwell and will not arrive until later.

Mr. Shinwell's program calls for luncheons, dinners and receptions, for a press conference, visits to the RCAF base at Trenton, Ont. the various defence schools at Kingston, the Canadair Aircraft plant, the Vickers plant and an ordnance depot in the Montreal area. He is expected to address the National Defence and Staff Colleges at Kingston privately on Saturday and Montreal's Canadian Club publicly Monday.

He declared his decison to pronounce the dogma had been preceded by much study by experts. Then a circular letter was sent to all bishops of the church, asking their view.

"In a wonderful and unanimous chorus," the Pope said, "the voices of the pastors and of the faithful from every part of the world reaches us professing the same faith and requesting the same thing as supremely desired by all. We judged then that there was no reason for further delay, and we decided to proceed to the definition of the dogma".

Affirmative Vote

Nonetheless, the Pontiff asked the opinion of the consistory:

"Is is your good pleasure, venerable brothers, that we proclaim and define as a dogma revealed by God, the bodily assumption of the Blessed Virgin into heaven?"

The prelates then rose one by one to give their views with the word "placet," it pleases,, affirmative, or "non placet" in the negative.

No announcement of the vote was made, but Vatican sources said it could be assumed to have been unanimously affirmative.

Invokes Defence

The Pope invoked the Blessed Virgin's defence, "with her most powerful patronage," of the Roman Catholic church, "which in not a few parts of the world is either little known or is charged with false accusations and calumnies, or oppressed by unjust persecutions; and may she lead back to unity of the church all the erring and the wayward".

The Pontiff thus repeated the hope previously expressed in his prayer and papal bull for the holy year that non-catholics would join or apostates return to the church.

Some ecclesiastic and lay readers of the Church of England have protested that the pronouncement of the assumption dogma would add another obstacle to christian unity

Earth Tremor Hits Pembroke

PEMBROKE, Oct. 30 (CP). — Some people left their homes in night attire and a milling crowd filled the main street of this Ottawa valley town as Pembroke was shaken by an earth tremor at Cobden, 15 miles away, early Sunday.

The tremor came as a short, sharp blast at 59 minutes after midnight and lasted one minute. It was followed by a diminishing rumble and police immediately checked the town's banks in fear that a vault had been blown by cracksmen.

Reports soon began to circulate that there had been an explosion at the atomic plant at nearby Chalk River, or at the military camp at Petawawa, Ont., but checks revealed no blast at either place.

Officials of the Dominion Observatory at Ottawa said the tremor, recorded on observatory seismographs had all the characteristics of a "true earthquake" but was of comparatively light intensity.

Use Heavy Weapons

Indicative of the increasing fury of Red resistance was their use of their heaviest weapons, tanks and self-propelled guns.

Allied fighters and bombers supporting the American column and the Commonwealth 27th brigade on the west coast destroyed 18 tanks and seven guns.

Despite the ferocity of the Communist opposition, Gen. MacArthur's Tokyo headquarters noted that "none of the enemy counter-attacks was sustained."

A spokesman said the Reds are "in a desperate situation," that the Red attacks in the Onjong sector were stopped except for "a few minor gains." The South Koreans were regrouping in that area.

A U.S. eighthy army spokesman reported that the South Korean division's withdrawal was disorganized, and that a third of its strength was lost in three days of fighting.

Forced To Withdraw

A regiment of this division reached the Manchurian frontier Thursday above Chosan. Menaced by the Reds in the rear, it was forced to withdraw to Songpa, more than 30 miles south of the Yalu river boundary.

To the south, at Onjong, the division's 2nd regiment was surrounded Thursday, the bulk of it wiped out. Two other regiments, the 19th and 10th, were hard hit in trying to rescue the survivors of the 2nd regiment.

South Korean commanders said Chinese Communist officers led the Red force.

Intelligence officers in Tokyo, however, continued to insist there is no evidence of open intervention by Red China in the Korean war.

At Wonsan, a U.S. spokesman disclosed for the first time that some Chinese troops had been captured during the west coast landings at Inchon in mid-September in the drive on Seoul, the South Korean capital.

Not Real Intervention

The spokesman said "apparently they are the scum of the Chinese Communist army sent down as individual replacements for the North Koreans. It does not mean large-scale Chinese intervention."

He said Chinese air strikes doubtless would precede any large-scale use of Chinese army units.

"We will know it right away—and not from a couple of prisoners—if they do come into this war," the spokesman added.

Regardless of how the Reds were digging up reinforcements or banding together battle-hardened remnants of earlier fighting, it was plain they had slowed the Allied advance at most points across the rocky peninsula.

The push into the northwest by the 24th division's fifth regiment was the closest American thrust toward the border. The regiment rolled 11 miles northwest of Taechon.

Halt British Troops

A demolished bridge and other Red tanks stopped the push by British and Australian troops less than a mile from Chongju. Six of the tanks were knocked out by close fighter support.

On the northeast coast, the South Korean capital division pushed through Songjin, 75 miles southeast of the Manchurian border. The advance carried three miles beyond the coastal city, MacArthur's war summary reported.

The South Koreans were reported stalled previously by an estimated 2,000 Reds entrenched on hills overlooking Songjin.

Forty miles to the south, the newly-landed U.S. 7th division and South Korean elements began a supporting push from Iwon, 168 miles southwest of the Siberia boundary.

The 7th division landed unopposed at Iwon Sunday, in the second major east coast landing in four days. The U.S. 1st marine division landed Thursday at Wonsan, 110 miles southwest of Iwon.

Coal Industry Seeks Gov't Aid

OTTAWA, Oct. 30—(CP)—A delegation of Provincial mines ministers today called on the government to provide long-term financial assistance to Canada's coal industry to cover United States competition and the prospects of increased railway haulage rates next year.

Meeting with Trade Minister Howe, the delegation suggested that thegovernment implement a new national coal policy, geared to at least two resolutions adopted at the Victoria conference in mid-September of the Provincial mines ministers.

The resolutions:

1. That the Federal government grand long-term transportation assistance on an increasing tonnage of Canadian coal moving into the central Canadian market.

2. That financial assistance be granted, sufficient for Canadian shippers to maintain a competitive position with United States shippers in the Canadian markets.

Hydro On Guard Against Sabotage

TORINTO, Oct. 30 (CP).—The Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission is taking security measures against the possibility of sabotage of its hydro plants and substations.

Hydro chairman Robert Saunders said today the action will be a safeguard against unscheduled power failures. After a tour of sub-stations last week he was impressed by the too-easy accessibility of the stations to the public.

A year ago the commission appointed a security officer. His job will be to organize guards for duty at all hydro stations in Ontario.

No Street Meetings Held In Val d'Or

MONTREAL, Oct. 30 (CP). — For the first time in three months no Saturday night street corner meeting was held in Val d'Or, Que., this weekend due to a shortage of evangelists and cold weather, J. R. Armstrong, secretary-treasurer of the Union of Regular Baptists of Ontario and Quebec, said today.

Mr. Armstrong added that this was no indication that the meetings would be discontinued. He said more meetings would be held as soon as more Baptist students can be brought into Val d'Or from Toronto and as long as weather was fine.

Twenty Baptists remain in Abitibi County jail at Amos, Que., after being convicted on charges of obstructing traffic by holding street meetings.

German Police Digging Trenches

BERLIN, Oct. 30—(AP)—East Germany's militarized police dug trenches and laid barbed wire at four places near the border of West Berlin during the weekend, American officials reported today.

The Soviet zone entrenchments apparently were for field training of police infantry units. The Allied High Commission kept the development under close observation.

The eastern police were reported unofficially today to be threatening reprisals against Soviet-zone families whose members flee to West Berlin or West Germany.

Since last January, 44,000 East Germans have left the Soviet zone without police permission. Communist authorities confirmed the size of this exodus when they rigorously checked qualified voters for the Oct. 15 parliamentary election.

Criminal prosecution is reported facing East Germans who fail to report the illegal emigration of relatives.

Sabotage Theory Gains Ground During Inquiry

By WILLIAM STEWART.

QUEBEC, Oct. 30 (CP) — Provincial police investigation into the possibility of sabotage in the August fire aboard the cruise ship, Quebec, is continuing.

This was confirmed here Sunday by Lt.-Col. Leon Lambert, Quebec district head of the provincial police force.

Beyond the brief statement that the police inquiry is not concluded, Col. Lambert said nothing further for publication.

Inquiry into the fire which cost seven lives at Tadoussac, Que., was resumed after evidence before a court of inquiry into the disaster indicating the ship's alarm system had been altered.

Indications that the Aug. 14 ship fire was the work of a criminal raised the possibility that destruction of the Noronic with loss of 119 lives at Toronto, in September, 1949, was of incendiary origin as well.

The sabotage theory gained new strength in mid-October when Dr. Lucien Gravel and Dr. Roger Potvin, Laval University professors, appeared before the Choquette inquiry as expert witnesses.

They showed the court charred battery-wire clips and an alarm switch found in positions indicating the electrical system was useless at the time of the fire.

The two university professors said their opinion was that a criminal hand interfered with the alarm system before the fire.

Their testimony tied in with that of a veteran Montreal fire-investigator, chemist Charles Hazen, who said nothing normally in the Quebec's linen room would have burned quickly enough to start the rapid blaze that wrecked the cruise ship.

Fog Snarls Traffic

TORONTO, Oct. 30—(CP) —A heavy, but patchy, fog settled down over southern Ontario Sunday night and spread across the Great Lakes and into New York and Michigan. It snarled highway traffic and was blamed for dozens of highway accidents. Some scheduled air line flights were cancelled. Weather forecasters said the fog would last until around noon today.

Irish Lad 9, Discovers Canadian Santa Claus Tops

MONTREAL, Oct. 30 — (CP)— Mortimer Moriarty of West Main street, Cahirciveen, County Kerry, Ireland, doesn't ask for the moon or put on a sob act, so you may be interested in his letter to Santa Claus.

Nine-year-old Mortimer, apparently alive to the business of letting Santa know about these things bright and early addressed an envelope to "Editor of the Canidian (Mortimer's spelling) Press Canada."

A puzzled postman walked into CP's Montreal bureau and thankfully shed himself of the letter.

Inside was anther envelope addressed only "Santa Claus" and a half-sheet of paper in boyish-penmanship: "Dear Sir, will you please mail this to Santa Claus for me I don't know his right address thank you very much."

A snooping deskman peeked into the Santa Claus letter. At the top was 'my name is"— followed by name and address—and at the bottom an even dozen X's for Santa and "love from Mortimer."

The letter itself— spelled out correctly but suffering from want of punctuation marks— indicated that Mortimer thinks Canada's Santa Claus is top man among all Santa Clauses. But read it for yourself:— Dear Santa Claus:

How are you I hope you are well and strong for to carry all the Toys to the children I am nine years old and I would be very thankful to you if you would be good to me and please send me a few nice Toys to play with because I am a poor boy and I won't be lonely for Xmas my Daddy told me that the Santa Claus in Canada was a very good man better than the Santa we have here in Ireland I will say a whole lot of prayers for you I have 3 more Brothers and two sisters younger than myself.

Good bye now Santa Claus.
Good Luck God bless you and Give you a holy and happy Xmas.

(Note to Mortimer: CP relayed your letter. This Canadian Santa will look after you.)

Dieppe Action Important Churchill Says

MONTREAL, Oct. 30—(CP)—Results of the August, 1942, raid on Dieppe were disappointing and costly, but the operation proved a "mine of experience" and the sacrifice of Canadian trops was "not in vain," in the opinion of Winston Churchill.

The wartime British prime minister's views are set forth in his war history appearing in the Montreal Standard, a section this week devoted to Dieppe.

The raid was primarily a Canadian show. In it were 5,000 Canadian troops, some United States Rangers and Royal Marine commandos and a few Free French troops. All were under Maj.-Gen. J. H. Roberts of Kingston, Ont.

Bad weather interfered with the first planned operation—for July 4 — and Gen. Montgomery, commander-in-chief of the southern command, thought the operation should not be remounted as the troops, embarked in the Isle of Wight, had dispersed ashore.

Considered Important

But Churchill considered it "most important that a large-scale operation should take place this summer, and the chief of the imperial general staff stated that until an operation on that scale was undertaken, no responsible general would take the responsibility of planning for the main invasion."

Churchill says that in discussion with Admiral Mountbatten, the chief of combined operations, it became clear that time did not permit of a new large-scale operation during the summer, but Dieppe could be remounted within a month. The code name was changed from Rutter to Jubilee.

No substantial change was suggested beyond substituting commandos for airborne troops to silence coastal batteries. Two more infantry landing ships had become available to carry the commandos. Omission of airborne troops meant that bad weather would not be a top factor.

The Germans had no special warning through leakages, but their general estimate of the threat to the Dieppe sector "led to an intensification of defence measures along the whole front," especially during periods when moon and tide were favorable for landings.

"The Canadian army in Britain had long been eager and impatient for action, and the main part of the landing force was provided by them," says Churchill.

Great Gallantry

"Although the utmost gallantry and devotion were shown by all the troops and by the British commandos and by the landing-craft and their escorts, and many splendid deeds were done, the results were disappointing and our casualties were very heavy.

"In the Canadian 2nd Division 18 per cent. of the 5,000 men embarked lost their lives and nearly 2,000 of them were taken prisoner.

"Looking back, the casualties of this memorable action may seem out of portion to the results. It would be wrong to judge the episode solely by such a standard. . . . It was a costly but not unfruitful reconnaisance in force. Tactically it was a mine of experience."

Mission Band Meets

MILLBROOK, Oct. 30 (ENS). —St. Andrew's Mission Band met in the Sunday school room for their autumn thank-offering with Alice Hawkins, the president, in the chair and with 32 children present. Mrs. H. Ouellette told the third chapter of the Japanese story "Where the Carp Banners Fly."

The scripture reading and prayer were given by Mrs. Arnold Fallis, the leader. The children were taught a new Japanese song.

Three In Hospital After Crash At Dale

COBOURG, Oct. 30—(ENS)—A truck and car collision near Dale, north of Port Hope sent three people to hospital Saturday evening. Police said that a pick-up truck driven by J. Gordon Smeaton of Minden, going south on Highway 28, skidded on the wet pavement into the path of a northbound car driven by Norman Gainor of Bewdley.

Mrs. Gainor was taken to Peterborough Civic Hospital with a lacerated leg and Norman Gainor with a cut head. Mrs. Christie Morrison of Lowell, Mass., passenger in the Gainor car, was removed to Port Hope hospital with a lacerated head. Mrs. Smeaton was treated for cuts at Port Hope hospital. Her husband escaped injury. Corporal D. Wilson and Provincial Constable L. Erskine investigated.

Shotgun Pellets Sever Youth's Thigh Muscle

COBOURG, Oct. 30 (ENS)—The first shooting accident of the season in this district occurred on Saturday when a shotgun accidently discharged and severed the left thigh muscles of Donald Bates, 17-year-old Barrie youth.

Police said that Claire Jones, 17, also of Barrie, was handling a shotgun in the back of a car at Roseneath when it discharged. The pellets struck Bates who was standing outside the car door. He was rushed to Cobourg General Hospital and was then transferred to Toronto General Hospital. Others on the party were James O'Connor of Toronto, Steven Hooke of Barrie and John Rogers, also of Barrie. Provincial Constable Lyle Erskine of Coboorg investigated.

AdjournHealthCharge Against Cafe Owner

COBOURG, Oct. 30—(ENS)—Adjournment to November 24 was allowed in the charge laid by the counties health unit against Howard Killenbeck of Hastings. The defendant was charged with failing to comply with the health regulations governing the operation of lunchrooms. Killenbeck had testified earlier that he had been unable to get a plumber to do the work and the case was laid over.

Charged with theft of more than $25 from Albert Weir of Roseneath on October 13, George Ambrose of Toronto was granted an adjournment to November 10.

Weds His Nurse

WATERTOWN, N. Y., Oct. 30 (AP).—Donald F. Hemings, a 22-year-old polio victim, left his iron lung long enough Sunday to marry his nurse, the former Rita Gushlaw, 22. Hemings has been confined to the lung for about a year. He is able to leave it only for brief periods.

Capt. Goddard Addresses Fish And Game

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 30 — (ENS).—About 40 members of the Campbellford and District Fish and Game Protective Association heard a very interesting talk by Captain L. M. Goddard, R.N.R.

Mr. Goddard has been a sailor for the past 55 years. Born in London, England, he spent six years on sailing vessels, starting at the age of 13. Captain Goddard spent 25 years with ships of Canada Steamship Lines, and was master of the Empress of Scotland for a number of years.

Speaking about the different types of fish found throughout the world, Captain Goddard told of the flying fish. He described how sailors would catch these creatures as they flew onto the decks of ships, clean them and stuff them with tobacco and mount them on a board or plaque as a trophy. Sharks were caught with large hooks baited with salt pork.

During the war, the porpoise was quite often mistaken for a torpedo, as these creatures would skim along the surface of the water at great speed, then suddenly swerve away at the last minute.

Captain Goddard entertained his audience at the end of his talk, with various tricks of magic which met with much favor.

The speaker was introduced by W. S. Wiggins and a vote of thanks on behalf of the club was extended by George Lucy.

English Schoolgirl Publishes Textbook

GRAVESEND, Kent, England —(CP)—Twelve-year-old Hazel Salter, a pig-tailed schoolgirl, has written a school text book which has been accepted by a publishing firm. Young Miss Salter thought that children's alphabets and counting books were "dull," so she decided to write her own. She has been writing stories and poetry for quite a while, but this is the first time her work has been accepted.

Talented Hazel also shared first prize for a piece of music with lyrics which she composed for a contest arranged by the Gravesend Council's entertainment committee. The other half of the prize went to a married woman.

Alexander To Stay

Viscount Alexander's willingness to accept an extension of his term of office as Governor-General is gratifying to Canada. We shall thus have the services for a while longer of this viceroy who is among the most distinguished, able and admired Canada has had. His decision to stay at least another year is an indication that he returns our liking for him. The position is not intrinsically attractive to men of great generalship accustomed to making large decisions and forming policy, but Viscount Alexander has many facets to his nature, one of which seems to be the ability to endure travel with brightness and ease. The post is no sinecure. In his first year in Canada, from April 1946, he travelled 33,000 miles throughout the country and shook hands with 11,000 persons. Through these ways and his close attention to matters of state he has come to know Canada, her people and her problems as few other Governors-General have done. We are glad and thankful that his term has been extended.

A Million Canadian Unionists

A million Canadians are now members of trade unions. This means that the greater part of the labour force of Canada, of wage-earning men and women, is now unionized. There is very great strength in this mighty band, and the two chief central labour organizations, the Trades and Labour Congress with 459,000 members and 2,865 locals, and the younger Canadian Congress of Labour with 301,000 members and 1,175 locals, are using it generally both to the advantage of their own membership and for the good of the country. Labour has the largest organized numbers in Canada; that greater segment of the population known as "the consumer" has really no organized voice at all. Labour organizations have their own public relations officers, their key men to nudge governments, their research sections. Realizing their importance to Canada, they are not narrowly concentrating their activities on wage rates. They are concerned with housing, with education, with national finance, with social welfare. That is as it should be. They are also concerned with politics, but do not form a political party.

• • •

It has been labour's experience that to form itself into a political party does not necessarily improve labour's lot. Britain has a Labour Party, which has now been in power for five years. Though the party was an outgrowth of trade unionism (combined with Fabianism and a very thorough sprinkling of intellectuals who never were labourers or trade unionists), the Labour Party is not synonymous with British Trade Unionism. There are tens of thousands of unionists who do not belong to the Labour Party; there are tens of thousands of Labour Party members who are not trade unionists. The Trades Union Congress is increasingly aware that it neither dictates nor should dictate policy to the Labour Government.

• • •

There has been no serious attempt to form a Trade Union party in Canada. It would not work—that is, it would not gain political power sufficient to form a government. The C.C.F. has not gained power, and it tries to compromise between industrial workers who are strong individualists and capitalists. Even with this double-forked bid for support, the C.C.F. is not getting it. A union force of a million looks like a great big plum for some organizer to mould into a political party. It should not, and cannot be done. Trade unionists have political views as Canadians and citizens, not as trade unionists. One of the contentious policies which has alienated many union men from the C.C.L. is that the C.C.L. has adopted the C.C.F. as its political arm. It is committed to political party policies which many unionists, who might otherwise embrace the C.C.L. wholeheartedly, do not like.

• • •

At the end of the war there was another great potential political group in existence; a million service men and women. Some wild-eyed dreamers thought they could form a Veterans' Party, a special power group dedicated first to the interest of veterans and military matters, secondly to the welfare of the whole country. Nothing came of this, for the good and simple reason that veterans, like trade unionists, are Canadians first, and veterans or trade unionists second. Neither veterans nor unionists like pressure groups.

• • •

Canada has now a magnificent trade union force of a million persons, united in trade unionism for matters which affect them as workers, united with all other Canadians in matters which affect the welfare of the community, the province and the country.

Ohio Slugging Match

While the New York State campaign has seen the fanciest political manoeuvring of the off-year United States election, the campaign in Ohio has provided the heaviest slugging match, as far as the senatorial contest is concerned. The opponents are Senator Robert Taft and Joseph T. Ferguson, running respectively on the Republican and Democratic tickets. Senator Taft has called Mr. Ferguson "labour's stooge" and "a captive of the C.I.O." and Mr. Ferguson has called the Senator an "American Fascist" and the "creature of the big interests". And political observers, while generally picking Senator Taft to win, are unanimous in considering Mr. Ferguson a "very serious threat indeed".

Any impartial appraisal of the two men, apart from political assets, would show that Senator Taft is far better qualified for a senatorial seat than Mr. Ferguson. The former has a fairly pleasant speaking voice and chooses his words carefully; the latter has been described as "gravel-voiced" and his platform style as being "as mechanical as a reluctant child reciting The Wreck of the Hesperus for bored guests." Senator Taft is an experienced legislator; Mr. Ferguson has had no experience. The Senator can argue clearly and logically without notes, while Mr. Ferguson manages to twist speeches carefully prepared for him as he reads them.

Appraisal of the political assets of the two men shows a different balance. Taft Republican Party supporters are united, while some organization Democrats have not lifted a finger to help Mr. Ferguson—but the latter has the support of an unprecedented union of labour: the C.I.O., the A.F.L., the Mine Workers and the Railroad Brotherhoods, which have joined to form the United Labour League of Ohio. Senator Taft's experience and family background are assets, but his opponent, as State auditor, signs all the cheques Ohio sends out and claims "that don't hurt me none". Taft has maintained personal convictions at the risk of alienating a large voting group; Ferguson is vociferously in favour of everything any large voting group wants—"If the farmers want it, I'm for it, if they don't want it, I'm against it." And Mr. Ferguson has been described as a likeable, gregarious and "bouncy" man, while Senator Taft is naturally reserved and becomes visibly embarrassed over such demonstrations as back-slapping.

So the word in Ohio is: "Don't write Little Joe off." Yet it will be strange if a party wheelhorse—which is all Mr. Ferguson himself pretends to be—can defeat a man of Senator Taft's stature, backed by a strong and richly-financed organization, with the support of virtually every newspaper in the State, in an off-year election, traditionally favourable to Republicans.

A Good Word For Windsor

The city of Windsor is receiving a lot of bad publicity these days, and we are happy to be able to call attention to an incident which we think reflects credit on Windsor, and in particular on its Salvation Army people. A man who was making himself a nuisance at an S.A. street meeting recently was arrested for doing so; the Salvation Army declined to press charges against him. Now that, we think, is as it should be: the police gave protection to a street meeting which was being carried on in accordance with local law; the Salvation Army, being relieved of a nuisance, showed no rancour toward the offender.

We rather approve of street meetings, when they are decently conducted. We recall that years ago the Salvation Army used to hold meetings every Saturday night on a particular corner on Yonge Street in Toronto. A block away, an atheist conducted rival meetings. He wrote burning questions upon the pavement in yellow chalk, and then answered them, at great and impassioned length. He usually had quite a good crowd, and many people shuttled back and forth between his pitch and that of the Salvation Army. The police protected both from interference.

That was real freedom of speech. It will be a bad day for Canada if it is ever diminished.

NOTE AND COMMENT

The Ottawa Journal, obviously raised in the lap of luxury, writes thus: "Bringing in the base burner used to be an annual autumn ritual; the heavy, ornate stove moved along easily on the peeled, maple-sapling rollers." Maple-sapling fiddlesticks! Uncle Nate wrestled it in with his bare hands, and had an octuple hernia to show for it!

Musical Notes

By PETER PIPER

A METRONOME, like many other gadgets, is a good servant, but a bad master. The little formula M.M. = 72, or whatever it happens to be, is a useful guide at times, but sometimes it is deliberately misleading. A cynic has said that all metronomic indications are too fast; at any rate they usually err on that side. Some of the indications in Czerny's edition of Bach's Wohltemperierte Klavier are flagrant examples of this; it is possible to play them at the speed Czerny advocates, but they lose all musical meaning. Nor are composers themselves much better at times. I begin to ask myself what process they use to find the reading. Do they move the slide up and down while mentally rehearsing the music? In any case slight variations of tempo occur throughout a piece of music if it is to sound right, and for that reason the practice of playing with a metronome is to be severely deprecated. Nothing can be so destructive of a sense of rhythm as to dog the beat of a dead thing. For more advanced pupils an occasional use of the metronome in this way is useful in order to check undue fluctuations of tempo in an extended movement, but this should be done very rarely. If the sense of rhythm is deficient, there is nothing better than to play or sing or dance in time with other people.

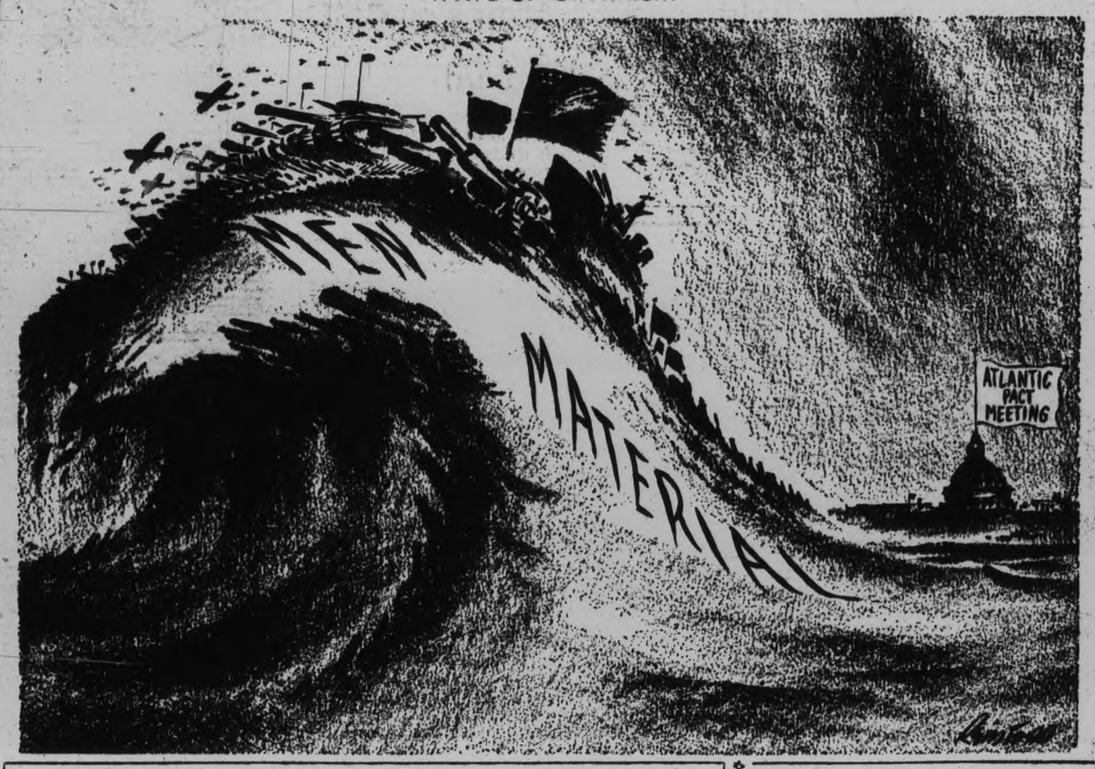
✧ ✧ ✧

THE commonest type of metronome is the clockwork affair shaped like an elongated pyramid. Some of these have a bell which can be set to strike every two, three or four ticks. More recently electric metronomes have been invented which do not of course have to be wound up. On the other hand you can't very well take one out with you for a day in the woods! The simplest type consists of a tape measure with graduated marks and held like a pendulum. Unfortunately it is impossible to use this and play at the same time, and the slower speeds necessitate an inordinate length of tape (60 involves 39.2 inches). On the other hand it is very simple, very handy and extremely cheap. There is of course no audible tick. For those who have none of these types it may be of interest to know that a watch can give a number of metronomic speeds. Most watches beat 5 to the second (the Westclox Pocket Ben, made in Peterborough, with sturdy independence, beats 4 to the second, and a different series of speeds can be calculated for it). Five to the second means 300 to the minute, i.e. M.M. 300. Therefore two ticks are equivalent to M.M. 150, three to M.M. 100, four to M.M. 75 and five to M.M. 60. It must be remembered that a metronome is not a musical instrument any more than a tuning fork. It measures time, but is not rhythmic. A single tree swaying in the wind has more rhythm in its movements than all the metronomes ever invented. This instrument should therefore be used only for the purpose for which it was invented.

✧ ✧ ✧

ELGAR had a great knowledge of the craft of instrumentation. There is a story told that somebody, wishing to catch him out, pointed to a page in one of his scores where the full orchestra was playing and asked Elgar what was the use of writing a separate part for a single instrument—I believe it was a bass clarinet—when all the other instruments were playing and it could not possibly be heard. "Ah," said Elgar, "a few bars later on that instrument has an important solo, and I wanted to give him a chance of warming up". Most wind instruments are extraordinarily sensitive to changes in temperature, and a rise or drop of a few degrees will alter the pitch considerably. Years ago my father bought me a clarinet from an old man who dealt in second-hand wind instruments, and I remember distinctly the old man assuring me in all seriousness that if I kept a stick of ginger in the bowl it would keep the instrument warm all the time!

✧ ✧ ✧



A FEW words of advice to those intending to purchase wind instruments. Before you decide on a particular instrument you should get the advice of your teacher, bandmaster or other person who really knows something about the instrument concerned. A good instrument is usually an expensive item, and you should not allow yourself to be rushed into getting something unsuitable. In the first place you must know whether you will require a high-pitch or low-pitch instrument. This requires a little explanation. During the course of the previous century the pitch of orchestral instruments was raised in order to meet the demand for greater brilliance. Eventually this unhealthy tendency got out of hand, and it was decided to return to the approximate pitch of Beethoven's day. This meant that all existing wind instruments had to be scrapped. The change-over to the modern "low pitch" took some time, and even today there are some wind bands that use the high pitch; but generally speaking it is obsolete. Thus it may almost be taken for granted that a low pitch instrument will be required. There is of course a vast number of high pitch instruments on the market which are quite useless except for playing by oneself, and gullible purchasers are sometimes induced by the low price to procure them, only to find that they have bought a white elephant. Instruments are also made in various keys. For example there are two clarinets, in A and B flat. The latter is the one used in military bands, while for orchestral work the clarinet in A is also necessary, in fact many orchestral players nowadays transpose parts for B flat clarinet onto the A instrument. In addition to this the tiny E flat clarinet is occasionally used, mainly in military bands, while the bass clarinet is an "extra" in the orchestra. There are two systems for clarinet, the "Simple" and the "Boehm". The Simple has been superseded by the Boehm nowadays, but there are quite a few Simple instruments around. Some flutes have one or two extra keys to facilitate fingering. Thus it can be seen that the purchase of wind instruments is attended by many pitfalls, and expert advice is desirable.

Defence

(AP. dispatch from Northwich, England)

James Trafford, charged with driving through a red light, told a court here that it just could not have happened. He went on: "I had with me my wife, whom I consider the finest back seat driver in the world. Nothing can appear on the road without her telling me—a dog, a cat, a light, or anything." The court, however, fined him $2.80.

WAVE OF OPTIMISM

On Pointing the Finger at Windsor

(KINGSTON WHIG-STANDARD)

THE investigation of the Windsor police force and of the general law enforcement structure of that border city has aroused interest in many other Canadian communities. It has touched off a somewhat acrimonious dispute between Windsor and Toronto over the levels of civic purity in the two cities, with the provincial capital hotly defending its reputation as "Toronto the Good". It has led The Montreal Star to remark that Montrealers are no doubt reading about the Windsor-Toronto bickering with unregenerate joy, which we can well believe, since Montreal has suffered occasionally from finger-pointing in the past.

If civic leaders or other citizens of any community feel like pointing a self-righteous finger at a "wicked" municipality like Windsor, there is nothing to stop them. We have not the slightest urge to do so, despite the self-evident fact that police and law enforcement conditions in that city have been disgraceful for a number of years. We believe, however, that similar conditions could develop in any Canadian municipality, given precisely the same elements that produced those conditions in Windsor.

With one exception, these elements have been named and widely discussed. Location on the international border and the nearness of Detroit's great concentration of population have been the most heavily emphasized, but we have yet to see special emphasis placed on the responsibility of the citizens of Windsor in general. Yet we cannot believe that conditions such as those now revealed in Windsor could ever develop without the contributory factor of public indifference.

The voters of Windsor have had it in their power to bring about the reforms now being made at any municipal election in past years. They have not lacked for leaders to tell them about prevalent conditions during those years. They could have nominated and elected men pledged to reform. Yet they did not do so, and they must share responsibility for the mess that is now being cleaned up.

✧ ✧ ✧

THIS indifference on the part of Windsor voters generally differs only in its result from the indifference exhibited by municipal electorates throughout this Province—and elsewhere in Canada. Most Ontario communities have been, and are, fortunate in having honest and efficient policing, backed by Crown Attorneys and magistrates of ability and integrity. Kingston has been well served in this respect. We wonder, however, to what extent the quality of that service has been due to an alert and vigorous municipal electorate, active in exercising its franchise in majority registrations of opinion. We do not imagine the extent is great.

Take any community Windsor's size, and place it alongside a city the size of Detroit. Add an international border to facilitate ducking one way or another. Introduce gradually smoothly-operated rackets and vice rings, all skilfully exploiting public indifference. Take the further fact that such rackets and rings could not operate without substantial public patronage. Is corruption in a police force and in law enforcement generally a surprising result?

We know very well that the majority of Windsor's citizens are decent and honest. That may be said of any municipality, just as all of them have their share of the other kind of citizens. But we think it should be realized more fully that the honest and decent majority anywhere can always enforce its will; it retains that power, fortunately, despite its past record of indifference.

An Infallible Remedy

(Joyce Grenfell, the famous revue and radio artist, speaking in a BBC programme.)

"I'm afraid it may sound a little complacent but I really believe I can say with honesty that I don't know what it is to be bored by being alone. Being bored in company is quite another thing and I don't know an absolute cure for it but I can recommend a sort of dope to help you through the worst bouts of pain. As you feel your eyes glazing and your ears starting to ache with suppressed yawns try to see just how boring your opponent can be. Mark his efforts in your own mind anything up to ten, and you'll find it can be quite fascinating to see how much he can bore you. This is not a particularly kind little game but it has been known to make an intolerable situation almost bearable."

A Loss Of Dignity

(E. Arnot Robertson, the well-known writer, speaking in a BBC programme.)

"I don't believe there's a woman anywhere of—what shall we say? Thirty-five or over? —who doesn't look back with hot humiliation on some episodes of her life, mainly those occasions when, if only she hadn't tried to hold on too long to a personal relationship with someone who longed to be free, or at any rate freer, she could at least have kept her dignity, and she might even have saved the relationship too."

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

In the beginning God created the heaven and the earth.... And God said, Let us make man in our image, after our likeness: and let them have dominion over the fish of the sea, and over the fowl of the air, and over the cattle, and over all the earth, and over every creeping thing that creepeth upon the earth. So God created man in his own image, in the image of God created he him; male and female created he them....

And God said, Behold, I have given you every herb bearing seed, which is upon the face of all the earth, and every tree, in the which is the fruit of a tree yielding seed; to you it shall be for meat....

And God saw every thing that he had made, and, behold, it was very good. (Gen. 1: 1, 26, 27, 29, 31.)

✧ ✧ ✧

Thus the heavens and the earth were finished and all the host of them....

But there went up a mist from the earth, and watered the whole face of the ground. And the Lord God formed man of the dust of the ground, and breathed into his nostrils the breath of life; and man became a living soul. (Gen. 2: 1, 6, 7.)

Ford Lays Off 1,000 For Material Shortage

DETROIT, Oct. 30 (AP)—The Ford Motor Company Friday laid off 1,000 workers at the big Rouge plant, blaming model change-over and material shortages. Rouge employs 60,000.

The action came just a day after Carl Stellato, president of the CIO United Auto Workers' local, predicted Ford would cut its working force by 15 per cent.

Ford said further lay-offs "will depend, in part at least, on how much steel and other basic materials are available for automobile production."

Army Reservists In 2-Day Battle

TORONTO, Oct. 30 (CP) — More than 500 army reservists of the 19th Canadian Army Brigade fought a two-day battle through nearby Markham township this weekend in manoeuvres designed to test the ability of the brigade staff to set up wireless communications.

It was a shouting, not a shooting, battle because the brigade's tanks could not be used over valuable farm land. Light trucks took the place of tanks.

Active army units from Kingston, Camp Borden and Oakville and the Ontario Regiment of Oshawa and the 1st Hussars of London joined Toronto units for the exercises, commanded by Brig. G. D. Wotherspoon.

"We could just hear our friends saying 'THEY'RE GETTING OLD!'

"Perhaps many couples at our time of life have had the same experience. We seemed to lose all our old pep, and joy in life. I often woke up with those sluggish 'liverish' feelings—felt listless, worn-out, bad-tempered all day long. My wife, too, seemed always out of sorts and suffered from poor digestion. When friends began sympathizing behind our backs, we felt we were really 'getting old'. Then we started with Kruschen Salts and soon nature did the rest, to bring the relief we needed! We found just a little dissolved in our breakfast tea and coffee helped start the day right. NOW we actually feel years 'younger'!"

If you often feel dragged-out, "old before your time" . . . if you suffer "liverish" misery from bad digestion and common constipation . . . Horses Ill-Treated In Algoma Bush

OTTAWA, Oct. 30—(CP)—The Ontario Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals will ask the co-operation of the provincial government in checking the care of horses in northern lumber camps, it was decided at the society's 30th annual convention here Saturday.

The final session was addressed by Miss Roberta Doherty, secretary of the Sault Ste. Marie and District Humane Society, who told of the suffering of bush horses through neglect and overwork. Her talk was based on a survey of the Algoma area, and she told of horses, their feet rotting away from neglect and infection, standing in open barns.

It was common, she added, to find horses 250 pounds underweight hauling heavy loads of logs.

One horse was found to have been standing three weeks in a barn with a broken leg. Stables were doorless barns with mud floors. In some water dripped continuously through the roof and at night froze on the backs of the animals.

The meeting also decided to take action on a suggestion that society inspectors be granted the use of forestry airplanes of the Mines and Forests Department for an improved check-up of conditions among horses in the bush country.

The 35 delegates elected Frank H. Cooke, Guelph, as president. Secretary-treasurer is Rev. Christopher J. Loat, St. Catharines and directors include E. D. Weber, Kitchener-Waterloo, Douglas Dalziel, Sault Ste. Marie, and Leslie Leivers, Brantford.

Hallowe'en, Big Business Fun of Good Old Days Gone

By HARRY ECCLES
Canadian Press Staff Writer

It's an old festival that's getting better organized every year—Hallowe'en, the night when goblins and witches haunt the earth. The more extravagant pranks that used to startle citizens in the old days appear to have died out.

Tomorrow night the goblins and the witches and a lot of other weirdly - attired apparitions, young and not so young, will haunt the cities and towns and villages across the country.

Shell Out

The old cry of "shell out" will have housewives and storekeepers on continuous front-door guard, many of them stocked up beforehand with candy and fruits. Some stores have been putting on sales of candy kisses and such for days ahead.

Like every other special "day" these times, it has developed into a business booster for many lines of merchandise, notably costumes and masks and pumpkins. And, or course, for entertainment centres.

But this year's Hallowe'en will probably see the greatest number of organized and properly-conducted celebrations ever held. The idea caught on only a few years ago with the laudable ambition of keeping the young people happy and keeping them out of mischief.

Celebrant's Night

While police warnings and augmented patrols curb the more rowdy spirits, communities from one end of Canada to the other have organized parties and celebrations which will keep the evening more or less under control.

In Montreal the children cry "charity" and receive tokens which they take to parties, chiefly in schools. In Saint John, N.B., children at the door cry "help the poor." But in most places it the familiar "shell out, shell out" that will be heard.

They're celebrating one of the world's oldest traditions, from the days of the Romans, the Druids and the early Christians. The Romans and the Druids long ago set the day aside as a festival of thanksgiving for the harvest.

The name of course signifies the eve of All Saints' day in honor of all saints known or unknown. The date for All Saints' Day was set as Nov. 1 by Pope Gregory III during the eighth century and since then the vigil has been kept.

Beaverbrook Sees A Brighter Future

FREDERICTON, Oct. 30 (CP) —The present generation has a brighter future than the last, due to improved relations between Canada, the United States and Great Britain, Lord Beaverbrook said Saturday.

The Canadian-born British newspaper publisher, Chancellor of the University of New Brunswick here, spoke in reply to a testimonial address from more than 200 UNB alumni.

Lord Beaverbrook said that after his many years in Great Britain, "I must confess that the purpose which I sought, the object I pursued, met with nothing but failure. I had hoped to see the British Empire united in one economic unit. The prospect seemed again and again almost realized but on every occasion the golden gates closed on it."

Consumer Credit Regulations

EFFECTIVE NOVEMBER 1, 1950, instalment sales of consumer goods at retail and loans for the purchase of consumer goods at retail will be subject to new Consumer Credit Regulations. This action has been taken under the Consumer Credit (Temporary Provisions) Act as passed by Parliament.

The Regulations apply to every person engaged in the business of selling consumer goods at retail on credit, in the business of making loans, or otherwise engaged in financing the purchase of consumer goods.

The following requirements will be in effect when retail sales are made on the instalment plan on and after November 1, 1950:

	Minimum down payment	Maximum time to pay
Motor vehicles (e.g. passenger automobiles and motorcycles)	33⅓%	18 months
All other consumer goods.....	20%	18 months

In no case shall the down payment be less than $5.00.

INSTALMENT PAYMENTS are to be in regular, approximdtely equal, amounts of not less than $5.00 monthly or $1.25 weekly. Instalment payments may be varied to meet the circumstances of persons such as farmers and commercial fishermen whose incomes are subject to seasonal fluctuations.
Similar terms apply to loans granted by banks or loan companies for the purpose of purchasing consumer goods at retail.

SPECIAL PROVISIONS ARE INCLUDED WITH REGARD TO REVOLVING CREDIT ACCOUNTS, permanent budget accounts, current budget accounts, and similar plans involving payment for goods by regular instalments.

ORDINARY CHARGE ACCOUNTS ARE NOT DIRECTLY AFFECTED by the present Regulations, but steps will be taken, if necessary, to see that charge accounts are not used to evade the regulations relating to instalment sales.

THE REGULATIONS REQUIRE SELLERS, LENDERS AND FINANCE COMPANIES to maintain records of transactions, to make them available for inspection, and to furnish information on request to authorized representatives of the Government of Canada.

CONSUMER GOODS include all goods with certain exceptions. A full list of the exceptions will be found in the Regulations.

For example, the Regulations DO NOT APPLY to sales of real estate, stocks, bonds, securities, goods for professional or business use, buses, trucks, building materials, implements and equipment used exclusively in farming and fishing.

Penalties are provided for violation of the Regulations.

Douglas Abbott
Minister of Finance

For the convenience of the public, copies of the Consumer Credit (Temporary Provisions) Act and Consumer Credit Regulations will be available at branches of the Chartered Banks throughout Canada.

Inquiries and requests for additional copies should be addressed to:

Administrator of Consumer Credit,

PCVS Seniors Win 29-5 To Get Series

OSHAWA, Oct. 30.—Peterborough Collegiate and Vocational Institute proved their claim to interscholastic group honors in gridiron warfare for this autumn here Saturday when they defeated the Red, Green, Gold of OCVI, 29-5.

In the other half of the twin bill, Lindsay Collegiate Institute bowed to Oshawa Junior 11-6 with Marty Walsh and Bill Kellar scoring touchdowns for the homesters and the latter converting his own major for the extra point while Ab McLean plunged over the line for the Scugog's lone touchdown and Graham converted with a drop kick for the Lindsay extra point. Lindsay rallied early in the third to lead 6-5 but couldn't stop the homester aerial attack.

Kept On Going

In the senior tussle, Oshawa forced play from the kickoff but when the Garnet and Grey got rolling, when Galley intercepted a forward and ran it back to the centre strip, the Liftlock City boys kept right on going. A fine pass, Young to Thompson, and then an end run with Armstrong passing to Northcott put the ball on Oshawa's 25 and Young then threw a long pass to Gandy, in the end zone and he took it for the touchdown, which Young converted with a perfect kick.

On the first play in second quarter Young booted a field goal to make it 9-0 and a bad snap gave PCVS another chance. Brian Young ran the ball to the Oshawa four and Bob Craw then scrambled over for a touchdown on the next play to make it 14-0 and once again Young made good with the convert, to make it 15-0. In the third quarter, "Moose" Mozewisky found a big hole in the lift-lock line and ripped right through to the one-yard strip and then went around end on the next play to score what proved to be Oshawa's only touchdown of the season. Mozewisky failed to convert, the ball hitting the crossbar.

A Swell Effort

The most sensational play of the day (and of the season) was produced on the next play. Mosewisky elected to kick and "Dandy" Gandy took it on his own 30-yard line and then scampered around the tacklers and down the touchline for an 80-yard dash and a beautiful touchdown, and once again Brian Young converted in brilliant style, to make it 21-5.

Peterborough's next offensive was of the aerial variety but it was halted at the five-yard line. On the first play Oshawa was downed behind their own line for a safety touch, Lowes downing Mosewisky for the point with a fine tackle.

Armstrong scored on the final touchdown of the game in the last quarter and Brian Young (batting a thousand for the day) converted for the fourth straight time—and that completed the 29-5 count.

Batawa Beaten By UEW In Soccer Fray

Perfect soccer weather prevailed for the visit of the Batawa Soccer Club on Saturday afternoon, when the local U.E. defeated them 4-2 in an exhibition game that looked like a cup tie series, full of clever soccer.

In the visitors' lineup there were seven different nations represented. Worthy of mentioning were Muller, full back, from Austria; W. Hawrilliw from Yugo-Slavia, who was an internationist for his country; and P. Planavsky, an ex-M.P. from Yugo Slavia who played in representative games for his country. For the locals, R. Strong, F. Booth and A. Smith went good.

Within two minutes, U.E. scored twice on nice efforts by Halroyd on the wing over to Smith who tapped the ball back to Strong to register the opening count. Cotton shot the ball up the wing to Halroyd and Steel as they penetrated the defence cleverly to give Smith the opportunity to score with a rising shot. Then Batawa came into the picture through Planavsky, left winger, as he dribbled his way towards goal to leave his centre man in possession. Harriliw ripping home a lightning drive to make it 2-1.

Craig tapped the ball forward to Cotton who sent Steel away on the run and he rattled home a perfect goal to make it 3-1 at the interval.

Keen Tactics

On resuming, the visitors' robust tackling became evident as their enthusiasm increased. Batawa peppered out quickly as U.E. added the pressure to show an excellent brand of goal-keeping by the Batawa goalie; in fact, he stopped four shots in a row to hold the U.E. scoreless, until Strong on an individual effort hit the inside of the upright to register the fourth goal. This was offset later by Batawa as they applied combination plays to harass U.E. to the limit to gain a penalty kick that Pacas converted to make the count 4-2 in favor of U.E.

Batawa—L. Cawswell, goal; E. Hellier and Q. Muller, full backs; W. Hrywniak, B. Gill and P. Planavsky, half backs; Y. Zemla, Y. Pacas, W. Hawriliw, Zemla and B. Davies, forwards; subs., L. Helyer, J. Maculla.

U.E.—J. Hutchison, goal; J. Craig and T. Foster, full backs; S. McGann, E. Cotton and S. Smith, half backs; J. Halroyd, H. Steel, R. Strong, A. Smith and F. Booth, forwards.

Referee—Jack Adams.

Cobourg Ghosts Lead In Close ORFU Playoff Tilt

COBOURG, Oct. 30—(ENS)—Cobourg Galloping Ghosts on Saturday eked out a 3-0 victory over the Dundas Blue Bombers. By virtue of their win the Ghosts will carry the margin of three points into the second and final ORFU contest of the two-point series which will be played either on Thursday or Saturday of this week. Venue of the game will be at Hamilton or Dundas with Thursday and Saturday night under floodlights being considered. Winner of the series will enter the Ontario finals against the London Falcons.

The game on Saturday developed into a survival of the fittest affair with the visitors starting stronger and the Ghosts lasting longer. It was strictly a battle along the ground most of the way. Superior kicking gave the Ghosts a decided advantage along with the inspired play of Bob Bevan who intercepted three Dundas forwards. Bevan was all over the field to ruin many a Dundas thrust and to record his most effective game of the season.

Along the line centre Jake Edmison and outside Don Smith also played star roles in the Cobourg win which was pretty much a great team effort all the way.

Coach Bob Cooper accounted for all three of the Cobourg points with kicks over the goal line. Two of these came in the second quarter and another in the final frame.

Dundas came up with a hard charging front line that kept the Cobourg passing attack from functioning properly in addition to hurrying Cooper on his kicks, two of which were blocked. One of these was a placement try by Art Jones from about 10 yards out directly in front of the uprights. That play cost the locals three points.

Stars of the game for Dundas were Holland, Granby and Allard all in the backfield, with Favian showing strongly on the line.

Toronto University Wallops OAC 23-18

GUELPH, Otc. 30 (CP)—University of Toronto seconds took to the air in the third quarter on Saturday to take a 23-18 win over Ontario Agricultural College. The victory moved the Blues into second place in the intermediate intercollegiate race and dropped OAC into the cellar.

Majors by Bob Brooks and George Gray helped give Aggies a 12-10 lead in the first half. Third-quarter touchdowns by Bill McFarlane, Irv Salsberg and Earl Ford put the Blues ahead. McFarlane scored another major in the last quarter before Jim Dodds scored a touchdown for Aggies and converted it to end the scoring.

Yukon Here Tonight

Tonight's wrestling card at the Brock Arena will feature Yukon Eric in the main bou against We Willie Davis It should b a rugged con test as both are big, and while Davis is the nastiest of the pair Eric can turn it on and hold his own with the tough babies.

DAVIS

The semi-final finds Bobbie Nelson opposing the Masked Marvel (and his manager). A lot of interest is being shown by the fans in this contest. The opener brings together Ray Gunkel and Dan O'Connor. For this week only the show is being held a day earlier, Monday (tonight) instead of Tuesday.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

It doesn't seem long since a packed Civic Arena was watching Kingston Nylons and the local Legionnaires in hot OHA senior "B" action here. And now these same two squads are back at it tonight at 8.30 in the Peterborough rink. Opening the 1950-51 schedule. Only, the Legion are now called the Eagles (sponsored by Don McGillis, Sr.), though the players are practically the same ones who went to Ontario finals last spring. A few additions, and they'll be a strong outfit once more. Kingston Nylons, led by Walt Gerow, Joe Catlin and Ken Partis—those old smoothies—and with bespectacled Udy Udall in the net, are bolstered, too. All of which should add up to a rousing start of the senior puck season at this early date. No doubt, a hefty crowd will be on deck for the schedule's opener. The Petes open at home on Wednesday.

* * * * * *

Dot Millar, PWSU treasurer and past president of the local lasses' loop, was showing us a paper the other day on softball. It is "Balls and Strikes", a Newark monthly calling itself the official newspaper of the amateur softball association. The game for girls and men is quite a big thing now in the States and, in a country of that population, some mighty fine players naturally are developed. Toronto Tip Tops came in for considerable praise in the championship tourney this year—especially Charlie Justice—and one item adds: "The 1949 world champion Toronto Tip Tops conducted themselves as real champions and carried the play right down to the wire before bowing out to Bombers of Clearwater, Fla. Their conduct on and off the field won the respect of all connected with the tournament."

Orfuns Must Get Six

It's six down and one to go for the Orfuns, after their 7-1 setback at the hands of Parkdale Lions in Morrow Park over the week-end. A game that was an hour and a half late when their bus had trouble. Tough on the fans, though it wasn't a reall chilly day. Quite a few on deck, despite an overcast sky, and the game was finished under the arcs shortly before six. There was some talk of Lions transferring the return game of the points-to-count ORFU intermediate "B" semi-finals here this week-end, but at this writing we haven't the final word on it.

* * * * * *

They're well-matched teams, though Lions had an edge on first downs and forward passes Saturday. Still, 'twas a blocked kick that set 'em up in the fourth for the winning points after a 1-1 draw till late in the fray. And local fumbles slowed Orfuns down on several marches. Kicking was about even, and more penalties seemed to go against the homesters by the four arbiters. They lost a good man through injuries in this scrap, but then we have several good ones sidelined for some time and some more playing on the limp. It's a rugged game. The Orfuns are by no means out of it yet, as six points aren't too many to get back in the return game.

St. Mike's Too Strong

St. Mike's senior "B" gridders blanked St. Peter's 12-0 at the Oval on Saturday in a torrid tilt. A number of minor injuries and some rough play dished up as the boys went at it hammer-and-tongs in a thrilling tussle with first place at stake. But St. Mike's earned the duke to wind up the schedule in top spot, undefeated and not scored upon. St. Peter's finished second in their Catholic Conference schedule, but they didn't go down without a battle. As in COSSA play, these young huskies are quite the pals off the field, but they play for keeps once that whistle goes. Whitby and SPS have a junior "B" playoff at 3.30 or thereabouts this aft in the Ex.

* * * * * *

Senior PCI-ers rolled through Oshawa 29-5 Saturday to wrap up their district football playoffs in handy style, and they now hit into COSSA semi-finals. Gandy had two neat tries in this game, Craw and Armstrong each getting through for a touchdown, and Young's educated toe racking up most of the other pints. The Goulding crew all clicked well, appearing in a hurry to get it over so that they could trek on to Toronto for the Red Feather tourney, which St. Kitts won. The junior "A" PCVS pack is off to Lindsay on the morrow to finish up that schedule.

St. Mike's Win Hot Fray Over St. Pete's

By DON GRANT

Irish battled Irish with fists, elbows and knees to complete the Ontario Catholic Athletic Conference senior "B" schedule Saturday at the Oval. Between blows St. Michael's of Toronto blanked Fred Allore's St. Peter's High seniors 12-0.

A minor brawl featuring fists broke out in the dying minutes but was quickly squashed by teammate and officials. This was a climax to nearly 58 minutes of football which was scattered with roughing and holding penalties.

Both teams went light on the roughhouse tactics until St. Mike's scored their touchdown early in the second quarter. St. Peter's came to life from the kickoff and roared down the field to the four-yard line. They went over but the TD was washed out due to a holding penalty to St. Peter's. From there in, tempers became hotter and hotter.

La Plante Hurt

Left inside for SPS, Don LaPlante received a rough jolt and had to be helped from the field in a dazed but fighting-mad condition. Late in the third, little Steve Morrissey, the SPS snap, received a crack on the neck and he was carried from the game.

St. Peter's were the only team suffering with injuries. St. Michael's backfielder, John Gaffery, spent an hour in St. Joseph's Hospital, following a knee in the chest. Several of the large Toronto line played in a hazy condition.

Midway in the first St. Mike's took possession after a kick on the SPS 45. Jack Reid first passed to John Bowles for 12 yards who reeled for another 12 yards. He missed on two forwards and then connected for another first down to Caffery. Bob O'Leary cruised to the three-yard line where John Torelli went through centre for the touch and Caffery converted.

Scored Again

Carl Brioux's kick was partly blocked on the last play of the first quarter and gave St. Mike's the ball on the 45-yard line. Fred Gruber, Pete Wood, Bill Walsh carried in close for O'Leary to cross for the second TD off tackle. Caffery again converted.

From the kickoff St. Peter's rolled back up the field. They recovered a high kick by St. Mike's on the 18-yard line. Carl Brioux and John Armstrong went to the four-yard line. Their passing let them down. Again St. Mike's kick was poor and went out at the 25. SPS plunged to the three-yard line where Harry O'Neill scored on a sneak. A holding penalty on the play cancelled the score.

Twice in the fourth quarter St. Mike's passed and ran to the SPS four-yard line and twice were turned back on the three plays by the driving of the St. Peter's line. They were determined that Toronto wouldn't score.

The victory gave Toronto the first place position with four wins against no losses. St. Peter's finished with two wins and two losses while De La Salle Oaklands wound up in last place with four losses.

Lineups:

St. Michael's: Flying wing, Reid; halves, Gruber, Wood, O'Leary; quarter, McGarvey; centre, Hochreiter; insides, Quinn, Flanagan; middles, Masicotte, Mogavero; outsides, Bowles, Gadzala; alt., Henry, Martini, Stephenson, Walsh, Bolland, Dodds, Hoday, Bain, Grogan, Caffery, Torella, Nealon.

St. Peter's: Flying wing, Brioux; halves, J. Jones, L. Jones, O'Neill; quarter, Armstrong; centre, Morrissey; insides, O'Leary, LaPlante; middles, O'Reilly, Crowley; outsides, Cavanagh, Farley; alt., McMurray, O'Brien, Simmons, Richardson, Hickey, Crowley, Harrington, Hickson, P. Jones, Heffernan.

Orfuns Down Six Points After Parkdale Wins 7-1

The local Orfuns are down six points in their home-and-home ORFU intermediate "B" semi-final series after losing 7-1 to Parkdale Lions here Saturday. The return game is listed for Oakwood Stadium this coming week-end, though the Lions were thinking of transferring the game here. The tilt Saturday was an hour and a half late starting due to trouble encountered by the visitors' bus at Bowmanville.

A blocked kick paved the way for the Lions' win late in the tight tussle. Gord Beatty put Orfuns up a point in the first quarter when he rouged Don Hatt on a 50-yard kick by Spike Matthews. It stayed that way till early in the fourth when Joe Corrigan booted one to deadline to tie it up 1-1. A bit later, after Beatty had recovered a Parkdale fumble and Russ Scriver had skirted en dfor 10, Andy Gilmore pierced the Petes' line to block a kick by Chuck Paul.

Touchdown Pass

He scooped up the ball and staggered 20 more yards before being dragged down on Orfuns' 28-yard chalk. A Parkdale pass for 10 was ruled complete on interference and then Gilmore took a touchdown forward fling from Hatt, with Red Alexander kicking the convert for a six-point lead.

One of the visitors' top scorers all fall was lost to them for the rest of the grid season when Sully Ford was knocked out of touch in the first frame and suffered torn ligaments of the knee. Even without him, the Lions looked strong with a hard-hitting front wall, several fast, hard plungers and a good aerial attack. They completed five passes to one by Orfuns, and they had 13 first downs against six. Local fumbles hurt the cause for the Bamforth band, too, and they were minus Frank Fitzgerald, out with an injured hand.

Split The Kicking

Spike Matthews and Chuck Paul divided the hoofing duties in good style for Peterborough, while Joe Corrigan was the main booter for Parkdale. The visitors used the old Notre Dame type of huddle. Their main ground-gainer was Red Alexander, though Neil Duncan, Gary Smith, Ted Todd and Don Hott reeled yardage off as well. Mel Taylor threw passes usually to Gilmore or Wally Zannuze, and the team was split isto offensive and defensive units. Bill Huntley was a marked man and seldom could buck more than four or five yards. Jerry McGillis got away once for 20 on an extension, Matthews ripped through one time to move the sticks and Ron Hodson had several nice runbacks. Archibald, Farr, Trimm, McKim and Levantis were others who stood out on defence. Teams:

Parkdale: Flying wing, Corrigan; halves, Duncan, Ford, Smith; quarter, Hatt; snap, Scurr; insides, Johnston, Horvath; middles, Linthewaite, McCallum; outsides, Hirst, Gilmore; alt., Todd, Hull, Spafford, Taylor, Alexander, Adaman, Armstrong, Pruski, Morris, West, Bolton, Zannuze.

Peterborough Flying wing, Conlin; halves, Matthews, Huntley, J. McGillis; quarter, Scriver; snap, Beatty; insides, McKim, Lynch; middles, Bonney, Levantis; outsides, D. McGillis, Trimm; alt., DeCarlo, Hodson, Burns, Masters, Farr, Fraser, Marshall, Thompson, Archibald, R. Fitzgerald, Paul, Sullivan.

Officials: C. Rowntree, Jack Ferries, R. McComb, S. Stupp.

Chicago Black Hawks Crack Broda's Shutout Streak

By The Canadian Press

What's wrong with Boston Bruins?

Coach Lynn Patrick wishes he knew, for his club now has gone seven straight games without a win.

Their latest sad showing came in Detroit Sunday night when they were blanked 2-0 by the Red Wings whose rookie goalie, Terry Sawchuk, recorded his first shutout of the season.

With such a record—three ties and four losses in seven starts—Patrick should be about ripe for suggestions from almost any quarter, including arm-chair strategists.

Meanwhile a rookie NHL coach—gentleman Joe Primeau—seemingly has no troubles, with his Toronto Maple Leafs leading the league and riding the crest of an undefeated streak of seven games.

Get Three Points

The Leafs picked up three points during the weekend's heavy action to remain out front with 12 points, one ahead of Montreal Canadiens. But Turk Broda's skein of shutouts came to an end in Chicago.

The Hawks staged a whirlwind finish Sunday night with three third-period goals to gain a 3-3 tie. On Saturday, the Leafs dumped the luckless Bruins 4-2 at Toronto.

Montreal kept pace with Toronto, also picking up three points in a home-and-home set with New York Rangers. The Habitants won 5-1 at home Saturday but were held to a 2-2 draw in New York Sunday.

The Wings gained ground on the leaders with a double victory, both at home, defeating the Hawks 3-1 Saturday and blanking the Bruins Sunday.

At Chicago Sunday, the 36-year-old Broda entered the game with three straight whitewash jobs and a total of 200 minutes, 45 seconds of perfect netminding.

Chicago's largest crowd of the season—14,948—saw him blank the Hawks through two periods before rookie Vic Stasiuk beat him at 4:48 of the third. Gordon Fashoway, another rookie, and defenceman Bill Gadsby beat him again before the final bell.

Rough Game

The Leafs had got away to a 3-0 lead on second-period goals by Joe Klukay, Sid Smith and Harry Watson. The game was rough, 15 penalties being called, including a 10-minute misconduct to the Leafs' Gus Mortson.

Hawk winger Bill Mosienko suffered a possible fracture of the cheekbone late in the second period, apparently from a glancing blow from a puck.

Goalie Chuck Rayner of the Rangers was injured twice but returned to the ice each time before 12,981 New York fans Sunday. Montreal's tying goal was scored while he lay sprawled across his blood-stained crease. He was hurt each time by cuts from the skate of Montreal's Frank King.

Scores First Goal

The Rangres' only rookie, Reggie Sinclair, scored the first goal early in the second period. Maurice (the Rocket) Richard equalized. Nick Mickoski shot the Rangers ahead again and Calum Mackay tied it up for Canadiens.

Elmer Lach, Montreal's battle-scarred veteran, also was injured and received nine stitches for a cut above his right ege. He was hit by a shot from linemate Richard in the second period and did not return to the game.

At Detroit, the Red Wings slapped in two goals within the first 12 minutes of play before 10,093 fans and the Bruins never got close in dull action on mushy ice. Ted Lindsay and Gordie Howe were the scorers.

Galt Captures Top Spot In OHA Series

By The Canadian Press.

An overtime victory Saturday and a Sunday tie put Galt Black Hawks into first place in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior standings.

They're a single point ahead of Barrie Flyers who beat Galt 6-3 in their only meeting this year and who were idle during the weekend.

Galt met Toronto St. Michael's College in both games. The Hawks won 4-3 Saturday on centre Bill Wharram's goal then managed a 2-2 tie Sunday after trailing 2-0.

In other weekend junior games Guelph beat Oshawa 4-2 at Oshawa and Stratford won 6-2 at Waterloo Saturday, and St. Catharines beat Marlboros 5-0 in Toronto Sunday.

Blank Dutchmen

In the OHA major series, St. Michael's drubbed Kitchener-Waterloo Flying Dutchmen 5-0 Saturday and moved into a first-place tie with Marlboros in the four-team league.

Wharram's winning goal in the Saturday game with St. Mike's was his second of the night. He also got an assist. Pete Conacher and Jack Price got the other Galt goals with Bill Dineen, Fred Sandford and Jack Weldrake scoring for the Irish.

Wharram was held scoreless in the Sunday game when Sandford and Ray Ingoldsby put St. Mike's ahead in the second period. Hawks turned on the pressure in the final when Conacher and Tony Poeta scored.

Too Powerful

St. Catharines blanked Marlies 5-0 in the first game of the Sunday twin bill. The Teepees had too much power for the Marlies with Frank Toyota scoring twice and Eddie Calhoun, Skip Teal and Ern Bodnar getting the others.

Stratford Kroehlers moved up into third place, a point behind Barrie, after their trouncing of the last-place Waterloo Hurricanes. Larry Lemenchick potted three for Kroehlers, Ray Leckie got two more and Gord Myles for the sixth. Don McIntosh and Alf Brooker scored for Waterloo.

Oshawa Generals and Guelph Biltmores wound up in a fifth-place tie, a point back of fourth-place St. Catharines, after their game in Oshawa. Bob Holden, Bobby Attersley, Alex Delvecchio, Paul Oliver put Oshawa into a 4-0 lead before Chester Koneczny and Chuck Henderson got the two Guelph goals.

Bisons Whip Indians In 7-4 Weekend Win

By The Canadian Press.

Cleveland Barons just won't stay off the top rung of the American Hockey League's western division standings.

They proved their point during the weekend. They were dropped to second place Saturday night by Cincinnati Mohawks who defeated the Barons 3-1.

But Sunday night Cleveland stormed right back to tie the Mohawks in first place with a 7-4 victory over Cincinnati. After Cincinnati took a 4-2 lead in the first period, Barons exploded with a five-goal scoring spree in the last two stanzas.

Buffalo Bisons continued in first place of the league's eastern division with a 7-4 victory over Springfield Indians.

Rookie Al Millar of New Haven Eagles scored his first shutout of the season as he blanked Pittsburgh Hornets 2-0.

Cliff Simpson scored in overtime to give St. Louis Flyers a 5-4 win and keep the Indianapolis Caps out of the win column so far this season.

Hockey's Big Seven

By The Canadian Press.

Montreal Canadiens' Maurice Richard scored three goals in two weekend games with New York Rangers to move into top spot in the National Hockey League scoring parade.

The Rocket scored twice Saturday night and again Sunday night to boost his point total to seven goals—best in the league—and three assists for 10 points.

Behind Richard are Max Bentley of Toronto and Gordie Howe of Detroit with eight points apiece. Bentley, whose six assists lead the circuit, has also two goals while Howe boasts of three points and five assists.

Tied for third spot are Toronto's Ted Kennedy and Tod Sloan with seven points each.

The Leaders:	G	A	Pts.
Richard, Montreal ..	7	3	10
M. Bentley, Toronto	2	6	8
Howe, Detroit	3	5	8
Kennedy, Toronto ..	2	5	7
Sloan, Toronto	4	3	7
Lindsay, Detroit	3	3	6
MacKay, Montreal ..	3	3	6

FASTEST CROSSING

The liner Queen Mary holds the fastest crossing of the Atlantic, 2,938 miles in three days, 20 hours, 42 minutes.

RAY FAMECHON, of France, featherweight champion of Europe, fights a ten-rounder tonight in the Forum ring in Montreal against the little Halifax boxer Dick Howard. Howard is the Maritimes champion and leading contender for L'l Art King's title. He won 31 out of 37 bouts. Famechon has won all of his American bouts except one with Willie Pep.

Here And There In Sports . . .

By The Canadian Press

Ontario fishermen will pay a $1 licence for angling in their own province if a decision of the Ottawa-St. Lawrence zone of the Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters is taken up.

A weekend meeting of the association at Cornwall voted 16-9 in favor of charging a resident's licence fee.

The association also recommended that the pickerel season should be closed from Oct. 15 to May 15, with a size limit of 15 inches and that the limit on perch be placed at 40 with a size limit of eight inches.

The zone delegates also urged that all hunters wear red shirts, coats and hats and has asked that the provincial government pass legislation making this mandatory.

The 1950 Canadian junior football championship game will be played Nov. 18, it was announced in Toronto Sunday night. Teams now in the running for the Eastern Canada title are Windsor and Hamilton in Ontario, and Montreal. An official of the Canadian Rugby Union Junior committee said the all-Canada final will be played in one of those three cities.

Calgary will be the scene of the 1951 North American figure skating championships, officials of the Canadian Figure Skating Association announced Saturday at its annual meeting in Winnipeg. Dates will be announced later. The association also announced that the Canadian championships will take place in Vancouver. H. H. Williams of Calgary was re-elected president of the CFSA. Executive members include J. O. McCarthy, North Bay.

Argonauts Crush Ottawa 30-7 As Hamilton Downs Alouettes

(By The Canadian Press)

Winnipeg Blue Bombers or Edmonton Eskimos will come east for the Grey Cup final. Five eastern teams still are in the hunt for the other half of the fall football classic.

That's the way the Canadian senior football picture wound up after the weekend shuffle which saw Ottawa Rough Riders and Saskatchewan Roughriders added to the list of teams eliminated from Grey Cup possibilities.

Edmonton bounced Roughriders 24-1 in Regina to earn the right to meet Winnipeg for the Western championship.

Crushing Defeat

Ottawa was dropped after losing 30-7 to Toronto Argonauts in a Big Four game in Toronto. Montreal's chances faded after losing 29-18 to Hamilton Tiger-Cats in Hamilton.

In the Senior Ontario Rugby Union, Windsor Rockets beat Sarnia Imperials 13-10 Saturday then lost 31-5 to Balmy Beach Sunday. Balmy Beach and Imperials play a two-game series for the right to enter the Eastern finals with the Big Four winner.

McGill University Redmen continued to roll through the Inter-Collegiate competition with a 43-15 victory over Kueen's University Gaels. The only team with a chance of stopping McGill is the University of Western Ontario which smashed University of Toronto Blues 21-1.

Slim Chance

Alouettes can make the Big Four playoffs only if they beat Toronto next week and if Ottawa beats Hamilton. That would put Tiger-Cats and Alouettes in a second-place tie and force a sudden-death playoff for the right to meet Argos, only team in the league sure of making the playoffs.

Ottawa bowed out of contention Saturday after moving into a one-touchdown lead and fading before a brilliant last-half Argonaut attack led by quarterback Al Dekdebrun. Dekdebrun's passes accounted for three of Toronto's five majors.

Joe Asquini went 55 yards for the Ottawa touchdown on a pass from Andy Gordon. Eric Chipper converted. A long run by Bob Westlake set up Ulysses Curtis for a 1-yard touchdown run to tie the score before the half.

Then Dekdebrun's passing took over in the third quarter. He threw one to Don Scott and the outside wing made a running catch and went 15 yards to score. Another one was caught by Marvin Whaley on the Ottawa three-yard line. Curtis burst through the centre of the line for a 45-yard touchdown run in the final quarter and in the final 30 seconds another Dekdebrun-to-Whaley pass was good for a major.

Has 40 Converts

Nick Volpe converted all five Toronto touchdowns. That brought his record for the year to 40 converts out of 44 attempts.

Edgar (Special Delivery) Jones went for 18 Hamilton points as Tiger-Cats humbled Alouettes. The Hamilton club ran up a 16-0 lead before Alouettes struck back for 18 straight points. Then Jones stopped the streak by plunging over for a major and Jack Stewart went over for another in the final quarter.

Jones scored three touchdowns, two converts and one single. Bob McDonald plunged for the other Hamilton touchdown and Dick Brown kicked a single.

Tommy Manastersky got the Montreal touchdown on a pass from Frank Filchock, Virgil Wagner plunged for another and Pete Thodos took a pass from Filchock for the third. Nick Scollard kicked three converts.

Havelock Church Has 66th Birthday

HAVELOCK, Oct. 30 (ENS)— Large congregations were in attendance at the anniversary services at Havelock United Church on Sunday when the Rev. C. W. Demille, of Toronto, a former minister, was guest speaker. Dr. Demille was minister of this church from 1914 to 1916. For some years he was connected with the Ontario Temperance Federation, a position from which he retired some years ago. Dr. Demille took "What Mean These Things" as the subject for his morning sermon, and he dedicated a glass table top for the communion table and two memorial lights, one to light the church entrance and bulletin board and the other to light up the Honor Roll.

Soloists were Mrs. Y. Pikelis and Mrs. John Beatty with Reginald Dooley taking the solo part in the choir anthem.

Dare The Difficult

"The Dare of the Difficult" was the subject of a very challenging evening service, based on the text "Prove all things; hold fast that which is good." He delivered the following challenges to his hearers: dare to pray the prayer of the psalmist—Lord teach me; dare to use the old without worshipping it and also use the proven new; dare to co-operate; dare to see things from the viewpoint of others.

Donald Pollock was the soloist at the evening service. An octette, son, Jean Would, Beulah Chase, comprising Misses Joan Thomp- Barbara Pollock, Marie Vanderburg; Mrs. F. Oliver and Mrs. T. Ellis sang a special arrangement of Abi With Me.

66th Anniversary

The Sunday services celebrated over 66 years of service to the spiritual life of the community, 54 years of which have been carried on in the present building, built in 1896. Prior to that the services were held in a church at Old Havelock built in 1884 and dedicated the following year; and was one of a five-point preaching circuit with the Rev. Isaac Puffer as minister. Before the erection of a church services were held in the school house with the Rev. Charles E. Mearing, of Blairton Mission, in charge.

Hold Boy For Murder

UNION, Me., Oct. 30 (AP). — Police said a 13-year-old boy, angered at being ordered to go out for cibarettes before breakfast, shot his father to death on Sunday. Dennis Collins will be charged with murdering Frank B. Collins, 39, police said.

US SECRETARY OF STATE Dean Acheson, left, Canadian Ambassador Hume Wrong, centre, and Rt. Hon. C. D. Howe, Minister of Trade and Commerce, sign a six-point production for defence pact at the State Department in Washington recently.

Hastings WA Serves 150 At Fowl Dinner

HASTINGS, Oct. 30 (ENS) — The W.A. of St. George's Anglican Church, held a fowl dinner when 150 people were served.

Conveners were Mrs. R. Johnson and Mrs. R. Glass assisted by the ladies of the congregation.

A musical programme included piano solos by Margaret Rose Baker, piano duets by Betty and Cloa Dainard, selections by the Trinity Quartette, R. Burnham, L. W. Humphries, Cliff Scriver, and F. Crate.

Minden Man Is Found Dead

Mossom Kellett, 54, a retired merchant, was found dead in his Minden home early Sunday morning after shooting himself in the head with a hunting rifle.

Dr. Agnes Jamieson of Minden pronounced him dead. There will be an inquest.

Kellett shot himself with a 30-calibre hunting rifle shortly before 9 a.m. The shooting occurred in his own living room.

Provincial Constables A. R. Edwards and G. L. Langton of Minden investigated.

100 Attend Wedding Anniversary

HAVELOCK, Oct. 30 (ENS) — More than a hundred persons attended the reception and social evening at township hall, Prenveau, when Mr. and Mrs. William Ketchen of Havelock were at home to their friends on the occasion of their Coral wedding anniversary.

The celebrants are natives of this district. Mrs. Ketchen was formerly Mary E. Forsyth. Following their marriage 35 years ago at the Methodist parsonage, Norwood, when the officiating minister was the Rev. M. Irwin, the couple lived in Campbellford for about a year. They returned to Havelock for two years and then went to western Canada, settling in Saskatoon, Sask., where two daughters and a son were born to them. The members of their family are: Mrs. Joseph Flagler (Doris) of Peterborough, Mrs. Everett Toms (Jean) of Belmont Township and Earl of Havelock. Mr. and Mrs. Ketchen came back to Havelock 21 years ago.

Attending the festivities on Friday was the bridesmaid of 35 years ago, Mrs. John Reynolds of Lasswade, sister of the groom. The groomsman was Allan Cassan who died in Peterborough in April following the wedding.

During the evening Mr. and Mrs. Ketchen were presented with an electric tea kettle and coffee percolator from friends and neighbors when Mrs. Charles Ellis read the address and Mrs. Alfred Cassan and Mrs. Horace King presented the gifts. The couple were the recipients of many other beautiful gifts among them being a beautiful coral electric lamp from Mr. Ketchen's employer, H. L. Scott and Mrs. Scott, and a wool blanket from their family.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Butters of Toronto and Mr and Mrs. John Reynolds of Lasswade.

Hold Prayers At Douk Tomb

BRILLIANT, B. C., Oct. 30 — (CP).—Peace and prayer reigned Sunday at the tomb of a Doukhobor who met violent death 26 years ago.

More than 400 orthodox Doukhobors gathered at the Humbe tomb to mark the anniversary of the death of Peter (The Lordly) Verigin, the spiritual leader who led the group from the Saskatchewan prairies to the Kootenays in interior British Columbia.

Verigin was killed in a train bombing near Farron, B. C., in 1924. Several of his followers also died. Police never solved the mystery.

Members of the dissident Sons of Freedom group, now headed by Stefan Sorokin and pledged to obey the laws of Canada, did not attend the ceremony. It was a solemn affair, with tearful men and women offering hymns, prayers and addresses, all in Russian.

Color and drabness mingled. The women wore their multihued shawls and the men their sombre suits. They travelled miles from outlying communities, many on foot, for the ceremony.

Alnwick Jr. Farmers Hold Successful Dance

ROSENEATH, Oct. 30 (ENS). —Alnwick township Junior Farmers held a dance in the LOL Hall, Roseneath, Friday evening. Potter's orchestra furnished the music for dancing. Bruce Davidson was the lucky winner of the door prize. There was a large attendance.

Reginald Timlin is the president of this organization and Miss Marjorie Sandercock, secretary-treasurer.

MONTREAL, Oct. 30 —(CP)— The Canadian Chamber of Commerce announced today that a delegation representing business men from all 10 provinces will meet Prime Minister St. Laurent and his cabinet Nov. 6 to present the chamber's national policy. The delegation wil be led by the newly-elected president, Francis G. Winspear of Edmonton.

Plan People's Army

SINGAPORE, Malaya, Oct. 30 (Reuters)—A "powerful people's militia," said to be 5,500,000 strong, is being established in Communist China, broadcasts from Peiping monitored here report. The decision to strengthen the militia was taken at all all-China people's militia conference which ended last week after a 15-day session, one announcement said.

Designer Dies

FRESNO, Calif., Oct. 30 (AP). —William C. (Bud) Winfield, 46, designed of the movis special racing automobile that thrilled crowds at Indianapolis Speedway, was killed in a highway collision Sunday night. Winfield designed and engineered his speedy Novis in a back-yard garage. Many famed drivers thrilled Memorial Day crowds at Indianapolis' 500-mile race in the flashy Novis.

Too Helpful

HASTINGS, Mich., Oct. 30 — (AP).—When Cleave Strow, 66, had trouble starting his car Sunday, neighbor Leonard L. Wiley was glad to help out with a push. In fact, he pushed Strow's car right over an embankment, and his own went tumbling after it. Both vehicles overturned, but neither driver was hurt.

Fenella Girl Wins Cup At Roseneath

ROSENEATH, Oct. 30 (ENS)—Winner of Friday night's speaking contest for the public school children of Alnwick and Haldimand townships was Marie Sandercock, 12, Fenella school.

Miss Sandercock, a pupil of Mrs. William Montgomery, spoke on "Krakatoa," the island that erupted in the East Indies in 1883 and took 35,000 lives.

The contest has been held annually since 1930 and the winner, Miss Sandercock, will be eligible to compete in the Northumberland county speaking contest to be held at Warkworth November 3. The township hall at Roseneath was packed with 200 people witnessing the presentation of the S. G. Robertson Cup to Miss Sandercock.

Each of the contestants received a sum of money.

Second prize was won by Bruce Catter, S.S. No. 17, Haldimand, pupil of Mrs. Floyd Murphy. His subject was "Mountie Dog" and the presentation was by Reeve O. J. Robins of Alnwick.

Spoke On Carpet

Third prize went to Marjorie Hogg, S.S. No. 3, Alnwick, pupil of Mrs. Lillian Howes. She spoke on "Queen Mary's Carpet" and the trophy was presented by Mrs. Harold Taylor, president of Roseneath Women's Institute.

Other prizewinners were Betty Carew, S.S. No. 2, Alnwick; George McCleary, S.S. No. 3, Alnwick, Frances Thackeray, S.S. No. 1, Alnwick; John Jewell, S.S. No. 21, Haldimand and Phyllis O'Connell, S.S. No. 2 Alnwick.

Chairman was A. A. Martin, inspector for East Northumberland. Andrew Kemp, Castleton, president of the trustees and ratepayers association, Northumberland county, was guest speaker. He outlined the duties of the association.

Hold-up Fails When Woman Flees To Street

An attempt by a man in a Hallowe'en mask, to rob Mrs. Gordon W. Shantz, McDonnel St., in her home Saturday night failed when Mrs. Shantz bolted from the house screaming.

Five policemen in two police cars raced to the house and searched the area and neighboring apartments, but found no trace of the would-be robber.

Mrs. Shantz, owner of Gordon's Beverages, told police she had gone to the basement of her apartment house about 10.30 p.m. to turn on a heating fan. While she was there, she heard steps approaching and come down the basement steps. At first she thought it was her son.

Wore Brown Mask

She turned and was confronted by a well-dressed man wearing a brown mask which covered the top half of his face. She screamed and he grabbed her and threw her to the basement floor.

He told her if she made no noise she wouldn't be hurt. He then demanded the day's take from her business, but she said she had banked the money.

He then demanded what money she had in her purse and told her to go ahead of him up to her firstfloor apartment. When they arrived upstairs, Mrs. Shantz dashed to her front door screaming. The man fled. A neighbor, hearing the screams, phoned the police.

Mrs. Shantz suffered an injured leg from her fall to the concrete floor of the basement.

Constable Claire McGillen led the squad of men who came in answer to the call, arriving in two or three minutes. With him were Constables Louis Rodreque, Douglas Stark, Gordon Trennum and Robert Menzies.

Detective-Sergeant W. A. (Bud) Clarke took over the investigation.

United Services Institute Formed In City

Col. John A. Dewart, MC, ED., was elected president Friday night of the Peterborough United Services Institute.

This new organization is intended to be a medium of information relating to the many and important developments in the three branches of military service, and extending into the new auxiliary of science.

The other officers elected for the first year of the Institute are: Vice-presidents: Navy: Lt.-Comdr. J. B. Raine; Army: Capt. J. C. M. Currelly; Air Force: Wing Comdr. E. A. Adams, DFC.

Hon. Secretary: Lt. Col. James Turnbull, ED.

Hon. Treasurer: Major D. R. Clark.

Directors representing constituent groups of the service: 50th HAA Regt.: Lt. Col. M. E. Clarke, ED, Capt. Howard Hammell.

Navy: Lt. Comdr. Otto Laderach and Lieut. W. R. Thomas.

Army: Lt.-Col. Frank L. Bradburn, MC, and Lt. Col. V. M. Eastwood, MC, ED.

Air Force: F.-Lt. G. E. Ireland and F.Lt. Eldon Purvis. Representative, Commander of Eastern Ontario area, Major W. K. Lye, MBE.

Mr. James G. Wharry, vice-president of the Quaker Oats Company of Canada, gave the Institute members an interesting account of his globe-girdling business trip by air with special attention to conditions which impressed him in the far east. His talk accompanied technicolor pictures of his own camera work in his travels.

Mr. Wharry was introduced by Capt. R. R. Faryon, president of the Quaker Oats Co.

The Institute is hoping to have Lieut. General Guy C. Simmonds, Commander of National Defence for Canada, as speaker at their November meeting.

Fire of unknown origin early today gutted the 1934-model coupe of Malcolm Cook, Donegal St. Mr. Cook believes somebody entered the car, which was unlocked and somehow started the fire. An empty liquor bottle was found in the front seat. On previous occasions he has found cigaret butts on the floor of the car, presumably left by the intruder. City police are investigating.

Wilfred Langan Elected Zone Presdient

Wilfred Langan, vice-chairman of the Peterborough recreation commission, was elected Saturday the first president of the East Central Zone of the Ontario Recreation Association in Lindsay. The zone held its second conference of the 1950-51 season in the Lindsay Recreation Centre.

In attendance from Peterborough recreation commission were Alex Sinclair, Wilfred Langan, Ald. Hurrell Dodds, Mrs. James Wharry and Mrs. Margaret Freestone, and Clarence Boorman, Kinsmen Club; Miss Leta Brownscombe and Miss Marion Foster, both of the YWCA.

Eighty recreationists from the area bounded by Westhill on the west, Trenton on the east, Lindsay and Haliburton on the north attended the day-long conference. The program included panel discussion, periods on practical programming and addresses on recreation.

Walter Thompson, M.P., was the guest speaker at the conference dinner in the evening. Mrs. C. J. Lynch, president of the Ontario Recreation Association, and Sidney Kirk, director of recreation for York township, acted as consultants.

Other officers for the zone are: vice-president, H. W. Pierce, of Lindsay; secretary, Mrs. A. C. Gorrie, of Oshawa; treasurer, Mrs. Ruth Lucas, of Ajax.

4th Anti-Tank Battery Holds Reunion

First reunion of the 4th Anti-Tank Battery Association was held at the Kawartha Golf Club Saturday night. About 150 members were present.

It was a happy reunion for members of the battery, who hadn't seen buddies since the group disbanded. One member came from New Brunswick to get in the party.

Hon. Harold Scott Speaks

Guest speaker was the Hon. Harold Scott, minister of lands and forests. He told his audience that the most vulnerable part of Canada was the nation's forests.

"If fires were started by an enemy in forests across Canada, a million men would be tied up fighting those fires. People may speak of cities as the most vulnerable parts of our nation, but I see the Canadian forests as the weakest point," he said.

He said that in forest fire fighting in peace-time, there was a home guard in active service every day of the year.

"These men are learning the use of modern equipment—radio-telephones, aircraft, and many other things that would be valuable to them and to their country in time of war.

Army Beserve Force

He told members of the battery that the Department of Lands and Forests in Ontario would be ready for any such threat if it came. The men of the department, he said, were a sort of army reserve force.

Mayor Max Swanston welcomed the members of the Battery Association to the city and told them the city and the country had been proud of their deeds during the past war.

Chairman for the banquet was Lloyd Abraham, and a number of former officers who served with the battery were guests of honor. Col. Douglas Laurie proposed the toast to the battery, which was answered by Col. D. C. MacDonald of Ottawa.

Andrew MacKenzie Honored By Old Boys of SS Class

Andrew MacKenzie, 541 Bolivar street, was honoured by members of his Knox Church Bible Class on Saturday. Mr. MacKenzie, now past 85 years of age, was associated with the ASK class for 25 years. Several of the men present at Saturday's gathering were among the members of the class in 1910.

Howard Hall was chairman of the luncheon at Kawartha Golf and Country Club, and the guest of honor was flanked by Ian McRae, who made many of the arrangements, and Rev. Wm. McDonald, retried minister of Knox Church.

All the A.S.K. "old boys" told tales of the days when Mr. MacKenzie and Mrs. MacKenzie, heading the young men's and young women's Bible classes organized toboggan and skating parties at Jackson Park, plays, oyster suppers and all the other diversions that absorbed leisure time in the age before automobiles and radios. To some of the men, who had fought through two wars, the afternoon was full of nostalgic memories. A poll showed that five of those present had found their wives in the class conducted by Mrs. MacKenzie.

Many tributes were paid to the work done among young people by Mr. MacKenzie, and a heart-warming response was made by this guide-counsellor and friend of so many.

He recalled the generous work done among the poor by both classes; he told of how the young men visited Peterborough hotels to invite week-end guests to the classes; he said: "These, and other thoughts, are memories which give me joy now that I am laid aside."

Concluding, Mr. MacKenzie said: "For many years you have been scattered, but I am sure that the Christian teaching and the integrity instilled during those years will be passed on to those you meet along the way. I felt greatly blessed by our fellowship, and, while I hope that in some small measure I instilled in your lives a love of God and your fellow man:

"I do not ask that you should sound my praise,
Nor headlines spread my name
abroad,
I only pray that as I voiced a message,
Your hearts found God!"

Those present at what was a touching reunion and a beautiful tribute to an old friend, were:

Rev. Wm. McDonald, Herb McCannan, John Morrison, Jack Sinclair, Jim Richmond, John Donaldson, Ian McRae, Jim Turnbull, Howard Hall, Don Gillespie, A. K. Whyte, Arthur Pitchford, Tom Smith, Harvey Henry, Arthur McLeish, G. K. Kenyon, Ian MacKenzie, Jack Heron, Gordon Morrison, Stan Whitfield, William Brooks.

Norm. McIntosh Hurt In Crash

A well-known Lindsay sportsman and garage operator is in Ross Memorial Hospital as a result of an accident near Saintfield. Norman (Pop) McIntosh, president of the Lindsay Muskies, the OHA Intermediate entry, is being treated for shock and possibly cracked ribs after crashing his car in a ditch.

According to reports, Mr. and Mrs. McIntosh were proceeding towards Lindsay when they came to the crest of the hilil just north of Saintfield. On the top of the hill, Mr. McIntosh states, was a vehicle travelling with no lights. Trying to avoid hitting the vehicle he pulled to the left and missed it but put the car in the ditch. The darkened vehicle, believed to be a wagon, did not stop.

Mr. McIntosh was taken to the hospital and Mrs. McIntosh was taken home suffering from shock and bruises. The damage to the car has not been estimated yet.

Marmora Booms For Theatres

MARMORA, Oct. 30 (ENS) — On the wave of iron-boom optimism, two theatres with the seating capacity of 500 patrons each, are either being planned or building in the village at the present time.

The first project of A. J. Maynes on Forsyth St., has already been under construction for about a month; cement block walls are being erected rapidly.

To-day an announcement was made by the Bruce McLeod interests of Kitchener that they will build a second theatre near Highway 7 on Matthew St. Drawings are now being prepared for a structure similar to their building in Kitchener. Donald Ross will be the contractor.

Until recently Mr. Ross had planned to go ahead with the building of a business block. It was learned to-day that this will not take place for the present.

100 Ex-Sappers Hold Reunion At Armouries

More than a 100 ex-sappers of the 3rd Field Park Co. (RCE), their wives and friends met at the Armouries Saturday night for their second annual reunion.

There was no business transacted, speeches were short, and the evening was given over to reminiscing about wartime experience, and having a good time. After the banquet there was a dance.

A minute's silence was observed in memory of fallen comrades and this was followed by Captain J. Johnston reading the roll of honor. Alderman Dr. Herbert Young brought greetings on behalf of Mayor Max J. Swanston and the City Council.

Jack Rogers, secretary of Branch 52, Canadian Legion, welcomed the unit on behalf of the Legion. Dr. H. M. Yelland, former officer of the unit, also spoke briefly.

Recruited In 1940

The 3rd Field Park Co. was recruited in Peterborough, August 1940, 168 strong, under Captain George Walker of Chatham. Later it was transferred to Debert with the rest of the 3rd Division engineers.

August 1941 the sappers left Debert for overseas. They hit the Normandy beach at Coursulles-sur-Mer, one of four strong points on the five-mile front allotted the Canadians.

Clean Up Caen

When they went in to clean up Caen they were cooped up for four days under intense German shelling and bombing. Other chief objectives which the 3rd Field Park Co. helped capture were Boulogne, Calais and Cap Gris Nez. They accompanied the infantry in the breakthrough of the Siegfried Line, and the fighting in the Hochwald and Reichwald forests.

Heaviest engagement of the whole campaign was at Uden.

Winners of draw prizes Saturday night were Mrs. Sidney Storey, Patterson St., a coffee maker; Mrs. James Mann, also of Peterborough, bathroom scales; and Mrs. John Dunford, Clonsilla Ave., wall clock.

All women attending the reunion-banquet were given a small gift.

Malcolm MacPherson, president of the 3rd Field Park Overseas Club was in the chair.

No Wild Rumpus On Hallowe'en

Teen-aged boys who are planning to use Hallowe'en night as an excuse to run wild and destroy property in the city had better think again said Chief Constable John Thompson today.

He said that several special constable would be on duty together with every member of the police force to patrol the streets and investigate every complaint of boys doing malicious damage.

He warned that boys who were caught would be charged in police court. He said several boys were charged and fined last year.

There was no reason why children and older boys and girls couldn't go out Tuesday night and have fun without doing damage to people's homes throughout the city.

Fire Damage $10,000 In Lindsay Blaze

LINDSAY, Oct. 30—Fire which broke out in the Wonder Bar Restaurant early Sunday drove tenants out of eight apartments in the Sunkist Fruit Market block, but firemen kept the flames from spreading beyond the restaurant.

Smoke was pouring out of windows on four floors when firemen arrived and had spread into George Langdon's meat shop and the Sunkist fruit store. Both shops were smoke damaged, as were the apartments above.

Damage was estimated at $10,000. The blaze started in the basement of the restaurant.

Missing Car Found

A car reported stolen Tuesday was recovered by police parked at King and Stewart streets Sunday. Roy Davis, 20 Whitlaw St., reported that he had borrowed a car from his friend, Vernon Jones, RR 9, Peterborough, and that it was stolen when he left it parked downtown.

Power Of Words Rotary Subject

Guest speaker at the Rotary Club today was the Rev. Arnold Mathews, of George St. United Church, who based his talk on the power of words.

"We must clothe even our most elementary thoughts with words," he told his audience.

The size of a man's vocabulary is often a guide to his intelligence, he said, and a man of ideas is almost always a man of words. Words, he said, have the power to bless, defile, or corrupt.

What are needed, Mr. Mathews declared, are words such as Jesus used; words which, according to Job, kept men on their feet.

Mr. Mathews was introduced by Major Cyril Everitt and thanked by Dr. R. A. Kelly.

Hospitals Need 20 Per Cent More Revenue

TORONTO, Oct. 30 (CP). — Mayor Hiram McCallum of Toronto today urged the Ontario Hospital Association to demand that the federal and provincial governments help hospitals cope with rising costs.

John Marshall of Peterborough, president-elect of the association, estimated that hospitals of the province needed 20 per cent more revenue to make ends meet in 1951.

Later, in an interview, Mayor McCallum said Toronto hospitals will soon be "going in the red" unless they get help. If the federal and provincial governments do not assist, the city—"which draws its revenue largely from home owners"—will have to lend a hand, he said.

He mentioned that the Association of Mayors and Reeves asked Premier Frost last Wednesday for additional hospital assistance and called on the Premier to intercede with the federal government to get further help for the hospitals.

A. J. Swanson, superintendent of Toronto Western Hospital, told a press conference that Toronto hospitals will shortly raise their rates.

Higher Wages Asked By UE

TORONTO, Oct. 30 — (CP).— A program calling for higher wages immediately was adopted yesterday by the Canadian District of the United Electrical Workers (Ind.) at the close of its 14th annual Canadian district convention.

It said in a press release that other objectives decided upon include: Self-governing rights for trade union, a campaign for organizing unorganized workers, social security legislation, and guarantees of civil rights. It said it will insist that the Canadian government pursue policies that will work for peace in international relations.

The union, which claims 25,000 Canadian members, said 141 delegates from 30 locals in 14 centres in Ontario and Quebec attended the three-day convention. In addition, there were 53 official observers from locals.

C. S. Jackson of Toronto was re-elected district president. Jean Pare of Montreal was returned as vice-president. George Harris of Toronto continues as secretary-treasure, and Ross Russell of Toronto as director of organization.

Sunlight In Smith

Some of the elderly men at Anson House have been wondering lately about a phenonomon of the sunlight off in Smith as they have watched it change on a farm house. David Buchan mentioned the observations to the Examiner. In the morning light the house seems to be a battleship grey, but in the afternoon it appears pure white. There are no trees or other shadow. Several houses in that rural section are white, keeping their color throughout the day.

FORMER OFFICERS AND A CABINET MINISTER attending a reunion of the 4th Anti-Tank Battery at the Kawartha Golf Club Saturday night were: Major D. McCarthy, Toronto, Lt.-Col. D. C. McDonald, Ottawa, Lt.-Col. John Harstone, Lt.-Col. William McMullen, Toronto, the Hon. Harold Scott, Minister of Land and Forests, and Col. D. J. Laurie, Peterborough. —Parks Studio Photo

West Indies Opens Market

OTTAWA, Oct. 30 (CP)—The British West Indies market, severely curtailed by dollar import restrictions, will be partially restored to Canadian exporters Jan. 1.

The trade department today announced that through a dollar liberalization agreement, completed after months of negotiation the BWI colonies will cut controls to allow for an increased flow of Canadian goods.

On some goods, import licences will be granted to a minimum of 50 per cent of the value of Canadian exports to BWI during the period 1946-47-48. On other goods the minimum will be 33 1-3 per cent, or one third of the shipments in the 1946-48 period, considered a peak in Canada-BWI exports.

A significant feature of the agreement is that the BWI agrees to again open the doors to such items as apples, dairy products, fish and paper, banned during the last few months.

Scout Movement Needs Leaders

VANCOUVER —(CP)— The main problem facing the expanding Boy Scout movement is not lack of boys but insufficient numbers of leaders.

Twice as many boys could be in Boy Scouts, Wolf Cubs and Rovers if enough leaders could be developed to meet the need.

This is the opinion of Maj.-Gen. D. C. Spry, chief executive commissioner for Scouting in Canada. He was here for the quarterly meeting of the executive committee of the General Council of the Boy Scout Association.

Maj.-Gen. Spry said a systematic search for adult leadership material is in progress.

There now are 115,235 Scouters in Canada, a bigger total than the cadet movement for the three armed services.

More than 50 nations foster the movement with a total membership of 4,860,000.

15 People Killed Over Weekend

By The Canadian Press.

Three traffic accidents alone took eight lives in eastern Canada during the weekend. In all, 15 persons died on its highways.

A Canadian Press compilation showed 17 accidental and violent deaths during the weekend. There were nine traffic deaths in Ontario, four in Nova Scotia and two in Quebec.

In addition, Earl Gill of Saint John, N. B., and Henry Foisy, 13, of St. Marguerite, Que., were shot to death in separate hunting accidents.

One of the three biggest accidents killed three young men in Pleasant River, N. S., as they were returning from a Hallowe'en party. The three were Roland Scott, 23, Roman Smith, 24, and Douglas MacQuarrie, 17. Their car left the highway and turned over.

Near Pickering, 20 miles east of Toronto, Brian O'Boyle, 19, and Norman Scherb, 19, were killed when their car smashed into the rear of a truck driven by Earl Kirk, 53, of Toronto.

As Kirk examined the car containing the two dead men, it was hit from behind by a car driven by Charles Stone of Lindsay. Kirk was killed.

Fog Blamed

Many of the accidents in Ontario were blamed on a heavy fog that settled down over the province from North Bay to the Great Lakes.

Ernest Gordon, a Toronto truck driver, and Mary Nichoveau, were killed in a collision between Gordon's truck and a car near Kingston Saturday. In another collision at Harrow, William A. Grady was killed. Seven-year-old Henry Ferber of Courtland, was killed in a car-truck collision near Toronto.

Two cars hit head-on in the fog near Chatham, Sunday, killing Laird Ross, 8. Steve Sysburg, Conway, Pa., was killed near Smithville, Ont., when his car went into a ditch.

The other traffic victim in Nova Scotia was Mrs. Sabra Hines of Lantz Siding, 30 miles north of Halifax. The 74-year-old woman was struck by a car.

Frank Massarelo, 50, and Joseph Presener, 55, died in Montreal hospitals. Both were hit by cars in separate accidents in Montreal Saturday.

Matinee Idol Dies

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 30 (AP)—Maurice Costello, 73, matinee idol of the gay 1890s who later became one of the great lovers of the films in the silent era, died Sunday. Frequent hospital visitors during his last illness were his daughters, Dolores and Helene Costello, the former actresses

Canada Cautious On Construction Ban

OTTAWA, Oct. 30 — (CP) — Canada will be cautious about implementing a ban on amusement construction, a government official said Saturday.

The government here will be vigilant to see how far the United States actually goes in enforcing its ban, on amusement construction, before similar steps are taken here.

If the U.S. appears to be enforcing to the hilt the ban announced in Washington Thursday, then similar restrictions may be enforced in Canada.

Timber Operators Expect Peak Year

PORT ARTHUR — (CP) — Bushworkers from scattered sections of Canada—some from as far away as Newfoundland—arrived here at the rate of 20 a day early this month. They will provide the labor for what is expected to be a record year for timber operations in this area.

Dyer Hurdon, assistant manager of the Port Arthur office of the National Employment Service, says 14,000 workers were needed in Northwestern Ontario.

The fall harvesting delayed their arrival here early this month but Mr. Hurdon says after harvesting is completed they will come "in droves."

Liberal Candidate

Modern Lovers On Screen Haven't Got It

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 30 (CP)—Antonio Moreno, a top romantic star of the silent movies, shook his head sadly as he considered the current crop of screen lovers.

"They just don't have it," sighed the Madrid-born actor, still handsome at 63. He is making a comeback to the industry he first joined in 1912.

"The new stars don't have the romantic appeal," he declared. "The real lovers are the more-mature men. Take Charles Boyer, for example. I can see why woman would be crazy for him. He has a romantic air about him.

"Clark Gable is another. He is simple and plain-spoken. And the success of Ezio Pinza proves that women go for the man who is mature and polished.

Young Know Nought

"The younger stars are all right for the bobby-sox crowd. But they know nothing about how to make love."

Moreno added that the current glamor girls are equally uninspiring.

"The sexiest woman on the screen today is Gloria Swanson," said the actor, who co-starred with her in "My American Wife" in 1923.

"In the silent days, actresses were picked for their sex appeal—with the exception of Lillian Gish and little Mary Pickford. Most of the women on the screen today do not have it."

No modern lover has achieved the fame of Rudolph Valentino, he added. (Valentino got his first break because Moreno was not available for the lead in "The Four Horsemen.")

And Moreno commented that movie love-making is not what it used to be.

"The talkies killed love on the screen," he observed. "The reason is that love is more effective when it is silent. Valentino, Ramon Novarro and I could make a love scene real by our actions alone.

"But when you introduce talk into a love scene, it is dangerous. The things that you say to your lover might sound silly or offensive to someone else."

SEOUL, Korea, Oct. 30 (AP)—There is an air of optimism in South Korea about the future of the country after it is unified.

It is generally felt that once the 38th parallel no longer separates the industrial north from the agricultural south, Korea will be able to draw on its full resources for the long haul to economic recovery.

About five years of tireless effort may be able to put Korea on her own feet, Korean administrators estimate.

However, the great task of immediate rehabilitation for 30,000,000 Koreans rests on the United Nation. Without technical and material aid from the outside there seems little hope the paralyzed economy of this country can recover.

A survey of total war damage still is being made. But the South Korean government estimates the damage to industry alone will amount to $2,000,000,000.

Industry Minister Kim Hoon said 35 per cent of Korean industry has been destroyed.

Anyone who understands the relation of North and South Korean industries and their capacities will understand why these people base their optimism on "a unified Korea."

The division of the country paralyzed Korea's economy and divided its people.

The outstanding feature of Korean industry is that the agricultural south must be supplied with fertilizer and machinery from the north.

In return the north must be supplied with South Korean rice, cotton and other raw materials.

As far as the food problem is concerned, Korea can feed her people without outside help.

Hydro-electric power plants in North Korea are the key to starting the manufacture of consumer goods.

In the south there are limited hydro-electric and steam generating plants which produce 100,000 kilowatts of power. That is only one-half the power needed.

Belmont WI Holds Community Sing-Song

HAVELOCK, Oct. 30—(ENS)—An enjoyable community social evening, sponsored by the Belmont Women's Institute, was held in the Township Hall at Preneveau, when a large crowd was in attendance. Robert Wrightly officiated as chairman for the program which opened with the singing of the Institute Ode. Mrs. William Anderson was pianist for the community singing. Several numbers were rendered by a choral group comprising Mrs. W. Goadsby, Mrs. W. Anderson, Mr. Jesse Anderson, Mr. Bert Haryett, Mr. R. Wrightly and Mrs. and Mrs. H. L. Scott.

See Close Race In U.S. Election

NEW YORK, Oct. 30—(CP)—The closest Congressional race in years appears to be in the making as candidates in the Nov. 7 voting start their final week of electioneering.

Election of 33 governors along with a maze of state, county and civic officials shares the spotlight with the Congressional race in this "off-year" election—an election year in which there is no presidential contest.

Because of the keen interest in state and local elections, national issues have taken somewhat of a back seat to matters closer to the nearly-70,000,000 eligible voters of whom some 42,000,000 are expected to cast their ballots.

But such vital country-wide questions as peace, national security, the administration's record and Communism have been widely discussed.

Vaudeville Star Dies

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 30 (AP) —Harry Usher, 59, a vaudeville headliner for more than 30 years, died Saturday night following a heart attack. Usher collapsed shortly after he and his wife, Frances, appeared in their mind-reading act. It was the same act which set a record run at New York's Palace Theatre in vaudeville's heyday.

Evelyn McFadden is Bride In Double Ring Ceremony

At Mark St. United Church Saturday afternoon a double ring wedding ceremony, performed by the Rev. B. S. Morwood, united Evelyn Bertha, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alex McFadden, Driscoll Terrace, and Glen Robert Dracup, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dracup, Water St.

Wedding music was played by Mrs. Olive Searles and Miss Margaret Minicola sang "Bless This House" before the service, and "Because" during signing of the register.

The bride's gown of white satin with skirt falling into a long train was caught up in front and trimmed with lily of the valley and had a sheer neckline yoke of nylon. Her veil was of tulle illusion and was in a coronet, caught with seed pearls and carried a bouquet of red roses. Mr. Mcadden gave his daughter in marriage.

Miss Doris McFadden was her sister's maid of honor and the bridesmaids were Miss Gladys Dracup, sister of the groom, and Miss Lottie McFadden. Audrey McFadden was junior bridesmaid and Beverley Weatherdon, cousin of the bride, was flower girl. The attendants wore similar frocks of green, yellow, orchid, pink and blue, making it a charming wedding scene. Their headdresses were halos of net with matching veils and they carried bouquets of chrysanthemums and carnations.

The groom was attended by his brother Gordon Dracup and the ushers were Jack Byers and Thomas Davis.

The reception was at the Club Aragon where the bride's mother received in a wine crepe dress trimmed with velvet and a grey hat with wine velvet trim. She was assisted by the groom's mother who wore a two piece grey dress with black felt hat and black accessories. Each had a corsage of 'mums.

The bride and groom left afterward for Montreal, the bride travelling in a navy gabardine suit, wine accessories and a white shortie coat.

They will live in Peterborough.

RosamondO'Keefe Bride of Neil E. O'Reilly

The marriage was solemnized at St. Peter's Cathedral by the Rev. Gerald Sullivan, of Rosamond Teresa, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert O'Keefe, and Mr. Neil Edward O'Reilly son of Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius O'Reilly, all of Peterborough

Bronze 'mums and snapdragon were on the altar table for the ceremony and Mrs. R. G. Aman played the wedding music. During signing of the register, Mrs. M. Collins sang "On this day."

The bride was lovely in a white satin wedding gown with full train which had a nylon yoke embroidered with seeded pearls, and the fitted sleeves were finished in points over her hands. Her veil was of Chantilly lace and was caught in a close-fitting cap with seeded pearls, and she was carrying red roses. She was given in marriage by her father.

Misses Barbara and Helen O'Reilly were the bride's attendants. They were in yellow and mauve taffeta frocks with short bolero jackets and flounced at sides of the skirts. They wore matching braided taffeta halos and carried bouquets of 'mums and roses.

The groomsman was Gerald O'Reilly and the ushers Alvin Courneyeau and Lionel Neary.

Guests were received in the YWCA Green Room with the bride's mother assisting, dressed in black velvet gown and hat and wearing a corsage of white 'mums. The groom's mother also received, wearing grey crepe with navy accessories and red roses.

Leaving on a wedding trip to Springfield, Mass., the bride was wearing a beige suit with black shortie coat and black velvet accessories. Her corsage was an orchid.

Mr. and Mrs. O'Reilly will live in a new home on Brioux Ave.

Aileen Moffatt Weds G. E. Pratt Of Warkworth

MARMORA, Oct. 30 (ENS)—A pretty wedding was solemnized at Marmora Free Methodist Church on Saturday, October 28, when Aileen Agnes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Moffatt of Marmora was united in marriage to Gordon Edmond Pratt, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Pratt of Warkworth.

The Rev. L. C. Ball officiated assisted by the Rev. R. L. Casement of Verona.

The church was tastefully decorated with bronze and yellow chrysantheums and ferns. Wedding music was played by Mrs. L. C. Ball. As the bride entered the church, the Rev. R. E. Dargan of Peterborough sang, "The breathe that breathed o'er Eden" and during the signing of the register "The wedding prayer."

The bride wore a white slipper satin gown finished with a peplum at back. The bodice was fitted and had a sweetheart neckline and long fitted sleeves.

Her finger tip veil was caught with orange blossoms and her cascade bouquet was of red roses.

Miss Eva Moffatt, the bride's sister as maid of monor wore blue slipper satin with matching headdress and mittens and carried a nasegay of white chrysanth emums and red roses. The bridesmaid was her sister, Velma Moffatt gowned in orchid slipper satin with matching headdress and mittens and carrying a nosebay of white chrysanthemums and red roses.

Miss Merelyn Johnson, niece of the bride was junior bridesmaid. She was attired in pink slipper satin, matching headdress and mittens and also carried a nosebay of white chrysanthemums and red roses.

Irene Phillips, cousin of the bride as flower girl, was daintily attired in a yellow taffeta dress with matching poke bonnet. She carried a basket of chrysantheums and roses.

The groomsman was Francis Casement and ushers were Kelvin Johnson of Peterborough and George Sayles of Warkworth.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, attended by almost 100 guests. Here the bride's mother received wearing a gown of grey crepe with black accessories. Each had a corsage of red roses.

Guests were present from Oshawa, Toronto, Peterborough, Warkworth, Verona, Morganston, Cobourg, Brighton, Springbrook, and Cordova.

After a motor trip through United States, the couple will make their home at Warkworth. For travelling the bride wore a blue-grey suit with navy accessories.

300 In Costume At YW Gym Hallowe'en Party

More than 300 children, in weird, fantastic, comic and pretty costumes, made up perhaps the biggest Hallowe'en party of the season on Saturday in the gaily decorated YWCA gymnasium.

For several hours they romped joyously, bobbing for apples, doing stunts and dances and playing Hallowe'en games, ending with a "ghost walk" through darkened underground passages, led by the cadet class. Climax was the serving of cups of ice cream to everyone.

Prizes were given for the ten best costumes in two classes:

Baby winners were Illa Moes, who came from Holland two years ago and wore her Dutch dress, bonnet and clogs, and carried a tulip; Jane Mortlock, as a flower girl; Freddie Rowell, cowboy; Sally Sands, cowgirl; Cheryl Harrison, gypsy; Sharon Gallagher, pierrotte; Christine Legon, Indian girl; Rosemarie Matthews, Japanese girl; Janice Crary, Turkish girl; Barbara Northrop, old fashioned lady.

Juniors judged best were: Ruth Estelle, as a feather bed with the pillow for her hat; Nancy Heal, cleverly costumed as a red devil; Ann Gariepy, telegram girl; Sandra Yudin, cowgirl; Mary Willamett, majorette; Pauline Evans, Hungarian girl; Gail Estelle, gladiator; Judy Reid, old-fashioned gentleman; Annabel Morley, Turkish girl; Betty Lou Booth, clown.

Honorable mention was given the following juniors:

Brenda Broadhurst, Dutch girl; Linda Swartz, Carmen; Jane Ovens, gypsy; Joan Kent and Irene Gillespie, majorettes; Margaret, Joan and Bryan Whitfield, three panda bears; Patsy Cowan, Irish girl; Irene Williams, Turkish girl; Patricia Carey, gypsy; Jean Dobbin, prince; Lorraine Legris, cowgirl; Pauline Sucee, Indian; Victoria Willamett, Barbara and Georgina Hutchinson, ballet dancers.

And the following babies:

Erline Bellanger, Hawaiian; Camelia Hodson, Little Boy Blue; Betty Gariepy, bunny; Romaine Laws, Indian boy; Diane Russell, old lady; Lorraine Pammett, pussycat; Diane Zakos, ballet dancer; Linda Corner, Bo-Peep; Sharon Pierce, Bo-Peep; Nancy Howatt, Indian maid; Ruth Tully, Indian boy; Nancy Mathews, bride.

Doris Bannan Wed At Parents' Home To Kenneth Dormer

The home of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Bannan, Omemee, was the setting Saturday afternoon for the wedding of their daughter Mary Doris to Mr. Kenneth George Dormer, elder son of Mr. and Mrs. George Dormer, Peterborough.

The ceremony took place under an arch of cedar boughs in the living room with basket of carnations and chrysanthemums forming a lovely background. The Rev. V. E. R. Zufelt officiated and the music was played by Mr. Albert Wright.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was gowned in white slipper satin made with high neckline and moulded basque fastened at the back with covered buttons, the skirt finished with a short train. Her fingertip veil of French illusion was caught to a tiara of seeded pearls and she carried a bouquet of red roses.

Bridesmaid was Miss Dorothy Quesnel who was frocked in yellow taffeta and wore a matching bonnet of yellow mittens. She carried a nosegay of yellow roses and mauve 'mums. The groomsman was William Dormer.

The reception was held in the YMCA, Peterborough. The bride's mother was assisting to receive, attired in a tailored suit and black hat with corsage of red roses. Also the groom's mother, dressed in midnight blue with black hat and wearing pink roses.

The couple left to spend their honeymoon at Niagara Falls and Cleveland, Ohio. When going away bride was wearing a beige dress with navy accessories and a corsage of pink sweetheart roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Dormer will live at 743 Snelgrove Rd. on their return.

Mutual Respect Main Factor Happy Marriage

WINNIPEG —(CP)— Mutual respect is one of the important factors in preserving marriage, says Judge M. S. Watson of the Winnipeg family court.

The judge, 60 years old and married with a grown-up son and daughter, was the first speaker at a series of marriage-counselling lectures for young couples.

Other important factors in preserving marriage, he said, are common interests, shared responsibility and mutual confidence.

He doesn't think that travelling salemen make poor husbands. "A little absence from the home makes for better relationships in marriage," he said.

"The art of living together is a matter of putting emphasis on the little things." It is the little things that often become the basis of larger issues.

"Bring a bit of your courtship into your marriage," he told the gathering. "Married people should show the same courtesies and consideration for each other as they used in their courtships.

"Give youself to the one your love. You'll find a greater love will come back."

Many modern marriages fail because the principals "don't know each other," he continued. Preparation for marriage should involve no short-cuts. There must be transition from "I-mindedness" to "we-mindedness"; from infatuation to real unity.

Deplores Haste

It was his experience from watching thousands of cases in family court that "hasty marriages just don't work out.

"Love at first sight is often cured by a second look."

Judge Watson said his family court experience proved that very few persons coming there have any church connection.

"Religion is the greatest force in the world for changing marital unhappiness into happiness."

Why do some husbands leave home?

One reason, the judge reported, is that a wife sometimes will spend so much time on her children that she neglects her husband. And she may allow herself to become less attractive.

Husbands can help overcome this, he continued, by "a little praise, some help with the housework—in other words, by doing their share. Loyalty to, and pride in, your partner should dominate your marriage."

The judge says there's a surecure solution for temper-tantrums on the part of a wife.

"The wise man will apologize, tell her how sweet she is. For a woman that's a certain cure."

British Families Expecting More Food at Christmastime

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON —(CP)— This will be the closest to a ration-free Christmas that Britain has enjoyed since 1940, but many old food favorites will still be missing.

Butchers are already predicting that pork will be hard to get. They probably won't have enough even for regular customers, although the present meat ration is only 23 cents weekly.

Turkeys are still scarce and other shortages are sugar, butter, eggs, tea and bacon. Housewives making their own puddings and cakes will have a hard time finding raisins, mincemeats and candied peel.

But the ministry of food has just lifted the four-pound weight restriction on confectioners' cake. Shoppers now can order any size of cake, iced and recorated, paying the controlled price of three shillings ninepence a pound.

Other welcome changes are the large quantity of Christmas puddings, by reputable manufacturers, already lining the shelves, and, for the first Christmas in years cookies of all kinds are off ration and in quantity.

Canned Foods Help

A pleasant surprise this year will be a large variety of canned prepared foods, off ration for the first Christmas since France was invaded in 1940. Most are French, Danish, Dutch, Belgian or Polish, but there also are canned corncobs, corn kernels and other delicacies from Canada and the United States.

Canned fruits generally are in ample supply but canned peaches, pears and pineapple still make only rare appearances on the shelves.

To amplify the scanty meat ration there are cooked Dutch chickens canned whole, price 10s 9d., and tins of cooked ham weighing anything from 16 ounces to 10 pounds and priced at an average of 9s 6d. a pound.

Liddle-Rogers

A quiet wedding of local interest was solemnized in the Presbyterian Church, North Bay, on October 21 when Loise Marie daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Rogers Norwood became the bride of Kennedy Liddle son of Mr. and Mrs. Liddle of Powassan. The Rev. S. B. Cole of North Bay officiated.

The bride wore a powder blue suit with black accessories and a corsage of Talisman roses.

Wedding attendants were Mr. and Mrs. T. Bobier of Oshawa.

Miss Jacquelyn Rogers sister of the bride sang "because" accompanied by Mr. Buelman.

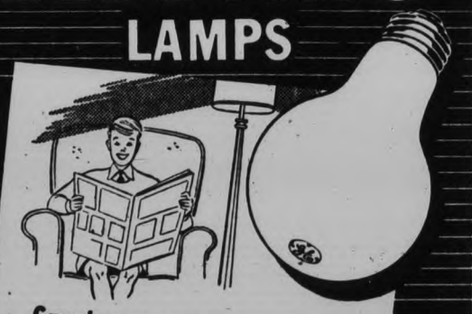
The reception was held at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. C. S. McConnell, with Miss Marion McConnell and Miss Margaret Liddle assisting.

The Price of Things

It's often a mistake to pay too much but it's far worse to pay too little—that's why in Evangeline we stress value for a price rather than the price itself.

That's why prices are clearly marked on every piece of Evangeline merchandise and on all the goods we display. Not because they are the lowest prices you can find—but because they represent the best value we can find.

We also guarantee that goods must be satisfactory both in price and in value or they will be exchanged or your money refunded.



We believe you'll find The Evangeline Shop to be a store you can trust.

DOROTHY DIX

Couple In Parents' Home Should Behave As Guests

Dorothy Dix

DEAR MISS DIX: I agree with all you say about it being the duty of parents when they go to live with their children to adjust themselves to their children's way of living, but what about children adjusting themselves to their parents' way of living when they come back to live with old people, bringing their families with them?

Because of the housing shortage we had to take in our children and their families. We were glad to do this, but we have felt that they might at least have made the return of trying to make things as easy for us as they could. This they have not done. We are in the habit of going to bed early, but they come in at all hours of the night and disturb our rest, and if they happen to stay at home they turn on the radio and play it until they run us crazy. They bring their company in without even asking whether it is convenient or not. They tell us what to do and what not to do, criticize the housekeeping and the food and our old-fashioned ways, and we are tired of it. No one has the right to come into another's home and upset the peace and quiet and comfort of it, and this rule should work for young people as well as for old.—JUST TIRED.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: And I don't blame you. It is hard for young people to stand having their routine of life disturbed, but it is sheer torture for the old. The young have many sources of outside distraction and amusement, but all the pleasures of life are encompassed in their homes for the old. Our old houses, our old furniture, and accustomed ways of doing things, our peace and quiet make up the sum of our happiness, and we cannot bear it when vandals come in and wreck our quiet with noise and tumult and tear up all of our habits by their roots.

A Fine Art

The art of living in other people's houses is the finest art in the world and the one that is least practiced. Perhaps the reason for this is that few people possess enough sense of justice to accord every man and woman the right to run their own houses in their own way or enough intuition to perceive when they are making nuisances of themselves or enough tact and adaptability to adopt the customs of the home in which they are staying.

And this goes for people's children as well as for strangers. For the curious thing about children is that they never realize that their parents have any right to their homes or to their money or to spend their declining years in peace and quiet and the pursuit of happiness in their own way. Still less do they realize that when once they have gone from the home nest it is no longer their home. They come back as guests and should demean themselves as guests.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I am very much in love with a young man who is devoted to me, but I am, of the hustler type. He belongs to the easy-going, what's-the-use school of thought and I fear that if we marry we will be miserable. I think that if a boy really cares for a girl he will try to his utmost to make something of himself and to make her a comfortable living. His argument is that if I love him I won't care for anything else and we will live happily ever afterward, whether we have anything to live on or not. Am I narrow-minded, or am I right?—D. D. L.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: You are absolutely right. No two people of as different temperaments as you and your fiance should ever marry. Congeniality is the very bedrock of martial happiness.

Two people who have the same tastes and habits and points of view, who have the same ambitions and aspirations, and who like to do the same things can make a go of marriage under any circumstances. They can be happy working or playing, wasting their money or saving it, climbing up the ladder of sucess together or sitting contentedly at the bottom, but if one wants to save and the other to spend; if one is industrious and the other lazy; if one wants to stay put and the other wants to go places, they are bound to quarrel because their desires clash at every turn.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: Should a boy 16, who is a fair driver and who can be trusted with a car, be allowed to use it? Is it better for such a boy to take a girl to a dance in the family car or in a taxi?

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: I think such a boy should be allowed to use the family car in reason to take his dates about, but not to monopolize it. I have seen so many father and mothers walking while Johnny was off joyriding with the Smith girl. Better let the boy take his girl to the party in a taxi. He won't be tempted to park if the meter is going round and round.

Of Interest to Women

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Hallowe'en Fun at Home Even for the Grown-ups.

To every full-scale club or school Hallowe'en party there are dozens of minor home celebrations around the dinner table, where young children make the fun.

I used, silently, to wish for the day when, instead of wanting false faces and innocuous little orange jellies and pumpkin custard tarts with faces, my children would grow up and make their own parties . . .

. . . and Horrors!—the day has come.

My two are going to have a Hallowe'en party in our rumpus room and (1) I am expected to design costumes for Marianne and her erstwhile swain, and (2) Pete airily ordered the following menu: four pumpkin pies and some ham sandwiches and some MacIntosh apples and gallons of chocolate milk and coke.

They will be lucky if I manage to make the pies. The rest they will have to rustle up themselves.

For households where parents are still bigger than their children, Hallowe'en Ice Box Cake might give a Hallowe'en atmosphere to your family dinner. The other little numbers you might like in include in your evening snack if you are entertaining later in the evening.

Hallowe'en Ice Box Cake

One orange colored 2-egg layer cake, 1 cup milk, 1½ tablespoons cornstarch, ¼ cup sugar, pinch of salt, 1 square of chocolate ¼ teaspoon vanilla, 1 tablespoon butter, 1 egg, ½ tablespoon gelatine, 1 tablespoon cold water.

Put on to heat in top of double boiler the milk and chocolate; meanwhile mix together the cornstarch, sugar and salt. When milk and chocolate are hot and blended stir them into the sugar-cornstarch mix and return to top of double boiler, stirring until thick, then cooking, covered for 15 minutes. Remove from heat and to it add the gelatine which has been soaked in the cold water for 5 minutes. Add butter. Cool nearly to room temperature and add the beaten egg white by folding it in, and the vanilla. Chill. Line a loaf pan with wax paper, then line bottom and sides with slices of orange-colored cake; pour in the filling a little. Chill over-night in refrigerator. Serve in slices topped with scoop or slice of orange water ice.

Midnight Cakes

Three eggs, ½ cup sugar, 1 teaspoon lemon juice, 6 tablespoons flour, 2 tablespoons cocoa, pinch of salt. Sift flour, cocoa, and salt together 3 times. Separate egg yolks from whites. Beat yolks until very light. Beat the whites then sift the dry ingredients over, add lemon juice and fold until just mixed. Pour into fluted paper cups and bake at 325 deg. Fahr. 25 minutes. Frost with orange icing and mark with melted chocolate the two hands of the clock coming together at midnight.

A good jellied salad can be made by using an orange jelly dessert with canned peach juice and water for the liquid. When partially set pour over halves of ripe olives, over which are inverted peach halves, cut side down. Pour jelly over and let harden. Serve on lettuce garnished with slices of segments of orange. Pass Fruit Cream dressing or mayonnaise.

Recognize Women Pipe Smokers

By RENE LAGACE.

MONTREAL, Oct. 30 (CP). — Women pipe smokers gained recognition by the International Association of Pipe Smokers' Clubs at its annual convention here and proved they were in earnest in competing in a world pipe-smoking contest.

During a heated debate in a smoke-filled room Saturday, Mrs. Hugo Gnam of Jefferson Valley, N. Y., president of the 16 Toby Pipe Smokers' Clubs with 40 women members in the United States said she attended the convention to make certain women were admitted in the international body.

A vote was ordered and the men split in two camps—those wanting an open vote and those wanting it to be secret. Finally an open vote was agreed upon and delegates sheepishly approved the admission of women but on the condition that they remain in dependent clubs.

In the contest for the world championship, Charles Guay of the Schenectady, N. Y., Mohawk Club smoked 3.3 grams of burley tobacco—less than ¼ of an ounce —for 85¼ minutes to set a record.

A close competitor was Toby, honorary president of the women's clubs, who managed to attract most of the attention on her by smoking a Turkish Hookah—harem-style—pipe 41 minutes. The young red-head, who has never revealed her name, has 500 pipes in her Tompkins Corners, N. Y., home.

PARFAITS are also luscious when served in a bowl with lady-fingers, topped with fresh berries, and covered with a rich fruit sauce.

COOKBOOK OF THE WEEK

Modern Chilled Desserts Brought in Cookbook

The sixteenth book in the Examiner's offer of twenty-four Culinary Arts Institute Cookbooks brings you a wonderful array of modern chilled desserts that are irresistible.

The title is "250 Luscious Refrigerator Desserts," and you will find that this book is rightly named. There are mousses, mallobets, and marlows; baked Alaskas, bombes, puffs and ice cream pies; wonderful frozen puddings; parfaits that will take prizes; refrigerator cakes and cookies; and delicious ice creams, sherbets, and ices. You will have a grand time trying out these up-to-the-minute recipes and there are so many you'll hardly know where to begin.

For a beginning you might try one of the many parfaits that are included, such as Burnt Almond Parfait:

BURNT ALMOND PARFAIT
¼ cup heavy cream
2/3 cup Caramel Sauce
1 pint Vanilla or Chocolate Ice Cream
½ cup toasted almonds, chopped

Whip cream and add ⅓ cup of caramel sauce slowly, beating constantly. Place about a teaspoon of plain caramel sauce and a teaspoon of cream mixture in bottom of parfait glasses and add ice cream. Sprinkle with nut meats. Repeat until glasses are full. Top with cream mixture. Serves 6.

Use Butterscotch Sauce instead of caramel sauce.

The new book of Refrigerator Desserts is available right now for our readers. To obtain your copy simply clip one Cookbook Coupon from page 2 of any issue of this newspaper and present it with 25c at The Examiner Office, from your Carrier, or at Braund's Food Markets. All of the fifteen preceding titles are also available and may be obtained in the same way. To order by mail send coupon with 30c for each book (5c additional for postage and handling) to Cookbook Department, Examiner, Peterborough.

She Feels RIGHT!
Enjoy a SPARKLING Good "Keep-Fit" Cereal!

• Here's how you benefit when you eat Post's Bran Flakes regularly. You guard against "irregularity" often caused by lack of bulk foods in what you eat. And, you wake up that tired morning appetite. The answer? Post's — the better Bran Flakes — are GOOD TO EAT.

Supplies Bulk You Need in Your Diet

Post's Bran Flakes help provide laxative action nature's way.

Since this "Keep-Fit" cereal is made with other parts of wheat, you get wholesome wheat nourishment as well.

Tomorrow, begin the regular use of Post's Bran Flakes. Nut-sweet — deliciously different. Serve for breakfast and in many other appetizing ways. You'll be delighted with this tested recipe. Try it.

A Product of General Foods

Grandest FIG* BRAN MUFFINS You Ever Tasted!

¾ cup milk
1 cup Post's Bran Flakes
½ cup finely cut dried figs*
1 cup sifted flour
3½ teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
3 tablespoons sugar
1 egg, well beaten
3 tablespoons melted butter or other shortening

• Pour milk over bran and let stand 5 minutes. Add ½ cup finely cut dried figs to bran mixture. Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder, salt, and sugar, and sift again. Add egg and butter to bran mixture and mix well. Add flour, beating only enough to dampen all flour. Bake in greased muffin pans in hot oven (425°F.) for 25 to 30 minutes. Makes 10 muffins.
*Prunes, dates or raisins may replace figs.

6—In Memoriams

GENGE—In loving memory of our dear son, Lorne, who passed away October 30, 1946.
October comes with sad regret,
Of one we will not forget.
Thy will be done seems hard to say,
When the one we loved was called away,
Things have changed in many ways,
But one thing changes never,
The memory of those happy days,
When we were all together.
—Lovingly remembered by Mom, Dad, sisters and brothers.

McILVENA—In loving memory of a dear daughter, who passed away Oct. 30, 1940.
However long our lives may last,
Whatever lands we view,
Whatever joy or grief be ours,
We will always think of you.
—Ever remembered by Daddy and Mother, Mr. and Mrs. T. Cooper.

Halt Attempt To Send Attache

OTTAWA, Oct. 30 (CP)—After weeks of negotiations, Canada has given up trying to get a new Canadian military attache into Communist-run Poland, it was disclosed today.

A spokesman for the external affairs department said he was authorized to reply to a reporter's query that "No Canadian military attache will be sent to Warsaw at this time."

There was no elaboration, but the inevitable conclusion was that the Poles have refused to budge from their refusal to allow Lt.-Col. H. A. (Buster) Phillips of Kingston, Ont., to go to Warsaw.

The Poles said they have no military attache here and thus Canada has no right to one in Warsaw. Canada's reply was that Col. Phillips was simply replacing Lt.-Col. E. W. Cutbill who was recalled. The argument has been going on since early September.

The army said Col. Phillips has been ordered home from London where he has been awaiting orders while diplomatic negotiations continued. He will be posted to another job on his return.

Admit Dana Wilgress To Freedom Of City

LONDON, Oct. 30—(CP)—L. Dana Wilgress, Canada's High Commissioner in London, today was admitted to the freedom of The City of London in a ceremony that goes back through the centuries.

The ancient honor, now largely symbolic, was conferred by the Chamberlain of London, Irving Gane, after Wilgress had signed the city's freedom book.

Application for the freedom was made through the Most Worshipful Rompany of Horners, a City company which formerly dealt in Horn drinking glasses. Wilgress became a freeman of the Horners last July.

The City is the oldest part of London and comprises about a square mile of offices in the business and financial centre.

Men Teachers Hear F. Burritt Smitheram

Educational psychology for children was the basis of a talk given Friday night to District 5 Public School Men Teachers' Federation by F. B. Smitheram of the Normal School.

He discussed the abilities of children to learn, and stressed the need for training pupils in the development of special abilities, such as the ability to apply principles, make inferences, and solve novel problems requiring initiative in the application of information.

Chairman of the meeting was Roy Neville, of Lindsay, president of District 5 of the Federation.

Caused Disturbance Man Fined $15

Pleading guilty to a charge of causing a disturbance by fighting in a Charlotte St. restaurant Sunday night, Clarence Neill, 466 Patterson St., was fined $15 and costs in police court today.

Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw told the court Neill broke several glasses and some shelves doing damage amounting to about $10. He also spilled coffee over a woman's white coat. It was estimated it would take another $10 to repair that damage. The crown said Neill had agreed to pay these costs.

Young Woman Held On False Pretences

Brought to Peterborough from Huntsville by Detective-Sergeant W. A. (Bud) Clarke and Constable Allen Edmison Saturday, Isabel Godfrey was charged today in police court with false pretences.

Police charge that Sept. 16 she obtained two suitcases containing a quantity of woman's clothing from a CPR express office by representing herself to be Kathleen A. Murphy, whose property the articles were.

She was remanded on $1,000 bail until Thursday without plea.

Washington's Negro Slums Said Worst In America

By JACK SCOTT

We have covered a lot of ground in the past six days, up with the foolish birds each morning, on the road all day, and now, some 1,500 miles south of New York, we've come to rest in New Orleans, where nobody gets up before noon.

From Washington, D.C., the route lay down through the pines of Virginia, across the tobacco and cotton-growing Carolinas, into Georgia, on to Talahassee, the capital of Florida, then around the spectacular rim of the Gulf of Mexico through Alabama and Mississippi and finally to this lovely old city of magnolias and jazz. More about New Orleans later on.

Washington is a fine place for the trailer tourist. There's a government camp for caravans right beside the Potomac River, where the Japanese Kwanzan cherry trees would be abloom if it were spring. Trailers from all states of the union, including Japan (not yet officially in the union) were drawn up like covered wagons in this compound while their owners worshipped at the shrine of the American way.

It is a very handsome city. Seeing Washington for the first time you marvel that any congressman or senator could come to this place and have anything but the noblest ideals.

An old gentleman from Cleveland, Ohio, whose trailer was next to ours, and who had spent all the daylight hours of two weeks wandering about the city, opined some sentiments along these lines. "They talk about the American dream," he said one night. "Well, we're a whole long way from it. But when you look around Washington it gives you fresh hope."

We felt this strongly ourselves. One night, very late, we climbed the many steps up to the Lincoln memorial where the craggy marble figure of Honest Abe sits bathed in a light from above. On one wall are the words of the Gettysburg Address. Mighty fine words they are, too.

Looking east from this small Parthenon your gaze takes in the whole of the floodlit Mall, the magnificent finger of the Washington Monument multiplying itself in the Reflecting Pool and, beyond, the klieg-lit dome of the Capitol. It is an inspiring sight even for a non-American. You can't help but admire the dream.

Not So Fine

Two aspects of Washington, however, are a blot on its face. The worst is the condition of the Negro population, said to be more than 30 per cent of the city's total and the largest proportionately, of any city in America.

It seems inconceivable that here, in Washington, where so much is a proud symbol of democracy, where equality is a word carved forever in the city's stone, that there should be such tragic examples of segregation.

You've doubtless read that Washington has some of the worst Negro slums in America. Until you've seen them for yourself, within a short walk of the White House, you can't realize the feeling of gloom they inspire. Reading the Gettysburg Address and seeing these Americans living in poverty and filth, both in the one day, is more than a little confusing.

The farther one comes into the south, of course, the more this puts a weight on the heart. When we saw our first sign on a restaurant, "Whites Only," we determined that we'd deny our patronage to such places. But as you drive south the signs disappear. The restrictions are too firmly established to need signs.

Washington's other problem is a glut of automobiles. More than a hundred thousand cars are driven into the city each day and the capital has more horseless carriages per square mile than any city in the world. Add to this the traffic of some three million tourists a year and you have a motorist's nightmare.

In the times of the heaviest commuting, morning and night, the broad streets of downtown Washington become clogged with traffic and produce some of the most harried, embittered cops I've ever seen. Needless to say, we nosed our trailer through this at the very time when all Washington was homeward bound. New York seemed like a one-horse town in comparison.

The problem is intensified in Washington, but it's the same in every large and middling-sized town we've visited, in Canada as well as the United States. One result is that the day of shopping "downtown" seems finished. The trend in every city is to establish the best stores out on the fringe and with parking lots of incredible size.

Long View

With the possible exception of the monument on Vimy Ridge, the Washington memorial is the most thrilling I've seen. There's an elevator trip every five minutes to the 500-feet level and the view from there is something to cherish.

As you ascend, a recorded voice gives a short lecture about the shaft. You learn that it's the highest masonry structure extant. That there are 898 steps to the top. That it was started in 1848, delayed by the war between the states, completed in 1885 at a cost of a million and a half dollars.

When the voice explained that the builders inadvertently used the best material in the portion least affected by strain and the weakest marble in the parts which carry the most weight, one of the wags in our car commented, "That's Washington, sure enough."

From the top there's a fine view of the Pentagon Building, across the Potomac in Virginia, where tens of thousands of War Department employees are at work building a huge war machine so that there won't be any war. That's Washington, too.

On viewing that greatest of all office buildings, one of the sightseers told the old joke about the Western Union messenger boy who went in to deliver a telegram and came out a lieutenant-colonel. Whereupon his companion told another Pentagon joke I hadn't heard before.

Seems that a very pregnant lady rushed up to one of the guards one day and cried: "Help me. I'm lost! I've got to find a way out of here. My baby is going to be born any minute."

Guard looked at the woman critically and said, "Lady, you should never have come in here in that condition."

"But officer," cried the lady, "When I came in I wasn't in this condition."

Car Backed Up

About $25 damage was done to a car when a truck backed up into it as the two vehicles were stopped for a red light at Hunter and George streets Saturday afternoon.

Police said Robert A. Piltz, 53 Victoria St., driver of the truck, had stopped too far out in the intersection. He started to back up and hit the left front fender of a car stopped behind him driven by Ernest Wiles, Toronto. Constable Harold Andrew investigated

Puerto Rico Torn By Uprising

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico, Oct. 30 (AP) — Nationalists clashed with police today at three towns, in a sudden outbreak which authorities said appeared to be part of an organized uprising.

Early reports said four persons —three Nationalists and a policeman—were killed and a number wounded. Reports reaching here said eight Nationalists were arrested.

Although the Nationalists follow much the same line in Puerto Rico as the Communists, there was no evidence that the Communists were involved in the outbreak. Both parties demand the complete independence of Puerto Rico from the United States. The island is a territory whose 2,000,000 population are U.S. citizens.

The clashes occured at Ponce, 50 miles southwest of San Juan, and the nearby town of Penuelas, both in the southern coastal area, and at Arecibo on the northern coast.

64 Criminals At Large

Meanwhile, sixty-four desperate criminals still were at large today after the island's worst prison break in history. A total of 111 prisoners shot their way out of Rio Piedras prison Saturday, killing two guards and injuring four others.

Prison officials said 47 had been recaptured but the two ringleaders and several other armed prisoners still were at large.

The break at the prison, about 10 miles from San Juan, occurred during the visiting hours. Prisoners stabbed a guard, grabbed his gun and seized ammunition from the prison arensal. They shot down a guard at the main gate but were unable to shoot off the lock. The fugitives finally escaped through the prison kitchen.

Nature Man, 80 Looks Half Age

COLLINGWOOD, Ont. (CP)— He's 80, looks 40 and expects to reach 110.

That's "man of nature" Alfred Staples who lives on a Spartan diet, walked 15 miles recently on his 80th birthday, married three times, has five children and says everybody could be healthy and free from disease if they would only live as nature intended.

He said in an interview he had never been ill in his life and 30 years from now still expects to be fit and active. He has studied "nature" for the last 60 years.

His day starts at 6 a.m. with a cold bath in a big tub in his backyard. He dries himself with his hands and never uses soap. Three glasses of water are taken before breakfast and he "chews every mouthful of water."

Breakfast consists of a cereal mixed by himself, containing wheat, oats, barley, rye and flax seed. Then comes a boiled egg, a slice of brown bread and a generous helping of fresh fruit. For lunch there are raw vegetables and soup. Supper is a boiled egg and more cereal.

He wears light clothing winter and summer. When it rains he wears a top coat to protect his suit.

Once he outlasted his pet dog on a two-weeks' sojourn in below-zero January weather on Blue Mountain. With the temperature dropping to 15 below, the dog gave up on the third day and left the out-door camp. Doctors proclaimed Staples fitter at the end of two weeks than when he started.

Helpless Cripple Returns To Society

MONTREAL —(CP)— The first patient to come under the care of the Quebec Society for Crippled Children now is back helping the group that gave him a chance for a normal life.

Cheerful, athletic Tony Shorgan is assistant to the executive secretary of the society. Made helpless by polio when he was only 18 months old, he was treated at irregular intervals. Then after two operations he was able to get around aided by braces.

With the death of his mother he found himself alone in a world that had little more than pity to offer to a nearly helpless cripple. The Society for Crippled Children was founded on Oct. 1, 1930 and nine-year-old Tony became the first of thousands to be taken under its wing.

At the society's summer camp Tony learned to swim, dive and take part in other sports. He became leader and now heads the recreational department.

An artistic talent which had shown itself in his earlier years led him to take a four-year course at the Academie des Beaux Arts, and this in turn led to a position as assistant art director in one of Montreal's large department stores.

But earlier this year he gave up this job to return to the society, this time as an executive.

Glasgow Pupils Pen Ideas About Canada

GLASGOW, Scotland—(CP)— To stimulate interest in Canada, approximately 50,000 Glasgow school children have been invited to write an essay on "what I want to see in Canada and why." The competition which has the support of the city's director of education, is being sponsored by the Canadian Club of Glasgow.

A panel of three judges, including an exchange teacher from Canada, will select the best entries and award three prizes donated by Dr. and Mrs. W. P. Soutter, members of the Canadian Club.

George Rennie, secretary of the club, said the idea of the contest was to promote keener interest in the Dominion whose history and development was so closely linked with Scotland. He hoped the competition would be established as an annual fixture.

Madoc Beats Marmora 16-5

MARMORA, Oct. 30 (ENS)— With a weakened team due to injuries, Marmora High School rugby team was defeated by Madoc on the Deloro grounds Friday evening by the score of 16-5.

Madoc commenced to score half way through the first quarter when Shadbolt got a touchdown. Marmora equalized the score a few minutes later as P. Nicholson scored.

In the second quarter, Shadbolt got his second touchdown while Locke garnered another point with a convert.

In the third quarter a further touchdown came to the visitors. Bell on the Marmora squad received an injury which put him out for the game.

A tea dance was held in Deloro Hall for the rival teams at the conclusion of the game.

Careless Driver Failed To Stop, Fined

Through interpreter Constable Edward Niziol, Frank Jusyczisk, Embro, pleaded guilty to a charge of careless driving and was fined $10 and costs in police court today.

The accused man told Constable Niziol that he wished to plead guilty as some of the evidence was being heard.

A witness, Fred Hughey, Lakefield, told the court he saw an accident happen at George St. and Parkhill Rd. Friday afternoon.

He said Jusyczisk, travelling west on Parkhill Rd., failed to stop at George St. where there is a stop sign. He said the accused man's car collided with a Bell Telephone truck which had been stopped on George St. and started up to go south.

Hughey told the court it appeared to him the driver of the truck thought the other driver would stop for the stop sign and so started ahead.

Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw said the accused man had limited means and he suggested a small $10 fine.

Marmora Area Council Elects Officers

MARMORA, Oct. 30—(ENS)— Officers of Stirling, Rawdon and Marmora Council of Chrfistian Education were re-elected at the annual convention held in Mount Pleasant United Church, Rawdon township. They are: honorary presidents, W. J. Cottrell and George Williams; immediate past president, Clayton Tummon; president, A. W. Drew; vice-president, Fred Houchin; secretary-treasurer, Harry Brown; department heads: temperance, J. F. Baker; children's work, Mrs. Stewart Hoover; boys' work, Harold Hazerman; girls' work, Mrs. Walter Elliott; young people's, Mr. Fred Beckett; home department, Mrs. Jason Baker; missionary, Mrs. Donald Heath; leadership, Rev. G. D. Young.

President's Welcome

The afternoon session opened with a welcome from the president and a worship period conducted by Rev. A. E. Baker, Stirling.

Harry Brown gave the treasurer's report showing a balance on hand of slightly more than six dollars. This was followed by brief reports on the condition of various Sunday schools embraced by the council.

The Rev. J. E. Griffith, of Castleton, representative of the Ontario Council of Christian Education, followed with a talk relating to the deliberations up to that point of the session under the caption of "The next step forward." The offering was then taken, after which the representative further discoursed on "When is a Sunday school evangelistic," and "Evangelism and Christian Education."

During the session committees were appointed as follows: resolutions, W. J. Cottrell, B. C. Tucker, Mrs. Hamilton Donnan, Mrs. Clifford Clancy and Mrs. Stewart Hoover; nominating, Rev. H. C. Vaclavik, Rev. G. D. Young, Rev. H. G. Beare, Mrs. Clifford Clancy, Mrs. Stewart Hoover, Fred Houchin, Mrs. Jason Baker, and Mrs. Donald Heath.

Supper was served in the church hall by ladies of the congregation. The evening session opened with worship conducted by Rev. H. E. Beare, Springbrook. A solo was rendered by Mrs. Ruth Linn.

Rev. J. E Griffith followed with the address of the evening, "Evangelism in the home," in which he urged a return to the old standard of home life where religion is given its true place.

German Sees Canada Good Industrial Bet

MONTREAL—(CP)—A former member of the Luftwaffe is convinced that Canada not only is a good industrial bet but a good place to educate his 13-year-old son.

Klaus Kapf arrived in Montreal recently to begin a business trip in Canada. He is head of a precision camera works in Munich. Ten years ago his factories and services were requisitioned by the German air force and he not only built aerial photography equipment but personally made tests to make sure the equipment was in good working order.

Later his home was burned and his factories smashed by Allied airmen. A prison term followed before he was cleared by a de-Nazification court. In two years he had his factories back to pre-war production.

He said he thought it a good idea to setle German technicians in other countries "and if all goes well I may bring a few camera technicians to Canada and set up a factory here."

"I would like to send my son to Canada to go to school for a few years," he said also. "And in exchange I would take a Canadian boy of the same age and show him Europe and Germany."

Patrick Houren

Funeral for the late Patrick Houren, 74, of 184 Lake St., was held today from his home to the Sacred Heart Church where requiem mass was said by the Rev. G. F. Sullivan. Pall-bearers were Edward Woods, Harry Summers, Anthony Marino, Leo Hobbins, William Houren and Mossy Castle. Graveside service was said by the Rev. V. J. Gillogly and burial was at St. Martin's Cemetery, Ennismore.

Russian Designs On Baltic Worry Swedish People

By GUSTAV SVENSSON

STOCKHOLM, Oct. 29 (AP)—A Russian master plan to transform the Baltic Sea into a "Stalin Lake" seems to be in full swing, according to many observers in this Baltic capital.

References to such Russian designs, appearing lately with striking frequency in the Swedish press, are mostly founded on a combination of recent Russian moves in the Baltic that seem to fit easily into a disquieting pattern.

The Swedes are clearly worried.

Control Straits

The plan envisions Russian control over the narrow straits between the European continent and the Scandinavian peninsula through which a considerable part of Russia's submarines must pass to reach the Atlantic in the event of another world war.

Russia already is pretty close to these vital outlets from the big inland sea where she keeps much of her navy.

In 1940 Russia held only a narrow 100-mile coastal strip at the botom of the Gulf of Finland. As a result of tremendous expansion on the Baltic in the last 10 years, the Soviet has virtual control of the whole Baltic coast, from formerly Finnish Viipuri to Luebeck. That brings Russia to considerably less than 100 miles away from the strait at several points.

Prepare Jump

Many military experts here agree that, in the event of a third world war, Russia is likely to jump immediately at the Baltic approaches to the Atlantic. They also believe that the Russians are wasting no time in preparing themselves for the jump.

While the details of Swedish press reports are difficult to verify, Swedish sources list these as known facts:

Moscow has sealed off the whole Baltic area to foreigners with the exception only of Leningrad.

A great naval expansion program—described by senior Swedish navy officers as far exceeding Russia's defensive needs—is being pushed at Russia's old and new shipyards on the Baltic.

Baltic Wall

Russia is rapidly constructing what has been described as a gigantic "Baltic wall" of coastal defence extending from the northern shore of the Gulf of Finland to the southern Baltic.

Reports in the Swedish press of large-scale combined V-weapon and radar manoeuvres in the Baltic area last summer, however, belong to the large category of unverified details.

Aids Wounded

OSLO (CP).—An initial shipment of 12 tons of surgical dressings, plus stretchers and other first-aid materials, is being sent by the Norwegian Red Cross to Korea. The contribution to the American Red Cross is expected to reach Yokohama about Dec. 20.

AMERICAN TROOPS are halted as an enemy land mine explodes north of Pyongyang where UN forces are mopping up Red guerillas. A knocked out enemy tank lies alongside road at left.

Prove Dogma By Bible Pope Challenged

LONDON, Oct. 30 —(AP)—The Protestant Alliance Friday made an offer to Pope Pius to embrace the Roman Catholic faith if he could prove by the Bible the bodily assumption of the Virgin Mary, as well as "the other errors of your church."

The Pope Nov. 1 will proclaim the new dogma that the Mother of Christ ascended physically as well as spiritually to heaven.

The proposed new dogma has drawn sharply-edged criticism from leading churchmen of the Church of England in Britain. The Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Geoffrey Fisher, and other leading Protestant ecclesiastics have asserted, as the Protestan Alliance does ,that the dogma will widen the breach between Rome and Canterbury.

The Alliance, one of the oldest Protestant Church societies in Britain, said there was no proof of the new doctrine in the Bible, that there is no trace of it in the history of the Christian Chodwearer the first six centuries and that it is not mentioned in the three early creeds of the Catholic Church.

Materialism, Godlessness Said Aim of Education

TORONTO, Oct. 30 —(CP)—Dr. Charlotte Whitton of Ottawa said last week that education in Canada is headed toward 'materialism and godlessness—the goals of Communism.

The writer and social worker, in an address to the Ontario Public School Trustees Association, deplored the lack of religious principles in non-Catholic schools.

The University of Toronto, she said, is "a godless provincial university."

The association was told earlier that the Ontario government has been giving "unduly large" grants to Roman Catholic separate schools. Representatives of 200 school boards adopted a committee report which said the grants were so disproportionate that " it is becoming almost a public scandal."

Against French

Another committee report warned against emphasis on the use of French in Ontario. Leslie Saunders of Toronto, honorary president of the association and sponsor of the report, said English is Ontario's official language " and we should fight to preserve it."

W. J. McCordic, business administrator for the East York Board of Education, said too many mediocre teachers are slipping into the Ontario school systems. He suggested a probation period longer than the present one year.

The ascociation adopted a resolution submitted by the Ottawa public school board, requesting the provincial education department to permit school boards to pay for milk for pupils.

Also approved was a Kitchener proposal to ask the highways department to impose a 20-mile-on-hour speed limit in front of schools or give municipal councils the right to do so.

Fire Will Kill 110,000 During Next 10 Years

TORONTO, Oct. 30 (CP)— Roi B. Woolley, of New York, assistant editor of Fire Engineering Magazine, estimated Friday that within the next 10 years fires will claim the lives of 110,000 Americans and Canadians, cripple or maim 225,000 others and cause $7,000,000,000 damage.

He told 150 Ontario municipal fire chiefs and deputy chiefs on a two-day training course at the University of Toronto that it is harder today to control major fires. This resulted from greater hazards, among them chemicals and explosives.

He urged that more effort be spent on fire offence rather than on defence. He recommended increased use of communication by short wave radio.

Ont. To Help Municipal Finances

TORONTO, Oct. 30 (CP)—Premier Frost Friday pledged his government's co-operation in working out the financial problems of municipalities and said a continuing provincial-municipal committee will be set up soon to study taxation fields.

The premier told a delegation from the Association of Ontario Mayors and Reeves the dominion government is considering the issue. Ontario would make further representations at the next dominion-provincial conference.

The delegation presented Mr. Frost with a petition asking that the provincial and federal governments jointly assume costs of indigent relief, public welfare—including hospital and institutional costs—education subsidization of housing, civil defence administration of justice.

The premier told the delegation he is ready at any time to confer with them on possible alterations to the tax structure.

Mayor Hiram McCallum of Toronto said the association is prepared to back Ontario in any petitions to the federal government asking for tax changes.

Fire In Ottawa Kills Elderly Invalid

OTTAWA, Oct. 30 —(CP)—A two-alarm fire resulted in death through asphyxiation of a 70-year-old invalid and left 14 persons homeless Friday night in Ottawa's lowertown district.

Odilon Archambault died in hospital following the blaze, which swept through a double tenement at 41-43 Cathcart St. A fireman, Capt. James Ingram, was treated at hospital for painful burns to his hands.

Four families were forced out by the fire, which caused damage estimated at $15,000.

Manslaughter Verdict In Love Triangle Death

SARNIA, Oct. 30 (CP)—A jury Friday found James Walter Clarke, 25-year-old Point Edward veteran, not guilty of murder but guilty of manslaughter in the love-triangle slaying of his pretty fiancee, Florence Anderson, last Aug. 13.

The jury, which entered a plea for leniency, deliberated five hours and 45 minutes. It returned once to the courtroom to request a review of Clarke's testimony under cross-examination.

Mr. Justice R. W. Treleaven remanded Clarke until Thursday for sentence. He told the jury, "I accept your verdict without any criticism."

Clarke, neatly dressed in a blue pin-stripe suit, heard the verdict without visible emotion.

Earlier today, Judge Treleaven had told the jury they must find the accused innocent if they believed his story that the shooting had been an accident.

Steel Shortage Hits Trips Over Falls

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Oct. 30 (CP)—Canada's steel shortage is putting a crimp in barrel trips over Niagara Falls.

Jiggs Rufrano of the Cataract Metal Works, who has a barrel on order for Leslie Sander, industrial designer, of New York, says he is having trouble getting steel.

Sander announced some time ago that he planned to go over the Horseshoe Falls in a barrel early next month.

Education Commission Reports 5 Years Work

TORONTO, Oct. 30 —(CP)—Ontario's Royal Commission on Education is ready to report to the government after more than five years of studying the province's educational system, it was learned Friday.

The commission, headed by Mr. Justice J. A. Hope, of the Ontario Supreme Court, is understood to have held its final meeting today in private.

The long report will be presented to Premier Frost and Education Minister Porter. It probably will be considered by the Ontario Legislature at its next session.

The 21-member commission has been the subject of frequent criticism because of the length of time it has spent on the survey. It held its first public hearing April 11, 1945, in Toronto.

Reds Fight Extension Of Lie's Term

India Joining U.S. In Support Of Re-Appointment

NEW YORK, Oct. 31—(AP)—Russia's Deputy Foreign Minister, Jakob A. Malik, launched a campaign in the U.N. General Assembly today against a three-year extension of the term of Secretary-General Trygve Lie.

Malik said the 60-country Assembly had no legal right to consider extending Lies term as asked by the United States.

A Soviet veto in the Security Council has prevented Lie's re-election to a new five-year term. In a series of meetings this month the council failed to agree on another candidate.

The United States insisted on Lie's retaining the $40,000-a-year office, contending that to dump him now would amount to surrender to a Soviet move to punish the Secretary-General for his support of the United Nations military action in Korea.

Before the Assembly was a resolution supported by the United States and 13 other countries to extend Lie's term for the three-year period after it expires next Feb. 2.

Likely Extend Term

The veto-free Assembly was expected to extend Lie's term following the debate.

Tradition decrees that Lie sit on a platform behind the speakers, where he will be able to hear the praise and blame heaped on him and delegates can watch his reactions.

Andrei Y. Vishinsky, Soviet Foreign Minister, gave reporters a review Monday of the anti-Lie tirade he expects to stage from the Assembly rostrum today.

At a press conference he called Lie a two-faced tool of the United States and said Russia would not deal with him if the outspoken Norwegian has his term extended by the General Assembly.

Vishinsky, however, did not threaten to quit the UN if Lie stays in office.

Vishinsky is expected to make his blast in opposing a resolution sponsored by 14 countries to extend Lie's term. This resolution notes that the Security Council could not agree on recommending a new candidate and asks the Assembly to extend Lie's term for three years.

Confirm Capture Of Chinese Red Soldiers

TOKYO, Oct. 31 (AP)—Gen. MacArthur's intelligence spokesman today confirmed the capture of 10 Chinese Communist soldiers in North Korea. But he said the presence of organized Chinese units has not been established definitely.

The spokesman said:

"There has not been a sufficient evaluation of reports from command sources in Korea to confirm that Chinese Communist forces in Chinese Communist organizations and under the direction of either North Korean or Chinese Communist general headquarters have taken part in this conflict."

Chinese soldiers were taken prisoner at Taechon, Unsan, Onjong and Taepyong, the spokesman said.

Strong Proof

Several facts pointed strongly to the possibility that the Chinese Reds have entered the Korean war and in force. They were:

1. The four areas where prisoners were captured are fairly widely separated.

2. Resistance has stiffened tremendously since Friday. The entire complexion of the fighting changed from a virtual parade to a set of battles resembling Seoul and Kumchon.

3. The sudden flurry of counter-attacks indicates that the North Koreans are again being directed from a general headquarters, that they have communications and that there is a definite plan of defence.

4. Intelligence did confirm that they have received reinforcements from somewhere. These might be "ghost units"—uncommitted reserves—of the North Korean army, the existence of which was suspected before but could not be confirmed, the spokesman said.

Jolliffe Calls On CCF To Fight Red Policies

The CCF party in Canada and socialist parties in countries throughout the world must lead the world in the fight against the influence and world domination policies of the USSR, E. B. Jolliffe, provincial leader of the CCF party said at a meeting of the Peterborough CCF Association Monday night.

Joseph W. Noseworthy, federal MP for South Work, also spoke at the meeting to remind CCF supporters the party must begin now to organize for provincial election which will be held next year or the year following.

Mr. Jolliffe said the battle for world influence being waged at the moment with such intensity in the Far East could not be won by false and spurious democracy. It could only be won by democracies socialist in character, which worked to put an end to the exploitation of the weak by the strong, racial discrimination and the other ills of so many nations today.

Appeal To Oppressed

Russia has had an appeal to the world's oppressed people which German Nazism never had in its quest for power. Russia's appeal was false, but nevertheless real to many peoples, especially to those victims of colonial exploitation and capitalist exploitation as much as to the colored victims in Africa and throughout the East of racial discrimination.

Never in the history of the world had there been as strong a military dictatorship as there was now in Russia. Only through the efforts of members of the CCF and all other progressively-thinking people in the world could Russia's bid for world domination be cut short.

He thought Canada and other countries of the west must have mighty armaments, but they must also have "the power of example." They must show the peoples of the world and particularly those of the East democracy means an end to exploitation of every kind and an end to discrimination.

Would End Inflation

In the narrower field of national problems, an end of exploitation meant at the moment the finish of an uncontrolled inflationary period in which the cost

Steel Workers Go On Strike

MONTREAL, Oct. 31 (CP). — More than 1,000 employees of Canadian Tube and Steel Products, Ltd., today went on strike at 7 a.m. EST after last-minute negotiations failed Monday.

Members of the United Steel Workers of America (CCL-CIO) the workers struck to back wage and hour demands made to the company 14 months ago when their old contract expired.

There were few pickets around the plant this morning. The majority of employees were attending a union meeting called just before the strike deadline.

Union Objective

The union is seeking a $1.05 hourly minimum, 44-hour work week, union security clause and a pension plan. Present basic hourly salary is 93 cents.

Their contract expired Nov. 7, 1949, and negotiations had been started two months previously.

All company offers had been rejected by the workers so far. Management made its last offer Monday but the workers turned it down, claiming it was a reduction of an offer made last week.

The company is a subsidiary of Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation.

Rangers File Protest On Canadien Goal

NEW YORK, Oct. 31 (CP) — New York Rangers today filed a protest with the National Hockey League on a goal awarded to Montreal Canadiens in their 2-2 tie game with the Rangers Sunday night.

The protest claims that Referee George Gravel erred in awarding a goal to the Canadiens' Calum Mackay in the ninth minute of the third period while Rangers were leading 2-1.

The Rangers claim that at the time goalie Chuck Rayner was lying prostrate with a deep cut in his head suffered in a collision with Montreal forward Frank King, and that King was in the goal crease.

The NHL rule book says a goal shall not be allowed if a player of the attacking team not in possession of the puck shall be inside the goal crease.

The Rangers also claim that Gravel should have halted the play because of Rayner's accident. Five stitches were required to close his wound.

Two Chinese Divisions Said Fighting

Southern Koreans Badly Shattered Trying To Regroup

SEOUL, Nov. 1—(Wednesday)—(AP)—Two fast-moving U.S. columns crashed through North Korean defences at widely-separated points Tuesday in a concerted effort to reach the Manchurian border some time today.

On the west a tank column sliced within 32 road miles of the Manchurian border town of Sunaju.

The U.S. 7th Division, which landed at Iwon on the East Coast Sunday, drove swiftly northeast. Aerial reports to Eighth Army headquarters said the Division reached Pungsan, 40 air miles south of the Manchurian border town of Hyesanjin. Headquarters said leading elements of the 7th hoped to reach that border town today.

Farther up the east coast, South Korean infanrymen punched 22 miles beyond occupied Songjin, and entered the railroad centre of Kilchu on the main coastal line leading to Soviet Siberia.

Kilchu is only 62 air miles south west of Songjin, the last big Korean port south of the Soviet Siberian border.

Drive Slackens

The drive of two Communist divisions, reported to be made up mainly of Chinese, toward the industrial centre of Hamhung slackened 25 miles short of that objective. Hamhung is 120 air miles to the rear of the South Koreans at Kilchu.

Chinese Communists were helping the North Koreans; how many no high Allied official would say. A captured Red Korean officer said two Chinese divisions were attacking in northeast Korea.

In Tokyo, an intelligence officer at Gen. MacArthur's headquarters confirmed the capture of 10 Chinese Reds in North Korea but said the presence of organized Chinese units had not been established definitely.

Waiting Statement

He said headquarters is awaiting a positive statement from high Allied field commanders. The officer acknowledged that the Korean Reds are getting help from somewhere, but added that it might be from North Korean "ghost" units held in reserve during the fall of Pyongyang, the Red capital.

"The continued appearance of tanks in these dwindling forces indicates the enemy still is getting these supplies from across the

FDR's Son-in-Law Leaps To Death

NEW YORK, Oct. 31 (AP) — John Boettiger, 50, former son-in-law of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt, plunged to his death today from the seventh floor of an exclusive Manhattan hotel.

Police said he had been in a depressed state of mind for several days and was under the care of a male nurse.

They said he awakened this morning, asked to have the window opened wide, and then hurled himself out.

Boettiger, a life-long newspaperman, was the divorced husband of the late president's only daughter, the former Anna Roosevelt Dall, mother of Sistie and Buzzie Dall.

Boettiger and Anna had one child of their own before the divorce, John Boettiger, Jr.

Boettiger was a political reporter for The Chicago Tribune assigned to cover Roosevelt's second campaign tour when he met the president's daughter.

The romance blossomed quickly. Boettiger left the Tribune and after the marriage became publisher of the Seattle Post-Intelligencer, one of the Hearst papers.

King Pledges Government Will Push Rearmament to Avoid War

LONDON, Oct. 31—(CP)—The King opened a new session of parliament today with mediaeval pageantry and the speech from the throne pledged the Labor government to strive "by all means in their power" to ensure successful rearmament to avoid war. The King rode in state through crowded London streets, with an escort of red-coated Household Cavalry, to convene what may be the last session of parliament under Prime Minister Attlee's second Labor government. Attlee may close it with a new general election. The speech from the throne, prepared by Attlee and his colleagues and read by the King, disclosed that legislation will be introduced to:

1. Nationalize the beet sugar part of the sugar industry.

2. Give the government permanent powers to regulate production, distribution and consumption of goods and to control prices.

3. Reform the leasehold laws to postpone expiration of 99-year leases of thousands of British homes and buildings.

4. Develop civil defence measures.

5. Expand home food production because of the "disturbed international situation."

Big Target

The demand for permanent power to regulate the country's economy by decree will provide the Conservatives with one of their big targets. The Conservatives have called such proposals the first step toward a police state.

Although the Conservatives have opposed all kinds of nationalization, it is considered unlikely that they will try to make much of a case against the government move to put the sugar-beet industry under state control. The industry already is operated by a government-subsidized monopoly established by a pre-war Conservative government.

More Sacrifices

The throne speech said that despite "untiring" efforts by the British peoples and their allies toward the "attainment of enduring world peace . . . the world is once more troubled with the menace of war."

"The avoidance of war remains the supreme desire of my ministers, and under this new peril they will seek by all means in their power to ensure the success

Communist China Surprised At Invasion Expresses Regret To Indian Protest

NEW DELHI, Oct. 31 (AP). — An Indian government spokesman said today that Communist China has replied to India's note expressing surprise and regret at the invasion of Tibet by Chinese Communists.

A Chinese note, the spokesman said, had been handed India's asbassador to Peiping, K. M. Panikkar, and was expected here today or tomorrow.

India's policy on the invasion then would be formulated on the basis of the reply, the spokesman added.

At Kalimpong, India, reliable sources said delay in reaching Chinese-Tibetan agreement on future relations between the two countries arose over a Chinese proposal to station a "token force" in Tibet.

The proposal was said to have been made to the Tibetan delegation which arrived here Monday after talks with the Chinese ambassador in New Delhi.

The delegation was believed to have accepted during the talks a proposal for "nominal suzerainty" of the Peiping government over Tibet, but could not commit the Tibetan government to a proposal to station a Chinese force in the Tibetan capital.

Box Cars Piled Up All Over As Freight Rams Local

WOODSTOCK, Oct. 31—(CP)—A westbound C.N.R. freight smashed into a local here Monday night, killing one man and piling wrecked freight cars up for hundreds of yards. Almost instantly killed when a box car fell on him was R. C. Valentine, 27, of East Hamilton, a brakeman on Local 415, one of the trains involved in the collision.

The local was coming out of a siding onto the main line when the through freight, bound for Sarnia, plowed into it.

Valentine was standing beside the local with another brakeman, Carma Norris, just before the crash. Norris said he saw the light of the freight and yelled "Hey Val, we'd better start running." Norris said he headed across the coal pile but Valentine didn't get away in time. Workmen dug for two hours beneath the overturned box car before Valentine's body was recovered.

The twisted tracks were torn up and huge wheels were scattered about as if by a giant hand. The engine of 491 struck just behind the first car of local 415 and scattered the remaining 10 or 12 cars all over the two-line track.

Three box cars were piled almost end on end with one rolling down a steep embankment; another rolled off the trestle over Butler Street and smashed to the pavement some 30 or 50 feet below. There was no traffic on the street at the time.

The wreck, happened three blocks west of the CNR station, immediately behind a mill. The metal loading shed was shattered by the leaping box cars, although it was some 10 to 15 feet away.

The through-freight contained 63 box cars.

The main line of the CNR was completely blocked and traffic re-routed through Stratford.

Stop Requisition Of Ont. Cheese

OTTAWA, Oct. 31 (CP).—The Agriculture Department today announced that it will stop requisitioning cheddar cheese in Ontario and Quebec Wednesday, even though the 1950 AngloCanadian cheese contract is not filled.

An official said the department took the action because Canadian cheese stocks were rapidly becoming depleted and there were almost insufficient quantities in Canada to meet domestic needs.

He predicted that Canada would ship only about 55,000,000 or 60,000,000 pounds of cheese to the United Kingdom this year, under a contract which calls for a minimum shipment of 70,000,000 and a maximum of 84,000,000.

The requisitioning move was made earlier this year in order to obtain sufficient stocks to fill the contract.

The department said that the dairy products board has exempted from its requisitioning order all cheddar cheese manufactured in Ontario and Quebec—the two main cheese-producing provinces—on and after Nov. 1.

All cheddar produced in these provinces previous to Nov. 1 must be delivered to licensed warehouses for shipment to the U.K.

"Beginning Nov. 1," said the department, "factories are free to manufacture cheese and dispose of it on the local market."

U.S. To Purchase Secret Explosive

OTTAWA, Oct. 31 — (CP). — The United States has boosted defence purchasing in Canada with the placement of a $2,100,000 order for a highly-secret explosive, it was learned today.

The explosive is picrite, used in the production of ammunition. It will be produced for the United States in a Welland company.

Little has been disclosed about the explosive which helps drive the shell out of a gun. Though used extensively during the last war, it is believed here that not all of the secrets of the explosive are known to the Russians.

Planes, Infantry Attack Rebel Forces

Puerto Rico Rebellion Worst In Island's History, Casualties High

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico, Oct. 31 (AP)—National Guard forces, determined to smash remaining resistance of U.S.-hating Nationalist rebels, drove insurrectionist forces out of their stronghold at Jayuya today in a combined attack by strafing planes and troops.

The government troops began mopping up pockets in Jayuya, a centre of the Nationalist revolt which erupted Monday and sent spearheads toward Utuado, about 10 miles to the west, where a force of about 60 or 70 die-hard Nationalists were dug in.

The casualty toll for the uprising—worst in the island's history—rose today. It was difficult to estimate the number of dead and wounded. Latest reports indicated the figure for both sides at about 30 dead and 25 wounded, but it may be higher.

Jayuya, about 50 miles southwest of San Juan, was the scene of some of the bloodiest of the fighting in the rebellion, which the governor of Puerto Rico said was a conspiracy helped by the Communist line, want the United States to give full independence to this territory of 2,000,000 population.

The government forces opened their attacks on Jayuya and Utuado early this morning. Eight planes strafed the two towns before they were ordered by the insular police chief to stop. The ground forces were equipped with machine-guns, bazookas and tanks.

Leads Rebel Forces

The rebel forces in Jayuya were reported to be led by Juan Antonio Corretjer, principal aide of Harvard-educated Pedro Albizu Campos, the Nationalist party chief.

The rebels felled trees across highways leading into Jayuya and awaited the assault of troops which was expected at dawn. Jayuya was reported virtually destroyed by fire.

The situation at Utuado, a town of 6,000 six miles northwest of Jayuya, also was confused. The government had no communications with the town and did not know what was happening there.

The area around Albizu Campos' home in San Juan resembled an armed camp. Police and guardmen surrounded the house and were waiting for a warrant before going in to drag out the 63-year-old Nationalist leader. He advocates complete independence from the United States and once served six years in the penitentiary at Atlanta, Ga., for insurrection.

Premature Revolt

This Caribbean island, which has an area of about 3,500 square miles and a population of more than 2,000,000 is administered by a representative government, headed by an elected governor It elects a resident commissioner at Washington who has a voice in the House of Representatives, but no vote.

The revolt, which apparently had been planned for the eve of the Nov. 4 registration for a vote on the island's new constitution. broke out prematurely Monday at Ponce on the south coast.

Civil Aviation Geared For War—Chevrier

Plan Prepared If Emergency Suddenly Arises, Call Up Reserve Men

SEIGNIORY CLUB, Que., Oct. 31—(CP) — Transport Minister Chevrier said today that basic plans already exist to gear Canada's $40,000,000-a-year civil aviation industry to the needs of war should an emergency arise.

The minister in an address prepared for delivery to a convention luncheon of the Air Industries and Transport Association said he was not in a position to give details of what would happen should war come.

But he was satisfied that civil aviation had worked out with the military "a satisfactory basis for consultation" to weld the industry to the war effort. It would follow these lines:

1. Air force reserve men, now in civil aviation, would be called up for RCAF service, but apart from that, "wholesale denuding of the key personnel of essential civil air operations would not be in accord with wartime needs."

2. Surplus civil aircraft probably would be taken over by the R.C.A.F.

3. Civil airlines operators probably would be called on to take part in any necessary military airlift operations, just as Canadian Pacific airlines now were transporting military personnel across the Pacific on a charter basis.

4. The wartime system of priority in airline travel would be reinstated and "plans for such a system under the control of of the Air Transport Board are well advanced."

Airport Policy

Mr. Chevrier also dealt with the government's policy on airports and airways and said that income of less than $17,000,000 from all domestic air services in Canada in 1945 had grown by 125 per cent to $40,000,000 last year.

The revenues of the government operated airline—Trans-Canada Airlines—for the first six months of this year were up 18 per cent from $12,000,000 to $14,000,000. An operating deficit during the first six months of 1949 of $1,000,000 was converted into a small profit.

The objective of Canada's airports and airways policy, he said, was the continued development of main airways systems together with provision of airports to serve local needs, but which do not lie on the main routes.

In assisting development of smaller airports, the government would extend grants-in-aid conditional on adequate local participation.

On Wrong Side Met Police Car Fined $15, Costs

Meeting a police cruiser face to face while he was driving on the wrong side of an Ennismore township road Sept. 30 cost Michael Twomey, Ennismore, $15 and $3.75 costs when he was found guilty in police court today of a charge of careless driving.

Corporal Lloyd McClure said that while driving with Constable David Coffey he met Twomey at the brow of the hill. He said both cars swerved to their right and avoided an accident.

The police cruiser turned around and followed Twomey's car about a mile and a half. It weaved from side to side on the road and the police had difficulty in pulling alongside to get it to stop.

Question of Intoxication

Corporal McClure said Twomey was intoxicated, but Twomey told him he was sick and had been consultnig a doctor that day. Because of this, said the officer, "I gave him the benefit of the doubt."

Constable Coffey said as they pulled alongside the Twomey car, someone threw a bottle from the car. When he recovered it, he found it was a beer bottle partly filled. Evidence was that there were other partly filled bottles in the car.

"I don't consider that I was tight," said Twomey. He told the court he had four or five drinks of beer during the afternoon while he was in Peterborough consulting a doctor.

He said his car may have appeared to weave about the road because the road was rough and narrow and "I was trying to dodge what holes I could."

Higher Food Prices Predicted For U.S.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31 (AP). —Higher food prices—maybe the highest ever—are in prospect for next year, the United States Agriculture Department said today.

In a report on the U.S. food situation the department foresaw "reinforced pressure" on prices in the spring and declared:

"Accelerated consumer demand for food, unless checked by anti-inflationary measures or other developments, could push food prices by mid-year up to and even above the record level of the summer of 1948."

Livestock Lost In Barn Fire

PICTON, Oct. 31. — Eighteen head of livestock perished in a fire which destroyed a large barn on the James Lloyd farm, near Bloomfield Monday afternoon.

When the blaze was first noticed by a married daughter, Mrs. Beatrice Mindle, the barn was on fire from top to bottom and although neighbors responded quickly to the call for help, they were unable to rescue the trapped animals. These included three horses, a Holstein bull, six full-grown hogs and eight small pigs.

The barn was filled to capacity with 45 tons of hay and 1,700 bushels of grain. Two near-by machine sheds and most of the farm machinery were also lost, but district farmers, aided by Bloomfield fire department saved the house.

Mr. Lloyd, a veteran of the First World War and his son James William, veteran of the Second World War, were both away at the time of the fire's outbreak. Loss is estimated at more than $7,000.

Manchurian border," he said.

(Unconfirmed reports to Formosa, Chinese Nationalist island stronghold, said the Chinese Red 118th and 119th Divisions of Red Gen. Lin Piao's fourth army corps were fighting in Korea. National ist officials said the reports probably were true.)

Nearing Border

The U.S. 24th Division column skirted the Commonwealth 27th Brigade and raced northwest from Chongju through Sonchon to a point 33 road miles south of the border.

The Americans are driving toward Sinuiju, in extreme northwest Korea and across the Yalu River boundary from Antung, Manchuria. They captured Sonchon easily at noon Tuesday and pushed six miles beyond.

Sonchon is 17 miles northwest of Chongju, a rail and highway hub captured earlier in the day by the Commonwealth Brigade, made up of British and Australian troops, after fierce street fighting.

Close fighter plane support was given both forces.

On the 27th's right flank, to the northwest, the 24th Division's 5th Regiment captured Kusong, 34 air miles south of the Yalu. After a two-day battle the Americans entered the town in the wake of a bombing by six medium bombers. Kusong is one of the main gateways to the border.

Try To Salvage Division

On the 5th Regiment's right flank, the U.S. 1st Cavalry Division, rushed tanks and artillery to salvage what was left of the Republic of Korea 6th Division south of Onjong.

Most of the South Korean 6th and the badly-mauled 8th divisions were reported trying to regroup at Kujang, 18 miles east of Onjong and at Tokchon, 30 miles to the southeast.

A U.S. eighth army spokesman said one Communist regiment was counter-attacking southwest from Onjong and that another had retaken Huichon. He said five Red attacks in 12 hours were thrown back northwest of Unsan, with Communist dead "stacked up."

The South Korean 6th division's 7th regiment, which pushed all the way to the Manchurian border last week north of Onjong, was reported trying to make its way across mountains to rejoin other Republican forces south of Onjong. It has been cut off several days.

Have Scores of Tanks

Field dispatches and MacArthur's war summary indicated the Reds had thrown scores of tanks and heavy guns into the fighting in all sectors.

Twenty-four Red tanks were reported knocked out on the northwest front, from Chongju to Unsan.

In northeast Korea, scenes of action resembled an explosive checkerboard. Red forces—reported to be made up mostly of Chinese—were assaulting a virtually-surrounded South Korean regiment at Sinhung, only 25 miles northwest of the industrial east-coast city of Hamhung.

India Backs Majority

The U.S. was reported to be extremely gratified that India—which has supported Russian moves to find a compromise candidate during Security Council debates—had swung over to the majority view.

The Council was tied up for three weeks as the east-west giants tested their strength in the struggle over Lie.

When the present secretary general was nominated for another five years in his $40,000 a year job, he won a 9-1 victory. But that lone negative vote was a Russian veto and the Council was deadlocked.

It reported that fact to the veto-free General Assembly, which prepared to vote Lie an extension of his term.

Industrials Sagging On Toronto Exchange

TORONTO, Oct. 31 — (CP) — Industrials sagged as the session progressed on the Toronto Stock Exchange today.

Profit taking losses that ranged to a point appeared over a broad front in continuation of yesterday's final hour selling wave.

Papers led the decline following news that Abitibi had reduced its $10 newsprint increase to $6. Steels, refining, oils, liquors, banks, textiles, and retail stores showed a majority of losses. Utilities, agricultures, constructions, and foods tended to be mixed and manufacturing companies managed to show more gains than lossse.

Western oils lost heavily. A wide list of leaders declined up to 20 cents.

Base metals were mixed with half of the key issues losing up to 75 cents and the other half gaining up to 50 cents. Senior and junior golds drifted lower. Bralorne, Hollinger and Lake Shore declined in the senior group. A wide list of junior producers lost pennies. Lake Fortune and Quesabe traded the most actively to remain almost unchanged.

Expect Britain Lift Barriers

OTTAWA, Oct. 31 (CP).—Finance Minister Abbott said Monday that Canada hopes and expects the United Kingdom will remove restrictions on Canadian trade just as soon as Britain's dollar and gold reserves are considered adequate.

He declined to express an opinion as to whether he considered Britain's reserves, reported to total $2,760,000,000 on Sept. 30, were adequate for such a purpose.

"That is up to the United Kingdom to decide," Mr. Abbott said, "just as it is up to Canada to decide whether its reserves are sufficient to remove restrictions on dollar trade."

Mr. Abbott was commenting on a dispatch from Washington in which a U.S. Treasury official indicated that he believed Britain and other Commonwealth countries now are in a position to remove such restrictions, imposed in a sweeping austerity move in July, 1949.

William McChesney Martin, assistant U.S. Treasury secretary, said in a speech before the 37th national foreign trade convention that the Commonwealth's reserves for the sterling area on Sept. 30 were double what they were when the pound was devalued a year ago.

"These improved positions should make possible a progressive relaxation of restrictions against dollar purchases," he said.

of the measures for rearmament which they have taken," the speech declared, continuing:

"The necessary increases in production for defence will call for further efforts and sacrifices, but I am confident that the unfailing support of all my loyal subjects, the nation will be enabled to play its full part in the defence of freedom and the preservation of peace."

Co-operative on Treaties

The speech also included a pledge of continued co-operation with the signers of the North Atlantic and Brussels treaties "to strengthen the North Atlantic treaty organization, to improve the defence of the North Atlantic area and thus to achieve security against attack."

Of Korea, where forces, "for the first time under the flag of United Nations, are overcoming the invaders," the speech said "the success of this historic action . . . marks a decisive moment in world affairs, and is arousing fresh hopes of achieving a united, free and democratic Korea."

"It has already given proof of the ability of the United Nations to meet a threat to world peace," he added.

Aid Backward Countries

The government, the speech said, "also support strongly" specialized U.N. agencies seeking to improve living standards in "impoverished or backward countries." Consulting with the Commonwealth governments, it added the government would further plans for "promoting the economic development of south and southeast Asia."

The permanent control powers the government seeks would make permanent the arbitrary powers of control passed during the Second World War.

These control powers would be sought "to defend full employment, to ensure that the resources of the community are used to best advantage and to avoid inflation." They would be "subject to appropriate parliamentary safeguards," the speech added.

Expect Wage Boost

REGINA, Oct. 31 (CP) — Dominion civil servants will probably get salary increases next January, Fred Knowles, national secretary of the Amalgamated Civil Servants of Canada, said at a weekend meeting here of federal employees. Mr. Knowles said he did not know how much the wage boost will be.

Reject Report

OTTAWA, Oct. 31 (CP) — The Ottawa Transport Commission Monday rejected the recommendations of a majority report by a federal conciliation board urging a 15-cents-an-hour increase next January for the Ottawa tram and bus system's 750 employees.

Jolliffe Calls

of living for citizens spiralled every month while large businesses recorded the largest profits they ever made in the histories of their companies.

He said findings of the provincial Department of Agriculture showed that while housewives were paying more for their food in October than they did in the same month last year, farmers on the average received a smaller income than they did for the same month a year ago.

A period of inflation gave speculators, big businesses and monopolists the chance to boost prices just as high as possible, Mr. Jolliffe called for the immediate return of price controls in Canada to put an end to the hardships under which Canadian people were living.

He told his audience that last week while in Ottawa he learned what the real government opinion was on price controls. Officially the policy still is not controls, but government departments are preparing for them. The government recognizes there is some demand for return to controls and that demand, if increased, may have to be met.

Weak Leadership

However, if President Truman successfully reimposes price controls in the United States, Canada will adopt them overnight.

"That's a pathetic confession: A very weak type of leadership," commented Mr. Jolliffe.

Walter Denisen, president of the Peterborough CCF Association, was chairman at the meeting.

Atlantic Pact Members Hold Extra Session

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31 (AP). —Military leaders of Atlantic Pact countries went into an extra session today in an effort to work out the final form for organizing a mutual defence force in western Europe.

Apparently prolonged discussion of the much-debated proposal for German participation in the plan had delayed the work of the defence committee, preventing scheduled termination of the meeting Monday night.

Witness Says Suspect Not Bank Thief

DUNDAS, Oct. 31 (CP). —An 84-year-old man testified in County Magistrate's Court today that Earl Miller of North Bay was not one of the two armed men who robbed him and the Bank of Commerce branch in Binbrook of approximately $15,000 in cash and bonds on Sept. 6.

George Beer of Binbrook, Ont., said he could positively identify one of the two men who robbed him "by his hands." Miller was asked to show his hands to the Binbrook implement dealer who said that Miller's hands "were much too large."

Police have said that Miller, arrested in North Bay, is connected with the $500,000 safe breaking ring which has been operating in Ontario for the last few months.

Miller pleaded not guilty to retaining bonds alleged to have been stolen from the Binbrook bank.

Five other alleged members of the same gang were remanded until Nov. 13 for trial in Hamilton. They are Steve Burtnick, Leonard Bernhardt, Harry Elnick, Doris Mizzau and June Cunningham.

Asks Money Back

John White, counsel for all the accused but Burtnick, asked that the car and money confiscated by police when they arrested the accused be returned to them until a decision is reached by the court.

Harvey McCulloch, Crown counsel, said that a similar set of circumstances surrounded the Dick trial a few years ago. Money which was deposited in banks by the accused was held by the crown until the company claiming the money took out an injunction "freezing" it in the accounts. Mr. McCulloch said that the same thing should apply here. He said that he felt certain that certain $10 bills can be identified by their serial numbers if they are part of the loot from the Binbrook bank.

Needs Evidence

In refusing counsel White's request, Magistrate Robinson said: "what right have I to do such a thing before evidence has been submitted."

Beer told of the events leading up to the robbery of the bank and of his own safe. He said that the two men entered his home and roused him. They took him downstairs and told him to open his safe and if he obeyed he would not be harmed.

Beer said he had a good look at one of the men's hands. This was his most vivid recollection of the men. He could remember the hands.

The case is continuing.

Ayrhart Denies Rumor; Not Leaving

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 31 (ENS)—Mayor J. E. Ayrhart has no intention of leaving Campbellford, now or in the forseeable future. This was made clear Monday evening, when the Examiner interviewed Mr. Ayrhart during one of his flying visits to the town.

Rumour has it that Campbellford's millionaire mayor intends to move from the town, and to clarify this point Mr. Ayrhart was asked just what his intentions were.

"This has been one of the most progressive years the town has seen," said Mr. Ayrhart. "We have a fine hard working council, and much has been accomplished. Although business makes it necessary for me to be away most of the time recently, I have no intention of pulling my roots out of Campbellford. I tried it once and came back. That was when I was in Vancouver."

After a brief council meeting on Monday evening, Mayor Ayrhart climbed into his car for a fast trip to Montreal, his base of operations in the Chibougamau district of Quebec.

BEVERLEY WEDS — Beverley Van Horne, last spring's runaway heiress, hit the news again Friday when she married James Robert Beattie of St. Jovite, Que. — without telling the Montreal social set. Last spring the bride — then a McGill University student — disappeared and was found after a widely-publicized search, working in a Vancouver restaurant. Mrs. Beattie is a great-grand-daughter of Sir William Van Horne, famed Canadian railroad builder. The couple are shown just after their quiet wedding at St. Patrick's Church in Montreal.

Farewell Party Held For Emily Couple

DOWNEYVILLE, Oct. 31 (ENS) —A farewell party was held recently for Mr. and Mrs. Bob Robertson at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Eldon Cameron of Lindsay.

A presentation was made to the Robertsons on behalf of their former neighbours. The Robertsons sold their farm north of Downeyville, and have moved to Lindsay.

They received an end table, a lamp and mirror from their neighbors.

People Of Seoul Appear Cheerful Amid Ruins Of Devastated City

By O. H. P. KING.

SEOUL, Oct. 31 (AP). — This capital city of Korea today is an enigma. Its people appear contented amid ruins such as few cities even in the path of war know.

Shots still ring out at night—and there is no explanation, only speculation. Business is moribund. The wheels of industry are idle, too many cogs are missing.

The Communists abducted them—the technicians, mechanics and artisans on whose skills a city depends for its modern comforts.

Ruin and devastation sit on the city like an oppressive monarch.

The vast majority of business buildings are nothing but four walls, gutted by Communist-set fires or burned out by allied air and ground fire.

Too Much Confusion

A photo shop is open for business but without film or printing paper.

Nearby is a glass shop—with glassless windowpanes.

Plastered on the wall of a ruined building is a poster: "Hail to the victory of U.N. forces."

There is a hustle and bustle in the streets, but it is the stirring of restless people, not the tides and eddies of business activity.

Most merchants whose stores are open lack stocks and customers. They cannot make plans in the confusion that swirls in the wake of war.

Everything is not dead. Sidewalk vendors are plentiful. Their stands are stocked with cigarettes, chewing gum, candy and other items of unmistakable origin—the U.S. armed forces.

United Nations officials, U.S. State Department representatives, Economic Co-operation Administration workers and military officers are seeking to restore the Korean economy.

But progress is slow; the pessimistic say it will be 20 years before Seoul returns to her pre-war condition.

Nevertheless, the citizens appear to be cheerful.

There is rice for today, and enough for tomorrow and the next day. Perhaps there will be enough to last through the winter and into late spring.

Hastings WA Holds Church Social Evening

HASTINGS, Oct. 31 (ENS) — Group Three of the Women's Association of Trinity United Church, held a social evening in the church parlours. Rev. N. Cole acted as chairman.

Mr. Burke of Omemee showed some very interesting and beautiful pictures in color, that he had taken around Lindsay and Peterborough district, Algonquin Park, Niagara Falls and Florida.

The saxophone band of the Salvation Army band from Peterborough under the leader ship of Bandmaster Jerry Routley was introduced by Major C. Everitt.

The band played the following selections: "Deeds of Valour", "Cross and Crown", "South Pacific", "Song of Love" and 'London Bridge". The male quartette, A. Burnham, L. W. Humphries, Cliff Scriver and F. Crate sang two numbers.

Major Everitt then played two piano solos. The ladies of Group Three served lunch.

Emma Jane Bendelow

The funeral for Emma Jane Bendelow, R.R. 1, Ida, who died Friday was held Monday at the Comstock Funeral Home. The Rev. E. F. Linstead of Fairmount United Church conducted the service.

The pallbearers were Lloyd Hooton, Roy Hooton, Sid Connel, Walter Bowles, Walter Brown and Jim Trotter. Burial was in Ninth Line Cemetery, Cavan.

School Holds Party

BETHANY, Oct. 31 (ENS). — School pupils of Ballyduff with their teacher, Miss Christella Rowan of Bethany arranged a successful Hallowe'en masquerade party for the neighborhood in the school room. Music for dancing was supplied by Mrs. L. Richardson, Pontypool, and Messrs. Levi McGill, Creighton Carr and Morley McGill of Bethany. Prizes for fancy costumes were awarded to Miss Eleanor Whittaker of Peterborough; Mrs. Lloyd Clark, Miss Wilma Ransberry, Miss Marie Carr. Prizes for school children in costume were won by Leona Mitchell, Beverly Curtis, Sandra Gibson and Florence Curtis.

Shells Litter Beach

FLORENCE, Ore., Oct. 31 — (AP).— Hand grenades and mortar shells littered more than a mile of beach near this Oregon coastal town today. Coastguardsmen set up a watch to keep beach visitors out of danger. The explosives, all of US make, began coming in Sunday night by case lots, most of the boxes breaking up as they hit the beach. Their source was not determined. A demolition expert is expected from Seattle today.

Traffic Toll High

CHICAGO, Oct. 31 — (AP). — Traffic deaths in the United States this year appear headed for the highest mark since 1941—a toll of 35,000—says the National Safety Council. Traffic fatalities for the first nine months this year were 24,580, an increase of 11 per cent over last year, the council said.

Downeyville CWL Meets

DOWNEYVILLE, Oct. 31 — (ENS)—Members of the Catholic Women's League of Downeyville enjoyed a social evening recently when the guest speaker was Mr. N. Toland, Omemee bank manager, who told them of his trips to Ireland. Winner of the door prize, a watch, was Grant Sibley, of Omemee. Duets were given by Lois Murray and Dorothy Carroll, and Sheila and Patricia Harrington. A piano solo was played by Velma Carroll.

Rotarian Tells Club Of UK Hospitality

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 31 (ENS)—Rotarian T. J. Craighead spoke briefly to the Campbellford club at the luncheon on Monday, and told of the hospitality he was accorded at various Rotary clubs he visited during his recent trip to the British Isles. Mr. Craighead stressed the friendly spirit encountered throughout the old country, and told of a few of the many experiences he encountered.

He will address the club at a future meeting, at which time he will outline the highlights of his trip.

Rev. John McKibbon, a member of the Campbellford club, spoke briefly, and thanked the club for its kindness during his recent illness.

Communion Breakfast Hears E. T. O'Brien

COBOURG, Oct. 31 (ENS) — Edward T. O'Brien of Peterborough, Grand Knight of Peterborough Knights of Columbus, was the speaker at the communion breakfast of the local K. of C. Council 1970, held Sunday at the Baltimore Hotel. The speaker was introduced by Mr. Pat Lappan and was thanked by Jim Tracey. Chairman was Gene Hurtubise.

Mr. O'Brien asked for a practical application of Christian principles in every day life in business life methods and contacts. In this part of the world Christianity was so easy to practice that people were too apt to adopt an armchair type of Catholicity. Some of the natural virtues of parents were smothered in the rush of the present decade, he said.

Hallowe'en Party

BETHANY, Oct. 31 (ENS) — The Young People's Union of the United Church held a Hallowe'en masquerade party in the church basement. The program of games, stunts and a scavenger hunt was planned by Miss Gladys Bigelow and Howard Rowan. Rev. James Hampson and Allan Beer judged the costumes and awarded prizes to Gail Bristow for the best comic lady; Janet Bigelow, best fancy dressed lady; Marie Carr, best comic man and Leone Jordan, best dressed gentleman. Members of Yelverton YPU were guests of the evening. Following the program lunch was served by the Bethany group.

The PETERBOROUGH LUMBER Co. Ltd

Cavendish Sawmill

During the past two months, we have portrayed by word and photo the Peterborough Lumber Company's operation of logging and driving to their Cavendish Sawmill situated about 35 miles from Peterborough on the Buckhorn-Gooderham Road.

The aerial photograph gives a good idea of Peterborough Lumber Company's Sawing operations in the County. Here are employed during the cutting season May-October each year approximately 45 men who are housed and fed in our modern buildings. The site is at the foot of Mississauga Lake. The two storey building contains on the ground floor, the engines, shafting and pulleys to drive the sawmilling machinery on the second floor, and the boiler room is situated on the right of the mill. The Sawmill has a daily capacity for cutting 40,000 feet of lumber per day. Beyond the sawmill in the background can be seen some of the piles of lumber and the piling ground where the stock is put out to dry and season before becoming marketable.

During the next few weeks, the series to follow will take the reader through the various sawmilling operation of the Peterborough Lumber Company whereby the logs are converted into lumber and timber.

Peterborough's Civic Elections

Local elections this year should bring contests for the mayoralty, five aldermanic seats, and seats on the Board of Education. We suggest that this contest be made complete by a contest for a seat on the Utilities Commission. Our reason for recommending this is in order to create the greatest possible local interest in the civic elections, and to ensure that the greatest possible vote will be polled. This year two important requests for money will be put before the voters; one is an additional sum to complete the payment for work on the new Civic Hospital; the other is a request from the Board of Education for money and authorization to begin work on a new Collegiate building. Both are of importance, and every possible voter should help in making these decisions.

* * *

In years when the civic elections are tame, and when there is no mayoralty contest, the voting is light. The more decisions there are to be made, the greater the number of electors who go to the polls. This year's elections bring decisions of consequence before the property-owners and voters of the city, and everything possible should be done to arouse their interest.

Maple Syrup Saps

If a howl is raised because milk at eighteen cents a quart is slightly watered, the howl should be much greater if maple syrup at a dollar or more a quart is not up to the standard specific gravity. Last month a concoction being sold as maple syrup in Oshawa was found to be not maple syrup at all. Reportedly manufactured in Montreal, this mixture of pine tar sugar, water and a vague maple flavouring, had been peddled to Ontario stores, where it was being sold for $3.50 a gallon. The mixture cost about ten cents a gallon to make. The dealer was fined $50 for removing the syrup to Toronto when Oshawa sniffed its false quality, and $150 for selling it to grocers unmarked by the name of the maker.

The St. Catharines Standard rightly asks if there is not another culprit in the business, besides the maker and the wholesaler. Was the grocer who put the stuff on his shelves not a party to the swindle? As a retailer of foods he should know that the law requires the maker's name on the goods, as well as a definition of their contents. It is his duty to see that the goods he sells are not false. A reputable grocer should know a bootlegger when he sees one.

Maple syrup is now a luxury to be bought in pretty little bottles at high prices. We should be sure that when we invest in a quart of the precious liquid we get what we are paying for.

Change Names At Confirmation

The Church of England, we learn, has a new regulation which permits children to change their names, if they please, at Confirmation. This seems to us to be a humane and sensible provision, though like many laws it requires discretion in its application. A child who was christened Roosevelt Churchill Stalin Jones in the days of our great alliance might fittingly wish to alter his name to John Jones at his Confirmation. But what is to be done about his sister, Mary Elizabeth Jone who wants to be confirmed under the name of Ginger Cuddles Jones? Should not some clerical persuasion be exercised to prevent her from making a great error of taste?

Unless we are much mistaken (in which case we shall be happy to receive correction) the Church of Rome permits young people to add the name of a saint to their given names when they make their First Communion. We have heard that it is sometimes necessary for their spiritual advisers to veto names which, while undoubtedly those of saints, are for various reasons unsuitable when added to the existing name.

Not that we favour rigidly simple names. A little fancy, a little excursion into history, or mythology or literature may produce a name which is beautiful. But a name should be bread, rather than cake; it should not cloy the tongue after using. And sensible provision for the future should be made, particularly in the case of girls. We have not forgotten the Mr. Rose who poetically christened his daughter "Wild". She married a Mr. Bull. Then they were all wild!

Our Good Old Days

In this week-end's instalment of Pammett's new history of Peterborough and district there are interesting tid-bits of information tucked away in quiet corners. A peep into prices in this district in the decade of the 1850's shows that men's coats were priced between three and six dollars each. But boots were four and five dollars. Ladies could buy their gloves for ten cents a pair and a muslin dress for $1.50. Whale-oil for stable lanterns (60 cents) sold at 60 cents a quart. It was not until the 1860's that kerosene was used locally. Wild land sold at 50 cents to a dollar an acre; cultivated land between two and ten dollars. A fine buffalo robe could be had for $6.50. But who would need a buffalo robe when "Best Home Distilled Upper Canada Whisky" made by Hammonds' distillery could be had for a shilling a gallon (in 1850). A Jews-harp could be bought for a cent. Ah! the good old days.

But what is this we see? "Dr. Larzette's Juno Cordial or Procreative Elixir" advertised at 50 cents a bottle, together with its Biblical slogan; "Be Fruitful and Multiply!" Well, district families in those days averaged seven persons, either a testimony to the American patent medicine, or an indication that there was little market for it hereabouts. The good old days! Now neither the law nor a reputable publisher would permit such advertisements. In some ways patent medicines have not changed their magic formulas. There is one being sold in the Southern States now, guaranteed to cure a hundred debilities (and incidentally making a mint for the manufacturer) which is mostly alcohol. Dr. Larzette's Juno Cordial is said to have been ninety per cent. alcohol. An elixir indeed.

Shortage Of Pupils In Toronto

Does it strike Peterborough people as odd that Toronto may close five of its public schools because of a pupil shortage? Peterborough is having to find more rooms and more schools. This is a surfeit of pupils; in fact in the twelve years from 1939 to 1950 inclusive the public school population of Peterborough increased steadily from 2,639 to 4,198.

We can guess at various reasons for the decrease in public school population in Toronto when there is an increase in almost every other place in the province. Do couples who want to bring up families prefer to move to Peterborough and other smaller cities, where there is reasonably good air, a congenial, relatively homogeneous populace? Does the lure of high life in Toronto attract couples who want to make money rather than to develop a family? Has Toronto so many other distractions that it enfeebles the desire for having a family?

These questions suggest wisps of truth, but we think that there are other, stronger reasons for the decline in Toronto's public school population—a notable decline from 1922 when 14.5 per cent. of the city population was attending school. Now it is only 8.7 per cent. More Toronto people with families are moving to the suburbs; more Toronto people are sending their children to private schools; and more people living in the city proper have no children.

Toronto's suburbs are crowded with children. Schools are having to be put up and enlarged all over the place. Peterborough has no proper suburbs—in fact, some good Toronto people who move to Peterborough think they are already in the suburbs (of Toronto). Peterborough has a tendency to consume its suburbs, as soon as they become noticeably suburban. If Toronto does likewise, it will be found that the school population in Toronto is expanding, not contracting.

There is this converse situation in Toronto. As its suburban school population increases, its down-town schools lose their pupils. Factories and commercial premises encroach on districts which were once residential and had hordes of children. Peterborough has wisely built its public schools on its outskirts, all except one; and the city centre of industry and commerce has not encircled them. Peterborough's one central school—Central—this year closed up one of its classrooms. Like central Toronto schools, our Central School is experiencing a shortage of pupils, even though its school area has been extended as far as children can conveniently walk.

Thus Peterborough taxpayers should not cast envious, unpatriotic eyes at Toronto which seems to be experiencing a shortage of pupils. It is not a real shortage, and Greater Toronto cannot escape rising school costs to cope with the greater school population.

NOTE AND COMMENT

A lady alderman in Windsor has said: "We should seriously embark on the job of selling Windsor to the rest of Canada". All right, madam, Peterborough will take a couple of industries, if the price is right.

British legal authorities expect a rush of applicants for the new divorces which are available free under the government's legal aid program. If the need for divorce equalled the need for free false teeth some form of legal speed-up will be needed.

Truman Challenges Soviet 'Peace' Gestures

From
NORA BELOFF
In Washington

PRESIDENT Truman, in a major statement on American foreign policy, told a plenary session of the United Nations in New York on October 24 "We intend to build up strength for peace as long as that is necessary. As he was speaking, here in Washington military chiefs from the twelve countries of the Atlantic Pact, meeting under the chairmanship of the U.S. Chief of Staff, General Omar Bradley, were examining how that strength could be achieved as promptly, as effectively and as economically as possible.

✧ ✧ ✧

IN the five years that have elapsed since the ending of the Second World War American reliance on the usefulness of negotiating peace with Soviet Russia has vanished. The consolidation of Russian control over Eastern Europe, the blockade of Berlin, the rejection of any Austrian peace treaty, persistent sabotage by Communist Fifth Columnists, and finally, the Communist aggression in Korea, have systematically eliminated the last vestiges of confidence in anything the Russians say or propose.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE President's speech was nothing more than yet another warning to the Kremlin that the United States can no longer be diverted from its policy of "containment" of Communists, by armed force if necessary, wherever military or political measures are used to extend the Kremlin orbit.

✧ ✧ ✧

MR. Truman's advisers who have been working at Lake Success have warned him that the U.S. President could not hurl back defiance at Soviet peace gestures without jeopardizing world support for American foreign policy. Nevertheless, they are convinced that the Russians are bluffing and that their "peace offensive" is nothing more than a verbal manoeuvre intended to lull the democracies into a false sense of security. That is why the President's speech attempts a compromise, expressing full sympathy for the world-wide urge for an easing of international tensions through Big Five peace talks, but at the same time reiterating American misgivings about where talks with the Communist leaders might lead:

✧ ✧ ✧

"THE United States, as one of the members of the United Nations", Mr. Truman declared, "is prepared as always to enter into negotiations." "But", he added, significantly enough, "we insist only that negotiations must be entered into in good faith and be governed by a spirit of willingness to reach proper solutions. While we will continue to take advantage of every opportunity—here in the United Nations and elsewhere—to settle differences by peaceful means, we have learned from hard experience that we cannot rely upon negotiations alone to preserve the peace".

✧ ✧ ✧

THE President then outlined the conditions on which Americans believe world disarmament might prove effective: to anyone who had the slightest grasp of the present international crisis it was obvious that he was not so much offering concrete and practical lines of action as going out of his way to call the Russian bluff and expose the insincerity of Mr. Vishinsky's own disarmament proposals. Whereas Russian peace offers have always started out with the demand for outlawing the atomic bomb—atomic weapons remain the one major item in the military arsenal in which the Americans retain unquestioned superiority—Mr. Truman insisted that effective disarmament must encompass all types of weapons—nuclear and "conventional" alike. He also insisted that any agreement on disarmament must be both unanimous and foolproof—that is to say, must leave the way open to international inspection over the whole world, in other words the raising of the Iron Curtain and Western penetration into Eastern Europe. Conditions such as these are known to every American expert to be totally incompatible with the totalitarian regime which the Soviet has imposed in all territories directly or indirectly under its control.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE conditions for effective settlement, outlined by the President at the U.N. fifth anniversary celebrations in New York, in effect rule out a negotiated peace settlement with the present Russian rulers. The President admitted that disarmament was "a distant goal", and meanwhile what he called "strength for peace"—that is to say, Western rearmament—must go on.

✧ ✧ ✧

HERE in Washington the military leaders of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization today opened what may be a decisive meeting at which they will have to settle among themselves the practical measures necessary to reverse the present hopeless discrepancy between Eastern and Western forces. General Omar Bradley has himself outlined his own conception of the importance of this meeting in an article recently published in "The Combat Forces Journal". "The military leaders of the Atlantic Treaty countries have talked for several months about their plans for collective balanced forces", he wrote. "The time for talks has now gone by. In this very fall of 1950 we must act".

✧ ✧ ✧

GENERAL Bradley made it clear that he was not thinking of action only in terms of the sum total of the rearmament programmes of the twelve member countries; "It is wasteful", he said, "and impossible, for each of the twelve countries to provide all the air forces, all the naval forces and all the land forces that it might need if it were fighting by itself against an aggression upon Western Europe". The strength for which President Truman called could, in General Bradley's view, be achieved only by a concerted effort from all participating countries. Each country, the General said, "must contribute to the common defence those forces, air, sea or land, which its geographical situation or its industrial capacity or its resources and manpower make specially appropriate". The General cited America's primary responsibility for heavy bombers, Britain's specialization in jet tactical aircraft, the Anglo-American concentration on seapower, to be offset by emphasis in the major Continental European countries on mobilizing manpower for land operations.

✧ ✧ ✧

THIS equilibrium will be primarily the concern of the military leaders who will this week establish a single joint command and who have still to discover the best means of building up a single armed force for a single commander to command. Their job is not only to undertake heavy additional military efforts despite the fact that in many of the countries concerned the economy is already strained to bursting point to meet essential civilian needs. They must also reconcile their respective Governments to even harder political sacrifices—the deliberate surrender of the objective which has inspired the national policies of all twelve countries for longer than anyone can remember; either military self-sufficiency or neutrality. In the opinion of the military leaders now assembled here, "strength for peace" will remain inadequate to deter Soviet adventures until the twelve countries have merged their armed forces and accepted not only the economic but also the military and political interdependence of the Western world.

Letter To The Editor

CONFIDENCE IN CANADA

Sir: I should like to add a few comments to your recent editorial entitled "Maybe we need a knock on the head". Possibly I can offer a slightly different viewpoint, as I have been studying in the United States for the past three years and have had some opportunity to see ourselves as others see us.

I agree wholeheartedly with the theme of your remarks—we do need a knock on the head, and a hard one! The unfortunate prospect, that you do not mention, is that we ourselves will have to wield the bludgeon. This is going to be painful, and will require courage, but there is no one else to perform the service; all our friends are much too polite. One thing that has struck me very forcibly during my sojourn in "our neighbour to the south" is the great confidence which the Americans have in Canada, an attitude not shared by most Canadians. For illustration, you conclude your editorial by referring to Laurier's remark that the twentieth century would belong to Canada, and then proceed to state unequivocally that he was wrong. In contrast, a feature writer for the magazine Coronet, not being a Canadian, has recently written an article on this theme, giving a rather convincing impression that he believed it. Hamilton Butler, the newspaper columnist, only a few weeks ago was praising the Canadians' enthusiasm for Canada, and deploring the lack of enthusiasm shown by Americans towards their country. This, I have no doubt, will be considered news by most of us. Feature articles in leading publications such as the Saturday Evening Post, Fortune, Readers' Digest, and widely-read newspaper chains have been devoted to glowing accounts of Canada's rapid progress. That individual Americans and industries share these views is shown by the steady northward flow of capital.

Your reference to our tendency to "export our best people and import inferior ones" is alarming, if such is indeed the case. I am not one of those who hold that the loss of Canadians to the United States is in itself a bad thing. The worst thing that could conceivably happen to Canadian progress, short of war, would be the adoption of a policy aimed at keeping in Canada all the graduates of our schools and colleges, and leaving as a result fewer opportunities for prospective immigrants from other countries. The same holds for the United States, and the Americans, realizing this, are welcoming Canadian and other immigrants with open arms, knowing that the transfusion of new blood (to borrow from your terminology) cannot help having a beneficial effect. To do otherwise is to practise inbreeding, and it is a well-known biological principle that this can lead only to retrogression. Instead of sitting back and wringing our hands about our "exports of brains" across the border and feeling very humble and inferior about it, wouldn't it be much better to set about filling the gap? Many trained personnel in Germany, Holland, Italy, the British Isles and even, surprisingly enough, in the United States would like to emigrate in search of freedom and opportunities they do not find in their own lands. We should make every effort to induce these people to come to Canada.

I cannot share your pessimistic opinion that the opportunities do not exist. Any such view is short-sighted at the best. It is for us to make the opportunities, and there are at last some signs that we are beginning to do so. As I mentioned, the confidence in Canada is mostly on the American side of the line. If this situation is to be changed, it must be changed by all fourteen million of us, not just by John Fisher and a handful of others.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Ye that fear the Lord, praise him; all ye the seed of Jacob, glorify him; and fear him, all ye the seed of Israel. For he hath not despised nor abhorred the affliction of the afflicted; neither hath he hid his face from him; but when he cried unto him, he heard...

All the ends of the world shall remember and turn unto the Lord: and all the kindreds of the nations shall worship before thee. (Ps 22: 23, 24, 27.)

✧ ✧ ✧

The Lord is not slack concerning his promise, as some men count slackness; but is long-suffering to us-ward, not willing that any should perish, but that all should come to repentance. (II Pet. 3: 9.)

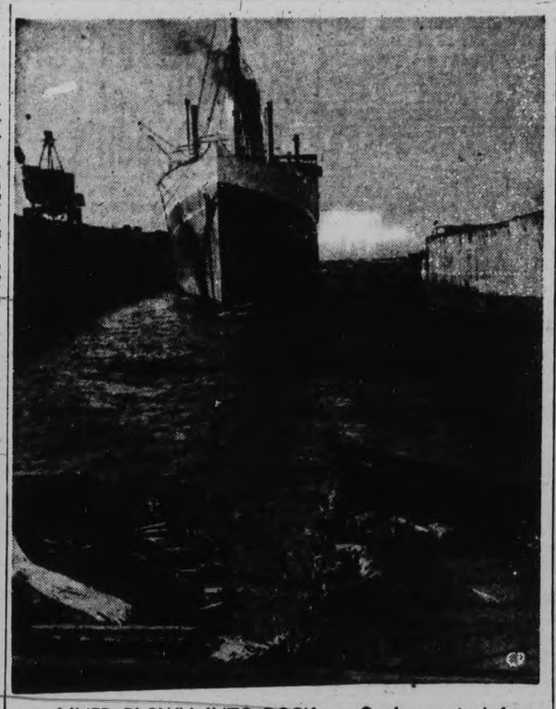
Three Prices Quoted On Newsprint

TORONTO, Oct. 31 — (CP) — Users of Canadian newsprint today have three prices in front of them, the most mixed price situation in the industry in years.

It started with an announcement Oct. 12 by Powell River Co. Ltd., big west coast producer, of a $10-a-ton increase effective Oct. 16. This meant a New York base price of $110 a ton, and a Canadian base price of $106.

Abitibi Power and Paper Co., Ltd., followed Oct. 17 with the same increase, effective Nov. 1, and Great Lakes Paper Co. Ltd., St. Lawrence Paper Mills Co. Ltd., and Consolidated Paper Corporation, Ltd., other big eastern producers, fell into line.

Then Canadian International Paper Company announced Oct. 26 an increase of $6 a ton, $4 less than the others.



Monday Abitibi took cognizance of this and stated:

"To avoid a period of uncertainty and confusion we have decided to meet this reduction without delay." Nevertheless:

"We believe that our previously announced increase of $10 was in the best interests of consumers of newsprint as well as our own. It is needed to meet inceased costs and thus to encourage further expansion of supply. We do not believe that the increase of $6 will be adequate to accomplish this purpose."

Other companies made no comment Monday.

So consumers have before them three prices: $110 from Great Lakes, St. Lawrence Consolidated and Powell River; $106 from International and Abitibi; and $100 from companies which as yet have announced no change.

Oliver Undecided On Leadership

MOUNT BRYDGES, Ont., Oct. 31 (CP).—Farquhar Oliver, veteran Liberal member of the Ontario Legislature, said Monday night he hasn't decided yet whether he will seek to regain the provincial party leadership he gave up last year.

After addressing the annual meeting of the South Middlesex Liberal Association in this village 14 miles southwest of London, Mr. Oliver told reporters he will know in a day or two whether he will be a candidate.

A convention to choose a party leader has been called for Toronto Nov. 9-10. Several prominent Liberals have announced they will seek the job.

In his address, Mr. Oliver defended his action in resigning from the leadership and predicted Premier Frost's government would call an election in 1951.

He said he acted in a democratic manner and thought it was a good thing for the party to call a convention to weld together a platform and select a leader.

C. C. Calder, legislature member for London, also addressed the meeting and denied reports which he said originated in Toronto, that he would withdraw from the leadership race.

"I'll be there until the last ballots are counted," he said.

Oshawa Man Wins Appeal On Conviction

TORONTO, Oct. 31 (CP). — William Mulholland of Oshawa won his appeal Monday from a conviction on a charge that he broke into the Oshawa post office. Mr. Justice W. D. Roach dissented.

Mulholland had been sentenced to six months determinate and three months indeterminate.

W. B. Common, counsel for the crown, said later he was considering an appeal to the Supreme Court of Canada.

Expect Fall-off In Business

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

The country so far has scarcely felt the demands which will be put on it by defence programs. But it will by next spring.

That would seem to be the view of the government in announcing curbs on installment buying.

Some section of business, particularly clothing, were inclined to say: "Why put on curbs when our sales are actually off." In fact, from the retail trade at large, when questioned by the government, came the query: "Is this necessary now?"

Apparently the government does think it necessary now; that the brakes must be put on at once or we shall be rolling too fast in a few months. They put on the curbs in face of reports of severe jolting of sales in the United States following similar restrictions there.

Not Alarmed

Informed circles in Ottawa, when questioned on this, seemed not at all alarmed by the American experience. They felt that shortly there is going to be full demand for just about everything that can be or should be produced.

General reaction in retail circles seems to be that there will be no over-all fall-off in business from the new rules, but that certain section will feel the effects, particularly stores specializing in low down-payments and long-term credit.

Incidentally, though some clothing stores are not happy about the curbs, others think clothing sales will be helped. They think money will be diverted from more expensive durable goods, such as cars, furniture, regfrigerators, to soft goods; in other words, a reversal of the process in which much of the consumer's dollar was being diverted to things for his new home.

Cut Heavy Buying

The result of credit-tightening in the United States, which may give some idea of what will happen in Canada, is summed up by The Associated Press as follows.

One main thing stands out—people have cut back their heavy buying because they haven't the cash for higher down payments or because their incomes are too low to meet the new stepped-up monthly payment terms.

However, the picture is far from uniform. Most heavily involved in sales declines are automobiles, home appliances, television sets and furniture.

Won't Remove Subsidy

MOUNT BRYDGES, Ont., Oct. 31 (CP)—Robert McCubbin, Liberal member of parliament for Middlesex West and parliamentary assistant to Agriculture Minister Gardiner, Monday night denied reports that the government intends to remove the $3 subsidy on feed grain moved from Western Canada to the east.

Firemen Injured

TORONTO, Oct. 31 (CP) — Fireman James Cousins suffered a broken back Monday night when an automobile struck him as he was fighting a fire and tossed him 86 feet. Police later arrested Rudy De Marco, 34, and charged him with dangerous and careless driving and failing to remain at the scene of an accident. Cousins was rolling a hose to a hydrant when struck.

Divorce Rate Down

TORONTO, Oct. 31 (CP)—Ontario divorce showed a sharp decline in October. Sixteen divorces were granted here Monday, bringing the provincial total for the month to 184, of which 70 were from Toronto. In September there were 347 divorces granted, 170 from Toronto.

A name to endure

Ontario

The Iroquois called it Kanadario . . . "sparkling water." On Canada's first Dominion Day, in 1867, the newly-created Province of Ontario (previously Upper Canada) took its enduring name from the lake which bounds much of its shore.

Rich in mineral resources, Ontario has become a foremost supplier of the world's gold and the leading source of nickel. Yet her natural wealth today lies barely tapped . . . a huge fund for the future. Rich, too, in promise and in accomplishment, are the rolling farmlands and thriving industrial cities which have contributed much to Ontario's stature.

Today Ontario is on the threshold of tremendous development. As in the past, when guided by the wisdom of her pioneers, Ontario prepares to fulfill her part in Canada's future.

Eagles Win In Overtime As Nylons Protest Game

The local Eagles edged Kingston Nylons 7-6 in overtime here last night to open their HA senior "B" schedule. Kingston played the extra inning under protest when referee Wally Wilson first said there would be no overtime but changed his mind after conferring with Frank Buckland, Peterborough member of the OHA executive, who pointed out that Rule 82, section (a), called for 10 minutes of overtime in case of tied games.

The oldtime rivals—who were group finalists last season with Eagles (then known as Legion) winning out — started their feuding, fussing and fighting early, and kept it up throughout in a hot fray before 1,200 fans. Of 21 penalties handed outs including a few majors and misconducts, the winners drew nine. Plumb of Nylons was the worst offender, drawing five, including a major for fighting and a misconduct for roughing the referee as he broke up the melee.

Led the Parade

Crowley and Vitarelli led the victors with two goals and an assist each, while Montgemorey scored a pair, an assist apiece going to Rochetta, Milne and Parnall. Partis shone for the losers with a brace of counters and an assist, with Catlin equally good with a goal and two assists. Armstrong had a goal and an assist, Patterson and Joyce each hitting the hemp once, and Aitken and Fowler aiding in a goal apiece. Both netminders looked good for so early in the season, while the rival defencemen played it rugged all the way.

Kingston had a 2-1 margin in the first fast and close frame, but the Eagles roared back and pressed during the second to tally three times without a return. Kingston outscored the Magee men 3-1 in a torrid third chukker that had the fans yelling. In the overtime heat, Eagles counted two but had to stave off a late drive by Nylons which netted one marker to make it too close for comfort.

Penalties Galore

All penalties in the first frame were minors, though Plumb and Montgomery almost mixed it with fists. High-sticking took its toll in the second stanza, and more penalties could have been passed out as the old enemies roughed it up plenty. Londry and Montgomery roughed it up to hit the sin bin in the third and Plumb drew a major for fighting. Parnall and Udall tangled later with the former drawing a major for fighting. Near the close of the period Plumb again got a major for fighting and a misconduct for shoving the referee around, leaving the game for the duration. Both sides stuck to hockey in the extra session.

Kingston: Goal Udall; defence, Londry and Watts; centre, Partis; wings, Catlin and Murphy; alternates, Patterson, Plumb, Williamson, Armstrong, McKeown, Fowler, Joyce and Aitken.

Eagles: Goal, Nicholls; defence, Godfrey and Montgomery; centre, Rochetta; wings, Vitarelli and Crowley; alternates, Parnall, Milne, F. Mortimer, Hill, Greenlaw, Coombs, Burns and Lalonde.

Referee, W. Wilson; linesman, P. Calladine.

Summary:

First Period

Eagles—Crowley (Vitarelli) 7:32
Kingston—Joyce (Aitken, Fowler) 9:30
Kingston—Patterson (Catlin) 10:40
Penalties—Watts 2, Montgomery 2, Plumb.

Second Period

Eagles—Crowley (Vitarelli) 9:45
Eagles—Montgomery (Rochetta) 13:05
Eagles—Vitarelli (Rochetta) 15:30
Penalties—Plumb 2, McKeown, Lalonde, Armstrong, Burns 2, Watts.

Third Period

Kingston—Partis 6:11
Eagles—Montgomery 11:33
Kingston—Armstrong 14:00
Kingston—Partis (Catlin, Armstrong) 14:55
Penalties — Londry, Monigomery, Plumb 2, Parnall, Udall, Rochetta, Vitarelli.

Overtime

Eagles—Vitarelli (Milne) 1:12
Eagles—Mortimer (Parnall) 5:30

Richard Leads NHL Players In Scoring Race

MONTREAL, Oct. 31 (CP). — Maurice Richard of Montreal Canadiens has pulled ahead in the National Hockey League individual scoring race.

The hard-shooting right winger scored three goals last week to bring his total to seven goals and three assists for 10 points in nine games. Behind the Rocket are Gordie Howe of Detroit and veteran Max Bentley of Toronto.

Howe has five goals and three assists for eight points while Bentley has two goals and six assists. Bentley's six assists leads the circuit in that department.

Tied with seven points in fourth spot are Tod Sloan of Toronto Maple Leafs who slipped from a first place tie with Richard last week, and teammate Ted Kennedy. Sloan's record of four goals and three assists is unchanged from last week.

Seven Players Grouped

Seven players then are grouped with six points: Vic Stasiuk, Chicago; Floyd Curry, Montreal; Sid Smith, Toronto; Cal Gardner, Toronto; Ted Lindsay, Detroit; Calum MacKay and Ken Mosdell, both of Montreal.

Toronto with five victories and two ties for 12 points stands atop the team standings after winning two and tying one last week. The Leafs have scored most goals—25. One point behind is Montreal with four wins and three ties. Detroit has four victories and one tie for nine points while Chicago Black Hawks are fourth with two wins and two ties.

New York Rangers are in fifth place with one victory and three ties for five points while the winless Boston Bruins are last with three ties.

Lead Goalies

Jack Gelineau, in his sophomore year with Boston, and Terry Sawchuk, Detroit's rookie sensation, lead the league's goalies with a 1.71 average. Both have allowed 12 goals in seven games.

Turk Broda of the Maple Leafs has the most shutouts—three, followed by rookie Gerry McNeil of Canadiens with two.

Gelineau, Sawchuk and Chuck Rayner of New York each has one goose-egg while Chicago's Harry Lumley is without one.

Boston's rugged defenceman Fern Flaman continues to be the league's "badman" with 35 minutes in the penalty box in seven games—a five minute per game average.

Montreal is the most penalized team with 116 minutes.

St. Peter's Get First One Against Whitby

Like a pack of starved wolves sensing a kill, the St. Peter's High juniors ripped through the Whitby High team Monday afternoon at Morrow Park with two minutes of play left. They made their killing, a long touchdown followed by a kick to deadline, to win the first game in the series for the lakeshore junior "B" championship 6-1. The return game will be Wednesday in Whitby.

St. Peter's luckiest moment was when Gord Schmidke, powerful Whitby plunger and kicker, was carried from the game with three minutes left. Unable tao stand because of a badly hurt knee, the game backfielder just about cried when forced to leave. He rested at the sidelines to see his team fade quickly.

A Smart Play

Schmidke carried out the cleverest play of the game, the opening play after the kickoff. He quick-kicked from the centre stripe to the goal-line where it bounced over the dead-line for the only Whitby point.

After that the St. Peter's team dominated the play with a determined ground attack. But a more determined Whitby team held them off until the fourth when Schmidke was hurt.

Colin West filled in for Schmidke and tried to ward off the locals with a kick from the Whitby 25. The ball went straight up and arched back into Whitby territory. Peterborough took possession at the 21-yard line.

Drunk with the feeling of victory, St. Peter's staggered out of the huddle and into the first play. Murray Byrne went for four yards followed by Dick Foley for 11 yards. Fleet Bob O'Rourke coasted across the left side for the touchdown. The attempt for the extra just missed.

Another Point

A minute later O'Rourke took possession for SPS on the 43-yard line. Byrne burned up the ground for 15 yards. Whitby were penalized 15 yards for rough play. Foley punted to the deadline for the final point.

Twice in the second, once in the third and in the fourth St. Peter's plowed within five yards of scoring but twice fumbled. Whitby were hot throughout on the loose balls and recovered twice to save themselves.

An intercepted pass by Schmidke in the third started Whitby on a rush. Forced to kick, Schmidke hoofed to John Hickey behind the line and he managed to just get out.

Lineups

Whitby: Flying wing, Ward; halves, Fallaise, Asling, Schimdke; quarter, Campbell; centre, Corner; insides, MacKey, Jermyn; middles, Patterson, Bibeau; outsides, Wilson, Livingstone; alts., Borchuk, McLean, Beadle, Smyth, Mendyk, Slessor, Scarlett, Archibald, West, Beckman, Barnes, Randall.

SPS — Flying wing, Fitgerald; halves, McGillen, Byrne, Foley quarter, Hickey; centre, Crough; insides, Hickson, Kirkley; middles, Clark, Hull; outsides, O'Connell, Legros; alts., McCormick, Gooley, LeBarr, Taylor, Simmons, O'Brien, Ferren, O'Rourke, McDougal, Kingdon, Chretien, Corkery.

Lead Darts League

Millard's lead the Legion Dart League after two weeks of play, followed by Hatton Bros. and Kawartha Garage. High scorer and winner of the Gainey prize last time out was D. Wilson with 155 points. Games are played each Thursday at eight p.m. in the Legion Hall. Millard's now have won five of six games. Hatton and Kawartha winning four each and losing two, as Gannon's and Calladine's are tied with three and three each. Selkirk's come next with two wins in six starts, Silver Moon has won one and lost four, while Wigley's won but one in six.

Football Player Dies

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

With two weeks to go ere the junior "B" puck schedule opens, Coach Bun Kingdon is busy lining up his Triple Link charges. They drill tomorrow and Friday nights from six to seven. Bun has Wasson and Batley for goal, and defence prospects include Armstrong, Clapper, Dean Wasson, Kimball, Shearer, Sullivan and maybe Gibson. Among the forwards he is watching are Dean West, Wyatt, a Hastings' boy named Jim Morrow, Douglas, Floyd, Buckton, Doris, Red and Gary Robinson, Stewart and a few more. We may have missed one or two good prospects trying out with the IOOF-ers but that'll give fans an idea of the material Bun is working on to fashion a smart junior club in the grouping with Belleville, Oshawa, Lindsay and Port Hope.

* * * * * *

There's an OHA senior "B"—some folks figure it's senior, with no "B" tag, since these clubs get a crack at Allan Cup play this year—scheduled fixture at 8.30 p.m. tomorrow in Civic Arena. It brings together Queen's University squad of Kingston and the 1950-51 edition of the Petes, coached by Drake Jopling. Later on in the column we'll have something on their opening joust in the Jock Harty Arena last gloaming. The game tomorrow ought to be an interesting struggle with both sides hustling, as victories garnered early in the season count as much as those hard-fought ones just before playoff time. It should draw a big crowd.

A Hot Hockey Opener

At Civic Arena last e'en, G. K. Fraser, W. G. Ovens and Don McGillis officially opened the OHA senior "B" season for Eagles, and the Magee men proceeded to down Kingston Nylons 7-6 in overtime. A fair-sized crowd saw a sizzling scrap as the old enemies roughed it up throughout. Nearly got out of hand at times, despite 21 penalties handed out. High-sticking, charging, boarding and some fists flung. A honey of a tilt to see but tough on some of the puckists who are just rounding into shape. Nylons protested playing overtime, but it's laid down in the rule book. Yeah, 10 minutes extra play for a tied hockey game, so nothing will come of this protest in the long run.

* * * * * *

Speedy Bill Crowley and steady-stepping Dootch Vitarelli led the locals at bat with three points each. Others prominent on the attack were Keith Montgomery, Freddy Mortimer, Andy Milne, Bob Parnall and Joe Rochetta. Johnny Godfrey and rugged Al Burns did a good blue-line chore, and Lally Lalonde flashed plenty of speed. Ross Nicholls has the eagle eye again in the nets. Eagles are full of hustle and fight, and will really fly shortly, especially on a big ice surface. But, then, Kingston—who were minus Walt Gerow—will be tough hombres over the long haul, too. Ken Partis and Joey Catlin led them in scoring, which is not surprising, and Udy Udall made the Eagles earn their goals. 'Twas exciting hockey.

Petes Start Off Right

The Petes got off to an auspicious start in Kingston last night as they turned back Queen's 8-4 in another rough game—marked by a bit of a free-for-all at the finish of one frame. Hm, a heated season looms, eh? Queen's were not happy losers and will be seeking vengeance here on the morrow, no doubt. But the Petes have plenty of punch, also. Arn Dugan showed the way in sniping for the Jopling bunch with two goals and a pair of assists, while Honey Tompkins and Jake Wade were effective, too. The local defence is shaping up well to give Ray Harding better protection, and Ray is his usual quick self at picking off the bullets. The refereeing, according to reports, was just so-so, and it looks like arbiters are going to have their hands full making the experienced seniors of this group behave.

* * * * * *

All the nasty stuff last p.m. wasn't reserved for the hockey contests, not by any means. There were oodles of illegal action along the Rue Brock as the big matmen mixed in three lively bouts. Dan O'Connor and Ray Gunkel went to a prelim draw, while the Masked Marvel won the semi-final o'er Bobby Nelson. The husky in the Hallowe'en costume and his hooded manager later challenged anyone, including Yukon Eric and Wee Willie Davis, but all they got in reply was a shower of boos from the crowd and a roughing up from Yukon and Davis. The main scrap was a warmish session, with Eric spotting Willie a stab-in-the-back fall and then proving too powerful for the Hollywood giant. Flattened him in the next two falls as the fans cheered heartily.

Petes Capture 8-4 Win From Queen's

KINGSTON, Oct. 3 — Those roll'icking Petes from Peterborough gave the back of their hand to the incoming Queen's University combines when they racked up a convincing 8 to 4 victory in the opening game of the OHA senior series in the Harty Arena last night.

The return of the Gaels and their allies to the OHA series was witnessed by a remarkably small crowd and little enthusiasm was exhibted after Petes scored four successive goals in the first eight minutes of the middle period and salted away the verdict. The Combines had the spirit but lacked both the individual skill and experience to match the wily Petes.

Referee Bill Holway ruled with such a firm hand that the Combines served 33 minutes in penalties and the visitors 18. Don Keenleyside, who served two minors and a misconduct, and Honey Tompkins and Bud Ohlke, who each served a major, were the most energetic disturbers of the right in the house of Harty. Interpretation of the ever changing code becomes more mysterious as the years roll on and the fans didn't applaude some of the rulings.

Real Outbreak

The only serious outbreak occurred just after the conclusion of second period when Bender of the locals and Fryia, Petes' speedster tankled near the Combines net. Goalkeeper Boivin intervened but must have escaped detection in the milling throng. One of the visitors seemed intent on staging another round but was handicapped severely when Referee Holway placed a restraining grasp on his head. Evidently the sternest possible measures are going to be employed in attempting to wipe out rough play.

Gets Misconduct

The season's first misconduct sentence was handed to Don Keenleyside late in the first period. Don had accidentally tripped an attacker and when he objected too violently to being handed a minor penalty, Referee Holway tacked on that extra 10 minutes and the Combines lost one of their best forwards just when his presence on the ice was most desirable.

At any rate the Petes, who had been trailing, forced a 2-2 deadlock in jig time while holding a one-man advantage and carried on into the next session to place the verdict in the ice box.

Late in the second period Gabby White adroitly upset an opponent during a dangerous attack and was ruled off before the assault was concluded. This rapid fire penal action nonplussed the Petes momentarily but they rallied in world record time and on a shot by Dugan forged into a 7 to 3 lead 15 second before Gabby came skating back to the rescue.

Dugan of the Petes paced the point-getters with two goals and as many assists but Wade and Tompkins were bang-up seconds, the former with two goal and an assist and the latter with a goal and two assists. None of the Combines got more than one point but eight figured in the summary. Boivin who was tested often played well between the pipes while Harding who wasn't overworked, made a few sparkling stops in the clutches.

Peterborough—Goal, Harding; defence, E. Leonard, Davidson; centre, Wade; wings, Turner and Dugan; alternates, G. Leonard, Tompkins, Fryia, West, Collins, Garvey, Jopling, Millar and Edgar.

Queens — Goal, Boivin; defence, Sweetman and Graves; centre, D. Murray; wings, White and Hay; alternates, Latimer, Bender, Keenleyside, Harley, Bunn, Shepperd, Oplike, R. Murray and Brown.

Referee, Bill Holway, Belleville; linesman, George Patterson.

Confederation Wins

King George intermediate soccer eleven were eliminated from the league championship by Confederation 2-1 in an excellent display of the code on Confederation grounds Monday afternoon. Confederation and King Edward meet this afternoon in the final game of the season in intermediate series. If King Edward lose they will be tied with Confederation; if they draw they will still have a one-point lead; if they win they will have two points and winners.

Play opened at a fast pace with the players giving all they had to test the custodians. Confederation came into the picture with a steady attack that culminated in Trotter tipping the ball past the King George goalie from a flag kick. On resuming, King George forwards hemmed Confederation into their own territory to obtain a penalty shot when Parnell handled the ball inside the dreaded area, Baptie converting

Eric Proves Much Too Tough For Wily Wee Willie Davis

Yukon Eric, a modern Hercules of the wrestling ring, virtually spotted big Wee Willie Davis one fall last night at the Brock, then calmly subdued the rough giant in straight falls at the 16 and 12 minute marks to earn prolonged applause from the goodly crowd.

Davis charged the stout lumberjack from behind upon entering the ring for instructions, and quickly pinned him with a crotch hold and body slam at the two-minute mark, despite loud protests of illegality. Not taken aback by this ill-conceived, though well executed strategy on the part of his opponent, Eric really opened up upon Willie's return for the second fall, tossed the latter around like a sack of bran, using headlocks, body slams and a varied assortment of armlocks. Finally he squeezed an Irish sleeper (Geohagen type) on the Hollywood giant, flung him back and forth like an old dummy, switched to a series of punishing toe-holds and then to a body back squeeze (after the style of Stan Zbysco). He then flung his rival to the canvas where he remained well into intermission. The crowd gave the popular northerner a big hand.

Eric Too Strong

Returning for the final fall, Davis elected to match his great strength with that of Eric in a variety of leverages. Yukon more than matched every move his giant rival made, pushed Willie across and out of the ring several times and caught him off balance off the ropes with a terrific body smash. Twice Davis' 281 pounds bounced off Eric's mighty chest, and as the latter renewed his series of body holds and slams, Willie grew more cautious and tried to engage him on the mat. There he had Eric in trouble for a time with a painful step-over toe-hold and leg stretch. Near the 12-minute mark, however, as the wild tussle reached the sizzling point, Eric smashed the giant down with a series of headlocks, preceded by some lusty elbow smashes, picked him up and applied his high shoulder backbreaker with telling effect. Davis crumbled to the mat, a beaten man.

Dan O'Connor, 240 Boston roughhouse, tangled with husky Ray Gunkel 248, in a tingling preliminary, action-packed from the start to finish, that ended in a draw after 30 minutes of speedy grappling. O'Connor held a slight early margin, but Gunkel showed good form and a wide assortment of stuff to tame his hardy rival and stay in to the finish in a close duel.

Bob Popular

Bobby Nelson of Chicago, fast, clever heavyweight 231, made a hit with the fans even in defeat to the unknown Masked Marvel in a sparkling semi-final. The Mask, a solid, rugged grappler at 242, roughed it up plenty in the early stages, but was met with the speed and resource of his lighter opponent who almost succeeded in unmasking the unknown Mr. X several times. The latter proved tough and durable though, and in consultation with his hooded manager (amid loud protestations by Nelson, referee Sam Gotter, and the fans) came through with a hurricane finish at the 21-minute mark to gain a hard-earned verdict. The Mask softened Nelson with a series of painful headlocks and finished with three good back-breakers to crumble his plucky foe. It was possibly the finest card of the wrestling season to date.

F-O-O-T-B-A-L-L

By DON GRANT

Importation of American coaches passers, speedy ends and backs is gradually changing Canadian football. The forward passing attack used so extensively in the American game is crowding the colorful running and kicking plays of the Canadian sport.

Especially during the past four years has these changes been noticed. This year nearly all the key men in the Big Four, Stan Heath, Al Dekdebrun, Andy Gordon, and Frank Filchock are experts in the forward pass.

In the west the Edmonton Eskimos have Morris Bailey of Texas Christian. In the first seven league games the Eskimos had an average of 235 yards via the aerial route. In one game they picked up 503 yards on passes with the Calgary Stampeders.

Toronto Argos' Al Dekdebrun Saturday against Ottawa displayed the importance of a good passer as he made most of his 176 yards by forward passes.

Plunges and runs once dominated the American game. Over the week-end game statistics show that passing in the States is as important as the ground attack. In the Army-Columbia game Army threw 16 forwards, completed six, while Columbia completed 10 out of 21. Columbia, although they lost 34-0, had 124 yards via the aerial attack. Lehigh edged Rutgers in the scoring by 21-18, but in the passing were edged 110 yards to 107.

In the all-important Michigan State-Notre Dame game, won by State 36-33, Notre Dame had 267 yards on th ground and 259 yards in the air.

Locally the passing attack of the intermediate and high school teams has been poor this year. This is due chiefly to poor pass receivers and not to poor passers. The Orfuns and the St. Peters High School teams offered little with the aerial offensive.

Bev Goulding's PCVS Seniors are just beginning to click on their passes, but they still need practice on receiving. The team realizes the importance of a good air offensive after the 62-6 trouncing by East York Collegiate which took to the air throughout.

Alex Londry's PCVS Juniors have a good passer in Bill Stewart, but also lack receivers with glue on their hands. Danny Griffin, younger brother of Queen's Don Griffin, is coming along fast on the receiving end.

Walter Firth Hits 392 In City Bowling Loop

Cavanagh's last week topped the men's City Bowling League at Duffus with high pinnage of 3503. Bond's took other scoring honors as, for the third time this year, they had high single of 1281. Freddy Martin (of the bowling Martins) hit a triple of 823 and Walt Firth smashed a terrific single of 392, best so far this season. Other good triples were: Bert McCarrell 812 and Gene Reynolds 802. Some high singles were: Jim Herron 335, Holly Mowry 333 and Fred Martin 320.

Shockey's climbed back into a first-place tie with McGillis as they blanked Esquires. Bond's applied the brush to Clapper's, and Sunocos giving the same treament to Campbell & Best to round out a big scoring parade. Moore's took the limit from Dunn's, while Fashion Craft won two from Swartz, as did Cavanagh's over McGillis.

McFater Win Very Unpopular

TORONTO, Oct. 31 (CP). — Alan McFater, 19-year-old Toronto lightweight, won a split decision over Young Junior of Springfield, Mass., in an eight-round boxing match here Monday night. Ringside observers termed it one of the worst home-town decisions in years. More than 3,000 fans in Maple Leaf Gardens roundly booed the verdict.

Observers figured that the 135-pound barrel-chested Negro, who lost an unpopular decision to McFater a month ago which cost him a New York bout at Madison Square Garden, won practically going away over the eight-round route.

The Canadian Press score card gave the American five rounds with only two—the fifth and eighth—to the 138-pound Toronto fighter. The seventh was about even.

Young Junior repeatedly beat McFater to the punch, chopped him with stiff lefts to the head and looping right-hand body smashes. He took McFater's Sunday punch—a smashing right to the midriff and retaliated with lefts and rights that forced McFater to retreat.

McFater was installed four-to-one favorite by the ring-side bettors and they were ready to pay off immediately the bell rang to end the fight. Crowds stormed the ringside loudly protesting the decision.

Bisons Dominating AHL Scoring Parade

NEW YORK, Oct. 31 (AP).—Led by veteran Ab Demarco, members of Buffalo Bisons continue to dominate the American Hockey League's individual scoring parade.

Demarco tops the field with 21 points on nine goals and 12 assists. Jackie Gordon of Cincinnati is second with 18 points and George Sullivan of Hershey is third with 17. Paul Meger and Walt Atanas of the Bisons are tied for fourth at 15 points. Grant Warwick of the Bisons, Springfield's Kelvin Burnett and Cincinnati's Fern Perreault are tied for sixth with 14 points each.

Demarco also leads the pack in goal-getting while Sullivan of Hershey leads the playmakers with 14 assists. Ray Gariepy of Hershey has spent the most time in the penalty box, 49 minutes.

DiMaggio Visits Japan

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 31 (AP)—Joe DiMaggio, the great New York Yankee outfielder, and Frank (Lefty) O'Doul, manager of the San Francisco Seals, left by plane last night for Japan. It will be the first trip to Japan for DiMaggio and the seventh for O'Doul. O'Doul will conduct baseball clinics and DiMaggio will show off some of his hitting power.

Full-Length Sweaters Actress' Dream

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 31 (AP)—Just when I feared that Hollywood was getting too serious, along comes Marie Windsor with her idea for a full-length sweater.

The whole nonsense began when Marie was starring with Jon Hall in a film called "Hurricane Island" recently. Since it was a Jon Hall picture, Marie was naturally expected to wear a sarong. She tried one on and balked.

"What's sarong with a sarong?" I asked, stifling a snicker.

"They're unattractive," she pouted. "When you get all wrapped up in one of those things, you bulge in the wrong places. They reveal too much and do nothing for a girl's figure or a man's imagination.

Art To Unravel

"Besides, they're impractical. Have you ever tried to swim in one? (I confessed I hadn't.) Well, you're apt to find the sarong unravelling out behind you. That happened to me once and I had to emerge from the water in a towel."

So in the picture Marie wears an off-the-shoulder silk outfit.

The sweater would do wonders for girls' figures, Marie declared.

"I don't believe that girls should reveal as much as they do in sarongs and some bathing suits. If you have certain attractions, I believe you should intimate the outline, rather than reveal. It is much more subtle."

Arrest 2 Policemen

ROCKLAND, Me., Oct. 31 — (AP). — Two policemen were accused Monday night of robbing main street stores while on duty in the police prowl car. Chief Bernard Thompson said two patrolmen had been arrested on breaking, entering and larceny charges. More than $500 worth of furnishings and clothing were found in the men's homes, the Chief said.

Raise Gas Rates

TORONTO, Oct. 31 (CP). — The Consumers' Gas Company of Toronto Monday announced an increase in gas rates, which it said was made necessary by higher costs. The increase, amounting to about 1½ per cent, applies to more than 102,000 costumers. Each will pay some 15 cents more a month, the company said.

Want 2-Year Term

TORONTO, Oct. 31 (CP). — City council decided Monday to ask the electorate for a two-year term for the city council. The plebiscite, asking the voters to double the length of council's present one-year term, will be decided in conjunction with the civic elections Dec. 4.

Sea Breaks Into Mine

TOKYO, Oct. 31 — (AP). — The sea broke into a coal mine shaft under the Inland Sea on the south-western tip of Honshu Island on Monday and 35 miners were feared trapped below. Efforts to drain the shaft today were not successful and engineers said the 35 possibly were drowned.

DIPLOMATS CHAT — Dr. B. V. Keskar, deputy foreign minister for India, chats with M. .V Degtiar, Soviet charge d'affaires, at a reception for Dr. Keskar at the residence of the Indian high commissioner in Ottawa. A few hours earlier, Dr. Keskar told reporters India is fighting Communism "all along the line," though she has no quarrel with the basic principles of Communism. A member of the Indian delegation to the United Nations, Dr. Keskar was visiting Ottawa briefly.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

Anybody want to buy a fighter who is confident he can beat lightweight champion Ike Williams?

If so, Williams' manager has one for sale. Sound funny, Williams' manager selling the contract of a fighter who thinks he can lick the 135-pound champion?

Well, that's the way it is. Frank (Blinky) Palermo, manager of titleholder Williams wants to peddle his rights to Li'l Arthur King of Toronto, British Empire lightweight champion. This would give King his long awaited chance to meet Williams for the crown.

The law prohibits matches between boxers under the same manager. So Palermo is willing to step aside to give King his opportunity. It's not necessarily that Palermo is filled with Christmas spirit, for he doesn't think King has a chance against Williams.

"Ike and Arthur aren't in love with each other," Palermo said in discussing the boxing stablemates. "Even if they are, Ike would try to knock him out. He'd knock out his grandmother if she stood in his way. I'll bet on Williams if the two meet. Ike would win by a knockout despite the fact that he has been losing a number of fights recently."

The showing of Winnipeg Blue Bombers in western Canada football this year would appear to testify to the ability of coach Frank Larson.

The former Minnesota all-American end brought the Bombers from the bottom of the league last year to a first-place finish this season.

But even that hasn't offset talk about whether he'll be back as coach next year.

Asked about a Winnipeg newspaper report that he might resign at the end of the season, Larson said Monday night he hasn't "thought too much about next year," adding that he's "too busy trying to get the team in shape for the western finals."

Larson said it was true that he had let the lease run out on his St. Boniface home "due to the uncertainty of the situation" and that he hasn't discussed a new contract yet because "we've been so busy."

Ray Famechon of France, European featherweight champion, scored an unpopular 10-round split decision over Dick Howard of Halifax in the feature bout of a fight card at Montreal Forum Monday night. In Baltimore, Cesar Brison, young Argentine heavyweight who fights Joe Louis, scored a unanimous decision over Keene Simmons in a 10-rounder.

Eric Billington, one of the greatest kickers ever to perform on a Canadian gridiron, died on Saturday of a heart attack in England, it was learned from his friends.

Billington out-punted his rivals while playing with McGill University 1911-14. He was on two McGill championship teams in 1912 and 1913.

A formidable field of efficient pros and amateurs including Stan Horne of Montreal and Bob Fair of Toronto, formed Monday to chase down Samuel Jackson Snead in the North and South Open Tournament at Pinehurst, N. C.

Jack Grount, a profession playing out of Columbus, O., shot a three-under-par 69 to lead the qualifying field.

Horne, a pro, qualified with a 38-35—73 while Fair, an amateur made the grade with 36-40—76.

TV Hampers Homework

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Oct. 31 (CP).—Radio and television are interfering with children's homework to such an extent that the education system may have to be changed, the Niagara district of the Ontario Secondary Schools Association was told Monday. V. A. Bird, assistant superintendent of education for Rochester, N. Y., said it may become necessary to abolish homework for students not intending a college career and to substitute supervised study programs.

Lineman Burned

TORONTO, Oct. 31 (CP). — Sam Dawes, Toronto hydro lineman, was taken to hospital Monday suffering from burns to his face and legs after a high tension wire fell across a metal bar. "There was a boom like a cannon," said Sandra Jones, drug store clerk. "The lights went out and I looked out the window to see a man climbing down a hydro pole wrapped in a ball of fire."

Cotterell Says 1950 Year Jet Engine Been Accepted

SEIGNIORY CLUB, Que., Oct. 31 (CP)—The Canadian aviation industry will mark 1950 as "the year of the acceptance of jet engines," Howard Cotterell, of Montreal, today told the Air Industries and Transport Association.

The body, of which Mr. Cotterell is president, opened its annual meeting today. The association represents the operating departments of some 80 Canadian air lines.

"In the field of military aviation, the design and development efforts of the A. V. Roe Company culminated in the CF-100 long-range jet fighter," said Mr. Cotterell. "The prototype was first flown this year and the aircraft now is in production . . .

"While history will recognize 1950 as the year of the CF-100 and the Canadian F-86 jet fighter, it will not pass lightly over the field of commercial aviation. The year will mark the initial flights of the first jet transport to be designed and built in the western hemisphere—the Avro C-102. It will also mark the first order for commercial jet transports by a Canadian airline."

Describes Test Flights

Mr. Cotterell also described the test flights of the first Canadian-designed and built jet engine—the A. V. Roe Orenda, and added that the De Havilland Company of Britain has established a jet-engine plant in Canada.

The association president warned that while Canada is embarked on a heavy program of fighter aircraft construction "there are not sufficient heavy transports either in Canada or announced as being on order by either Canadian military or civil agencies to support our fighter forces operating from the perimeters of Canada or abroad."

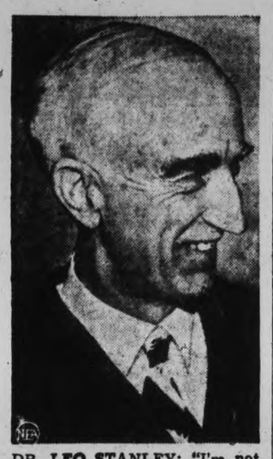
Doc's Leaving San Quentin Enjoyed His 37 Years



By AL OSTROW
NEA Special Correspondent

SAN FRANCISCO (NEA). — "The doc" is getting ready to leave San Quentin Prison, and most of the 6,000 inhabitants of the walled city of numbered men will be sorry to see him go.

The word passing along the prison grapevine these days is: "Better hurry up and get sick if you're going to, because the chief croaker won't be here much longer."

"Chief croaker" is the Big Yard's term of endearment for "the doc"—Dr. Leo L. Stanley, the prison's whitehaired veteran chief medical officer.

Dr. Stanley has spent the past 37 years in San Quentin, with time out only for World War II service as a Navy commander and some earlier vacation cruises to the South Seas as a ship's doctor. When he hangs up his stethoscope next March to retire at the age of 65, Dr. Stanley will have served more time in San Quentin than all but a few of the oldest prisoners.

DR. LEO STANLEY: "I'm not sure what I'll do when I get out."

As a matter of fact, Warden Clinton T. Duffy credits the twinkle-eyed physician with personal responsibility for many a lifer who has served extra years only because Dr. Stanley's medical skill kept him alive.

Even when San Quentin was torn by riots and rebellions and prisoners complained bitterly about their harsh treatment, no convict's voice was raised against the "chief croaker." Any popularity poll of the Big House cellmates would show a close race between Dr. Stanley and Warden Duffy, who is generally credited with banning brutality and carrying out a humane penal philosophy.

Both men are convinced that the average prisoner, as an individual, is no better and no worse than anyone else. They're proud of their graduates who have made good on "the outside."

✧ ✧ ✧

Biggest thrill of Dr. Stanley's wartime service came aboard the hospital ship Solace, laying offshore as a floating surgery when American troops stormed the beaches at Saipan. A wounded soldier who was being recommended for a medal for bravery under fire beckoned to the medico.

"Remember me, doc?" he asked. "You saved my life back at old San Quentin"

Dr Stanley came to the prison hospital in 1913 fresh out of Stanford Medical School He soon had the experience of attending a condemned man at his execution. He saw California change from the hangman's noose to the lethal gas chamber for its legal life-taking but the switch didn't sell him on the wisdom of capital punishment except in rare cases.

One execution involved Dr. Stanley in a series of lawsuits The prisoner, a notorious murderer, volunteered his body for medical research. But his relatives sued the prison for $100,000 damages, contending that the body had been unlawfully mutilated.

✧ ✧ ✧

The confidence which Dr. Stanley inspired in his patients resulted in large numbers of San Quentin convicts volunteering to serve as "human guinea pigs" in medical experiments. This work resulted in new findings about bubonic plague, dysentery, pyorrhea, syphilis and other diseases.

The prison hospital, largely developed under his administration, is adorned with more paintings and murals than are found in many art museums. The paintings were the work of talented patients who had no other way to show their appreciation.

Possibly the secret of Dr. Stanley's success is that he likes his work. "I am," he admits, "one of the few men who enjoys being in prison. I'm not sure what I'll do when I get out."

HONOR PRIME MINISTER — Prime Minister St. Laurent was given an honorary degree of doctor of laws at a convocation at the University of Toronto. Rt. Hon Vincent Massey, right, chancellor of the university, confers the degree while Leonard Smith places the hood over the prime minister's shoulders.

Seek Ottawa Woman Missing On Holiday

NORTH BAY, Oct. 31 (CP).— City and Ontario provincial police are looking for a 31-year-old Ottawa woman last heard of here earlier this month.

Yvette Newton of Ottawa, left her home Sept. 26. She escorted a blind nephew to a Brantford school and went on to enjoy a travelling holiday. She had $500 in cash when she left Ottawa, police said.

Police said that Mrs. Newton forwarded letters and cards to her husband from different points until Oct. 8 when he received a card from North Bay informing him that she was enjoying her holiday and would write more fully shortly.

"Since that date," Ottawa police said Monday, "no word has been received here from 'her.'"

Phillips Suggests Unit Plant To Aid Hospitals Cut Costs

TORONTO, Oct. 31 (CP).— A unit plan to enable hospitals to trim operating costs was suggested Monday by Dr. MacKinnon Phillips, a country doctor from Owen Sound district who recently became Ontario's Minister of Health.

The plan calls for five units which would enable patients to be dispersed in accordance with their needs. Thus chronically-ill patients could be sent to a unit designed to meet their needs at reasonable cost, instead of to bed in a general hospital where maintenance costs are high.

Under the plan, which Dr Phillips put up for discussion at a meeting of the Ontario Hospital Association, the first unit would be a general hospital with outpatient department, costing perhaps $12,000 a bed and with maintenance costs of $10 to $12 a patient day.

It would have operating rooms, delivery rooms, X-ray department, laboratory services, blood bank and physiotherapy department.

Rehabilitation Hospital

The second unit, costing $6,000 a bed and operated at a cost of $5 a patient a day, would be a rehabilitation hospital where persons who had undergone treatment could go for convalescence.

The third unit, to cost $4,000 a bed to build and $2 a patient a day, would work in conjunction with the provincial departments of health and welfare. It would be a home for the aged, a hospital for the incurable and a centre for treatment of handicapped persons.

The fourth unit, of which only three or four would be needed in Ontario, would be a hospital attached to a university.

The fifth unit would be the patient's own home, in which some of the treatment given in hospitals could be administered.

Could Cut Costs

Thus, most cities of 10,000 or 15,000 persons or more could afford the first three units of the plan and reduce the over-all cost of services.

(A Health Department official estimated that operating cost of all public hospitals in Ontario has risen from $13,000,000 in 1939 to $51,000,000 in 1949. In 1939, there were about 150 public hospitals in the province compared with about 170 today.)

Dr. Phillips said that during the same period the number of Ontario residents receiving hospital care rose from 298,000 to 600,000 and the number of persons employed in hospitals from 13,000 to 25,000. Also during that time costs advanced by 371 per cent while municipal grants were increased 54 per cent.

BAD INFLUENCE

VANCOUVER (CP)— Lawyer Tom Hurley's Indian client was charged with being drunk. Counsel told Magistrate Oscar Orr: "Your Worship, he fell among white people and was led astray." Sentence was suspended.

Given Extra Year For Escape From Pen

KINGSTON, Oct. 31 (CP). — Charged with theft and assault with intent to commit grievous bodily harm, Royton St. John, 46, was sentenced today to an additional year in penitentiary.

He escaped from Kingston penitentiary Sept. 15 with 11 months of a five-year term still to be served. St. John slugged Jimmy Biggs, 10, grandson of the chief keeper, in making his escape. Less than 36 hours later he was recaptured in a Brockville hotel.

On charges of stealing a pistol and of being unlawfully at large, St. John elected trial by jury in a higher court. He was working as a trusty at the time of his escape.

"Would you buy... TERM INSURANCE?"

"As a matter of fact, I bought a lot of Term Insurance from the London Life. However, as I began to get out of the woods financially, I changed it to permanent plans.

"Why?

"Well, I don't want my insurance to run out at a time when my need for it may still be as great, if not greater than ever.

—I want things arranged so that my family will never be without insurance protection.

—I want insurance funds for retirement in case I haven't 'made my fortune'.

—I want cash values in my policies in case of emergencies.

"In short, I want all the advantages of permanent insurance."

Urges Canadians Help Form Foreign Policies

PERTH, Oct. 31 (CP).—George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, Monday night called on Canadians to assume responsibility for helping formulate the foreign policies of the democracies.

In a speech entitled, "The Lessons of Korea," prepared for delivery at a district convention of Rotary Clubs, Mr. Drew said the thing which distinguishes a democracy from a dictatorship "is that foreign policy, just as much as any other responsibility of government, should represent the opinion of a majority of all our individual citizens."

He summarized "the most important lessons which Korea has taught us," in this way:

"1. That everything possible should be done and that our clearly stated purpose should be to preserve peace by leaving no doubt that the combined strength of the free world will be employed and will be adequate to deal with any aggressor.

"2. Adequate armed forces for this requirement must be immediately available in being and ready for action to meet any situation which must be dealt with.

"3. There must be certainty in the minds of the men of the Kremlin that immediate action will be taken.

"4. It should be known to ourselves and to the men in the Kremlin whether action will or will not be taken in any particular area.

"5. Approved plans must be ready in advance under which the extent of the participation in any joint operation must be defined.

"6. There must be compact, mobile land forces of immense fire power which can be transported quickly and whenever possible by air."

Alexander Takes City Key Away

OWEN SOUND, Oct. 31 (CP).—Theoretically, residents of Owen Sound have been locked out of their city for the last year, even since the Governor-General took away the key.

Viscount Alexander chuckled over the incident Monday during a return visit to the city. Presented with the yard-long official key to the city during his last trip to Owen Sound, he took it away with him, not realizing that he was supposed to keep only a miniature replica and return the official key for future presentations.

Unabashed, Viscount Alexander told Mayor E. C. Sargent Monday that the key still hangs in a place of honor at his Rideau Hall residence in Ottawa.

Viscount Alexander arrived here on a private railway car enroute for a pheasant hunting expedition on Griffith's Island, a private shooting reserve, 12 miles from here in Georgian Bay. He will be the guest of Col. R. S. McLaughlin of Oshawa.

Motor Vehicle Plants Show Higher Output

OTTAWA, Oct. 31 (CP)—Canadian motor vehicle plants shipped out 294,203 units in the nine months ended Stpt. 30, compared with 216,867 in the corresponding period of last year, the Bureau of Statistics reported Monday.

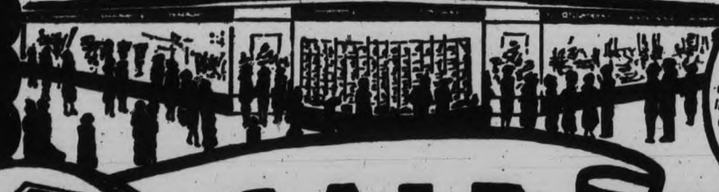
Shipments in September alone total 38,035 units, compared with 24,272 in August and 30,894 in September, 1949.

Sales in Canada of British motor cars in the nine-month period totalled 51,265 passenger cars and 3,478 trucks and buses. No comparison of 1949 sales of British vehicles was available. Vehicles imported from the United States totalled 3,391 in the same period.

Construction Tops 1949

OTTAWA, Oct. 31 (CP)—Value of new residential construction in Canada in the first six months of 1950 reached a peak of $341,000,000, up nine per cent over the corresponding period of 1949, Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation said Monday.

School Car Overturns



TILLSONBURG, Oct. 31 (CP)—An automobile, used as a school bus, overturned and 10 persons were injured when it collided with another vehicle three miles east of Langton Monday. Jerome Baecke, driver of the bus and four pupils were treated at Tillsonburg Memorial Hospital.

Boy Admits Arson

LONDON, Ont., Oct. 31 (CP)—A 15-year-old London boy admitted in juvenile court Monday that he started the fire which caused $20,000 damage in Talbot Street Baptist Church Oct. 2. Judge Donald Menzies directed that the boy remain in his parents' custody until Nov. 27 when final disposition of the arson charge will be made.

VOL. CI. No. 101 TUESDAY, OCTOBER 31, 1950

Three Bylaws Before Voters Total More Than $ Million

Three money bylaws are being referred by the council to the ratepayers for their approval at the municipal elections.

One of them is for $585,000 for a new Collegiate Institute on Monaghan Road south. There is also $300,000 for the completing and furnishing of Civic Hospital and $300,000 to pay for the property and equipment of the new city hall. These total $1,185,000.

The two $300,000 items came before the council Monday night in the form of authorizing the taking of a vote on each of them.

"Is this the final amount for the hospital?" Ald. Doug Miller asked of the chairman, Ald. Hugh Waddell. His reply was that the chairman of the various departments of the hospital had been asked for definite estimates.

"I don't think a firm estimate has been received," Ald. Waddell said, "but I feel that this amount is sufficient to cover the requirements. In any event, the amount of the debenture issue will be only for the amount needed."

Another bylaw officially designated the polling places for the municipal elections. Some other bylaws introduced by Ald., H. Dodds were concerned only with works that had to be backed up by formal authority.

One of them was for a storm drain on King George St., between Park St. and Monaghan Road; another for storm drains in a broad network on King George, Wilson, Braidwood, McGill, Payne, Herman, Barrett, Hurley.

This project is planned for the draining of the surface water from a large area of the new south end of the city, south of McGill St. It is a flat section with only roadside ditches for drains when it was annexed by the city.

From the beginning it was recognized that the city would have to do this improvement job, but so much priority work had to be done that the council is only now getting around to this drainage system.

Third reading of a bylaw to lay a sewer on Noble Place, in the Montgomery brothers housing area at Lundy's Lane and Monaghan Road, is only a minor item of cost and work, but the bylaw had to be submitted to the Ontario Municipal Board after the second reading. That procedure applied to another bylaw for sewers on Chamberlain St. west and Western Ave.

A bylaw introduced by Ald. E. C. Braund authorized execution of the agreement between the city and Gray and Banks for the alterations to the fire hall.

Still another was brought in by Ald. Adam Sands switching to the west side of Water St. between Murray and Brock Streets the parking that has been permitted on the east, at the Victoria Park curb.

The new parking accommodation is to be restricted to one hour, after signs have been erected.

Mill Rate of 52.5 In 1951 Forecast For City In Treasury Dept. Statement

Prospect of a 52.5 mill tax rate next year, and 54.5 mills annually for the following three years, was scanned by the finance committee of the council Monday night in a tabulation of estimates prepared by the treasury department and Mr. Edward Humpage, city auditor. This statement, signed by Mr. Humpage, was similar in its purpose and content to the preview of Peterborough's municipal financing trends which Mr. Herbert Bradburn submitted when he was alderman and chairman of the finance committee.

"It is a warning to be careful about getting into further capital expenditure," Ald. John A. Dewart commented.

Also on that side of the picture, which some ratepayers may regard as formidable, was the remark of Ald. T. D. Miller: "While the estimates indicate that the rate may go up to 54 mills, the council should not accept that prospect without a desperate effort to hold the rate as close to 50 mills as we can."

Schedule Summarized

Mr. Humpage summarized several schedules, the first of which lists present and pending projects which have to be paid for by borrowing money through the procedure of issuing debentures.

Some of this municipal work is being done this year, some of it is contemplated for 1951, and the rest for 1952-53.

These items include completion of Civic Hospital and the City Hall; new schools, fire hall extension, sewers, storm drains, pavements and miscellaneous expenditures classified as capital investment in the city's own estate. Some of them may possibly be omitted from civic improvement programs of the next three years. At any rate the debenture outlook for four years, including 1950, amounts to $2,535,000. This means new borrowing.

First on the list of $300,000 for the completion of Civic Hospital and cost of equipment and furnishings. That item was recently explained and reported from the conference of the council and Board of Governors. It is dated in the statement as 1950 work. Debentures are to be for 20 years at 3¼ per cent interest, first payment being due in 1951.

Site For City Hall

Second item is $300,000 for the purchase of the site and furnishings of the new city hall. It is listed as a 1951 job, because the building will not be completed until then. First debenture payment will be payable in 1952. This amount is in addition to the $500,000 expected from the legacy of the late W. G. Morrow.

The sum of $250,000 for the Memorial Centre (some one said maybe) is put down for 1953, considered as a possibility.

Next are three annual items of $25,000 for miscellaneous capital outlay for 1950, 1951 and 1952. Then there is $50,000 for fire hall extension, dated 1952.

That entire group is shown under general municipal debt.

50 New Homes On Park St. Near Braidwood

Building of 50 houses on the former Scott Lumber Co. property, Park St. south at Braidwood St., is planned by Donald Ephgrave for 1951.

The Park St. frontage is likely to be reserved for commercial stores, with dwelling apartments upstairs. A letter from Davis-Thompson Co. to the city council suggests that it would be necessary to open a "U" street in the property, from Braidwood Ave., and early information as to the outlook for road, sewer and other accommodation was desired before the end of the month when a present option expires.

The reply of the council was to the effect that the petitioner should follow the same course that was laid down for Cobourg Lumber Co. in their High St. subdivision.

That deal by the council marked an abrupt turning from the previous system in which the city did that work and ratepayers generally had to pay for it, by borrowing money on debenture issues.

Cobourg Lumber accepted the agreement by which they pay the city for providing those services. The cost is distributed over the housing area, thereby served, and the purchasers of those properties know their final outlay when they are moving into their new homes.

They are not in the position of discovering later that they have to pay frontage charges for sewers, and so on.

Most of the housing projects which were undertaken during the last six or seven years were all on the basis of the city assuming the cost of property development to the extent of road, sewers, sidewalks, curbs.

Art Westbrook Named CNR Metallurgist

Arthur T. G. Westbrook, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Westbrook, 268 London St., has been appointed chief metallurgist of the Canadian National Railways. The appointment was announced by CNR vice presidents S. W. Fairweather and S. F. Dingle.

For the past few years, Mr. Westbrook has been attached to the Montreal headquarters of the CNR.

ARTHUR T. G. WESTBROOK

He graduated from PCVS in 1932 and while there was a member of the football team. In 1936, he graduated from Queen's University as a metallurgical engineer, and worked several years as a mining engineer following graduation.

He then joined the CNR in Stratford as a machinery expert, and later transferred to Montreal as assistant test engineer. He was later appointed metallurgist with the company's research department.

Canadian Legion Completes Remembrance Season Plans

This year the Canadian Legion (Branch 52, Peterborough) hope to better the 1949 total of $3,507.12 in their annual poppy campaign. Money contributed by the public gives employment to disabled veterans of both World Wars, and gives a financial boost to widows and orphans of veterans. Locally, it helps swell the welfare fund of Branch 52. The fund is spent on veterans and their dependents who are financially up against it.

Albert Mason, chairman of the Poppy Day committee, announces this year's Remembrance Day exercises.

Saturday, November 4 will be "Poppy Day." And on November 5 a Remembrance church parade will be held. Members of the Legion—Branch 52 (men) and Branch 452 (ex-service women)—as well as the Ladies' Auxiliary and interested citizens will "fall in" at 6.15 p.m. in front of the Legion and parade to St. James' United Church.

The guest speaker will be Major John Foote, V.C., M.P.P., for Durham and vice-chairman of the LCBO. Major Foote won his Victoria Cross at Dieppe where he was taken prisoner by the Germans.

This year November 11 falls on a Saturday and Legion officials are hoping to have a record-size parade. Marchers will "fall in" at 10:15 a.m. in front of the Armouries. The route will be west along McDonnel St. to Aylmer, then south to Charlotte, east to George and north to the War Memorial in Confederation Park.

Four bands will accompany the veterans: 50th HAA Regimental, Citizens', Salvation Army and the CGE Pipe Band.

Major General Arthur E. Potts, CBE, district DVA administrative officer, will take the salute at the War Memorial. He will also speak briefly. Other speakers at the 11 a.m. service will be the Rev. Walter J. Gilling, the Rev. W. C. McCarney, Mayor Max J. Swanston, Gordon K. Fraser, M.P., and the Hon. Harold R. Scott, M.P.P.

Wreaths will be placed on the War Memorial by the city's ex-service organizations represented by Patrick Burke, president of Branch 52; Mrs. B. W. Harvey, president of the Peterborough Silver Cross Chapter; Mrs. W. H. Morewood, president of Branch 452 (women's branch), and Mrs. Albert Mason, president of the Ladies' Auxiliary.

The annual Armistice dinner will be held at 6:30 p.m. in the Legion Hall with catering by the Ladies' Auxiliary. Major Potts will deliver the main address.

Fraser Named PC Member To Go To UN

Vice-chairman of the Progressive Conservative section of the External Affairs Committee in the House of Commons since 1940, Gordon K. Fraser, MP, received word today of his appointment as one of the two Canadian PC parliamentary representatives to the General Assembly of the United Nations, Lake Success. The other party member is Gordon Higgins, MP, of St. John's, Nfld., and the past representative was Gordon Graydon, MP, of Peel County.

It was learned today that Mr. and Mrs. Fraser will leave for New York on Sunday where Mr. Fraser will attend the General Assembly session for a short period.

MAIN ST. TOPICS

SNAPS HYDRO POLE

James Byrne, 39, Rogers Street, snapped off a hydro pole in Lindsay this week-end, when his south-bound car went out of control on Lindsay Street South. Byrne was uninjured, but his car received $160 damage. Lindsay police investigated.

STREET SALE $2,293

The street sale of poppies in 1949 netted the local poppy campaign $2,293.87. Wreaths and other donations to the fund amounted to $1,213.25 making a total of $3,507.12. The money is used for disabled veterans and in a welfare fund for needy veterans and their dependents.

UNIONIST SPEAKS

Frank Haxall, secretary of the Electrical Trade Union (ETU) of Great Britain, will speak at 8 p.m. Thursday, Brock St. Summer Gardens on conditions and wages in the British electrical industry. It will be a public meeting sponsored by the United Electrical Workers. The ETU claims a membership of 200,000.

WHEEL SNAPS OFF

The left front wheel of a dump truck driven by George W. Manley, 33, RR 8, Peterborough, snapped off late Monday afternoon causing the truck to slew into the ditch, where it crashed against a rock. The mishap occurred on the 10th line of Otonabee, nearly two miles north of Highway 7. Damage to the dump truck is estimated at $75. Provincial Constable C. A. Naismith investigated.

Clear Way For Trout

STE. ADELE, Que. —(CP)— Clearing the way for trout, provincial government workers have eliminated coarse fish, mostly perch, from Millette Lake. They used a ton of powder to eliminate oxygen from the water so the fish would die. Next spring the lake will be stocked with brown and rainbow trout fingerlings.

GE Rejects UE Bid To Open Contract For Wage Raises

The Canadian General Electric Co. has turned thumbs down on a union request to open up the existing contract so a wage increase could be negotiated. In a letter to C. S. Jackson, Canadian president of the United Electrical Workers, Kirk Corkery, GGE vice-president, said the request was contrary to the present one-year agreement on wages and working conditions. The proper time to commence wage negotiations will be next February, he said.

The UE is demanding the reopening of negotiations to obtain a straight 15-cents-an-hour increase, with an additional five cents an hour for skilled and other day-rate workers. A similar demand is being made of the Westinghouse Co., the difference being that the Westinghouse workers want an additional 10 cents an hour for skilled and other day-rate workers.

I. F. McRae, Peterborough works manager, has circulated a letter among the production workers and included a copy of the letter of refusal sent President Jackson and the heads of the five UE locals in the CGE chain.

"The union has asked for an immediate resumption of negotiations, although this is contrary to the one-year-agreement signed about seven months ago," says Mr. McRae.

Five Reasons

Five reasons for refusing the union request were listed in Mr. Corkery's letter:

1. "The present agreement between the union and the company was signed on March 27, 1950, and establishes agreed upon wages and working conditions for a period of not less than one full year. The agreement states in Article 8, section 2, that the present schedule of rates 'shall remain in effect for the duration of this agreement'.

Not General

"The same section does provide that the present schedule of wages may be modified as a result of an examination of each individual job in order to see that each job is paid in line with what it takes to do the job and in line with the relationship in the community. However, in this connection the Agreement says in Article 8A: 'It is not the intention of the parties that these discussions be used as a means of trying to secure a general wage increase or decrease.'

"From the above it is clear that when the Company and the Union signed the Agreement in March of this year each party accepted that the Agreement would not be opened for a term of twelve months.

2. "The Union is now asking to be allowed not to be bound by that Agreement and is asking the Company to negotiate a wage increase anyway.

"The main reason advanced by the Union is Mr. Jackson's letter of October 6th, as to why the Company should do this is the 'substantial rapid and continuing increase in the prices of commodities.'

"When the Company signed the present Agreement in March 1950 it granted a 4.77 per cent increase in hourly rates. The cost of living index for March was 163.7. Since that time the index has risen 169.8, according to the latest published figures which amounts to an increase of 3.73 per cent in six months.

"During the 1947-48 Agreement signed in July 1947, the cost of living index increased 9.1 per cent during the first six months of the Agreement. On this occasion both the Company and the Union waited until the regular time the Agreement provide for negotiating changes in the wage scale.

Increase 19.3 Per Cent

3. "In handbills and at plant gate meetings the Union has agreed that wages should be negotiated now because employees have not had a negotiated increase in take home pay since July 1948, because the last increase of 4.77 per cent paid for a reduction in working hours. The facts in this regards are as follows:

From June 1948, to September 1950, the cost of living index rose from 154.3 to 169.8—that is an increase of 10.5 per cent.

From June 1948, to September 1950, the average take home pay of employees in the bargaining units concerned has increased an average of 19.3 per cent.

4. "The average weekly earnings of C.G.E. employees in all plants in the bargaining units affected are between $5.00 and $6.00 higher per week than the average weekly wage paid in manufacturing generally as reported by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

5. "Our average hourly rates are similarly many cents above the average hourly rates so reported for Toronto, and a very recent local survey of rates in Toronto further indicates that our rates are equal to or better than those which are generally being paid for comparable work.

"After considering all of the above factors and carefully reviewing the entire situation we are not prepared to open up the present Agreement in order to negotiate a general wage increase. Instead we should live by our present Agreement under which it will be entirely proper to commence wage negotiations during the month of February next."

Saturday Trial Takes Deer Day

The deer hunting season invaded Police Court today when Crown Attorney John A Bradshaw suggested that Bruce Meredith, 829 Erskine Avenue, charged with theft of a windbreaker be remanded to Saturday for trial.

Representing Meredith, Emmett F. Sheehy exclaimed, "No, that's deer hunting day."

The Crown Attorney asked that Meredith be remanded without bail to Thursday. He said he was not in favor of setting bail, because the Provincial Police were investigating other matters concerning Meredith and the accused man had interfered with the police investigation already.

However, when Mr. Sheehy protested that that was not sufficient reason, bail was set at $1,000.

146 Girls To Try Out Red Cross Swim Tests

A total of 146 girls are expected to try Red Cross Swimming Tests at the YWCA before the end of this year, according to Miss Audrey Hustwitt, swimming director. Miss Hustwitt reports that this is one of the biggest groups to try tests at the "Y" for the past few years.

Approximately 50 girls will try the Junior Red Cross swimming test, and 32 the Intermediate test. Ten are slated to try for the Elementary Royal Lifesaving Certificate and 10 for the Intermediate Certificate.

The Bronze Medallion will be the goal for 38 girls and four will try the Instructor's Award test. Two girls will try tests for the Silver Medallion — the second highets award offered by the Canadian Red Cross.

Hospital Auxiliary Ingersoll Nets $33,000

TORONTO, Oct. 31 — (CP).— The Ingersoll Auxiliary of the Women's Hospital Aid Association was cited yesterday for its collection of a $33,000 furnishing fund for the hospital in that community.

The auxiliary assumed full responsibility for purchasing equipment and furnishing all rooms, exclusive of kitchen and operating rooms.

Peterborough Civic Hospital Auxiliary raised $12,000 for a hospital there, and a St. Catharines sanitorium auxiliary $13,500.

Coeducation School Asked For Reform Boys and Girls

TORONTO, Oct. 31—Erection of a coeducational institute at Cobourg for boys and girls now sent to Galt, Bowmanville and Cobourg for misdemeanors, is being considered by the provincial government, Reform Institutions Minister Hamilton advised the Women's Progressive Conservative Association of Toronto, Inc., at its meeting Monday.

He said the department is facing the problem of building a girls' school, or the alternative, a coeducational school, similar to that which has been successfully carried on in Kentucky for 25 years.

Mr. Hamilton, inviting the serious consideration of Ontario women and women's organizations to the proposed experiment, said he and the deputy minister, C. F. Neelands, had recently attended a meeting of Correctional Workers Association, and visited the Kentucky school.

They were so impressed that next week a group of representatives will be sent to live in the institution for a week.

Until the reactions of that delegation are received no further move will be made. Meantime the minister hopes women will not hesitate to express their ideas and views on the proposition.

At the US coeducational school the young people are grouped much as in high schools in Ontario. They take some work and recreation in separate units and in others are together.

In the dining room the girls and boys are separated, at dances and in some physical training and crafts works they are together, "just as normal young people should be." Always, he emphasized, they are well chaperoned. The question is whether segregation is a help or hindrance to the making of good citizens of these young offenders.

Accidents Can Be Avoided But Be Prepared For Them; Some Proper Precautions

Well Mr. Kawartha hunter, getting all set for the Big Day on the 7th? While you are getting your gear together so carefully how about seeing your barrister friend about putting your last will and testament in good order? Is your life insurance paid up? Does your family know where they can find the family undertaker's phone number quickly?

All this may sound like a joke to you, or, the opening of a scare story, but, you are all pretty good guys and we want to see you around for many years to come. And knowing that you are good guys, take time out to read some of the following hints on self preservation. And be sure it is the deer carcass your pals strap to the fenders, not yours.

At least ninety-five per cent of all hunting accidents each year due to firearms can be avoided if every gunner will acquaint himself with the fundamentals of safe gun handling and constantly practice them, says Henry P. Davis, public relations manager, Remington Arms Company, Inc. "These fundamentals are simple and serve a dual purpose. First, they help keep hunting a safe sport and, second, they make for better marksmanship," continued Mr. Davis. "There is no excuse for carelessness in gun handling, whether the weapon be loaded or not. The cardinal rule of gun safety is 'Treat every gun with the respect due a loaded gun.'

"Always remember to NEVER point a gun at anything you do not want to shoot. Never leave your gun unattended unless you unload it first. Never climb a tree or fence with a loaded gun.

"Simple easy to remember and easy-to-follow rules, these, but so very, very important to your own safety and that of your companion.

"Carry only empty guns, taken down or with the action open, into your automobile, camp or home. Whenever you pick up a gun, whether you are indoors or outdoors, ALWAYS first point the muzzle of the gun in a safe direction and examine the piece carefully to make sure whether or not it is loaded.

"The pointing of a loaded gun toward a companion is a violation of every principle of good sportsmanship. It is the unpardonable sin of shooting ethics. Do it just once and you have lost the respect and comradeship of your companion, and branded yourself as either a thoughtless novice or a careless, dangerous shooter with whom it is unsafe to go afield. WATCH THAT MUZZLE. Never indulge in 'horseplay' with firearms. This foolhardy practice has caused many fatal and near-fatal accidents.

"The leaving of loaded guns unattended is extremely dangerous. A companion may pick one up thinking it to be unloaded. If it is propped against a tree, car or post, a frisking hunting dog may bump against it, knocking off the safety and stepping on the trigger. These things have happened!

Lay Gun Down Flat

"When you are resting in the field or woods, always lay your gun down flat, preferably unloading it first and with the muzzle pointing away from everybody. No one can enjoy a lunch looking down the muzzle of a gun, loaded or unloaded.

"In climbing over fences or obstructions, always first pass your gun over to your companion, or pass it through the fance and lay it on the ground. A stumble or a fall might prove disastrous.

"Before loading your gun, always make sure that the barrel and action are free from obstructions. Foreign matter in the barrel causes more 'blown up' guns than any other factor. Should you stumble badly or fall and your gun muzzle touch the ground, always unload and look through the bore to be sure that it is not clogged with mud, snow or other substance.

"If you are walking single file, keep your muzzle pointed forward. If you are walking behind your companion, see that your gun points away from him at all times. It is best to walk abreast in the field or woods, but in doing so, see that your muzzle is always pointed away from your companion. Never crowd your companion in the duck blind. Be sure that each of you has plenty of room in which to shoot safely.

"Never, NEVER pull a gun, loaded or unloaded, toward you from a boat, car or through a fence. You are flirting with a date with the undertaker when you do this.

"Always see that your safety is ON until you are ready to shoot. Sudden jars and brushing against twigs or brush can release the safety catch without your knowing it. Examine it frequently.

"When you approach camp or your automobile, always unload your gun. Take it down or open the action before putting it away or setting it aside.

"Always make sure of your target before pulling the trigger. Take a good look . . . and then look again! Never fire in the direction of a sudden sound. It may be caused by some farmer's livestock, or, worse still, another hunter. And this has happened, too!

"When you are in the woods or close cover, it is best to wear some article of bright color, preferably red. No deer goes prancing around wearing a red bandana.

"Be careful of shooting at flat, hard surfaces or the surface of water. Dangerous ricochets may result from such shooting.

"Don't be afraid of being accused of having 'old maidish' ideas in the practice of these simple principles of gun safety. By observing them, you will gain the respect and admiration of your fellow sportsmen and by example, encourage them to do likewise.

"Be on the alert always. This will avoid confusion and allow you to bring your gun into action quickly. Alertness makes for good marksmanship. Carry your gun at the 'ready' position, hands on the fore-end and grip, muzzle elevated at an angle about in line with your eye. Adopt a free and easy attitude. This will allow you to bring your gun up to your shoulder quickly, get your cheek down on the stock easily and permits the free swing which gets results.

"Watch your footing carefully. Try to always be in position to gain a solid, comfortable shooting stance which will allow quick coordination of mind and muscle.

"Always go comfortably shod. Pinched or blistered feet will spoil any day's hunt. Dress as lightly as possibly. If the weather is cold, a couple of light sweaters under your hunting jacket will keep you warm, and if they become uncomfortable, one or both can be removed and carried in the game pocket.

"It is a compliment to be invited to go hunting with an experienced gunner. It means he believes you will observe all the rules of safety and practice good sportsmanship. Don't let him down by taking chances and you'll help make hunting a safer sport."

Duck Shooting Camera Style

PORTAGE LA PRAIRIE, Man. —(CP)— Ducks migrating to this area are going to be "shot"—but they won't mind it.

The shooting will be done by Julian St. George, a cameraman with the National Film Board. He will also photograph the annual duck shooting season.

Last year, he photographed the life sequence of ducks and geese at the Delta Research Station here.

Raise $106,708 To Aid Hospitals

TORONTO, Oct. 31 (CP). — Reports given at the 40th annual meeting of the Women's Hospital Aids of Ontario Monday showed unusual projects helped raise $106,708 for hospitals in 1949.

One of the most novel ventures was undertaken by the Chatham General Auxiliary which sponsored a visit to a local laundry which paid 50 cents a member for advertising.

Some 300 delegates of 83 auxiliaries throughout the province are attending the convention. They were guests at a reception by Lieutenant-Governor Ray Lawson and Mrs. Lawson at Queen's Park Monday afternoon.

Fort William McKellar and Sarnia General were reported leaders in membership with 1,500 and 1,350 respectively.

Turner-Snelgrove Wedding Rites Held Saturday

MILLBROOK, Oct. 31—(ENS)—The marriage took place Saturday afternoon of Jean Anne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Delbert B. Snelgrove of Fraserville and Edward Fisher, son of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Turner of Fairmount.

For the ceremony at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Vertil Kennedy, the bridal party stood under an arch of green fern and gold 'mums. The Rev. T. G. Husser of St. Andrew's United Church officiated.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a blue crepe dress, navy hat trimmed with light blue and pink feathers, and a corsage of gardenias and pink roses.

Miss Velma White, the bridesmaid, was in a navy crepe dress with navy lace yoke over pink and navy hat trimmed with pink. Her corsage was of pink roses.

The groomsman was George Turner, brother of the groom.

Wedding music was played by Mrs. Fred Youngman of Pontypool.

A reception for about 60 guests followed. The bride's mother wore a black crepe dress with grey hat and accessories and a corsage of white ostrich plumes and red baby roses. The groom's mother wore grey crepe and her velvet hat and the accessories were of black. She wore a similar corsage.

Those who helped to serve included: Miss Hilda Darling, Mrs. Percy Buck, Mrs. Fred Youngman, Mrs. Leonard Hanley and Mrs. Gerald Snelgrove.

The bride and groom left for a wedding trip to the Thousand Islands and points east. On return they will live in Millbrook.

Audrey Armstrong Of Millbrook Wed

The marriage took place Saturday afternoon at Millbrook St. Andrew's United Church parsonage, of Audrey Elizabeth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin J. Armstrong, Millbrook, to Mr. Bert Henry Gardiner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Gardiner, Cavan township. The Rev. T. G. Husser officiated. The bride wore a pale blue gabardine suit with navy velvet hat, navy accessories and a corsage of red roses. Miss Glowena McInnis of Omemee, the bridesmaid, was in a gray gabardine suit with navy hat and accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

The groomsman was Ronald Gibson.

A reception for the immediate families was held at the home of the bride's parents. Her mother wore a wine crepe dress with black hat and accessories and a corsage of pink carnations. The mother of the groom was dressed in navy faille, black hat and accessories, and wore a corsage of white carnations.

Later the bride and groom left for a trip to Ottawa and points east. On return they will live in Millbrook.

Camp Counsellor For 15 Summers

MONTREAL (CP)—When Mrs. Ruth Horstein agreed to supervise a non-profit camp in Ontario in 1935, she didn't realize that she had accepted a job that would keep her busy every summer for 15 years. But that's how it ended up, and she wouldn't change her position now for the world.

Since she became interested in camp work, Mrs. Horstein has done practically everything from teaching crafts to consoling lonesome moppets. She even dubbed in as a cook when the regular cook took an unexpected vacation. "After all, I am a housewife and I know how to cook," she laughed.

Mrs. Hornstein feels there are a lot of women who are anxious to have their children attend camp, yet are unable to arrange it for financial or other reasons. The answer, she believes, is for the mother to take on a position as counsellor and take the children along.

Need Qualifications

However she warns that certain qualifications are necessary. When Mrs. Hornstein first took up camp work, she enrolled in child psychology courses at McGill, studied arts and crafts and any other thing concerned with camp work.

In her opinion, an older woman has an advantage over a junior counsellor, especially when it comes to discipline. "She is more understanding, and not as strict."

Mrs. Hornstein believes that it is more often the parents who are to blame for instability in a child than the child itself. "We need confidence in youth," she said. "They are the backbone of our country, and we should do all we can to help them."

HE GAVE UP

EDMONTON — (CP) — An Edmonton motorist unable to find parking space for his car one day, decided the best solution was to have no car. Ten minutes after he enquired at police headquarters about parking possibilities, he called again to say he had sold the car.

Child Writes Candid Book As New Guide to Grown-ups

By GENE KRAMER

BERKELEY, Calif., O.—(AP)—Many a youngster has complained about grown-ups, but few ever did anything about it until Jill Owsley came along.

At the age of 10, this neat, brown-haired girl amazed her mother by scribbling outspoken child's-eye-views of her elders.

Now, two years later, Jill, who lives in a modest but comfortable attic apartment with her mother, Mrs. Alice Owsley, is awaiting royalties from her first book.

Titled "A Handy Guide to Grown-ups," it is a collection of her opinions on what makes grown-ups tick and how kids can get along with them.

Jill—short for Jennifer—started writing, her mother said, because "she thought she'd had a pushing around from the adults in her life.

Needed Handbook

"She saw all the books on child care I was reading and decided children needed a handbook worse than adults.

"When she was annoyed, she'd write something. Often she'd cross it out later. The book is what is left."

One of the gems it contains:

"Hardly any mothers will stop talking (on the telephone) until you bother them quite a lot. I think it is perfectly fair to bother them as much as you have to. After all, they can call their friends back after you have to be in bed. Some of the ways to bother them are: going upstairs and calling them, starting downstairs without any coat on . . . "

On the jacket, Random House suggests the book is hilarious for adults and definitely on the "Let's-be-sure-to-keep-this-from-the-kids" type.

But Jill insists, "the publishers misunderstood. It's for kids. Of course, I guess there are more grown-ups than kids and they had to make money. Kids don't have as much money as grown-ups."

Mother Is Typist

Jill had strong feelings on grown-ups. She wrote them down and had her mother type them. After appearing in Parents' magazine, they were printed in book form.

Jill wants to be a writer or a psychiatrist but frankly hasn't started thinking about courses to take or what college she'll attend.

As for the book, it is hard to believe that statements like "to understand adults you need to understand a little about the way they think about money," could be written by a 12-year-old without help from her mother, or an editor.

But both publisher and mother insist the work is all her own, and the spectacled young lady makes statements just as candid in normal conversation—like "people you meet camping are different from those in motor courts."

Likes To Grow Up

Or on the sizes of people — "there are more adults and they stay the same size and shape, so furniture is made for them instead of kids."

For this reason, said Jill, she's glad she's growing up. It's easier than it used to be, she declared, to reach the dishes she's washing.

And "when I fry bacon it doesn't pop in my face like before."

It is on the note of growing up that Jill closes the book with the postscript:

"I am beginning to be adolescent now. I am more mixed up than I used to be. Writing this book was fun, but I seem to have gotten more mixed up as I went on. This is probably because I kept growing up myself all the time. I couldn't stop and neither could you, even if we wanted to."

Doreen Schell Weds Thomas Snider Of Detroit, Mich.

In the Sacred Heart Church Saturday morning, nuptial vows were pledged by Teresa Doreen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Schell, and Thomas Kevin Snider, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Snider of Detroit. The Rev. G. F. Sullivan performed the marriage and said the mass.

Miss Alma LaPlante played the wedding march and "O Sacred Heart" and "On This Day". The church was decorated with yellow 'mums and other flowers.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was in a gown of ivory satin with long train edged with Chantilly lace, and the skirt caught up at the front to show tiers of lace on the underskirt. Her floor-length veil of white net was crested with a chaplet of lily of the valley and she was carrying a bouquet of red roses. Bridesmaid was her sister Mrs. J. White who wore turquoise taffeta and a matching feathered headdress and carried a cascade of red roses and white baby 'mums.

Groomsman was Mr. John Vinski of Detroit and ushers were Earl and Raymond Schell, brothers of the bride.

The reception was held in the Empress Kawartha Room. For the wedding the bride's mother wore a beige crepe dress with black felt hat. The groom's mother wore grey wool jersey with brown accessories and each had a corsage of red roses.

Leaving on a wedding trip to Ottawa and points east the bride was wearing a teal blue gabardine suit and matching hat with navy accessories and a fur neckpiece. Her corsage was an orchid.

The couple will live in Detroit, Michigan.

Joyce Cavano Manvers Bride

Manvers United Church was the setting on Saturday afternoon for the wedding of Joyce Adelene, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Cavano of Pontypool, to Mr. John Bishop Stubbins of Montreal, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Stubbins of Meota, Sask.

Mauve and yellow chrysanthemums decorated the church for the occasion. The Rev. C. Kellogg performed the marriage ceremony and the music was played by Miss June Hutchinson, cousin of the bride. During signing of the register she played "I Love You Truly."

The bride's gown of ivory slipper satin was designed with a bateau neckline and a peplum which fell into a short train. Her veil was of tulle illusion and lace, caught with a bandeau of braided satin and seed pearls and she carried a cascade of pink roses and bouvardia.

Mr. Cavano gave his daughter in marriage and she was attended by her sister, Miss Marilyn Cavano who wore a frock of sky blue brocaded satin with feather bandeau in matching shade. She carried a bouquet of bronze and yellow chrysanthemums.

Mr. Cecil Hewlett of Kingston was the groomsman and ushers were Ronald Pomeroy of Bethany and Ralph Allely of Toronto.

The reception was at the home of the bride's parents, her mother receiving the guests in a gown of powder blue faille with navy accessories and corsage of pink roses. The groom's aunt, Mrs. Oscar Carson of Prescott also received. She was attired in navy and wore blush pink roses.

For travelling the bride chose a dress of forest green wool crepe and black accessories and a cinnamon colored Scotch wool topcoat.

After a short wedding trip the couple will live in Montreal.

The bride graduated last year from the Civic Hospital School of Nursing, Peterborough, and was the winner of the silver medal for general proficiency during her training.

Teresa Crebar Marries Bryce Ruttle

At the Immaculate Conception Church Saturday morning Teresa Christina, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. V. E. Crebar, Peterborough, became the bride of Bryce William Ruttle, son of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Ruttle of Montreal. The Rev. James Greenan performed the ceremony and said the nuptial mass.

The church was decorated with white 'mums. Mrs. J. O'Donnel played the wedding music and Mrs. D. Campanaro sang.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother Mr. Anthony Crebar. She wore a gown of white satin with three-quarter tunic of lace finished with a net overskirt, with frills of lace trimming the bodice and the joining of the lace and net. Her full length veil fell from a sweetheart headpiece and her bouquet was of red roses and white 'mums.

Attendants were the bride's sisters, Mrs. F. J. Frape as matron of honor and Mrs. Jack Wood as bridesmaid. Their dresses were of blue and yellow taffeta and they wore sweetheart headdresses to match and lily-pointed mittens, Mrs. Frape carried white and yellow 'mums and Mrs. Wood had white and mauve 'mums. Small flower girl Delores Bellisario of Toronto was dressed in mauve and wore a headpiece of lilacs and roses and carried a basket of white and yellow 'mums.

The groomsman was James Frape and ushers were Michael Crebar and Warren Ruttle, brothers of the bride and groom.

The reception was at Mrs. Crebar's home, the Chicken Palace apartment, and she received in a wine dress with black velvet hat and corsage of white 'mums. She was assisted by the groom's mother who wore a brown gabardine suit with green felt hat and corsage of talisman roses.

For travelling the bride chose a two-tone brown suit and black accessories and her corsage was an orchid.

The couple will live at the bride's home on No. 7 Highway.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—
Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go
The liver should pour out about 2 pints of bile juice into your digestive tract every day. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food may not digest. It may just decay in the digestive tract. Then gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. You feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.
It takes those mild, gentle Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these 2 pints of bile flowing freely to make you feel "up and up." Get a package today. Effective in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills, 35¢ at any druggists.

DOROTHY DIX

People of Different Races Face Difficult Adjustment

DEAR MISS DIX — I am an American girl and have been in love with an Oriental for four years. We fell in love in our grammar-school days and have been devoted to each other ever since, but we cannot marry because our parents' objections on account of our difference in nationality. We know that if we could marry we would live happy lives, loving and working and helping one another, and it seems too cruel that we should be separated by the accident of race. What would you suggest? Shall we marry in spite of our parents' objections? Or shall we break off our engagement and go through life loving and wanting each other?

PUZZLED.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER—The problem of the mixed marriage, the marriage of people of different nationalities and different religious faiths is one that tears at thousands of young hearts and that no one has the wisdom to solve, or the temerity on which to give advice. So much is to be said on both sides of the question. There is religion, for instance. It would seem that religion, which in its essence is the love of God and the desire to live a life filled with kindness and charity and good deeds, should not be a bar between two people who love each other no matter to what particular creed they belong. Yet experience teaches us that there can be no other one thing, not even the greatest crime that a against each other, over which husband and wife can commit they can fight so bitterly and which can tear them apart so effectually as their respective creeds.

There Are Exceptions

Of course, people of different religious faiths do marry and live happily together, but this only happens when both the man and the woman are exceptionally intelligent and broad-minded and just.

The same thing may be said of intermarriage between the races. It is always a dangerous experiment because it makes the adjustment between a husband and wife, which is always a difficult thing, a thousand times more hazardous.

Only a great and abiding love on both sides can make a marriage between a man and woman of different races successful, and before they enter into one they should not only be certain of their own affections, but should discuss with each other frankly and freely the social and family problems they will face—the prejudices, often the hostility of their parents, the rearing of children, their schooling and their religious training.

They must also be prepared for occasional rebuffs, snubs and derogatory comments from those they meet. Their love must be sufficient to outweigh contempt or ridicule and to make the daily and hourly sacrifice of their own particular "ways" a joy instead of a penance.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I was secretly married during my vacation. I am in my third year in college with, of course, no job and no way to support myself or a wife. Now our families have found out about the marriage and they both object, mine particularly. My mother refuses to help us even to the extent of giving us jobs, as she could easily do, for she is the personnel director of a large department store. What do you think I should do? Continue with my education, or go to work and have my wife come East and live with me?

M.L.

ANSWER: I think that the way girls and boys marry and foist their husbands and wives on their parents to support is the very height of selfishness and ingratitude and lack of consideration of others.

Your mother is a working woman. Doubtless she has labored for years and made a thousand sacrifices in order to give you an education and fit you for some occupation in which you will have a chance to make a success in life. But because you think you have fallen in love with a girl and you are not willing to deny yourself the gratification of marrying her, you blithely rush into an ill-advised and untimely union and dump all of your responsibilities on your mother.

If you were a man instead of a boy, you would not feel it honourable to marry until you could support a wife yourself instead of expecting your mother to do it for you.

My advice to you is not to mess your life up any further by this foolish marriage, but to let it hang fire while you go on with your education. Let the girl stay with her parents and you stay with yours, and when you are ready to support her you can set up your own house.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I am engaged to a man who would make a wonderful husband, but he adores children and I dislike them. My fiance and I have not discussed this subject. Do you think I should tell him my views on the subject before we marry? Can't a marriage be just as successful without children as with them?

E.M.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: I think you would certainly be most dishonest to marry the man without telling him that you would not be willing to have children. A marriage can be just as successful without children as with them, but only if both the man and the woman are agreed on the subject.

Of Interest to Women

BISCUIT TORTONI is usually served in a neat little glazed box or in a paper cup, and is correct at the most formal of tables.

COOKBOOK OF THE WEEK

Classic Dessert for Parties Made in Refrigerator Trays

Whether you are looking for a rich dessert just to please the family or for something to delight the bridge table or the formal party, you will find the recipe you want in "250 Luscious Refrigerator Desserts, sixteenth in the series of twenty-four cookbooks now being made available a book a week, to readers of The Examiner.

This remarkable cookbook contains concise directions for making all kinds of refrigerator desserts—many tried and true recipes and many new and unusual concoctions. Some are quickies and others are more involved. But the tempting illustrations on every page will make you want to try one page after another. For a perfect choice for the dessert of a carefully planned dinner party, you cannot go wrong if you make Biscuit Tortoni:

BISCUIT TORTONI

1 teaspoon unflavored gelatin
1 tablespoon cold water.
1 cup sugar
½ cup water
6 egg yolks
¼ teaspoon salt
¾ cup crushed macaroons
½ cup chopped nut meats
¾ cup chopped blanched almonds.
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 cups heavy cream, whipped

Soften gelatin in water 5 minutes. Boil sugar, water and salt to 230°F. or until syrup spins a thread. Pour slowly over beaten egg yolks, stirring constantly. Add softened gelatin and stir until completely dissolved. Cool. Fold in macaroons, nut meats, vanilla and whipped cream. Pour into paper souffle cups, place in tray of refrigerator and freeze. Serves 15 to 18.

Use 1 cup corn syrup instead of sugar.

If desired freeze in refrigerator tray instead of paper cups.

To get the Refrigerator Desserts cookbook and the wonderful titles that precede it, all you need do is clip a coupon from Page 2 of any issue of this newspaper — one coupon for each cookbook — and present them with 25c for each book at The Examiner, from your Carrier, or at Braund's Home Food Markets. Or to obtain your copies by mail send the coupons and 30c for each book (5c additional for postage and handling) to Cookbook Department, Examiner, Peterborough.

Cookery Courses Not for French Pastry

By MARY MOORE

A pretty girl by the name of Bunny was in a cooking class I attended in my 'teems and on our last day when we were about to receive our diplomas she exclaimed:

"I still don't know how to make Chocolate Eclairs."

This was intended to be amusing and was,—for it was while she was having some delicious chocolate eclairs for dinner that she had decided, with the counsel of her parents, to take this particular course in cooking, so that she would know how to bake such delectable morsels.

Of course, diploma courses in cookery are not designed for would-be French pastry artists. To learn to make such things in Canada most of us have to learn by the trial and error method.

Would you like me to give you a few recipes for authentic French dishes today? The "choux" paste for eclairs is the same as is used for cream puffs.

✧ ✧ ✧

Chocolate Eclairs

Choux paste: One-half cup butter or margarine, 1 cup boiling water, 1 cup sifted all-purpose flour, ½ teaspoon salt, 4 eggs unbeaten. Add the butter to the boiling water and heat gently until butter melts. Add the flour and salt all at once, stirring fast. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until mixture leaves sides of pan. Remove from heat and let cool 2 minutes. Add eggs unbeaten, 1 at a time, beating until incorporated into paste before adding another. Wet a dessertspoon and drop paste from it 2 inches apart on greased cookie sheet, shaping them in 4-inch lengths about ¾-inch wide. Bakers do this with pastry bag and tube or wet fingers.

To bake eclairs start in oven of 450 deg. Fahr. for 10 minutes, then reduce heat to 400 deg. Fahr. 10 or 15 minutes. They should be high and golden brown. It is advisable to remove one from oven at end of baking time to test it. It will not fall at all if it is baked sufficiently.

When cool slit eclairs at the side and fill with sweetened whipped cream or Cream Puff Filling: In top of double boiler mix 1 cup sugar, ½ cup flour, shake of salt, then add 3 beaten eggs. Add 3 cups hot milk, stirring, and put over boiling water and stir until thick, then let cook, stirring for 5 minutes. Cool. When cold fold into this 1 cup heavy cream, whipped and 1 teaspoon vanilla.

When eclairs are filled frost with Glossy Chocolate Frosting: Mix 1½ cups white sugar with ½ teaspoon salt, then add 1½ cups boiling water and 4 squares unsweetened chocolate. Cook, stirring, over very low heat until sugar and chocolate melt, and cook 5 minutes longer. Mix 6 tablespoons cornstarch with 4 tablespoons cold water, then stir this into the hot mixture until thick. Cook 10 minutes over boiling water stirring occasionally. Add 1 teaspoon vanilla and beat smooth. Cool a little before glazing eclairs. This is perfect topping for layer cake with date filling.

✧ ✧ ✧

Chef's Marguery Sauce

My brother says this is the best fish sauce ever. (It ought to be, I wonder how the French would survive without eggs.) In top of double boiler melt ½ cup butter, add ¼ cup flour, stir, then add 2-3 cup milk and 1⅓ cups light cream and stir until thick. Add 2 teaspoons each lemon juice and grated old cheese (preferably Parmesan), shake of salt and pepper. Just before serving pour over 3 beaten yolks, stir, reheat, and serve on almost any fish. This sauce is used for a sort of a la king mix for lobsters too.

REAL ESTATE

27—Real Estate for Sale

A CHEAPSKATE
is not one who rents part of his home and lives rent free in the rest. He is a prudent man. Be wise... Investigate this income producing home — $200.00 a month and your own living quarters. Two bathrooms, oil heating, large grounds, conveniently located close to schools and bus, in South-end. Full price $9,950. Substantial cash required. Telephone 5345.

WOMAN WANTED
Who can appreciate the charm, comfort and convenience of this 3-Bedroom Brick Bungalow, located on Wilson Avenue. Modern step-saving kitchen, 4-piece bathroom, spacious living-room. Economical hot air-heating, copper piping, high dry basement. There's a lovely garden, well landscaped, and a wide side drive. Now hold your breath: The full price is only $8,000, and less than half cash will handle. You'd better hurry, as the last one we had like this sold to the first one who saw it. Telephone 5345.

NO DREAM HOME
But a jolly good buy for a Seven-room Brick Home, on a lot 63 x 150. Close to Public and Separate Schools, and bus, it can be bought for a low down payment, and the full price is only $6,500. Now if you are afraid of a bit of work, don't call about this; otherwise hop to the telephone and Dial 5345.

GOOSEBERIES or WALNUTS
Take your choice for both grow here; in fact, there are apples, raspberries, black currants, and other things besides in the grounds (there's over an acre), on which this sturdy 6-Room Brick Home is built. Located in the North-end and close to Queen Elizabeth and St. Anne's Schools, it offers city conveniences plus country charm. Beautiful oak floors, hard and soft water pressures systems. Asking price $12,700, with about $5,000 down. May we tell you more about it? Telephone 5345.

Many Tributes At Ham Funeral

"We all feel that this should not have happened," said the Rev. M. J. Aiken, St. Andrew's United Church, who officiated at the funeral of Gordon A. Ham, 45, Ontario sales manager for the De Laval Co.

Mr. Ham was killed almost instantly Wednesday night in a car-truck collision on Highway 28, a half mile south of Kendry crossing.

Business associates and friends from widely scattered centres in Ontario attended the funeral at the Comstock Funeral Home. An unusually large number of floral tributes was sent.

Mr. Aiken, pastor of St. Andrew's where Mr. Ham was an elder, spoke briefly, choosing as his text John 3:16:

"For God so loved the world, that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish but have everlasting life."

Exemplary Man

Mr. Aiken described Mr. Ham as a good businessman and an exemplary family man and churchman.

When death strikes so suddenly it poses the question: Why? continued Mr. Aiken.

Fatal accidents such as this were indicative of two things, he said. One was that there is too much speed in this world, and the other was a pressing need for more consideration for the other fellow.

"We should be prepared for what may come," summed up Mr. Aiken.

Mr. Ham leaves his wife, the former Isabel Kathleen Tremaine, and a son, Douglas, who is a PCVS student. His parents were Mrs. Maggie Ham, of Honolulu, and the late William Albert Ham. Also left are tow sisters, Mrs. Fred Jansen (Edith) and Mrs. Jack Kramer (Margaret) of Honolulu.

Pallbearers at the funeral were Harry Tudhope, Fred H. Horne, G. H. Cutmore, William S. Derry, F. H. Mitchell and A. G. Taylor. Burial was in Little Lake cemetery.

Presentations Made To Bonarlaw Girl

BONAR LAW, Oct. 31 (ENS)—The home of Gordon Bailey, Harold, was filled to capacity when friends and neighbours gathered to present his sister Evelyn, who is shortly to take up residence in Peterborough, with an address, wishing her success and happiness in her new home and also a Mix-Master and coffee percolator. The address was read by Mrs. Carman Sine and the presentation made by Mrs. Roy Brown and Mrs. Don Heath.

Following this presentation, Mrs. Gordon Webb read an address from the Junior Adult Bible Class of Springbrook Sunday School and presented Evelyn with a beautiful cake plate. She replied to both addresses and expressed her sincere thanks for the expressions of good wishes and for the gifts.

Rev. H. E. Beare, acted as chairman and called on Reeve of Rawdon, Wilfred Spencer, Sunday School superintendent, Geo. Williams and Mrs. Thomas Laycock for a few words.

A program of instrumental and vocal music and readings was given after which lunch was served.

Afield Bulletin

Two Counties Ask Deer Hunt Restore Bounty On Foxes

Application will be made to the Dept. of Lands and Forests for a three day open season for deer this year in Northumberland County on November 16, 17 and 18, it was decided yesterday at the opening of the fall session of Northumberland and Durham counties council.

Reeve Frank George of Brighton township, proposed the open season, pointing out that it would be for shotguns only, with dogs —no high-powered rifles. Murray and Brighton townships had applied to the department for the open season but it was felt that many of the deer would be driven into adjoining Seymour township and hunters would be inclined to go in after them, which would be breaking the law and inviting trouble. If it were extended to the whole county there would be less trouble.

Reeve George said that the idea of the open season was because of complaints from many farmers that in some sections deer were so numerous that much damage was being done. There would be no great slaughter resulting from such a shoot as hunters could get a license for one section and the license for up north would not apply locally.

Several members of the Durham County representation voiced the opinion that there would be no object in extending the shooting area into Durham as the deer population was quite sparse there.

More Foxes

While still on the subject of wildlife, council turned to a consideration of the increase in the fox population. There had been a bounty on foxes but the bounties were reaching rather large proportions and it had been felt that the amount thus expended was not justified by the results. However yesterday council decided to bring in a bylaw which would re-establish the fox bounty.

Muskrat Seasons

Muskrat open seasons for the years 1950-51 for the Kawartha district have recently been announced and have been separated into two divisions. They are as follows:

For persons in possession of resident trappers' licenses in the Counties of Durham, Northumberland, Peterborough and Victoria the season will be from March 20th, 1951 to April 21st, both dates inclusive. In Haliburton the season starts on the same date and is extended until May 5th.

Those holding registered trapline licenses which give the holder sole rights to take furbearing animals in certain specified areas, the four-county dates are from Nov. 1st, 1950 to April 21st, 1951. In the same category in Haliburton the season is from Nov. 1st until May 5th, 1951.

There are 15 registered trapline areas located on Crown Lands in northern Victoria and in the western part of Haliburton county. The holders of these registered areas may trap muskrat on such areas, commencing with November 1st. It is the policy of the department to extend the registered trapline areas to cover all Crown lands in the district, just as soon as agreement can be reached between the trappers. This policy will add a greater degree of permanency to the trapping industry as well as encourage trappers to build up the population of fur-bearing animals on their registered traplines.

Depots For Lost Hounds

The Campbellford Fish and Game Association have plans well underway for the establishment of depots for lost hunting dogs set up at strategic spots near their deer hunting districts. The Peterborough Association were not far behind with the same thought in mind and executives said today that by the weekend they will be able to release the names of hound pound keepers at Burleigh, Buckhorn and Apsley.

This is one of the best moves these conservative groups have made in a long time. What is more essential than having set places where hunters can go looking for strays when heretofore it has meant several season weekends spent in searching aimlessly around the deer country.

The charge for this pound service is likely to be from five to ten dollars, very little for the return of a valuable dog. Names of hound pounds and boarding rates will be published in Saturday's Afield column.

Mill Rate Of 52.5

Three School Items

Next is a school group of three items. Grove School extension, 1951, $60,000; Ashburnham school extension, 1952, $125,000; and the proposed new Collegiate Institute on Park St. south, $600,000, as a 1951 project.

The next group of works comprises sewers, local improvements and so on.

Trunk sewers and local improvements are down for $100,000 annually for three years, beginning in 1950.

The Ashburnham sewer job, now all but completed, is a separate 1950 improvement at $100,000. That provides for the diversion of the old Ashburnham sewer outlet on Maria St., across the river at Burnham's Point to the trunk sewer on George St. It has been an old project, long suspended, and chiefly for the purpose of redeeming Little Lake from its cesspool condition.

Park St. drain, $75,000, may be completed this week, and is another 1950 undertaking.

Provision for continuing the paving program is shown in three annual items of $100,000, the first dated 1950, with first debenture payment in 1951. These are ten year debentures at 3%.

The total of all those works is $2,535,000. Mr. Humpage comments that this list excludes any debentures which may be issued by the Peterborough Utilities Commission, "which are issued on a revenue producing basis". In other words the Utilities Commission provides for financing its debentures out of its revenue for light, water and gas.

Estimates Tax Rate

In another section of his statement Mr. Humpage estimates probable tax rates in mills from 1950 to 1956, inclusive. It is set out in figures as follows:

	Dect.	Spec.	Gen.	Tl.
1950 ...	9.45	17.30	22.75	49.0
1951 ...	11.36	18.90	22.24	52.5
1952 ...	12.10	19.70	22.70	54.5
1953 ...	12.50	19.50	22.50	54.5
1954 ...	12.30	19.50	22.70	54.5
1955 ...	11.70	19.50	22.80	54.0
1956 ...	11.20	19.50	22.80	53.5

Mr. Humpage has not included in this statement of the composition of the tax rate in mills, any figure for the taxpayers' share of local improvement charges as distinct from frostage charges against property.

The headings of the four columns in the above table are from right to left:

Debt—means the debenture debt, principal and interest, represented in mills. An example of its meaning, generally understood, is this: If the taxable assessment of the city is $35,000,000, one mill would be equivalent to $35,000. And nine mills is nine times $35,000.

Special, in the second column, means special rates for schools and hospital and maintenance costs as quoted in the Humpage statement.

The third column from the left (general above), signifies general municipal services and garbage rate, directly under the control of the council, such as police, fire, health, administration of justice, recreation, maintenance of streets and so on.

And the column at the right hand is the total of the items in the three columns to the left.

Looking at the council's own column with an unchanging estimate of 22 mills a year, with only fractional differences from year to year, Ald. J. E. Gillespie said, "With cost of labor and materials as they are now, the council will be magicians if we can hold our own."

Didn't Refer To U of T As "Godless"

OTTAWA, Oct. 31.—(CP).—Dr. Charlotte Whitton said Monday night she did not refer to the University of Toronto as a "Godless" institution when she spoke in Toronto last week on education in Canada.

Speaking to the Ontario Public School Trustees' Association last Friday, after other speakers had discussed what they termed "unduly large" grants by the Ontario Government to Roman Catholic Separate schools, the Ottawa writer and social worker said:

"Peculiarly enough, a potent element in the provision for separate educational facilities for any dissentiate religious group under the common school legislation of Ontario seems attributable to the inability of the strong Presbyterian and Anglican elements in Upper Canada to agree upon the basis of religious education in the common schools.

"It was part of the locked-horns attitude from which both Queen's University and Victoria College were founded in opposition to Bishop Strachan's exclusive religious prerogatives in the operation of King's College which was later to become 'the Godless' provincial university, in which status, however, it can no longer claim a splendid isolation.

The Canadian Press erroneously reported Dr. Whitton as saying that the University of Toronto is "a Godless provincial university."

Early Disputes

Her speech recalled disputes over Government endowments for religion and education in Upper Canada early in the 19th Century. The Constitutional Act in 1791 had provided for liberal endowment of the Protestant religion through the clergy reserves, being one-seventh of the lands of new townships opened for settlement. Bishop John Strachan, first Anglican bishop of Toronto, fought to have all such endowments placed under the control of the Church of England.

Brought up as a Presbyterian, Bishop Strachan emigrated to Canada from Scotland in 1799. He decided to enter the Church of England, being ordained in 1803.

During a visit to England in 1826-27, he obtained a royal charter for the University of King's College in Toronto, then known as York, with provision for its endowment out of crown lands under the control of the Church of England. Its name was changed to the University of Toronto in 1849 under an act which eliminated all religious tests. Bishop Strachan then founded another university completely under the control of the Church of England. This was Trinity University, founded in 1852. This now is Trinity College, becoming part of the University of Toronto in 1904.

Agricultural Parley Opens November 30

OTTAWA, Oct. 31 — ((CP). — The annual Federal-Provincial agricultural conference, scheduled to open here December 4, has been advanced to November 30, the Agriculture Department announced today.

Decision to change the date was taken because another Federal-Provincial conference — on fiscal and constitutional matters—also was scheduled for December 4.

The agricultural conference will run two or three days, as necessary.

Provincial Agriculture Ministers and their deputies from all 10 provinces are expected to attend. They will review this year's agricultural developments and study future prospects.

The medley relay event was won by Scott Pearton's team of Terry Northrop, Wilton Tranter and Ross Dobbin.

May Have Vaccine To Fight Gangrene

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 31.—(AP).—Hope was offered today by a Montreal doctor for the development of a protective vaccine against gas gangrene, an always-feared complication of war wounds.

Gas gangrene is a wound infection caused by germs that live in soil.

Dr. Victorien Fredette of the University of Montreal told the American Public Health Association that statistics for the Second World War show that no marked progress in combatting it has been achieved since 1918.

But he declared "new hope" for a vaccine is offered by a substance recently found in cultures of "colstridium perfringens"—the principal germ involed in gas gangrene. It appears to set up immunity to germ's action when it is injected into experimental animals.

In tests with guinea pigs, he related, vaccinated animals all survived "challenge" doses of gas gangrene germs. In contrast, 80 per cent of one group of unvaccinated animals were killed.

Mr. Justice Hope said yesterday he expects to deliver the report to the government in December.

Canadian Poet Gets Inspiration From Sanctuary At Kingston

KINGSTON, Oct. 31 (CP) — On a quiet sanctuary overlooking the St. Lawrence river, the bad boy of Canadian poetry lives unhampered by the worries of the world.

Abbey Dawn, 100 acres of rocky woodland east of here, is a home and way of life for Wallace Havelock Robb, poet, archaeologist, orintholgist and humorist.

Robb has become increasingly well-known in Canadian literary circles since his novel Thunderbird was recently published. The book concerns the history of the Mohawk Indians, of whom Robb is an honorary chief. He has also written numerous poems, chiefly on nature topics.

"They call me the bad boy of Canadian poetry because I won't conform," Robb said in an interview. "Well I'm proud to be a Canadian and my poetry is Canadian."

His poetry "often won't scan properly," he says. "But when it's recited—that's something else again."

"Through my poetry I try to express my feelings about the air, the soil and the water of my country."

Gives Inspiration

His poetry draws much of its inspiration from Abbey Dawn, which the 62-year-old Belleville native bought after an earlier sanctuary near Belleville had been invaded by vandals.

Robb the archaeologist has found something else in Abbey Dawn. Granite masks, stones shaped like a ram's head, Indian relics—all have been unearthed and are lodged in a special museum built atop a rock mesa.

Other Abbey Dawn attractions include Gitchi Nagamo, the huge bell Robb rings whenever he feels the day needs brightening up; and a wildflower shrine with the face of artist Robert Holmes carved into a great rock.

The son of W. D. Robb, president of the Grand Trunk Railway, Robb left Canada in 1921 and launched a career of lecturing and writing in the United States. He returned a few years later to Belleville on the advice of the Prince of Wales, whom he met on a trip to his father's railway car.

Put Security Guards On Hydro Stations

TORONTO, Oct. 31 (CP) — Mayor Hiram McCallum said today "wartime protection" measures will be taken immediately at all key points of the city's essential services.

The announcement followed a statement yesterday by Ontario Hydro Chairman Robert H. Saunders that all provincial power plants and sub-stations will be patrolled by security guards.

Mayor McCallum said he plans to call a meeting of the city's civil defence committee to work out a plan to establish security measures for all city-operated hydro sub-stations, filtration and sewage plants.

"It is imperative that we take every step to prevent sabotage to these plants so essential to the daily life of this area and also to guard against contamination of the water supply."

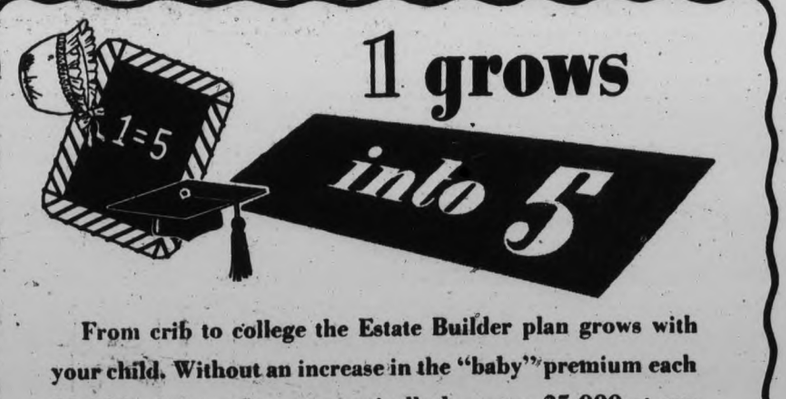
The Canadian Family owes much to . . . Poland

A Tribute from Calvert to Canadians of Polish Descent



The great Canadian Family is comprised of peoples of various racial origins. From the blending of the cultural heritages brought from these many lands, Canada derives much of her strength and vitality.

The tragic history of Poland, once the largest and most powerful state in Europe, has resulted in the migration of tens of thousands of Poles to Canada, seeking freedom and security. Unquenched by centuries of oppression, they have retained an individuality, all the more notable, now that they have attained that freedom here.

The Poles, with their innate love of music, have produced such famous musicians as Chopin and Paderewski. Their engineering skill was personified in Casimir Stanislaus Gzowski, who engineered the original International Bridge at Niagara. In addition they have given Canada some of her best lawyers, doctors, farmers and teachers, contributing much to Canada's progress.

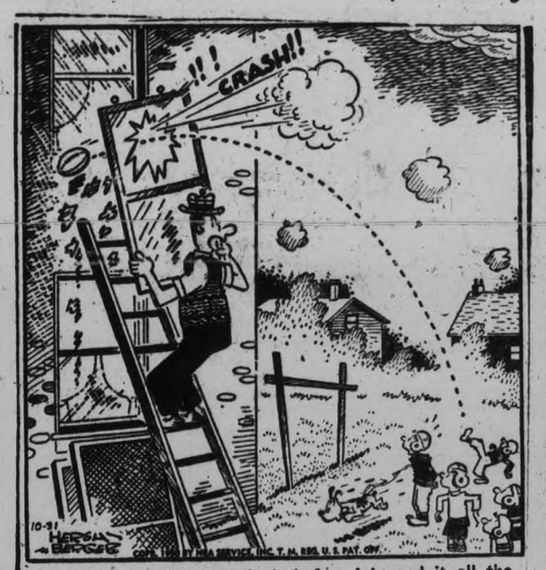
Inventor Has Weird Gadgets

VANCOUVER (CP). — Lawrence Walshe may invent a memory course so he can remember all the gadgets he has invented. Mr. Walshe, 66, admits he can't remember them all.



Among them is an automobile licence plate which is illuminated at night. Then there's a mathematical pie-cutter that cuts a pie in one operation, with every piece the same size.

Mr. Walshe, paymaster for the city of Saskatoon for 20 years before coming here eight years ago, thinks highly of his stove pipe that can be cleaned without being removed.

He laments that no one has so far purchased his flag that will fly in the proper manner regardless of wind, rain or taxes.

Then there is the self-opening envelope, zipper safety lock, combination pants presser and a pocket umbrella, none of which has made him rich.

Across The Continent

Deep South In Alabama Strange Forbidding Place

By JACK SCOTT.

The South, particuuarly the deep South of Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, and Louisiana, seems a strange and somehow forbidding place to the northerner.

Part of this has to do with climate. To speed out of the crisp autumn weather of New England into the muggy heat of Dixie, where everything is lush, jungle green, gives the traveller a change of clime that reacts on him physically and mentally. We find ourselves struggling weakly against an all-embracing torpor.

As I write this today from a glade just outside New Orleans, the temperature is over the 80-degree mark and penetrates right into the bones. From the bayou nearby comes a high electric sound of inging insects. A sky of hot lead smolders overhead.

This has a very definite debilitating effect on the new arrival and may possibly make him more sensitive than he ought to be to the strangeness of his new surroundings.

There is, as you know, a great school of Southern writers (Erskine Caldwell is the first example who comes to mind) who write of these American semi-tropics with a kind of suppressed violence. I find the first effect of the country, itself, much the same as the effect of that kind of novel.

In Georgia, particularly, there are sights to give you the creeps. At one point the highway was under repair and the detour led us through some back country.

We went by small, sweltering hamlets where life seemed baked into a tableau, the grizzled citizens slumped on sagging porches staring sullenly at this intrusion, the hogs lying in the red dust, the thin hounds barking at the traffic, everything ready for a roadshow production of "Tobacco Road."

The deeper you come into the south the more you feel that you have come into another world. Is this the America, you ask yourself, that boasts of its highest standard of living, of its progress and creature comforts? It doesn't seem possible.

For hundreds of miles the only habitation along the highway are the hovels of Negros. Perhaps, like me, you saw the moving picture "Pinky" and felt that a fine story was ruined by too theatrical a setting? The "Mammy's" shack in that film seemed just too tumble-down to be real. Yet we passed hundreds of them that were in far worse condition, without glass, in the windows, without doors, battered, grey little hutches leaning under their age. Inside you catch a glimpse of people crowded together in one or two rooms, colored people dressed in rags.

There are other sights, too, that create a macabre mood. The beards of moss hanging from the trees, the swamps, the bayous strangling in foliage too ripe for a northern appetite, the long-eared mules dragging along cars piled high with cotton or tobacco leaves, the earth that is the color of dried blood.

Through Georgia, too, we passed many prison gangs on the road same "colored," some "white," for segregation is carried to its final degree. Standing apart from each gang would be a guard, heavy pistol on his hip, a shotgun crooked under an arm, watching the gang with beady eyes.

And in the country you see the Negro schools, unpainted barns, some standing in the sere corn fields, all desperately overcrowding. Going by, our kids waved a greeting, as they have been doing since we set out. But the colored kids have rarely waved back. They stand and stare or turn away. And this gives you an uneasy feeling.

You see the other extreme, too. The magnificent Colonial homes, the plantations covering an area bigger than a city and at one we saw a yellow Cadillac convertible filled with young people swinging out of a long flower-bordered driveway, its dust momentarily obscuring a row of those sordid little shacks.

America, where all men are created equal!

Oh, brother!

The most spectacular beauty spot of the south, the Florida gulf coast, is itself a rich mixture for the northern tourist.

We had our first glimpse of the Gulf of Mexico near Fort Walton, Florida. As far as we could see in either direction a broad beach stretched away, as white as if there had been a fresh fall of snow. Near the shore the water was an indescribable emerald green, deepening to sapphire blue in the distance.

We pulled in the car, took off our shoes and stockings and ran down a slope of sand the texture of Cream of Wheat.

It was like being in a dream. Not a soul could be seen anywhere on all that dazzling beach. We waded into the cool water. Instantly there was a "Whoosh" and a school of dolphin surfaced, their fins cutting the blue water not more than a hundred yards offshore. Overhead a line of grey pelicans flew by with a measured beat of wings.

It was beautiful beyond description and yet somehow eerie, the colors too flamboyant, the sense of space and emptiness almost overpowering, the black fins in the blue water a kind of symbol of the violence that one senses lurks behind all the loveliness of the south.

Or—who knows?—maybe I've just read too much Erskine Caldwell.

Hold Bridge For Generations

CANTIC, Que.—(CP)—When it comes to holding the bridge, old Horatius should take a back seat to the McGee family in this village 45 miles south of Montreal.

As operators of the swing equipment, the McGees hold the Canadian National Railway's swing bridge across the Richelieu here. Even the railway officials call it "McGee's Bridge," though officially it's the Richelieu Bridge.

Jim McGee, now 94, took over the span in 1898. He was succeeded by his son D'Arcy, recently retired at 65. Brother Charles followed but when Charles retires in 13 years there will be no new McGee to take over the job. Old Jim's other two sons deserted the bridge job, one for the United States and the other for a position as foreman of the C.N.R.'s Turcot yards.

Big Demand

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. —(CP)—The motor registration office here ran out of motor-car licence plates after issuing 11,500, the highest number ever used. They will use commercial licences, trailer and motorcycle markers to fill the gap until the licence year ends March 31.
